ARE you hanging on to those tire dollars—Well, it's time to let go! Prices have been driven down beyond all reason. People are buying. All right! Let's get action. What do you say to a genuine Goodrich Tire, made by the oldest and most experienced rubber manufacturer, for as little as $4.98?

Ten years ago you would have paid eighteen or twenty dollars for this same size, and wouldn't have got half the tire! If there ever was a depression opportunity, this is it. And it can't last!

We'll admit that we're getting plenty of business at these prices—but it's a give-away proposition. Think of it! A tire 26% better by actual test. Backed by the Goodrich guarantee and our guarantee. The handsomest tire ever put on your car—and we put it there, ready to drive away. We feel like public benefactors—come in, you might as well have some of the gravy while it lasts.

CHEAP ELECTRICITY

Editor Birmingham Post:

Your splendid editorial, "Unregulated Utilities," in The Post Tuesday is very timely and certainly deserves the attention of every reader. In The Post Box, in the same issue, John L. Parker has a very interesting letter dealing with the same matter locally.

After reading paid propaganda, that has been appearing for the past week in the local newspapers, one wonders if it is not about time for the public to ask some questions.

The following editorial clipped from the October 6 issue of Labor, Washington, D. C., may be interesting.

Virginia, Minnesota, with a population of 14,000, furnishes its citizens with current for lighting at two cents per kilowatt hour, and for cooking at 1.8 cents. The town proudly claims to have the lowest electric lighting rates in the United States.

It does this with a steam plant, which has paid for itself out of receipts, and last year cleared $60,000 profit even at these low rates.

Litchfield, with less than 3,000 inhabitants, has built up a plant worth $160,000 from an original investment of $25,000, and recently turned over acchmulated profits of $50,000 to the general fund.

Jackson, smaller even than Litchfied, is making over $12,000 a year profit from its power plant.

Owatonna, with about 8,000 inhabitants, averages profits from its power plant at about $75,000 a year.

Rochester—home of the famous Mayo brothers, surgeons—with 20,000 population, put power plant profits of $153,000 into the city treasury last year. The city owes less than $20,000 on a plant worth more than $2,000,000.

None of these cities charge more than the private plants in the same neighborhood. Most of them charge much less.

The unfailing cry of power trust propogandists is that "public ownership is inefficient." It must take a good deal of gall to repeat that yarn in Virginia, Minnesota, or in the other towns mentioned.

If private enterprise can produce current from a steam plant at less than two cents a kilowatt hour, which Virginia does, and makes money at it—why does private enterprise charge an average of nearly seven cents a kilowatt hour all over the United States?

Either the power trust is not so efficient as it claims, or its efficiency is shown chiefly by shameless extortion. It may take its choice.

Birmingham, pays 8 1-2 cents per KWH., right in the middle of a coal producing area; or if it's hydro-electric power we are utilizing, let us not forget the United States government is practically giving away electric current at Muscle Shoals to the Alabama Power Company, but none of the consumers have discovered this fact from the amount of their bills.—TOBY JONES.

LEGION ENDORSES BOND ISSUE

The Alabama Good Roads Amendment to be voted on November 3 was acclaimed the greatest measure now before the people of this state for relief of the unemployment situation, at a conference of the First District, American Legion, held at Tuscaloosa Sunday, and the statement of Department Commander James C. Conner, of Huntsville, that he had publicly approved the bond issue was received with enthusiastic applause.

The Legionnaires were told by Colonel Finnell and other speakers that approximately $6,000,000 of federal aid would be available the first year that Alabama is able to match this amount. Two years of federal allotment to this state remains unclaimed, also the flood emergency fund to the amount of about$1,000,000. This, with a like amount from the state, would give approximately $12,000,000 for building and paving roads during the year, the veterans were informed and that of this amount more than $9,000,000 would be spent for labor in this state for building and paving highways and for manufacturing material therefor.

Attention was called to the fact that the only alternatives, if the $25,000,000 bond issue is not approved by Alabama voters on the first Tuesday in November, is for the legislature to levy the additional gasoline tax proposed by the governor or, failing in this, to permit more than 2,000 miles of heavy-traveled and unpaved state roads to go to pieces for want of a roof.

While no organized campaign appears to be in progress for or against the proposed amendment, it is understood that some "gum-shoeing" against it is going on in a few of the counties and good roads advocates have been warned by their leaders to this effect.

One thing about the British elections is that when they decide to hold one over there they don't waste much time on primaries.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

There was a great deal of significance in the enthusiastic way in which the public, including the politicians and statesmen, as well as the financiers, greeted the announcement of President Hoover's national economic plan.. Likewise there was great significance in the cool manner in which was received the rumor that a proposition for debt cancellation was in the offing, a rumor which, fortunately, was dispelled by a statement from the White House.

It has been generally recognized and admitted that if the world is to get out of its depression, the start must be made in the United States. And it is generally being conceded that the President's plan for restoring banking confidence, is the first step. It has been approved by financiers and by congressional leaders, regardless of their political convictions. One statement of support came from no less a source than Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1931. In a speech at Camden, New Jersey, the other day, the Maryland chief executive said:

"I can think of no more desirable step in relieving the current period of industrial depression that that of making the frozen assets of our banks liquid through the proposed half-billion-dollar corporation.

"I believe that we should follow and cooperate with President Hoover in working out this plan. It should be a great boon to the entire country and especially to the rural districts."

The report that there was to be cancellation of war debts, so placing the cost of the war on the shoulders of American taxpayers, caused a great deal of uneasiness until it was dispelled by the statement from the White House. And it is significant that Democratic leaders as well as Republicans, progressive as well as conservative, announced that they would not go along with any such program.

There is abundant reason for their stand. In the first place the war debts are no burden on the principal nations which are paying us. Great Britain collects from Germany all that she pays us. Itally collects a little more and France a great deal more than their payments to the United States on war debts. The United States has nothing whatever to do with war reparations, as we did not claim any for ourselves. If, therefore, the German reparations are too big a burden on that country, this is a matter for Germany and the allies to settle. After Europe has put its own house in order will be early enough for her to come to the United States.

It may be stated if German reparations are reduced, France and Great Britain cannot afford to pay the United States. But those who argue this have no good case. France is now the most heavily armed nation in the world and has increased its war machinery greatly during the period that has followed the Armistice. Great Britain has the greatest navy in the world and even in her present hour of difficulty has made no attempt to save money for the taxpayers by cutting down naval armament. War debt payments made to the United States are small when compared with sums the countries who owe us are paying for war preparations. A little disarmament in Europe might put an entirely new picture in the foreground.

In the meantime, while on the question of cancellation it might be well to recall what President Hoover said on the subject a few months ago when the year moratorium was the topic of discussion:

"I do not approve in any remote sense the cancellation of the debts to us. World confidence would not be enhanced by such action. None of our debtor nations have ever suggested it. But as the basis of the settlement of these debts was the capacity under normal conditions of the debtor to pay, we should be consistent with our own policies and principles if we take into account the abnormal situation now existing in the world.

"I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay, and it is our view that broad vision requires that our government should recognize the situation as it exists."

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

What Do You Read?—An authority on matters of literature, etc., says the average home should have the following reading material in it: "The Bible, at least one good daily paper, a good weekly paper, and one good all-around magazine which deals with world affairs, religion, science and invention, and other subjects of this order. This reading material is absolutely necessary to every home, to be used as a kind of reading base to which may be added other literature as wanted."

Monkey On A String—The present cotton market reminds me of the old "monkey on a string" toy, or the old joke about a frog jumping out of a well. It goes up a little in the morning, wiggles around for a while, then goes back down again. The best part of it, though, is that there is a general tendency to close a few points higher than the day before. This is encouraging. The only question is just how long it will take it to get to the price you have set on your particular crop. When it gets to that point, let 'er go, if you can as much as break even on the cost of production—that'll be better than most people have been able to do with their product.

Adjusting Yourself—One morning this week I was listening in on a radio program, when some speaker spoke on adjusting ourselves to our surroundings and limitations. It was an extra good talk. As an example, he cited the case of Thomas A. Edison, who, a few years ago, became almost totally deaf. Mr. Edison has said that, although deafness has been a handicap to him in some ways, in many others it has been a blessing—it shut out many things which would have taken much of his time to listen to, and he turned this time to work which was far more beneficial to him and mankind in general than the other ever could have been. Some of his greatest work was done after he became deaf. If you have a handicap or limitation, make the most of it—make it help instead of hinder you.

Want To Be Governor?—Have you ever had a hankering to be governor? If so, now is your golden opportunity. Go to Louisiana. Right now that state is the MOST governed if not the BEST governed state I know of. They have only three governors at present, but your chances are as good as anyone else's if you act at once. After trying the governor racket for a while, if you decide nothing is going to come of it you can swear off and have yourself appointed a lieutenant governor or attorney general. Such action is getting to be a fad, like wearing suspenders or Eugenie hats, in Louisiana. And, by the way, you will get just about the same results from it—you'll be in style—everybody else is doing it.

Mr. Edison—When Thomas A. Edison died a few days ago, the world mourned. Not only from all parts of the United States, but from countries all over the world, words of mourning came, because Mr. Edison has long been considered one of the world's greatest benefactors, if not the greatest. He has given mankind more worthwhile inventions than any one man who ever lived, which earned for him the title of dean of inventors. Besides the inventions, he has had a hand in perfecting many other articles which other people began. A few years ago, realizing that he had only a short time to live, Mr. Edison made provision for his work to go on, insofar as he was able. He held a contest, with himself as sole judge, and picked two young men who showed exceptional ability along the lines of science, research and invention, and began his last great work of getting them all set to carry on for him. Thus he hoped to keep up his role of world-wide benefactor, even after he ceased to exist—making Edisons for the future, into which he tried to peer. The job he set for himself of looking into the future was the only one he ever gave up as a bad job, but, even then he did his bit to work out in his appointment of these young men to carry on his work for him.

The "Vest Pocket Meal"—Not long ago I attended a showing of a moving picture which portrayed the possibilities of a hundred years hence. In this picture was hinted the possibility that in time to come people would not have to eat a meal composed of several foods in order to get the substance they contained, but would be able to get all these substances combined in an article very much resembling an aspirin tablet. That seemed like stretching things a bit, but now comes word that at Ohio University, scientists have developed a cracker containing the food substance necessary for a full meal. Now, ain't that sump'n? Pretty soon, I reckon, if you want to go off on a long hike or something like that, all you'll have to do is just pack a pocket full of crackers in your "britches" and go on without having to take along a big bundle of eats, or take off a long time every day to eat. No telling what will happen.

A New Fairy Story—Here's a new fairy story, or, at least, it sounds like one, even though it is said to be true. Now, I have heard of truthful lawyers, law-abiding policemen, fair-and-square politicians, and such, and now comes an honest banker. I know you can't believe it, but such is the case. A bank in Florida decided to "go bust," so they called all depositors and stockholders in, paid them off and sent them on their way rejoicing, and then closed the doors. Will wonders never cease?

Some More Glimpses—The woodpecker on the post by Gore's store has gone on vacation; lots of new license plates appearing—one thing about them too—they ought to be easy to read—they are in "black and white": Maurice Lande out early assaulting a golf ball; Joe Higgins trying to sell a new car—some people are certainly optimistic; Postmaster Bean with a pocket full of money—don't believe he knows there is any depression; Mr. E. W. Butler down from Thorsby to attend a special service at the Baptist Church; Emmett Powell riding around—makes me think of olden times; Mr. G. O. Foshee wants to rent half the town to store cotton in—what have you?; lots of good glimpses flickering by, but a hungry man can't study about anything but something to eat, and I'm one of 'em. See you later—bime-bye!—Man in the Moon.

With all of these European nations going off the gold standard isn't it too bad that William J. Bryan isn't here to have the satisfaction of saying, "I told you so."

Northwestern Co-eds want free smoking according to a recent newspaper dispatch. We suppose they want to go along with free wheeling.

SCHOOLS AND THE GOVERNOR

Gov. Miller seems to have capitulated to the school people. The threat of a mass meetnig worked its magic. It is clear, despite formal denials, that dates have been fixed for payments on account and that assurances have been given with respect to an early call for a special session. This means that the administration has changed front. Very recently, it was not disposed to be specific on any score. Manifestly, the School Board Association has gotten somewhere. It has made the governor stir his stumps, and this though all the king's horses and all the king's men, in the Department of Education and elsewhere, rushed to the royal defense.

Unquestionably, the state's difficulties with reference to support of schools have been real enough. Gov. Miller has had his hands full. But he would have received a larger measure of sympathy if he had not been so so cavalier. If he has not sought to make it appear that the plight of the schools was the fault of the counties, he has heaped reproaches on the school interests for not badgering the Legislature into acceptance of his financial plans. The result is that even now, after he has shown himself to be much more responsive, he must count upon the resentment of thousands of persons who think that he has not been sufficiently solicitous about their needs and rights.

He remains grudging to this hour. Officially, he says that he will have an extra session "when something can be accomplished," although he admits that this will be soon. Officially, he also says that the plight of the schools will be only one of the problems to be submitted to the Legislature. Thus he continues to give the effect of underrating what teachers and superintendents regard as a crisis that cannot be dealt with a moment too soon. The governor cherishes his own opinions, and objects to being pushed, we know. But in the existing circumstances, he seems to be indulging his ego to his own detriment.

If there is to be an extra session, it should not be postponed until "something can be accomplished" or for any other reason that has to do with the administration's capacity to force its wishes upon the Legislature. If there is to be an extra session, the governor should take into his confidence immediately the senators who upset his apple cart at the regular session. This state has been bedeviled long enough by gubernatoaial arrogance. What a pity that Gov. Miller is so reluctant to work in harness.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

FAVORS $25,000,000 BOND ISSUE

Alabama good roads advocates attending the United States good roads convention at Birmingham last week were overwhelmingly in favor of the proposed $25,000,000 bond issue amendment which will be voted on at a special election, Tuesday, November 3. Many of them so expressed themselves in interviews given to convention reporters.

Following Miller's address advocating a three and one-half cent additional tax on gasoline to finance a pay-as-you-go highway construction and paving program, Former Governor W. W. Brandon, called upon to address the convention, stated that the bond issue is necessary to match federal highway money, which otherwise will revert to other federal uses and be lost to Alabama forever.

Probate Judge John Gamble, of Pike County, attending the convention, stated that the good roads amendment carried a provision for increasing the gas tax only one cent; that revenue from this one-cent additional gasoline levy will raise, on the present basis, more than $1,500,000 a year. The interest on the bonds will run about $1,250,000 per year, leaving about a quarter of a million dollars annually to apply towards paying the principal.

"But the bond issue will help pay for itself in another way," said Judge Gamble. "Together with the $14,000,000 which the federal government will advance to match the proceeds from the bonds in the next three years, it will hard-surface about 2,000 miles of highways that are now going to pieces in this state."

At an informal meeting during the convention, Alabama road advocates called attention to the fact that each county is guaranteed $275,000 under the bond issue program, but no county would be assured of any part of the funds raised by an addititonal gas tax of three and one-half cents per gallon, to be expended at the will of the governor, or highway director.

The $25,000,000 Bond Issue

There is no excitement to speak of this week, so far as I have been able to see from the corner. Plenty of people here Saturday, and everybody wishing the price of cotton would crawl up a few more notches. We will have a little chat this week about the $25,000,000 bond issue that is to be voted upon Tuesday, November 3. To begin with, I will say that I believe the issue will be defeated over the whole State, about two to one. My reason for this belief is because I figure the people do not know whether they can trust the present State Administration or not. I do not mean that they are exactly afraid to trust the administration with money. The absence of confidence in the policies of the administration will cause many a voter to turn thumbs down on the program.

There Is No Definite Objective

The average citizen can not comprehend just where our state is headed for in matters of highway building or anything else. That is the sense in which I say they will not trust the adminsitration with another bond issue now. The cross-up between Governor Miller and the last legislature has left the people of Alabama uncertain about many phases of their State government. We have been accustomed to having our State officials unite and agree upon some policy of constructive progress in public affairs. It did not develop this time. Everything was chaos. It still is. That does not augur for a favorable action on the bond issue November 3.

The American Legion Attitude

Officials of the American Legion in Alabama are seeking to unite the ex-soldiers in support of the bond issue. The argument is made upon the fact that an extensive road building program under the bond issue would be the speediest and most effective means of relieving the unemployment situation in Alabama. That is true, assuming that the official machinery would get into prompt action and get the work under way. Lots of folks, on the other hand, figure that if the bond issue were voted and the money provided, something could easily happen at Montgomery that would block the prompt and efficient administration of the work contemplated.

The Federal Appropriation

Another aspect of the situation that makes it look like Alabama ought to adopt the bond issue is the ability of the State to secure several million dollars of federal road money if we can match it with the necessary amount of State funds. If we do not match it, it will not be long until it will go back into the federal treasury, and will no longer be available to us. I believe Alabama ought to be busy and ready to provide funds to match the federal money. I believe Alabama ought to build more modern highways. We haven't half the trunk line roads we ought to have. But the question again arises: What can we expect of a State Administration that is all out of joint with itself?

How The School People Feel

The attitude of the school people of the State has another important bearing on the fate of the bond issue. Those who have the burden of administering the business of the schools on their shoulders doubtless feel that the State administration has seriously faltered in its duty to the schools. I imagine they are going to feel somewhat cool toward voting more millions for roads, when nothing has been done to take care of the schools. I don't blame them, either. The fact of the business is I am one who believes that our schools should be provided for first. Then let the road business come in for its proper share.

The County Agent Election

While you may be considering different phases of the bond issue and the State's business, don't forget that we are to vote on the County Agent in Chilton County also on November 3rd. You may be against the bond issue and the county agent too, for all I know. If so, that is your own business, and you can do as you please. Personally, I believe that the course of our best interests is clear on the county agent question. I believe the farmers of Chilton County need the County Agent. I believe they will need him more than ever in the future. I believe more farmers should be availing themselves of the benefits of the County Agent's advice. I think we will make the greatest mistake of our lives if we get rid of the County Agent.

Our Santa Claus

Atticus Mullin, in The Montgomery Advertiser, very properly says the Alabama Power Company has been Santa Claus to Chilton and Coosa Counties. That is right, and don't forget, we are proud of our Santa Claus. That is the reason we are objecting to the action of the State Tax Commission in taking away from us what good old Santa Claus has brought us. Who would not object to such intrusion, Atticus? Try to take away from your boy something Santa Claus has brought him, and give it to a kid over in the next county, and see if you don't get into a racket every time.

Ernest Childs Here Tuesday

Well, I did find something of particular interest. Just as I was finishing up my spiel for this week, in walked Ernest Childs, with that same warm cheerful old smile that he used to bless us with every day while he was in Clanton. He had a chance to come to Clanton Tuesday and he did it, just to spend the day loafing around and chatting a few minutes with his friends. He tells us he is getting along fine at Troy, and his family is well satisfied. "But," he concluded, "I never in my life have made warmer friends than those I made while I was in Clanton."

ELMORE COUNTY QUITS TAX ROW

Drops Protest Filed With Chilton, Coosa Against Assessments Of Utility

Elmore County, which joined with Coosa and Chilton in asking the State Tax Commission to reopen assessments fixed by the Commission of the properties of the Alabama Power Company in the respective counties, has withdrawn its request.

Yesterday, the county of Elmore, through county officials requested Tax Commissioner S. R. Butler's permission to withdraw, declaring the county was satisfied with the assessment the Commission had placed on the company's properties there for taxation purposes. The request was granted.

At the time the reopening of assessments in Coosa and Chilton was requested, Elmore County filed a petition asking that the county's Power Company assessments be reopened, in the event reopening was granted in the matter of assessment of properties of the same concern in Coosa and Chilton. Elmore, it was stated at that time, wished to participate in any benefits that might result from he reopening, and was willing to chance the hazard of any reduction that might occur.

In the county of Elmore, it was made known some time ago, assessments of properties of the Power Company for the new tax year showed an increase of $2,817,914, over the preceding year.

The reopening of assessments of the Company in Chilton and Coosa having been granted by the Tax Commission some time ago a petition of these counties, public hearing was set by the Commission for Thursday, October 22. The session will be held at the capitol tomorrow, beginning at 10 a. m. If the attendance is relatively small, the hearing will take place in the Tax Commissioner's offices. If there is a large attendance, however, the Senate Chamber or the Hall of the House of Representatives will probably be the scene of the proceeding.

Pending decision of the Tax Commission on the request of reopening of the Power Company assessments in the counties of Chilton and Coosa, which through counsel protested aginst alleged reduction in these assessments and asked that they be placed at their former level, the two counties, by their attorneys, filed in the Montgomery Circuit Court, applications for mandamus, seeking to compel the Tax Commission to fix the assessments at the same amount as for 1930.

Hearing of these applications was set for last Monday before Judge Walter B. Jones. When the cases were called on that date, however, they were indefinitely postponed on request of attorneys representing the county of Chilton.

EDISON BURIED WEDNESDAY

West Orange, N. J., Oct 20.—The last caravan is organized—Henry Ford, Harvey Firestone, Thomas A. Edison—and it will travel Wednesday to Mr. Edison's grave.

The two cronies of the famous inventor, who with him formed a triumvirate of travel and companionship, arrived late today at the bier of Mr. Edison.

They, with Mrs. Herbert Hoover, will be among the close friends to join the family in a private funeral at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday. The President will not be able to attend because of state business.

Accompanied by Mrs. Edison, Mr. Ford and Mr. Firestone went to the library of the laboratory where the inventor's body lay in a bronze coffin. The long line of men and women, running into thousands, during the last two days, was halted while the party entered the building.

The public looked for the last time on Mr. Edison's face tonight. Relatives and friends will bow in simple ritual tomorrow at Glenmont, the Edison home. After a service conducted by the Rev. Stephen J. Herben, a friend of Mr. Edison and former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Orange, the bronze coffin will be borne to Rosedale Cemetery at Orange for burial.

CIRCUIT COURT HERE WEEKS OF 2ND AND 9TH

The circuit court of Chilton County, regular July term, convenes at the court house in Clanton on Monday, November 2nd, according to J. Z. Mims, Circuit Clerk. The civil trial docket will be held Monday thru Thursday of the week beginning on November 2nd. The criminal docket will be taken up on Monday, November 9th, and continue on to the latter part of the week. There will be no grand jury, as this body convened at the non-jury term two weeks ago. A very heavy docket is scheduled in both civil and criminal weeks of court.

The News and Age-Herald are vitally interested in everything pertaining to the upbuilding of Alabama.

The News-Age-Herald realizes that people living out on a rural route cannot enjoy the conveniences and advantages that people living in towns do, in having a daily paper delivered on theeir porch a short time after it is printed; that the person living on a rural route must wait until the R. F. D. carrier makes his delivery. Until the past few years a good many R. F. D. box holders were satisfied to confine their reading to weekly papers, and while these papers are good, and should be in every home in their territory, no one can keep properly abreast with the times, and know what is going on throughout the world solely through these papers. The News and Age-Herald realized that in some cases at least, rural schools are not as far advanced as the schools in cities and larger towns, and that the children attending rural schools would benefit greatly in an educational way by having a daily newspaper in the home. These papers also realized that the income of the average person living on a rural route is not as fixed as that of the town subscriber.

Taking all of these things into consideration, particularly the educational angle, The News and Age-Herald, anxious to put a daily newspaper within the reach of every rural or star route box holder, have again this year made a SPECIAL BARGAIN PRICE, making it possible for every rural patron to read daily one of the South's Greatest Newspapers.

For this reason, this BARGAIN OFFER, either the daily Birmingham News or Age-Herald, one year for $2.19, or The News or Age-Herald daily and Sunday one year for $3.19, is made only to holders of R. F. D. and Star Route boxes, and to people living in towns where newspaper service is not maintained. SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM PERSONS LIVING IN TOWNS WHERE THE NEWS OR AGE-HERALD IS DELIVERED BY CARRIER POSITIVELY WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED AT THIS BARGAIN PRICE.

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

The state Baptist student convention held its three-day session at the University of Alabama October 16-18. Eminent Baptist leaders throughout the South appeared on the program. Among the principal speakers were: Dr. M. E. Dodd, pastor First Baptist Church, Shreveport, La.; Dr. J. E. Dillard, Southside Baptist Church, Birmingham; Dr. L. E. Barton, executive secretary Alabama; Dr. J. B. Lawrence, executive secretary of Southern Baptist Home Mission Board; Dr. T. R. Eagles, acting president of Howard College; Dr. R. J. Bateman, First Baptist Church Memphis Tenn.; and Dr. L. G. Cleverton, president of Judson College.

Homecoming day at the University on October 31 will be featured by the Alabama-Kentucky game. Various alumnae and alumni meetings will take place on this day. Among a number of colorful events planned will be a parade of the University R. O. T. C. regiment, in honor of old grads and visitors.

While pig iron production in both Alabama and in the United States as a whole showed a further decline during September, the Alabama district has thus far suffered less severely than the entire country, according to the University of Alabama Bureau of Business Research.

Rabbi Nathan Krass, of the Fifth Avenue Temple, New York City, will lecture to members of the student body at the University of Alabama and Tuscaloosans on Sunday, October 25. Rabbi Krass visited the University last year, lecturing to the student body.

Six students at the University have been tapped for membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman honorary society for women. They are: Dorothy Caverno, Birmingham; Dorothy Pruitt, Atmore; Pearl Feldstein, Birmingham; Wlima Pierson, Laurel, Miss.; Nancy Leeper, Mobile; and Mrs. Elizabeth Stone Grace, Tuscaloosa.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kind assistance and sympathy during the death and burial of our dear little baby. We thank our many friends for the nice flowers. May God bless each and every one that comforted us during our sad hours.—Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snider.

IN MEMORY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Snider last Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock and took away their darling baby, Albert Gordon. He was born August 9, and died October 13. He was buried at Walnut Creek cemetery Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. Lynch conducting the funeral.

He was survived by his father and mother, and four brothers and one sister. All was done for him that doctors could do, but God saw best and called him home to rest. He wore the crown of patience through the hours he struggled on, and those hands that rest forever are the hands that made his home.

Soft and bright the stars are shining,
Spreading o'er a lonely grave;
Where lies the one I loved so dearly,
Whom I tried so hard, but could not save.

—Mrs. Mary Smith.

Lesson for October 25

PAUL IN CORINTH

GOLDEN TEXT—And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 18:1-17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Working for Jesus in a Great City.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Working and Preaching in a Great City.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Working for Christ in a Great City.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity in a Cosmopolitan City.

The establishment of the church at Corinth is an example of missionary endeavor for all ages.

I. The True Missionary Method (vv. 1-3).

Paul came to Corinth a stranger. He did not have an advance agent to do his advertising, neither did he have his photograph put in the daily paper with a sensational announcement upon his arrival at Corinth. His method of gaining a foothold in Corinth was:

1. Finding a home (v. 2). This he found with Aquila and Priscilla, Jews who were recently expelled from Rome by the cruel edict of Claudius.

2. He toiled for his daily bread (v. 3). He was of the same craft with his hosts, who were tent makers. Every child among the Jews was taught some trade by means of which he could gain a livelihood should occasion require.

II. Preaching in the Synagogue at Corinth (vv. 4-8).

1. Though compelled to toil for a living while getting a foothold in Corinth, he did not lose sight of his main work (v. 4). He reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, persuading the Jews and the Greeks.

2. His activity was increased when Silas and Timothy came (v. 5), which resulted from three causes:

a. They brought good news from the church at Thessalonica (I Thess. 3:6). To hear of the steadfastness of those who had confessed Christ under his ministry put new vigor into his labors.

b. They brought pecuniary gifts from the Macedonian church (Phil. 4:15; II Cor. 11:9). Being relieved from the necessity of toiling for a living, he could now devote more time to the preaching of the gospel.

c. Silas and Timothy became assistants to Paul in the work.

3. Paul opposed (v. 6). His increased activity was met with increased opposition. As the Lord's ministers become more aggressive in their work, the ministers of Satan put forth corresponding efforts in opposition.

4. Paul announces his purpose to turn to the Gentiles (v. 6), because of the blasphemy and opposition of the Jews.

5. He did not go far away (v. 7). He remained sufficiently near those whose hearts God had touched so that they could easily find him.

6. His success (v. 8). Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, was converted. Perhaps Paul's severity in turning away from them moved Crispus to act. Pressure to an immediate decision is helpful to some. They realize that it is now or never. Many others followed the example of Crispus. Paul varied from his usual custom and baptized Crispus, who was an important man (I Cor. 1:14).

III. Paul's Vision (vv. 9-11).

His experiences since coming to Europe were very trying. He needed encouragement at this time. It is just like the Lord to come at the time of the servant's greatest need. Note the Lord's words to him:

1. "Be not afraid." When one is executing the commission of the Lord he need not be afraid.

2. "Speak and hold not thy peace." The one who has heard the voice of God cannot refrain from speaking.

3. "I am with thee." The Lord is with everyone who faithfully carries out his command.

4. "No man shall set on thee to hurt thee." The one sent by the Lord to do a work is immune from harm until his work is done.

5. "I have much people in this city." It is most encouraging to know that in the great cities the Lord has his own people and that the one who goes in his name shall have fruit for his service.

IV. Paul Before Gallio (vv. 12-17).

1. The charge against him (v. 13). They accused him of persuading men to worship God contrary to the law.

2. Gallio's decision (vv. 14-16). He decided that it was not his concern to settle disputes concerning matters of the Jewish law.

3. Sosthenes beaten (v. 17). In all probability he was leading the attack upon Paul. The Greeks seemed to have sympathized with Paul. Therefore, they turned against his enemy.

The Will of Christ

If, then, the will of Christ is not being fulfilled through us, if there is good that it belongs to us to do, but which remains undone, then the point of juncture with Christ is the point that needs looking to . . . the reason of our fruitlessness is the simple one, that we are not closely enough attached to Christ.—Marcus Dodds.

H. R. Oden is In Favor of Agent

Editor Union-Banner:

Do you realize a question of vital importance to the people of Chilton County is to be voted upon the 3rd of November?

Should Chilton County's agriculture pass from her map we would have no assets left worth the price of anyone staying here for. Every village or town in Chilton County is an established fact, because they are surrounded by a pnoducing district. The only thing produced worth considenation is its agricultural products. If its towns and villages are here because of its agriculture, then it behooves every business and professional man and woman in Chilton County to support the County Agency work.

It has been my privilege to observe county agency work for twenty years. I am convinced that any person knocking the work of county agents are really knocking to their own hurt. If those who have been knocking the efforts of our county agent stop and get behind him and convince the farmers of this county you are their friend, you would observe an improvement in your business soon.

It appears to me that there is a certain element of people who are becoming uneasy because the farmer is beginning to think for himself. This is one thing you might do well to remember, as time comes and goes, he is going to think more and more.

Of all times, past and present, the business man, as well as the farmer, needs a man on the job twelve months a year, right now, to aid in every possible way in solving our problems. Surely we will continue to be in need of such facts as our experiment station sends out. How are we to be fully informed without a county agent?

I was approached a few days ago with this question. "Do those working in the Farm Bureau Office sell that stuff for Stapp or the Farm Bureau?" Being one of the directors of the Farm Bureau, I want to assure you that every feature of that office has been added by unanimous consent of the directors and executive committee, the executive committee having charge of the management of same.

I have heard also of complaint of the price paid for cream. For information to those who do not know will say that this feature of Bureau is operated at cost. Really it was not established for those who produced cream in sufficient quantities to ship and get full market price, but for those who had only small quantities and which would otherwise go to waste. This feature alone has saved the farmers several hundred dollars.

Folks, you had better go to the polls on the 3rd of November and give this opposition such a crushing blow that they will never dare stick their heads up again. I am your friend, if you will let me be. Come along with us on November 3rd, or else you may regret being on the losing side. Come, not for the sake of being on the winning side, but for the sake of a bigger and better county in which to live.

Trusting that every farmer and business man in the county will take a forward step for its agriculture by voting to maintain County Agency Work, I am, yours for a progressive county.

Mr. Clyde King and Conway Thornburg were visitors in Birmingham Saturday.

Mrs. Holcombe, who is living with a companion in the J. F. Peterson house, is reported very ill.

Mr. V. E. Wyatt has leased the store on the highway, recently vacated by Thorsby Drug Company. He has stocked it with goods commonly sold in such stores and has named it Wyatt Drug Company. He is advertising in this paper an opening day for Saturday of this week, with special offers.

Mr. Wyatt is a young man of pleasing personality and has had 12 years experience in the Drug business. His wife is the daughter of Green Burnett, born and raised near Thorsby, affable and pleasant to meet. The pair have had a home in Thorsby for the past six years, but Mr. Wyatt has been here comparatively little of that time, being in business elsewhere, but waiting and watching for an opportunity to get into business in Thorsby. Now that he is here we hope he will have no cause to regret it. He says the prescription part of the business will be in charge of a registered pharmacist.

Mr. Charley Swanson of Chicago, arrived by auto a few days ago, he is staying at the Fred Howard home, and we are told he is planning to build a small house on his farm east of Thorsby, where he may spend the winters.

The Each family had as their dinner guests Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard with Mrs. Goddard's sister from Georgia, Mrs. Boyd, also Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCain and grand daughter, Lucille.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Gentry had as guests last Thursday, their son Sidney Gentry, and Mrs. Gentry's brother, Hobson Bates, both of Birmgham.

Mrs. Boyd spent Monday afternoon at the Gentry home.

Ladies of The Eastern Star are mmeting in the Masonic Hall, Tuesday and Wednesdays for quilting bees.

Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Jenkins of LaGrange Georgia were guests of their daughte,r Miss Helen C. Jenkins, last Wednesday night. Rev. Jenkins left early Thursday morning, but Mrs. Jenkins remained for a longer visit.

Carrie Smith and Lorena Primm attended the district Christian Endaver Convention at Millbrook, Saturday and Sunday, and reported a very interesting time.

Next Friday afternoon the first program meetings of the Pushmataha and Philomatic clubs of Thorsby Institute will be held.

Thursday morning, Rev. Paul Oden, who was attending the Baptist Association meeting at Thorsby, gave a very inspiring talk at Chapel, after his talk he sang a hymn.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Villadsen of Lincoln was the guest of Mrs. T. W. Robinson Sunday.

Mr. Henry Robinson of Lincoln spent last week end with his mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spearman, Mr. T. D. Stewart, Mr. L. D. Collnis, Mr. T. T. Hays of Birmingham dropped in Sunday to see Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Bean and family.

L. C. KEEN WRITES ABOUT COUNTY AGENT

Editor Union-Banner:

I, as an individual man, would like to say a few words in regard to our County Agent, or Demonstrator.

In the first place, I was surprised to see that the County Commissioners had ordered an election to give the people a chance to say whether or not we should keep him, when it was very clearly demonstrated in a mass meeting about a year ago that the people were satisfied and wanted to keep Mr. Stapp.

I am not worrying one bit about losing him, because I feel like he will win by a great majority. But what I can't understand is why a few sore speculators want to keep on "hounding" a man, that is worth as much to the farmers and the county as he is.

Of course we find a few farmers that say "well, he has never done me any good." I will say that there is not a farmer in the county that has not been helped, if he has bought or sold anything through the Farm Bureau.

Don't you remember what fertilizer prices opened up at last spring, and also how much it come down when Mr. Stapp came out with his prices. Some are kicking because he gets $1,200 of our tax money. If he should be voted out who would know that we had saved $1,200? Because it is such a little we would not notice it. But we farmers could see what we had lost next spring when we go to buying fertilizer.

Now voters, this all goes before the poles the 3rd day of November, and why not people, or voters, show Mr. Stapp, and the speculators too, that we are for C. E. Stapp as County Agent?

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Cary Bowles, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in April, 1928, for burglary and grand larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of 3 to 10 years, will make application to the State Board of Pardons, for pardon or parole.—Cary Bowles. 10-22-2p.

Mr. German Bean of Atlanta spent Sunday with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hays and family of Atlanta spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Maddox spent the week end in Birmingham with Mr. and T. L. Maddox.

FRED HOWARD'S JAPANESE PERSIMMONS

Fred Howard, the famous fruit grower, of Thorsby, was a visitor to Clanton one day last week. As usual, he brought along a few nice bags of apples, pears, etc., to give to some of his friends in Clanton.

Talking about his fruit business, Mr. Howard called special attention to his fine crop of persimmons, which are just now ripening. "I have lots of them," he said, "and you can also tell the folks of Clanton if they want any of them, they can be found at Evan Parrish's fruit store. They are one of the finest of fruits. If you don't believe it, just try some of them for making jelly."

Fred's persimmons are as big as your fist, and he is right when he says it is a good fruit. Don't fail to see them at Evan Parrish's.

Miss Ottis Merchant of Jemison spent Sunday with Loutishie and Willodean Bean.

COMMISSIONERS CALL ELECTION ON COUNTY AGENT

Editor Union-Banner:

The Court of County Commissioners have been requested by some citizens and taxpayers of the county to give the voters an opportunity to say whether or not the work now being conducted by the Farm Demonstration Agent shall be continued.

It was at the request of citizens of the county that money was appropriated and Mr. Stapp was employed to carry on this work, and the Commissioners Court in justice to themselves, on account of the unusual conditions now existing, would like to have an expression from the people.

The Court is anxious to be governed by the will of the people in all matters of a public nature, and consequently are making it possible for each voter to express his opinion either for or against the continuation of this work.

On November 3, 1931, a state election has been called to determine whether or not $25,000,000.00 bond shall be issued for road purposes, and each voter will be given a ballot which he may vote for or against the continuation of this work.

We assure the voters that the Commissioners Court will abide by the will of the majority of the voters.

Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

J. E. COBB,
J. M. MIMS,
J. L. BURNETT,
A. P. VINSON,

Glee Club Entertains In Chapel

The Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Mary Ellis, rendered some vocal selections at the chapel period last Friday morning. These young singers are a great help to the assembly program in that they sponsor the singing. The club is progressing well under Miss Ellis's supervision, and it expects to do a great deal this year.

P.-T. A. Meets

The Parent-Teachers Association held its second meeting in the high school auditorium last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ezell opened the meeting with devotional exercises. This was followed by a vocal selection rendered by the Glee Club. The association is going to promote an art exhibit from November 30 to December 4. This is a rare chance to see some specimens of real pictures of art. Some very famous paintings will be on exhibit. Details of this exhibit will be worked out at their next meeting. The public is cordially invited to be at this exhibit.

Assembly Vsitors

The schools was delighted to have as its visitors Thursday morning, Dr. Ezell, Dr. John Milford, and Mr. Fred Bonn. Dr. Milford is conducting a revival at the Baptist Church, and Mr. Bonn is leading the singing. Dr. Milford made a very interesting and instructive talk. He impressed upon his audience in a few well chosen words, the value of honesty with one's self. He emphasized that every one should be honest. "That if you are dishonest, you can never get away from your self. The streak is in you, and is your chief throughout your entire life." The speaker said your school life is a great test of your character in regard to honesty. Without a doubt every student was very favorably impressed with Dr. Milford's address.

Sesquicentennial Observed

The 150th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis to General Washington at Yorktown, Va., occuring October 19, 1781, was fittingly observed Monday morning at the chapel period. Prof. Warr read the eighth chapter of Deutronomy. After that the entire school sang "America." Herman Harris read the Proclamation of the President of the United States, and then told the school the purpose of this observance. Joe VanDerveer told of some very interesting events leading up to the surrender, and described the little town of Yorktown as it is today. He showed that America really has two birthdays, October 19, 1781, and July 4, 1776. Prof. Warr then explained the new way of pledging allegience to our Flag since the World Warr as compared with the old way. The program closed with the salute to the Flag.

Bibb vs. Chilton As A Student Saw It

Chilton and Centreville played a hard fought game here Friday afternoon. The final score was Bibb 6, and Chilton. Foshee, left tackle for Chilton, played a wonderful game, stopping nearly every play. Centreville made their only score in the first quarter, but threatened several times in the last half.

Credit is due Littlejohn and Arnold on the defense. And on the offense the outstanding playing was made by Tiffin and Taylor. However, they were unable to pierce the wall of Centreville's powerful line for a very long gain, but slipped off eight yard dashes at different times in an effort to win the count in the last quarter. The teams were fairly evenly matched, Centreville having some heavier line.

The blue and the gold warriors of C. C. H. S. have in this game proven decided ability to overcome handicaps and should under normal pressure merit their weight in the last color of the two that so rightly represents their schools.

Poultrymen Can Make Money

Do you know what it costs to feed a hen one month?
3 lbs. Scratch (grain) ..... 5 1-4 cents
3 lbs Purina Mash ..... 6 cents
Total Feed Cost ..... 11 1-4 cents

Records on 3,000,000 hens scattered all over the United States show that birds fed Purina Chows lay an average of 15 eggs per month the year round. 15 eggs per month are worth 30 cents. That's a profit of 18 cents per hen per month. On 100 hens that would be a profit of 18.00 over feed cost.

Feed prices are down. Purina Chows are priced lower than ever before. There's a good profit in hens today if you feed them right.

Our store and warehouse are always filled with FRESH, SWEET Purina Chows. We feed anything from an elephant to a canary. Purina Mills make 63 different feeds. Certainly we have one to fit your need.

We also have FLOUR, SHORTS, BRAN, WHEAT at remarkably low prices because we buy only in car lots.

Come in to see us. Your dollar has more buying power at our store and satisfaction is our motto in every transaction.

CHILTON HIGH LOST TO BIBB

Chilton County High's "Tigers" lost to Bibb County High last Friday afternoon by the meager margin of one touchdown, 6 to 0. However, Chilton's team is deserving of much praise rather than criticism in losing this game by only one touchdown, as they were heavily outweighted, team for team and man for man. Had the "Tigers" played the kind of football the preceding Friday that they put on display last Friday they would have beaten Autauga High at least three touchdowns.

Without taking any credit from Bibb's team in their victory over the locals, Bibb was out-fought throughout the game. The margin of victory lay in sheer weight, the light Chilton eleven giving in only after a fight worthy of anybody's team.

Bibb has a good football team—big fellows who plunge and fight for all that is in them. Their size alone gave them every right to their victory. But after the game every member of this team had only praise for our light "Tigers," who really lived up to their title. They were well aware of the fact that they had been in a football game when it was over.

While the whole Chilton team is due every commendation for their superb performance, the exceptional play put on by four Chilton boys deserves special mention. The manner in which "Gabby" Tiffin and Burdett tore into Bibb's big line would have done your heart good, if you enjoy a real football scrap. Miller, at end, and a mere lad, dealt the big Bibb ball-toters misery—there's a fighter for you. And Jesse Frank Foshee, the spark-plug of the whole machine, was everywhere at once it seemed. You can keep an eye on Foshee, too—he's good—and he may be down, at times, but never out. You can't whip fellows like Foshee—they have to be beaten, and even then they don't know it.

And, again, hats off to Chilton's "Tigers." They're that, all right, in every sense. They go to Plantersville Friday of this week to play Dallas County High School.

JAMES CHARLES FLETCHER WILLIAMS

The death of James Charles Fletcher Williams occured at his home at Billingsley last Saturday following a long illness. He was 72 years of age, and was one of the prominent citizens of his community.

Burial was at New Cedron, near Billingsley, Sunday, with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Bentley.

DEATH OF W. E. MISSELDINE

Wiley E. Misseldine, age 45, died suddenly at his home in Birmingham last Friday, October 16. The body was shipped to Clanton Sunday morning and carried by Martin to Billingsley for burial. The funeral was held at the Billingsley Methodist Church, at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. F. A. Gibson. Pallbearers were a group of close friends and fellow-workers of the deceased.

Mr. Misseldine was a street car motorman. Soon after he went to work last Friday morning he became sick and had to go home. When he reached home his wife had gone to a neighbor's house. He went to the telephone to call her. When she answered the phone she heard no reply. The man collapsed while he was at the phone, and was dead when the cook entered the room and found his body near the telephone.

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe. Comfortable. Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.

WEST CHILTON

The man in "Moral Echoes" is giving us lessons of great value. Read them. Take time to think.

Such beautiful October days. "All nature smiles so soft and sweet," is the poet's language. No wonder poets live in so much rapture. Their thoughts live in a lofty realm. Back to the autumnal days. They bring many anniversaries of sweet occasions, and lives of dear ones in the far away past. Still we have memory and those anniversary reminders, that is all. But the bow of hope still spands the skies in brilliant hues.

Many, many are the colutions of hard times. Many are the causes set forth. It is not so much a depression as a failure to get luxuries like we have been getting from back in the days of the beloved President McKinley, until recently. So it may be the whole secret is tied up in the question of finances, who knows?

Marion Cofer attending singing Sunday at Friendship, near the old home of Judge S. M. Adams, west of Lawley.

The best evidence we see of returning good times is the new store of B. F. Rasberry, Jr. It is roomy and convenient, and practically fire proof, with J. E. Lovett contractor. For convenience give us more stores, more good roads, more school buildings, more places of worship, all in the rural districts.

Walnut Creek News

On last Thursday, October 15, the members of Walnut Creek Church surprised their pastor, Rev. P. A. Lynch, with a pounding and supper. This came as a complete surprise to the pastor and his family, but they were very grateful just the same. Everyone joined in playing games and all enjoyed being together in this way. The ladies served a picnic supper consisting of fried chicken, cakes, and other good eats. At the conclusion of the social hour, all were gathered together and the pastor expressed his thanks and gratitude to each and every one that had participated in the pounding, and also offered a prayer of thanks.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference was held Saturday with preaching at eleven o'clock by Rev. J. H. Limbrick. Everyone enjoyed the fine sermon which Brother Limbrick brought us. Lunch was served on the grounds by the ladies.

The conference was carried out in a splendid way, each of the churches being represented and having their reports sent in. Mr. Irving P. Kennedy was elected delegate to the Annual Conference to be held at Antioch on Macon Circuit, near Notasulga, of which Rev. C. W. Walton is pastor.

We had a good Sunday school Sunday, with an attendance of 85, and a good number of visitors.

The regular preaching services were held by the pastor, and also the election of the church officers. There were other visitors who came for the preaching service who were not at Sunday school.

The ladies are being complimented on their program at Christian Endeavor Sunday by the way they handled the subject: "How to Answer Wet Arguments." If the ladies in every community stand as firm for the prohibition law as they do in our community there is no need for worry that the Eighteenth Amendment will be repealed or modified.

We are looking forward for next Sunday night to come, when the men will present their program on: "How is our Country Helping and Hindering the Spiritual Growth of Other Countries." We invite everybody to come, because the men will have an interesting program.

Mr. C. P. Lynch and grandson, John Collins, of Cullman, Ala., who have been visiting the former's son, Rev. P. A. Lynch, for several days returned home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mullins of Birmingham spent the week end as the guests of his mother, Mrs. P. D. Wilson.

Baptists Are Different

Of the various leading denominations in east Alabama, the Baptists are unique in their theory and practice of the independence of the local church. No Association nor Convention can dictate the policy of any church nor command its performance of any certain task.

But Baptists frequently demonstrate the finest spirit of cooperation among their independent bodies to be found any where. Such is apparent in the present movement to promote the whole of their work through an Every Member Canvass for local expenses and denominational causes to be made November 26 to December 6 this year. An organization is being rapidly perfected to reach every church in the Southern Baptist Convention.

In the midst of the stressful conditions there has come a realization of the importance of enlisting every member of every church in the support of the work at home and to the uttermost parts of the earth. Associational organizations have already been set up. Literature is being mailed to all the churches. Committees have been requested to act in every church. Conferences are being held where all questions concerning the financing of a church in such times as these are being gone into and many of the best trained workers are freely and gladly giving their time and counsel where it is desired.

Those who have studied the situation realize that the measure of success achieved will depend upon the local churches themselves. The more difficult the situation in the local church the greater is its need to lay hold of every opportunity offered to aid it in preparing for this canvass. The Director in every Association stands ready to answer all calls personally or through his volunteer helpers. The women's organizations will go afield, as also the Sunday school and young people's organizations.

It is being planned to hold a conference in every Association in the District where the committees and other workers of every church will be invited to come together to study, plan and pray. Instead of a few big speeches by individuals and all the others listening, these meetings will be real conferences. Then it is hoped all will go back to their churches to inform and inspire others.

The meeting of the Baptist State Convention in Opelika will bring into this District a group of fine leaders and workers. All features of the plan will be presented. Baptists of east Alabama will thus be afforded an excellent opportunity to secure full information. At an early date, the program of the Convention will be published in the Alabama Baptist. It is hoped that those who can attend the Convention only one day will select the date on which this important matter is to be discussed.

The real and final test will come in the doing of it on November 26 to December 6. The issue rests with the local churches.

Practical Suggestions

1. Place all literature sent you into the hands of your church members.

2. Have special speakers talk on the every member canvass in the Sunday school, B. Y. P. U., and W. M. S.

3. Conduct study classes in the "Handbook" which will be sent free to you (as many copies as needed) upon request by the State Department, 147 South Court Street, Montgomery, Ala.

4. Get your local church committee organized. Make a thorough study of your church needs. Present a budget to your church for action.

5. Preach and teach missions. Let's inform our people of the great need as well as successes in our missions enterprise.

"Preach the Gospel to every creature."

STATE PRODUCED RECORD PEACH CROP SINCE 1918

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 19.—By growing 1,445,000 bushels of peaches Alabama this year produced the largest peach crop since 1918, reports the State Department of Agriculture.

Statistics show that in 1918 the state grew 2,440,000 bushels, the third largest crop produced in the state since 1910.

MT. ZION SINGING

The Eastern Singing Society met with the Mt. Zion people last Sunday afternoon. The crowd was small but the singing was good. Directors for the afternoon were: Posey Cleckler, F. J. Little, Miss Virgie Cost, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon, W. L. Sanders, Mrs. Annie Pascal, E. C. Traywick. Organists for the afternoon were: Miss Willie Mae Crawford and Miss Lillie Mae Weldon.

The singing seemed to be very much enjoyed by all.

Remember, the society meets at Cane Creek next Sunday, October 25, at 2:00 o'clock. This society is using the Morris-Henson books, Crowning Hymns No. 12, and it is hoped that each and every member of this society be present next Sunday afternoon at Cane Creek. Visitors are always welcome.

REFUGE SINGING WAS GOOD

One of the best afternoon singings ever held at Refuge was held there last Sunday afternoon when the Central Singers met with that class. The house was nearly filled, and most of those present took part in the singing. Prof. L. T. Grant, the chairman, presided. One member of the committee was present—Mr. J. R. Robinson of Verbena. A long list of directors was prepared who took their turn on the program.

A supply of the new Henson books was on hand. The society has purchased two dozen of the books, and L. T. Grant and T. E. Wyatt still have some extra books for sale.

An invitation is extended to all to meet with the society next Sunday afternoon at Poplar Springs. We always have good singings at Poplar, and we hope that next Sunday afternoon it may be still better. All of the eight churches having a part in the Central Singing Society try and have a good representation next Sunday afternoon. It is your singing, and you are not doing your duty unless you help make it go.

Saturday, October 31st, is the day to get shaped up for squirrel hunting. You can do this best at our sale that day on guns and shells. Wait and save money.—Clanton Building Supply Co.

BETHSALEM SUNDAY SCHOOL

Our Sunday school is still progressing nicely.

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days, and our pastor certainly delivered some splendid sermons. We also had preaching Sunday night.

Let's everybody come to Sunday school next Sunday morning. Our Sunday school has started to try to reach the 6-point record system and we hope that by the Lord's help we may soon reach it.

UNITED SINGING SOCIETY

The United Singing Society will meet with Cooperative Singing Society next Sunday afternoon at Center Hill. All singers and lovers of music are invited to be with us. Bring your Morris-Henson, and any others book, that you can.—B. L. Cobb.

We are glad to see Mr. L. A. Calloway able to be out on the streets again, after being laid up for about a month.

BILIOUSNESS CLEARED UP

BILIOUSNESS may show itself by a coated tongue, bad breath, headache, spots before the eyes, dizziness, poor appetite, "dopiness," but prompt relief may be expected from taking Thedford's Black-Draught.

"When I got bilious, I had a bad taste in my mouth, and then severe headaches that put me to bed," writes Mrs. Anna Copeland, Anderson, S. C. "I found Black-Draught relieved this. I felt better after taking it. Black-Draught certainly is a good medicine."

CONCORD-BILLINGSLEY

Bro. Headley filled his regular appointment here Sunday, which is the last appointment during this conference year. He brought to us a wonderful message. He has done a great work here during this year, and has meant a great deal to our church. If we are not fortunate enough to have him for our pastor next year, we pray God's richest blessings on him wherever he goes to preach the Gospel.

We were indeed glad to have with us Sunday night Rev. P. A. Lynch and Rev. Smith from Clanton. Bro. Lynch delivered the message Sunday night, which was enjoyed by every one present.

The Christian Endeavor meeting was very commendable Sunday night. The subject which was discussed was that of prohibition, which was a very interesting and important one.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Y. Sims had as their guests Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Deason, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Culver of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Owens, Messrs. J. D. and W. W. Williams of Fairview community.

Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Headley dined at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams Sunday.

Mr. T. L. Williams and son, Porter, dined at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams Sunday.

Miss Nina Mae Harris was the dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sheppard of Clanton spent the past week end here with home folks.

Mrs. Gertie Mae Little took dinner at the home of Mrs. W. W. Williams Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Herrod and family of Haynes spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams.

Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Headley and Miss Clara Dell Sims spent a few enjoyable hours at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Bertha Misseldine and daughter, Augusta Clans, is spending a few days with relatives here.

Mr. Sidney Harris of Selma is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Little.

Mr. A. L. Robinson of Mitchell Dam was in Clanton Monday. Mr. Robinson is now living at his farm just west of the Dam. For the past five years he has been running the store at the Dam, but the same has recently been purchased by W. A. Calloway of Coopers.

CORRECTION

In The Union-Banner October 1st, the report of cases in Circuit Court stated: "Will Giles, violating prohibition law; trial and judgment guilty; fined $15."

This was an error. Circuit Clerk, J. Z. Mims calls our attention to the fact that the charge against Mr. Giles was for driving a car without a license tag, and not for violating the prohibition law.

We are glad to make correction of this error.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday should be a great day with us. The pastor is going to speak from one of the most important subjects used during the year. I had a letter this week from a good woman in South Alabama who had lost her husband, and in speaking of him she said: "He paid his debts and his word was his bond." If you want to hear a sermon on the all important question of strict "Honesty," you be present at 11 a. m. I believe in "honesty," and I want Clanton to hear this message.

Sunday school at 9:45. Miss Della Williams has organized a "home department" in connection with the school, and also a "cradle roll deparment." More than fifty have enlisted in these two departments. A splendid work.

The leagues meet at 6:45, and preaching by the pastor at 7:30. We are looking for you to be in your place at every service.

ISABELLA F. F. A. NEWS

The Isabella chapter of the F. F. A. met October 4. Clifford Manning gave a short talk on "The value of an initiating team." How to obtain new members was also discussed.

After the meeting a picture of the chapter was taken for publication.

A new member was received last week.

The executive committee of the home economics club and the future farmers held a joint meeting Monday, October 19, for the purpose of planning the annual F. F. A. banquet. It was decided that the banquet would be December 4. Each boy and girl is to invite his or her parents to this banquet.

We are striving to have a more active chapter this year than we have ever had.

You should see the savings to be had at Robinson Department Store in Clanton.

NITRATE OF SODA GUESSING CONTEST WON BY DR. R. J. EILAND OF COOPERS

Dr. Eiland's guess of 1250 pounds of seed cotton per acre where nitrate of soda was used and 1000 pounds per acre where no nitrate was used was the nearest correct of any of the 32 guesses made. The actual yield was 1640 pounds where nitrate was used and 1024 pounds where no nitrate was used. Dr. Eiland advises that he was mighty glad to get the five dollar gold piece.

TAX CASE HEARD LAST THURSDAY

Chilton and Coosa Counties Argued Case Against Tax Reductions

According to previous arrangements, the State Tax Commission of Alabama held the hearing of the Chilton and Coosa County protest against tax valuations of Alabama Power Company properties last Thursday. The proceedings were held in the hall of the House of Representatives at the State Capitol in Montgomery.

The case in question hinges around the effort of the two counties to have the tax commission restore former valuations upon power company properties, and thereby avert the great loss of revenue which would be occasioned by the reduction of valuations that have been made upon property of the power company.

The counties were represented at the hearing by Senator John Darden and Representative Felix Smith, for Coosa; and by attorneys Grady and Omar Reynolds, for Chilton. The side of the Alabama Power Company was presented by attorney Logan Martin.

To begin with, Mr. Martin entered a formal protest on the part of the power company against the order of the tax commission in reopening the case. He argued several points of law designed to show that the reduced valuations already had become final and that the commission could not now take the matter up for reconsideration. Commissioner Butler promptly overruled this protest, and ordered the hearing to proceed.

Taking of testimony consumed several hours. The Alabama Public Service Commission furnished detailed information as to the values of Alabama Power Company property which have been established and recognized for rate making purposes.

Mr. Knight, expert clerk of the State Tax Commission, was grilled by the lawyers for several minutes. He testified as to how the tax commission had arrived at the figures for power company property tax assessments, which resulted in the reduction of values in Chilton and Coosa Counties. His explanation showed that the commission had assessed power company property at 45 per cent of its value.

Sam Pate of Chilton County and T. L. Burks, of Coosa County, were questioned by the lawyers as to how general property assessments were made in the two counties. They testified that some property was assessed at more than 60 per cent of its value, and some less than 60 per cent.

Evidence produced from official state records showed (1) that the Alabama Power Company places a valuation of $190,000,000 on its Alabama properties (2) that the Alabama Power Company is collecting rates for electric service on a valuation of $139,000,000 for its Alabama properties (3) that the Alabama Power Company has been assessed for taxes this year on a valuation of $57,000,000 for its Alabama properties.

After taking of testimony was finished the lawyers proceeded to argue the case. John Darden reviewed the evidence for the counties. Logan Martin made the argument for the power company.

Omar Reynolds made the closing speech, in which he very clearly pointed out that under the Alabama law, the State Tax Commission is required to make assessments of property at 60 per cent of its value. He closed with the request, on behalf of Chilton and Coosa counties, that the Tax Commission adhere to the provisions of the law in making the essessments of Alabama Power Company properties in those counties and in the State of Alabama as a whole.

With a mass of testimony, figures, and records piled high on his desk, Commissioner Butler announced that he would take the matter under advisement, and report his decision at the earliest time possible.

The following persons composed the delegation of Chilton County citizens and officials who attended the hearing: Judge L. H. Reynolds; Commissioners A. P. Vinson, J. L. Burnett, Joe Cobb, and Jim Mims; attorneys Grady Reynolds, Omar Reynolds, L. F. Gerald and G. C. Walker; S. M. Pate, W. M. Wyatt, and W. A. Reynolds.

HALLOWE'EN FESTIVAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Plans are now in progress and preparation for a big Hallowe'en party at the high school next Friday night. The committee on decorations was completed Tuesday, and everything is beginning to look like Hallowe'en. A number of splendid attractions will be given including a special program in the high school auditorium. Space forbids a detailed discussion of everything that will be presented, so we are inviting the public to come and attend this festival. It is being sponsored by the Senior Class. You will miss a real treat if you don't come. There will be attractions for young and old. A prize will be awarded to one who comes dressed in the best masquerade.

Rev. Bob Jones To Preach In Clanton

Services At Methodist Church On Tuesday Night Nov. 10th

Dr. Bob Jones has announced that he will preach in Clanton on Tuesday night, November the 10th. The service will be held at the Methodist Church at 7:30.

Dr. Jones is touring the state in the interest of the state-wide evangelistic meetings that are to be held the first of January of next year. He is preaching the introductory sermon for the meeting to be held in Clanton, and the people are urged to hear him in his message. No collection will be taken, but a strong gospel sermon will be preached.

This is not the first visit of Dr. Jones to Clanton. He has many friends here who will deem it a privilege to hear him again, and it is expected that the large auditorium of the Methodist Church will be crowded to its capacity. Those who know him best, think of him as the best platform man in the South. He has but few equals before the public.

MORE FARMERS FOR COUNTY AGT.

Mr. J. P. Montgomery, of Jemison, brings interesting reports from meetings of farmers held last week at Pleasant Grove, Oak Grove, and Collins Chapel, in which many farmers of those communities publicly attested their approval of the work of the County Farm Agent in Chilton County.

The meeting at Oak Grove, north of Jemison, was held last Thursday night. Every man present at the meeting expressed himself in favor of the County Agent being continued. J. D. Sutley, W. I. Lessley, T. F. Satterwhite, and other farmers made talks in which they pointed out many ways in which the County Agent has been of help to them and others in the community.

Mr. C. R. Foss, cashier of The Peoples Bank, of Jemison, was present with the farmers and urged them to support the County Agent in the election of November 3. A poll of the crowd was taken, and every man present voted for the County Agent.

Another meeting at Pleasant Grove, west of Jemison, was held on Thursday night. It was an enthusiastic demonstration unanimously in favor of the County Agent. Talks were made by Will Clements, Clarence Childress, Clyde Cofer, Hunter Rasco, Mr. Foss, and others. It was pointed out in these talks by the farmers that the work of the County Agent has been used to great advantage by the people of Pleasant Grove. When a vote was called for, every man present arose in favor of the work and continuing it in Chilton County.

The largest gathering of farmers held at Collins Chapel in a long time came out Saturday night to give consideration to the County Agent business. Wilbur Bean, Perry Gore, Glenn Sessions, C. R. Foss, Zac Appleton, and others made talks pointing out the effective manner in which they had mastered many farm problems through the assistance of the County Agent. General discussion and criticism of the County Agent work was invited, but no opposition was expressed.

HAVE YOU MADE UP YOUR MIND?

What are you going to do about voting on the County Farm Agent next Tuesday, November 3? If you have not already done so, it is time you were getting your bearings.

There have been many things said by different people which proves the value of the work of the County Agent. But it appears that the biggest argument in favor of keeping the County Agent is the actual work he has done in the past four years to help the farmers of Chilton County. That speaks louder in praise of the work than any mere words that might be gathered together.

If someone who is hesitating about voting for the County Agent should happen to read this, we would like for him to remember just a few things as he ponders over the question.

The work of the County Agent has received the unanimous and hearty support and endorsement of the Kiwanis Club, the school teachers, the Club Boys, the American Legion, many outstanding citizens and farmers all over the county.

Many of the strawberry growers, especially those who have gotten into the business in the last four years, declare that the County Agent has been a great help to them in getting acquainted with the cultivation, packing, shipping, and selling of strawberries.

There are, of course, some farmers who have not availed themselves of the advantages offered through the County Agnt. They are, therefore, not acquainted first hand with the work. Some such may have determined to vote against it. Such action on their part will be very poorly justified, and will not be supported by sound reasoning.

It is a proven fact from the testimony of those who have made use of the County Agent, that he has done work of value to them many times more than he has cost the county. Then one might ask what grounds has the man who has not used the County Agent got for voting against him, and thereby helping to deprive those who do want and use the County Agent of the helpful assistance they are getting?

It would be far more sensible for the man who has never used the County Agent to go to the election and vote to keep him, and then get busy and begin to use him. What we need most in Chilton County is more of the helpful advice of the County Agent put into practice by more of the farmers of the County.

Who is against the County Agent? He has been here for four years working hard and helping many farmers to better methods, better ideals, and better living. Whom has he injured?

There have been many people to rise up and declare the good that the County Agent has done, but not one have we heard come out in the open and show where he has done any harm.

We ask the voters of the County to consider this matter gravely and seriously. You should think a long time before you make up your mind to go to the polls and cast your vote against the County Agent, which would indicate that you are willing to reverse the wheels of agricultural progress in Chilton County and start back again to the era of lethargy from which we have come a long way in the last four years.

Come to the big mass meeting of farmers at the courthouse next Saturday. Those who may be against the work are especially invited. Something will be said at this meeting that will perhaps enable you to better understand the situation.

But for goodness sake, above all, don't fail to go to your voting place on next Tuesday and cast your ballot for the County Agent.

Farmers' Meeting at Court House Saturday

The farmers of Chilton County are invited to come to a meeting at the Courthouse in Clanton on next Saturday afternoon, October 31, at two o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the work of the County Farm Demonstration Agent.

Everybody is invited. Those who have any question in their minds about the value of the County Agent, and want more information about it are especially urged to come. If you are against the County Agent, you are invited to come and express yourself fully and freely.

The 4-H Club Boys of the County are invited to attend this meeting. They will have an opportunity to present their reasons why they favor the County Agent Work.

We hope the people of the county will respond heartily to this opportunity of gaining more information about the value of the County Agent to our county.

Remember the meeting will begin promptly at two o'clock next Saturday afternoon, at the courthouse in Clanton.

PRICE OF CREAM HAS GONE HIGHER

The price of cream has picked up for the last two weeks. County Agent Stapp advises that 71 cream checks were issued to farmers last Saturday. He again asks us to call attention to the fact that the cream station was put in for the farmers who do no get enough cream to ship to advantagge, and that the farmers who get as much as a five gallon can of cream in a week realize more out of it to ship it to Montgomery or Birmingham than to sell it at the station at Clanton. Prior to the establishment of the station many farmers experienced trouble in selling their small amounts of surplus cream and butter.

Will Enforce Fire Traffic Regulations

Must Keep Automobiles Out Of Way Of Fire Fighters

Fire Chief, Loren Smith, requests that the public be informed that rigid enforcement of traffic regulations will be made when fires occur in town.

The rule is for no automobiles or other vehicles to go within the block where the fire is located. Hereafter two of the firemen will be stationed at the proper places to stop traffic. Those who fail to stop and proceed into the prohibited area will be summoned to talk it over with the Mayor.

Mr. Smith earnestly requests everybody to have due regard for these regulations. The firemen are well up on the job, thoroughly organized, and amply able to take care of the situation if folks will just keep their automobiles out of their way.

Another thing that some folks ought to remember is to pull their cars to the curb when the fire alarm is sounded. First thing we know the fire truck is going to flatten somebody's flivver right plum on the pavement—and that will be just too bad.

CLUB BOYS WANT COUNTY AGENT

The 4-H Club Boys of Chilton County want to keep the County Farm Demonstration Agent. They have issued a public appeal to the voters to cast their votes in favor of the work on November 3.

In a circular addresed to the voters of Chilton County, and sent out last week, the Club Boys said:

We represent more than 400 Chilton County farm boys between the ages of 10 and 18 years, who, in 4-H Club work have taken the following pledge:

I pledge my head to clear thinking; my heart to greater loyalty; my hands ot larger service; my health to better living for my club, my community, and my country.

We are trying to develop into useful citizens for Chilton County, they declare, and our County Agent is leading us in this work. We can't vote, but we plead with you to go to the polls on November 3 and vote for the continuation of the County Agent work.

The appeal of the Club Boys to the voters of the county is signed by Clyde Popwell, president; James Dennis, vice president; Osmond Glenn, secretary - treasurer; and Quinton Kelly, reporter.

We commend the appeal of the Club Boys to the serious consideration of the voters of Chilton County. If there were nothing more to the County Agent work than that which he is doing to help and inspire the Club Boys, his work would be worth many times more than it costs.

If one boy each year in Chilton County can be won permanently to the ideals embodied in the pledge, it would be worth the cost of the County Agent. That is not an extravagant statement, because a man who sets his standard of life and living upon the high ideals of the 4-H Club is bound to be worth untold value to his community throughout the years of his life.

SANDERS FAVORS COUNTY AGENT

Member Of School Board Says We Must Not Go Backward

As the election of November 3 is drawing near and two important question are to be settled I Wish to express my views on them.

First we shall take the $25,000,000 bond issue and see if it is worthy of our support .

I do not believe it will be wise to borrow this large amount to spend on the highways and let so many other things of greater importance go lacking.

The first thing the state officials should have done was to make provisions to pay off its just obligations and by so doing might have gained the confidence of the voters in Alabama to carry the bond issue.

But to the reverse, and to our regret, we hang our heads and call for a half term of school. Why.

All because the state could not pay her just obligations.

Then whey should we go to the polls on November 3, and increase our indebtedness when it looks like we are already on the brink of bankruptcy?

These bonds, if voted in, will have to be paid some time and whenever that time comes the taxpayers' knees will tremble. It will be a great task for the people to pay their taxes this year, and if we keep voting in more bond issues what can we expect in the future?

Now let us go to the polls on November 3 and vote the bond issue down, for the state's burdens are so great at present it cannot meet its just obligations.

Now a few words in regards to the County Agent.

It appears to me that it would be taking a backward step to discontinue the County Agent, because he is the mediator between the farmers and the experiment station. He has in the past, been a great help to the farmers of Chilton County, for he has given the facts direct from the experiment station.

Some will say the County Agent has never benefited them. This may be true, but if so, its all because they haven't called upon him. I have never heard of anyone seeking information of him but what he got it.

He helps the farmers get a market for his cream, chickens, and eggs. He helps him get the best price for his strawberries, he insists on getting a pure breed of live stock, and will help to get them if called upon.

He has carried his terracing machine into many sections of the county laying off the farmers terraces for the farmers, which has resulted in a great soil saving and better profits on the rolling land.

I remember one lot of terraces the County Agent run for Mr. E. C. Traywick. For I was flag carrier. Mr. Traywick said the terracing he did for him had been woth $50.00 because the work had been done right. Doing things right, or in a practical way, is the real necessity of having a County Agent. The theory of the County Agent is not of his own, but is of men who have made experiments at a higher cost than farmers can afford. Farmers have not the time to make experiments as do the institutions that are paid by the state or government.

Now if a part of our taxes go to support those experiment stations and we discontinue our County Agent we lose the reward for which we have paid. It seems that some are awfully worried about the salary paid the County Agent, but never stop to think how small it is compared to that of the other officials.

Let us think of the County Agent as a teacher for the farmer, and compare him with the teachers of the county in the different schools. Some of the teachers draw a salary of $200 per month for their service in one community, while our County Agents service reaches over the entire county, and the county pays him only $100 per month. There is quite a contrast in the salary as well as the service. The County Agent works six days a week while the others work five.

It's alright to economize if started at the right place, but it wouldn't be very economical for a man to cut off his feet to keep from buying shoes.

So let us go to the polls on November 3 and show somebody they have started at the wrong end to economize. Yours for the County Agent and better farming. — W. L. Sanders.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Featuring a fireworks display and pep meeting Friday night, a parade through the Tuscaloosa business district by the R. O. T. C. regiment Saturday morning, and the Alabama-Kentucky football game at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, University of Alabama will celebrate its annual homecoming day. At a convocation of women students Saturday morning, Mrs. Alfred Tunstall of Montgomery will deliver the principal speech.

The University of Alabama music faculty gave its annual recital before a large and appreciative audience Wednesday evening. Included on the program were Mrs. Harry N. Eddins, head of the department of music; Miss Elizabeth Roberts, soprano; Miss Emmett Lewis and Mrs. Paul Burnum, pianists; and William Anderson, violinist.

Miss Eunice Brunson, Mobile, president YWCA, represented the Capstone at the state conference of YWCA at Grandview, near Montgomery, Friday and Saturday. Miss Brunson was one of the speakers on the program.

Seniors in the School of Commerce enjoyed their annual business tour in Birmingham and Fairfield last week end. The annual commerce banquet was held Friday evening on Thomas Jefferson Hotel.

The Blackfriar Players made their first appearance of the year October 26 and 27 in A. A. Milne's three-act mystery play, "A Perfect Alibi." The players will appear again December 7 and 8; February 29 and March 1, April 18 and 19, in three other successful plays. T. Earle Johnson is directing the company.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom and goodness to take from our midst and to call to his eternal reward, our beloved brother and fellow-minister, A. D. Huett, who has labored so conscientiously in His service, and

Whereas, he has been a faithful member of the Ministerial Association of Howard College and a loyal pastor for these years, and

Whereas, his life of service and kindness will linger as a blessing and remembrance in the future years, and his absence will be the loss of one that was inbred with that which is noblest, best, highest and tenderest in the heart of mankind; a devoted brother, a sympathetic friend, a consecrated Christian, and

Whereas, our hearts are torn by the thought of giving him up, we feel that he can never be replaced in our ranks, be it

Resolved, that we bow our heads in humble submission to God's inevitable, omniscient plan. And, be it further

Resolved, that the Ministerial Association of Howard College extend its heartfelt sympathy to the family of Brother A. D. Huett in its bereavement, and be it further

Resolved, that these resolutions be entered in our minutes, a copy be sent to the grief-stricken family, and a copy be published in the Howard Crimson and in The Alabama Baptist.

Improved Uniform International

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 1

WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY

GOLDEN TEXT—And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit.

LESSON TEXT—Gal. 5:13-26.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Danger of Strong Drink.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Peril of Strong Drink.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Reasons for Total Abstinence.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Progress of Temperance Reform.

This lesson is taken from the portion of the Epistle to the Galatians which has to do with the application of the doctrine of justification by faith. By faith the believer is linked to Jesus Christ. As a result of this union with Christ, the believer experiences a new birth, and thereafter lives a new life. The divine way of freeing the world from the curse of intemperance is to secure the regeneration of the individual.

I. Christian Freedom (vv. 13-15).

1. It is not an occasion to the flesh (v. 13). Liberty is not license. The notion that when one is free from the law he is free from restraint is wickedly erroneous. License of the flesh means not merely the indulgence of the flesh in actual material sins, but in the expression of a self-centered life in bickerings, etc. (v. 15).

2. It is by love serving one another (v. 13). Freedom from the Mosaic law means submission to the law of love. Love thus becomes the fulfillment of the law, (v. 14).

II. Walking in the Spirit (vv. 16-18).

This discloses the secret of how a life of love and service to another can be lived. Walking in the Spirit results in victory over the flesh (vv. 16, 17). By "the flesh" is meant the corrupt nature of man expressing itself in the realm of sense and self. When the Christian chooses the evil, the Holy Spirit opposes and when he chooses the good, the flesh opposes.

III. The Works of the Flesh (vv. 19-21).

The one who chooses to live according to the desires of his natural heart will be practicing the following sins:

1. Sensuality (v. 19). The sins enumerated here are practiced in the sphere of the body and are:

a. Fornication (the word "adultery" is omitted from the best manuscripts). Fornication includes all sexual sins in the married and unmarried state.

b. Uncleanness, which includes all sensual sins, open or secret, in thought or deed.

c. Lasciviousness — wanton indulgences in the shameful practices of the flesh.

2. Irreligion (v. 20). These acts take place in the realm of the spirit and are:

a. Idolatry, which means the worshiping of idols.

b. Witchcraft or sorcery—all dealing with the occult such as magical arts, spiritism, necromancy, etc.

3. Sins of temper (vv. 20, 21). These ake place in the sphere of the mind and are:

a. Hatred. b. Variance, which means strife and contention. c. Emulations, which expresses itself in jealousy. d. Wrath—bursts of passion. e. Seditions—factions in the state. f. Heresies—factions in the church. g. Envyings. h. Murders.

4. Sins of excess (v. 21).

a. Drunkenness—indulgence in intoxicating liquors.

b. Revelings—acts of dissipation, under the influence of intoxicants.

Those who are under the sway of the flesh, who practice such sins, shall be excluded from the kingdom of God (I Cor. 6:10).

IV. The Fruit of the Spirit (vv. 22-24).

The Holy Spirit, who is the source of all life indwelling the believer, will bear the following fruits:

1. Love to God and men.
2. Joy—glad-heartedness because of what God has done.
3. Peace with God and men.
4. Long suffering—taking insult and injury without murmur.
5. Gentleness—kindness to others.
6. Goodness—being good and doing good to others.
7. Faith—believing God and committing all things to him.
8. Meekness—submission to God, the spirit of humility before him.
9. Temperance—self-control in all things. The one who is thus ruled by the Holy Spirit will totally abstain from all intoxicants and do his best to keep his fellows from its destructive power.

SOME ACTIVITIES OF COUNTY AGENT C. E. STAPP SINCE COMING TO CHILTON COUNTY FOUR YEARS AGO

1. Opened up office headquarters for farmers of the county with radio market service.
2. Daily report shows office activities as follows: 566 days spent in office. A total of 24,697 callers at office seeking various information. 4,187 telephone calls seeking information. 6,640 individual letters written from the office. 133 circular letters of current information have been written and 110,621 copies mailed out. 686 days spent in field work. 2,645 requested farm visits made. 1,320 meetings held at which timely subjects were discussed and recommendations of the Experiment Station given. A total of 24,603 farmers and farm boys attended the above meetings. 204 school and other miscellaneous meetings with an attendance of 21,655 men, women, and children, have been attended, assisted and addressed.
3. Advised with farmers in setting up the third largest and most active county farm bureau in the State.
4. Arranged for the installation of a cream station at the Farm Bureau Office at Clanton, where farmers who do not have enough cream to ship can bring their small amounts of cream and get cash for same.
5. Arranged for and assisted in running poultry cars regularly during the shipping seasons, enabling farmers to get highest market price for their poultry. With better market for poultry has come noticeable growth in poultry industry in the county. With the growth in poultry industry has come many calls on the agent for information about brooding, housing, treatment of and against diseases, feeding, culling for best results. 188 meetings pertaining to better methods of handling poultry have been held by the county agent.
6. The Agent has worked annually with about 300 of our farm boys in their club work. He has arranged annual club camps for these boys at which most inspiring programs were participated in by the boys. The expenses of the last camp being borne entirely by Mr. Stapp.
7. Mr. Stapp's work with the Purebred Jersey Club has been outstanding. This was demonstrated at the Jersey Show held in Clanton the 19th of September. A total of 97 meetings have been held in interest of better cattle.
8. Mr. Stapp has assisted the boy and girl scouts in their program.
9. One terracing school has been held and 143 meetings held at each one of which several farmers have learned to operate the terracing level, also obtained latest information on terrace building for the prevention of soil washing.
10. One hundred and seventy meetings pertaining to soil building, reduction of fertilizer and more economical use of fertilizers have been held. The estimated value of this work alone the past four years amounts to more than $20,000.
11. Mr. Stapp has worked closely with the Thorsby, Clanton and Jemison strawberry associations in their educational and marketing work. Mr. L. G. Posey, of Jemison, gives an interesting example of the value of this work with the strawberry growers, while he was a member of the Thorsby Association. At the request of the farmers in the Clanton, Jemison and Maplesville territories, Mr. Stapp aided in the setting up of the Berry Growers' Association. $70,445 worth of strawberries were shipped through the Clanton and Jemison Associations this year.
12. At the request of Mr. Stapp, the Alabama Experiment Station sent Mr. Taylor to the county to do experimental work on fertilizing berries. The data obtained here by Mr. Taylor the past two years indicates that with one more year's work he will be able to make definite fertilizer recommendations for fertilizer that will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to the berry growers, and at the same time more and better berries.
13. Mr. Stapp is now sponsoring a move that will result in carlot shipments from the county of dewberries, sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes and possibly other crops as is done in case of strawberries.
14. Mr. Stapp has stressed the "Live At Home Program," including a good garden and good home orchard on every farm. He has given 101 demonstrations in pruning, spraying, and general care of fruit trees.

Mr. Stapp states: "During my stay in Chilton County I have tried to make a desirable citizen. What money I have received for work here has either been spent or donated to worthy causes in the county."

WASHINGTON'S DANGEROUS EXPLOIT

To the American boy of today, October 30 is Hallowe'en and nothing more. But October 30 marks another anniversary of considerable importance. The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission points out that it was a very important day in the life of George Washington. On that day, 178 years ago, George Washington began the first major assignment in the interest of his people.

On that day in the year 1753, George Washington, only 21 years old but already a Major in the Virginia militia, was sent by the Governor of Virginia to penetrate the Pennsylvania wilderness and warn the French on the Ohio to vacate that territory which, the Governor claimed, belonged to Virginia. It was risky business, because the French were reaching down from their stronghold in Canada and fortifying all that region which is now Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. And long before he could face the hostile French commander, Washington had first to get through a wilderness teeming with doubtful Indians in the dead of winter.

On October 30 he set out from Williamsburg, the Virginia capital in that day, journeying north to Fredericksburg, where he picked up a French interpreter, Jacob Van Braam. From there he rode to Winchester, and thence to Wills Creek, now the city of Cumberland, Maryland. There he was joined by Christopher Gist, a trader and scout, skilled in Indian ways and familiar with the densely wooded region.

On November 15 Washington and Gist, together with another woodsman they hired as interpreter, one John Davidson, set out into the wintry wilds, on a day of rain and snow. At Turtle Creek, a few miles south of the present Pittsburgh, they stopped at the shack of John Frazier, another experienced trader. From there they headed for Logstown, some 17 miles away.

The errand that took Washington there was to meet certain Indian chiefs and win them over as his allies.

In this Washington was successful, and from these Indians he gathered valuable information. Some 70 miles of dangerous and difficult country had still to be covered, but on December 4 Washington set forth, accompanied by Half King and other Indians for further escort. At length they reached Venango, now Franklin, with their objective, Fort Le Bieuf, still further up French Creek near the site of the present Waterford.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Cary Bowles, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in April, 1928, for burglary and grand larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of 3 to 10 years, will make application to the State Board of Pardons, for pardon or parole.—Cary Bowles. 10-22-2p.

BILIOUSNESS CLEARED UP

BILIOUSNESS may show itself by a coated tongue, bad breath, headache, spots before the eyes, dizziness, poor appetite, "dopiness," but prompt relief may be expected from taking Thedford's Black-Draught.

"When I got bilious, I had a bad taste in my mouth, and then severe headaches that put me to bed," writes Mrs. Anna Copeland, Anderson, S. C. "I found Black-Draught relieved this. I felt better after taking it. Black-Draught certainly is a good medicine."

It would not have been used so long, or by so many, if it wasn't really good. Get a 25¢ package at the drug store.

FAVORS CHILTON COUNTY FARM AGENT, BEAT 13

Editor The Union-Banner.

I would like to say a few words through your paper concerning the approaching election in which the question of whether or not Chilton County will continue the work of the County Agent is to be settled. In my opinion this county needs a County Agent now worse than they ever have at any time before. The time has come when the farmers of this county are going to have to live at home. Is there another County officer who could better advise the formers concernig this live at home program.

Mr. Stapp has always seemed to be ready and anxious to answer every call of the farmers of our County. What has Mr. Stapp done for the farmers?

1. When cotton sold for 17 and 18 cents a pound he advocated heavy fertilization of the cotton, and the farmers made money by it.

2. Last year he recommended a reduction in acreage and warned the farmers against too much fertilizer.

3. He has held various kinds of demonstration meetings over the County by which the farmers have had a chance to obtain much information concerning terrace building, pruning fruit trees, soil building, etc.

The County Agent has also done a useful work among the boys of the county. In my judgment, his work with the boys alone will be worth more to them in dollars and cents in the future than the amount of money Mr. Stapp receives from the County.

If the County Agent is voted out the tax payers will pay the same tax that they have paid since the agent has been on in our county. The peoples taxes will not be lowered one penny. The money paid to him will be spent in some other way, but will the farmers receive the benefits that they are now receiveing from it?

In what other way could the county spend $1200 that in return would mean as much to the farmers as the money paid to the County Agent.

I hope the voters of the County on November 3 will turn out and put Mr. Stapp over by an overwhelming majority.—James E. Harrell.

CANE CREEK SINGING

The Eastern Singing Society met at Cane Creek last Sunday with a large crowd. We had a mighty good singing, but there is room for better. We had with us Mr. J. E. Minor, G. C. Powell and other good singers from other parts of the country. We were mighty glad to have them with us and they have a special invitation with others to come back and help us again. Directors for the afternoon were: W. L. Sanders, J. E. Minor, G. C. Powell, Jessie Driver, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon, Andrew Blow, Miss Virgie Cost, F. J. Little, E. C. Traywick, and Posie Cleckler. Oranist were; Mrs. Annie Robinson, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon, and Miss Willie Mae Crawford. This Society will meet at Mineral Springs next Sunday, November 1, don't forget the time and place and let us make it a real singing.—Secretary.

Mrs. Julius Reynolds and children of Greenville visited Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds Sunday.

Walnut Creek News

We had a splendid Sunday school Sunday. There were not as many present as there were last Sunday, but the interest was unusually good.

A short business session was held and the following were elected as teachers for the ensuing year: Adult Class, I. P. Kennedy; Young Peoples Class, Opal Lynch; Intermediate Class, Mrs. Aberdeen Coggins; Primary Class, Mrs. T. L. Mims.

We feel like the teachers are going to do their part in trying to keep the Sunday school interesting and in good working order, but we know that they will have to have the cooperation of the others in order to do this, so let's increase our interest and each one do their best and we will continue to have a good Sunday school.

The interest in our Christian Endeavor is increasing greatly. A business meeting was held on last Sunday night and the following were elected: R. E. Powell, president; J. J. Johnson, vice president; Mrs. Aberdeen Coggins, corresponding secretary, and Reese Baker, secretary and treasurer. The same committees were re-elcted with a few minor changes.

The gentlemen put on a very interesting program on last Sunday night. Their subject being "How Is Our Country Helping and Hindering the Spiritual Growth of Other Countries." We are very proud to see the boys and men who have not been taking any active part heretofore taking a part now and we hope they will continue to do so after the contest closes.

We were very glad to have so many visitors with us and we welcome them and others to come any and every time they can.

The ladies' subject for discussion next Sunday night will be: "What Jesus Teaches About Faith In God." They are planning an interesting program and cordially invite all who can to be present.

J. L. SMITH FAVORS KEEPING FARM AGENT

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to express myself in behalf of the County Agent. Personally, I don't see how I could get along without him. I have had the services of a county agent for nearly 20 years, and I always find one a great help. I don't see how one could object to a county agent.

Chilton County is an agricultural county and the farmers need help with their problems. If the farmers suffer the merchants suffer, and if the farmers prosper the marchants prosper.

Before we got a County Agent we could not grow peaches. If we put them out they would soon die. Since we have a County Agent we grow more peaches than we know what to do with. The value of the County Agent cannot be estimated in dollars and cents.

If there ever was a time the farmers need help with their problems it is now. I have heard several say that the county agent makes quite a bit from the store the Farm Bureau is running. I happen to be a director of the Farm Bureau and I know he does not make one penny out of it. It belongs to the members of the Farm Bureau and Mr. Stapp gives his services just like he does his other services. I don't think he gets enough for his services. He is going all the time, his expenses are heavy.

Now let us one and all lay all prejudice aside and go to the polls November the 3rd and settle this question once and for always. If we discontinue the county agent we will be sorry of it, for what we sow we shall surely reap. If we do away with the county agent, we will have no one to go to with our problems, and I think we have the best one in the State. I would not be willing to exchange him for no one I know. He is always on the job.

The Drouth Relief could not have gotten help from the government if we had not had a county agent, for it had to come through him.

In many ways he is a help to us. This is a serious matter when we begin to think of doing away with him. Let's not do it!—J. L. SMITH.

FEDERAL AID LOST IF BONDS DEFEATED

Adoption of Highway Amendment Tuesday Would Give Employment to Thousands.

Adoption of the good roads bond issue amendment on Tuesday, November 3, will settle one of the two major problems now agitating the people of this state. The highway problem can be settled by the voters at this election. The school deficit can only be corrected by the legislature.

Let's settle these questions as we come to them!

The voters will not help the schools by defeating the only measure offered to save and improve the roads.

The argument that the voters can "help the schools by wasting the roads" is a childish argument, from sources which are neither childish nor guileless.

Bad roads and unemployed patrons are two handicaps to public education which the $25,000,000 road bond issue will help to relieve. This is the only large measure pending for the relief of unemployment, which is acute all over Alabama.

Citizens could pay their taxes, including the school levies, if the highway money from the sale of bonds and the $14,000,000 of federal aid money was released and put to work in this state through the adoption of the road bond issue next Tuesday. The school teachers would be directly benefitted by the expenditure of this money for building and improving highways.

Alabama's highway system stands alone. It is not financially associated with or dependent on any other branch of the state government. It has its own state and federal funds which are not subject to any other use except for improvement and maintenance of roads.

The school teachers would not be one dollar better off is the amendment is defeated.

Alabama's obligations on account of previous good roads amendments are all being met when due and the state's credit is good. The state can borrow money on its authorized securities at a low rate of interest; probably cheaper than ever before or at any future time. This year, Governor Miller was able to borrow $5,000,000 on his mere promise that the money would be repaid when the tax money for the fiscal year came into the treasury.

The greatest piece of preventable extravagance in Alabama at this time is that of permitting more than 2,000 miles of heavily-traveled state roads, already built and surfaced with clay-sand, chert or gravel to wash away and blow away for want of hard-surface paving. Excess cost of poor maintenance and deterioration of these unpaved roads cause an annual loss to the people of the state variously estimated at between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The policy for starving both roads and schools to force through new and strange revenue measures on an unwilling legislature and a questioning public is a conspiracy against the welfare of the people of Alabama.

Are you going to let them get away with a scheme to block all progress in this state with a false economy?

The same forces that have been trying for years to take from the poorer counties their share of the two-cent gas tax, now equally divided into 67 parts and used in as many counties for their lateral roads, are now opposing that feature of the pending highway bond issue which guarantees to every county at least $275,000 of the road bond issue money, if the amendment is adopted.

This is the new feature of the bond issue to be voted on next Tuesday. All counties must share alike, regardless of their wealth or political power. This is as it should be. Many of the poorest counties have the largest road mileage, and their roads are used by trucks and other motor vehicles transacting the business of the richest counties.

In a recent statement advocating the bond issue, Judge Luther Liles, of Anniston, vice-president of the Bankhead Highway Association and chairman of the Good Roads Committee, for the amendment, said, in part:

"There will be available to the State of Alabama during the present administration, including the $1,300,000 of flood relief, and approximately 2,000,000 of federal aid already available, $13,900,000. This money must be matched by state funds. Otherwise it will revert to the federal treasury. The legislature authorized the submission of a $25,000,000 bond issue which will be voted on by the people of Alabama on November 3. The bond issue is to be financed by a one-cent tax on gasoline, is sufficient."

The alternative is either an addition 3½ cent gas tax (which the legislature may refuse to levy) or worse still—no paving and, soon, no roads."

LUTHER B. LILES, Chairman.

MRS. GEO. WYATT ENTERTAINS

Mrs. George Wyatt entertained the members of the Round Dozen Sewing Club last Thursday afternoon. Delightful refreshments were served to the following members: Mesdames Joe Mims, Eugene Gore, Marvin Retherford, Albert Davis, Webb Parrish, Jean Wyatt and the hostess.

J. Z. MIMS URGES PEOPLE TO REGISTER

Dear Editor:

Just a small space in your columns to say that there appears to be a great number of young men and women who have become 21 years of age since the Registrars met and I take this means to insist that they come and register this week if possible. If you cannot come to Clanton this week see when they will be in your beat and meet them there. Remember it does not cost anything to register but you cannot become a legal voter without registering.

Register now without fail, and pay your poll tax later that you may be allowed a voice in the governing affairs of your county, state and nation. Next year is presidential election year and we will all want to vote then, but we must make the necessary preparations now.

Let me say again, come and register now before it is too late. There are some who have moved in from other counties and need to register even though they registered in the county from which they came. Register now and get your transfer from the other county and be ready to vote. There are many important questions coming up all along that every citizen should express themselves on at the ballot box.—Yours very truly, J. Z. MIMS.

AN ORDINANCE

To levy a tax of five mills on each dollar's worth of taxable property and on all subjects of taxation liable therefor within the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, for the tax year 1931, and to provide for the assessing and collecting of said taxes.

Be it ordained by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, as follows:

SECTION ONE—

There is hereby levied a tax of five mills on each dollar's worth of property and on all subjects of taxation within the corporate limits of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, for the tax year of 1931, which are not by law exempt from taxation. Said tax is levied for the purpose of raising revenue with which to pay legal obligations and expenses heretofore created or which may be hereinafter created by the said Town of Clanton, Alabama.

SECTION TWO—

Tho Town Clerk of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, be and he is hereby directed to make the assessment of said taxes. Said assessment to be made as provided by Article 31 of the Political Code of Alabama, 1923, upon the completion of the assessment, the Clerk of the said Town is hereby directed to return the assessment to the Town Council, which shall thereupon give ten days notice by publication in some newspaper published in the Town of Clanton, Alabama, that the assessment has been completed and that the Council will hear and determine objections thereto upon a day not more than thirty days from the date on which said notice was directed to be made.

Read, adopted and approved this the 23rd day of October, 1931.

WE ALWAYS LEAD — THE LEADER, MANAGER, M. LANDE — WE ALWAYS LEAD

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E Norton, Manager)

Building homes in Thorsby is one of the chief activities in the town at present. Edward Howard has so far completed his new house near that of his father, that the family are moving in this week. Just one block south of this, John Childress has well under way a new home for his family, and Ben Davenport, whose home was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago has lumber on the ground and will begin rebuilding at once. His son, Eugene, also is planning to build on the same tract of land, but facing the highway.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lucas, who have been spending several months visiting kinfolks and old friends at and around Flint, Michigan, returned to their home in Thorsby, last Sunday afternoon, having come by auto, accompanied by their son-in-law, Clarence Mills, with his wife and baby, whe will stay here a few weeks before returning to their home.

Mr. Lucas is in good health, and looks it, says he never had such a good time in all his life, visiting old time friends, fishing, camping, among and with folks he had not seen since coming to Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Amundsen, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Davidson, of Evanston Ill., arrived Tuesday morning. Mrs. Davidson will return to her home within a few days, but Mr. and Mrs. Amundsen expect to remain several months, as they have done each year for some time. As usual they will occupy a part of the M. J. Soberg home, with Miss Alta Each as her assistant.

Miss Lorena Primm has taken a position as assistant to Mrs. Nels Petterson, in the care of her house and children. Nobody can afford to be idle in these times, if they can get anything to do, and it is greatly to the credit of these fine young ladies that they are willing to take such positions, which they will no doubt honor, and set a good example to others who would hesitate to do the same thing. They have been taught to recognize, the dignity of labor.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Evans, of Hackleburg, spent a few days last week with, Mr. and Mrs. C.M. Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray visited friends in Prattville, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, of Clanton, and Mrs. Relious Franklin, with little Peggy Mims, of Thorsby, spent Monday in Birmingham.

Dr. S. L. Adams, of Tampa Fla., returning from the Dental Convention at Memphis, called on the Each family, old friends, last Saturday.

Congregational Ladies Aid Society meets with Mrs. Burt Higgins next week, Thursday, Nov. 5, all invited.

At the Congregational Church, at 7:15 next Sunday night, Rev. Each will give another lecture, with Stereopticon pictures. This time it will be about China, a land and people just now very much in the spot light of world news nad activities. As these lectures are for missionary purposes, there will be an offering for that purpose, and to cover cost of getting the pictures.

Anderson Marcus is reported to be very ill at his home in Thorsby.

Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Puckett, and Mrs. Hernandees, all of Birmingham, called enroute to visit Mrs. N. Laurell and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell, while returning from Eastern Star Convention at Montgomery.

Mrs. Ola Kelley, of Thorsby spent Sunday with her son, at Prattville Junction.

Mrs. R. D. Gibbons of Prattville Junction, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Scott, in Thorsby.

Mr. Kenneth Barr, of Birmingham, and Miss Lucille Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard of Thorsby, were married several days ago, without giving any notice to her parents, the couple are making their home in or near Birmingham, where we understand Mr. Barr is employed in a garage.

A CARD OF THANKS

Since it is impossible for us to individually thank nearly 500 people of Thorsby and vicinity, who gave us an opportunity to serve them in any way, by visiting our store, either as customers or guests, on our opening day last Saturday, we greatly appreciate presence, purchases, and expression of good will and wil do our best to prove worthy of it.

Sincerely yours,
Thorsby Drug Company.

Miss Naemi Turnquist, who is employed by a bank in Selma, has been in poor health for some time, is taking a week's rest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Carl R. Peterson, at Fairfield, with whom she spent the week end in Thorsby, says she is so much inproved that she will return to work next week.

Mrs. and Mrs. Burt Higgins had as dinner guests on Friday, Mrs. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, and Mrs. John R. Boyd.

Mrs. Jahn R. Boyd left by bus, on Monday morning for Columbus Ohio, to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. H. L. Bogen.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Higgins was called to Montgomery on Monday, on account of illness of a 6 year old grandson.

There will be a Hallowe'en party held at the public school auditorium on next Friday night at 7 o'clock. A short play will be given by the fourth and fifth grades. The admission will be free, and there will be several other attractions for the audience to enjoy.

The teachers are making a strenuous effort to get every pupil who is due to be in this school enrolled by the end of this week. Almost every one is in now, and the enrollment has reached almost two hundred.

There has been a drive on through the school for a collection of clothes and books, so that the unfortunate pupils might enter school. The pupils have responded to this movement with an admirable spirit.

Mr. Bean and Mr. Johnson, teachers in the high school department, carried their boys on an oppossum hunt last Friday night. There were thirty four boys in the squad to enjoy the events.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Harris, of De Funiak Springs, Fla., spent Saturday night with their aunt, Mrs. Harper. They were on their way to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Cross and little daughter, and Miss Lillian Fitzpatrick, of Ensley, spent Monday witn Mr. and Mrs. Harper.

Miss Hattie Davenport spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport.

The W. M. U. met at the church Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Burt Higgins spent Sunday with her daughter, in Deatsville.

Miss Julia Pratt Johnson entertained a small number of her friends last Saturday night at her home, those attending were; Misses Jewel Lawson,Roma Sterling, Master Ivor Edwin,and Quinton Johnson, Ernest Robinson, Arnold Lawson, and Norwood Johnson Jr.

Mr. Otis Robinson, of Adamsville has improved sufficently to return to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Robinson, in Thorsby.

He has Been sick with typhoid fever for more than five weeks, his many friends hope to see him well again soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Reagan motored to Prattville Sunday, and enjoyed hearing Bro. Graham preach.

A suprise party was given in honor of Mrs. C. R. Foss, Monday night, the occasionbeing her birthday. A purse was tendered to her in appreciation for music rendered at Lutheran church services. About 45 persons at the Foss home enjoyed special music by, Mrs. Foss and Miss Ruth Peterson, of Birmingham. Delicious refreshments and a pleasant social time.

Come to the oyster dinner Tuesday, November 3 at Bently's new building, next to the city hall. You will be in town any way that day to vote, so why not celebrate the victory of your convictions by setting yourself and family up to hot, golden brown, fried oysters, or some delicious stew? or you may have them raw if you prefer.

The young people of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute are practising for the operetta, Christiania of Greenland, to be given Saturday night, November 14. Save that date. Admission for all not teachers or pupils at the Institute, will be 25 cents for adults, and 15 cents for children

Term tests will be given at Thorsby Institute, Thursday and Friday, of this week. A new term will begin next Monday.

Miss Helen C. Jenkins, accompanied her mother to LaGrange, .Ga. where she spent the week end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins.

The Christian Endeavor met last Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. The leaders were; Miss Lorena Primm, and Mrs. Carrie Smith. The topic discussed was, How is our Country Helping and Hindering the Spiritual Growth of other Countries? After a few brief discussions of the topic the leaders gave reports of the convention which they attended at Millbrook. This was very interestingly told. It made us feel as if we had attended the meetings at Millbrook also.

The worship service of Sunday evening was very impressive. It was motivated by the convention.

Next Sunday night the Missionary Committee will be in charge of a program on China. This meeting will be followed by a stereoptican picture and a lecture on China by the pastor, Rev. Each. The public is cordially invited to listen in on us at any convenient time, and join us if you can do so.

Mrs. Cohen Stapp spent Sunday with her parents at Fernbank, Ala.

FAVORS RETAINING STAPP

Mr. M. F. Jones of the Lime Springs community on Clanton Route 5, was in Clanton Saturday afternoon. He visited The Union-Banner office and asked us to say a few words for him in behalf of retaining the services of Mr. Stapp for county farm demonstration agent. Among other things Mr. Jones said:

"I believe that the people are going to keep Mr. Stapp, and I feel positive that it will be the best thing they can do; however, I wish you would tell the folks that it is my opinion that we as farmers cannot at all afford to do without the services of a farm agent. I could cite a number of instances where Mr. Stapp has saved me money on the purchase of fertilizer, feed, etc. I was able to buy oats last year at 50 cents a sack cheaper from the farm bureau than I could from any other place. I do not want to do any thing that will hurt the business of the merchants, for they are our friends and we cannot do without them; but we farmers have got to look out for our own interests. And at the present, we cannot do anything that will help us more than vote for our county commissioners to retain Mr. Stapp.

"Mr. Stapp gave me one small piece of advice this spring that saved me at least fifty bushels of corn. What the farmers need to do is vote to keep Mr. Stapp and then put him to use. Ask him about your farm problems, keep him busy day in and day out, and make him earn his money that the county and government pays him. He is here for us to use, is paid for that purpose, and if we use him, it will be greatly to our advantage. So I say again, vote in favor of the demonstration agent on November 3."

SAYS BOND ISSUE WILL BE DEFEATED TUESDAY

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 27.—Informed opinion, not only in capitol corridors but in all circles conversant with the political trend in Montgomery, is agreed that the contitutional amendment proposing issuance of $25,000,000 in highway bonds will be defeated at the polls on November 3, for two reasons:

1—Because Governor Miller stedfastly refuses to take the people into his confidence in selecting a superintendent of the highway department, over which Capt. L. G. Smith has presided temporarily since the present administration came into office, and

2—Because the taxpayers, hit as never before in the memory of the oldest citizen by depression, are not willing to burden themselves with additional taxes when they cannot meet their actual living expenses without scrimping, and when the state's financial situation is befogged by contradictory statements from those in charge of Alabama's government.

Despite the fact that the legislative act under which the bond election is called provides that each county shall receive a definite amount of the money from the bonds for use within its borders, there is a growing belief that as long as Gov. Miller refuses to make any announcement as to his choice of a highway chief, it is possible that W. F. Feagin, head of the board of administration, will indirectly come into control of highway affairs, as he has already exerted a dominant influence over appointments and policies of the Miller administration, a situation the people of Alabama endure with deep resentment.

As for the second reason for opposition to the bonds, it is felt that without some foreknowledge of the state's actual financial condition, and a thorough audit of state debts which will reveal without contravention the total debts owed by the state, it would be like sending good money after bad to open the state's credit for $25,000,000 more indebtedness.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bialas returned to their home in Birmingham after the week end spent with their mother, Mrs. Anna Thacker.

WEST CHILTON

How dry the weather is. Some wells are failing. Streams are low. But last Saturday there was some rain at Boothton and in the neighborhood of Randolph.

It appears that the people of this section are intending to vote to retain the service of County Agent Stapp. But like the "Man on the Corner," we believe they will go against the bond issue.

Had a good singing at Freeman Sunday afternoon. Mr. W. B. Cooper and wife and Mr. J. M. Williams of the Southern part of the county were welcome visitors. The directing was done by Messrs. Scott, Armstrong, Eskew, Cooper, Cofer, and Williams.

Mr. Pratt Crumpton made a business trip to Boothton Saturday.

Had an entertainment Saturday night at Mr. Tillery's. Music by the Dawson Band. Some arriving at a late hour, we presume due to getting lost en route.

Rev. Mr. Dyer, pastor at Union Springs, was a welcome visitor at Freeman Sunday afternoon. He preached at Union Springs Sunday night on the "Stringegncy of the Times," telling to a minute when the depression will be lifted.

Rev. and Mrs. Scott and Mr. Glass of Jemison were visitors at Union Springs Sunday night.

This is a time for gratitude. Just see how much we have to be grateful for. Everything is tending to ultimate victory for the right. Good people should be busy singing the praise of the supreme one whose armies are going to triumph. Rifts in the cloud cheer us onward. Deliverance is sure.

URGES SUPPORT OF BOND ISSUE

Franklin County Man Wants People to Support State Measure In Election November 3

J. M. Clark, of Russellville, Franklin County, in a letter to The Union-Banner, points out some important facts which he believes should move the people of Alabama to support the $25,000,000 bond issue in the election of November 3. He says:

"Do the people of your county want paved highways? There will be no paved highways without a bond issue. For the first time in the history of bond issues in Alabama, the smallest counties have a chance to get some paving. This issue with its $275,000 to each county, becomes a part of the Constitution of Alabama, and no one can take it from us. Applied to Federal Aid roads it means an added dollar for each of the $275,000 given by the Federal government. Would a half million dollars spent in your county help the unemployment situation? Business and professional men are having a hard time. Would not the expenditure of a half million dollars be a boon to everybody? To get it costs no man a penny except he buys gas and paved roads will save more pennies on gas than the one cent tax will ever amount to.

"Today practically all the larger counties have mile after mile of paved roads. Unless the smaller county is fortunate enough to be located on some prominent highway, there is but little or no paving. Personally, I am proud of every foot of paving we have in the state, but I now want a bit of it nearer home.

"There are two things in this call for bond election that particularly appeal to me. One is that it provides for no back payments and the other is that it assures my county, Franklin, of $275,000. And no man can allot it somewhere else. If the State Highway Department owes any county for money borrowed I am perfectly willing it should be paid, but, let us all get on the same footing as that county first. They loaned that money for their own benefit and if they will help me out of the mud I will help to repay them.

"If the bond issue does not carry, what then?

"Governor Miller is opposed to the bonds. He said in his Birmingham speech that he wants a large gas tax; three and one-half cents, he has stated for road building. Most of those who heard him in that speech gathered that what he wanted really, was a three and a half cent gas tax for the support of the convict department. Incidentally, of course, he would build with that tax some roads. Even so, neither Franklin County or your county has any assurance that any of it would be spent here. And if that maintenance falls back on the counties, will not it take all their present gas tax money? If so, they cannot continue to build local or neighborhood roads. Very strong efforts have already been made to take from the counties their gas tax. If the Governor gets his three and a half cents tax through, will not the counties' gas tax be taken from them and all of it go direct to the State Highway Deparment? That seems the course they are trying to put over. Authorities say that paved roads will lessen the maintenance costs one-third. That is economy.

The people should think seriously before they cast their vote on November 3rd."

COMMISSIONERS CALL ELECTION ON COUNTY AGENT

Editor Union-Banner:

The Court of County Commissioners have been requested by some citizens and taxpayers of the county to give the voters an opportunity to say whether or not the work now being conducted by the Farm Demonstration Agent shall be continued.

It was at the request of citizens of the county that money was appropriated and Mr. Stapp was employed to carry on this work, and the Commissioners Court in justice to themselves, on account of the unusual conditions now existing, would like to have an expression from the people.

The Court is anxious to be governed by the will of the people in all matters of a public nature, and consequently are making it possible for each voter to express his opinion either for or against the continuation of this work.

On November 3, 1931, a state election has been called to determine whether or not $25,000,000.00 bond shall be issued for road purposes, and each voter will be given a ballot which he may vote for or against the continuation of this work.

We assure the voters that the Commissioners Court will abide by the will of the majority of the voters.

Respectfully,

L. H. REYNOLDS,
Judge of Probate.

J. E. COBB,
J. M. MIMS,
J. L. BURNETT,

Ruling on U. S. Tax Levy Of 1886 Sought by States

Resolution In Congress To Ask Supreme Court For Its Opinion

Washington, Oct. 20.—A determined effort to press through Congress a resolution requesting the Supreme Court to pass upon the constitutionality of direct taxes collected by the federal government immediately after the War Between the States is to be made in the next session by Representatives James W. Collier, of Mississippi, Senator Stephens, of the same state, will handle similar legislation in the Senate, which already one time has passed the resolution as sponsored by him.

More than $200,000,000 was collected by the federal government from these direct taxes in 1866-67-68. Should the Supreme Court declare the taxes to have been unconstitutional, Mississippi would receive a refund of more than $8,700,000; Tennessee, $7,000,000; Arkansas, $4,500,000; Alabama $6,000,000, and 41 other states also would be entitled to refunds of various sums.

"It is in no sense a sectional or partisan matter," Congressman Collier said in discussing his proposal. "Many prominent Democratic and Republican members of the House are for the resolution. Nine Southern, three border and 14 Northern states have by legislative and executive action asked for the return of these taxes. Among the Northern states are found California, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Oregon and Utah. The border states are West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri, while the Southern states are Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

"The resolution provides that the constitutionality of these taxes shall be detremined by the Supreme Court, and all defense such as limitations, protest, and other technicalities, shall be waived. No appropriation is sought as that part of the controversy will be the concern of a future Congress in the event that the court holds the tax to be unconstitutional.

"Under the resolution these refunds shall be turned over to the respective states. All proved claims shall be paid and the balance goes to the state. It is believed that few claims will be paid and that the greater part of these refunds will go to the states.

"These taxes included among other items income tax, gross receipts tax, tax on bank deposits and manufacturers and productions'. It is with the tax on manufactures and productions only that we are concerned. Under the head of productions and manufactures there was collected from individuals and corporations in 45 states ad valorem taxes on more than 100 specified articles, including coal, iron, leather, cotton, furniture, clothing, fabrics, etc. But this was not all, for after specifying as far as practical every mined and manufactured article, an omnibus clause was then inserted which provided for this tax on all 'materials not otherwise provided for.'

"The taxes sought to be refunded are direct taxes; they are ad valorem taxes and cannot be made excise taxes simply by calling them so. The federal government can levy a tax on any particular thing; it can levy a tax on tobacco manufactures and can fix the amount ad valorem. That is an excise tax, a tax for the privilege of doing a certain business, but the government cannot put a tax on everything and call it an excise tax.

"The government could levy a tax on the purchasing of a swallow-tail coat or a silk hat, but it could not tax all clothing or all hats, for that would be a direct tax. But these taxes sought to be recovered were levied on over 100 articles mentioned by name, and in addition to this on 'all materials not otherwise provided for.'

"Objection has been made to the state receiving all unclaimed refunds. It is obvious that there would be no prohibition against the state taxing these commodities. The reports show that the federal government taxed them as heavily as the traffic would bear. This would preclude the state from adopting a similar tax. To deny the state the right to recover would be to agree to the proposition that the federal government could, for its own use, unlawfully tax an article so high that the state government would be prohibited from legally taxing that same article for the conduct of its own business.

"A resolution seeking the return of these taxes was introduced by Senator Stephens, of Mississippi, and has passed the Senate. Representative Wood, chairman of the appropriations committee, and Representative Vestal, the Republican whip, have introduced resolutions similar to the one of Senator Stephens.

"The Legislature of the state of Mississippi passed an act directing the attorney general then in office, in behalf of the state to seek to recover these taxes. In pursuance of that legislation, and as I am a member of the committee to which the resolution has been referred, and on which already extensive hearings have been held, I have been requested to represent my state in the House. Senator Stephens again will look after this matter in the Senate.

"All of the Mississippi delegation in both Senate and House are very much interested in this matter and will do all that they can.

"I believe," concluded Mr. Collier, "that when the resolution reaches the floor of the House it will be adopted by a substantial majority."

Verbena High School

(By Senior II English Class)

Verbena plays Holtville in a football game at Verbena on October 30. The boys expect a large crowd of school pupils and others to support them.

The Music Club was organized early in the school year of 1930 by a group of boys with Mr. Hollis Hiten. Several members have joined from outside of the school. The club has put on chapel programs, and in May, 1931, gave a ministrel and contributed $29.50 to the school. The club meets to study and practice music. It meets every Tuesday night at 7:30.

On Thursday night, October 22, The P.-T. A. met at the high school building. Many practical problems were discussed in the meeting.

In that same night the farmers of the vicinity of Verbena held a meeting in regard to the County Farm Demonstration Work, in Chilton County. It is hoped that the county agent's work will continue in Chilton County.

The Shakespearian Society of Verbena High School will render their program Friday afternoon, October 30.

The Mezzofantian Literary Society will meet in the Verbena High School auditorium Friday, October 30, at 2:20 o'clock.

IS SILENCE GOLDEN? NOT AT $3.12 A WORD

Silence may be golden, but Thomas McAvity, who recently received $25 for saying just eight words during a broadcast of the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra, is very much inclined to doubt it. The whole country got excited when it learned how much Calvin Coolidge was to be paid for each word he wrote. And Al Smith isn't doing so badly when he puts his pen to paper. But Mr. McAvity with a talking average of $3.12 per word, with no penalties for commas, semi-colons, or pauses, steps into an expensive class by himself.

Among the popular features of the Lucky Strike programs are the unusual and colorful announcements which often take the form of scenes in the tobacco industry; scenes in the Southern tobacco fields, scenes in the foreign tobacco marts in Turkey, etc. In rehearsing the Southern Tobacco Auction scene recently it was discovered that Mr. McAvity, who isn't an announcer at all, but the "Production Manager," (not unlike the stage director in the theatre) of the Lucky Strike Program, had just the right quality in his voice for one line in the dialogue. Mr. McAvity much to his surprise, was elected, and told to learn: "The Finest Tobacco, the Cream of the Crop." Mr. McAvity found later, on weighing his words, and dividing the answer into his check for twenty-five dollars, that each word had netted him the very comfortable sum of $3.12.

Mr. McAvity is now out looking for the misguided soul who started the rumor that "Silence is Golden."

Some Interesting Data Concerning Activities of Demonstration Agent

What Has the County Agent Done for the Average Farmer of Chilton County and the Cost of Such Service to the Individual Farmer?

(By Guy H. de Shazo)

To the Voters of Chilton County:

With the kind indulgence of the editor of The Banner, I take this method of bringing to your attention some of the things which Mr. Stapp has accomplished and the cost of such services to the farmers of this county as individuals based on the dollars paid by the farmers in taxes and the percentage of the County Agent's salary paid by each farmer.

Since the commissioner announced a few weeks ago that they would submit the question of continuation of the County Agent's work to the people on next Tuesday, there has come to my attention considerable argument both pro and con on the matter. With those whom I have been privileged to hear express themselves as opposide to the Agent, their chief bone of contention is that it is costing too much to continue the work—that taxes are too high and that this work should be discontinued. It is also a noticeable fact that a goodly number of those opposed to the work and who are insisting that it should be stopped pay no taxes whatever. Then there is another group who say that Mr. Stapp has never helped them any or been to their place. To these let me ask this question: Have you ever been to Mr. Stapp and asked that he visit your farm or assist you in solving some farm problem, or to help you plan a more easy way to make a living on the farm? My guess is that you have not. The records of Mr. Stapp show that in the four years he has been in Chilton County he has made 2,645 visits to farmers and farms to assist in solving some problem of farm work which was perplexing that individual. If he has not driven to your place, walked a mile or so to the back side of your field to ask you if he could help you, you have no one to blame but yourself. Judging from the number of visits to farms he has made, he has been too busy assisting those who wanted help and were seeking it, to take time running around begging those farmers, who by their indifference and failure to ask for help or advice, have shown plainly that they were not interested in a better method of living and farming, to let him do something for them. Also in this group who claim no benefits from the county agent are those who are deriving these benefits in an indirect manner. In most every community in Chilton County there are one or more farmers who are outstanding in their farm operations, who are, to say the least, successful farmers. Go where you may and pick these farmers out and you will find they have been seeking and making use of advice from the county agent's office. In this same community you will find the fellow who has nothing to do with the County Agent, but patterns his farm operations after Mr. Jones or Mr. Brown or Mr. Smith as the case may be. These farmers are in somewhat the same class as the fellow who belongs to the church and goes year in and year out, reaps the benefits of the church and the preaching, yet contributes nothing to the support of the institution. Mr. Farmer, if you are guilty of borrowing your farming methods from the neighbor who is being advised by the county agent, think this over and then step out and give credit where credit is due.

During the entire time Mr. Stapp has been in the county, the writer has had only one occasion to ask for his services on the farm. But this one visit was well worth more to me than the small percentage of his salary the taxes from my place would pay in ten or maybe 15 years.

Coming down to the salary paid the county agent by the county, let us examine the records and see just how this stands. The writer has looked into the matter of taxes, the amount collected and the amounts paid Mr. Stapp and here is what I find: During the four years that Mr. Stapp has been in the county up to date, the Commissioners court has contributed $6,578.50. In round numbers there has been collected for all purposes in Chilton County during this same period a total of $1,136,000 in taxes. Of this sum the corporations doing business and owning property in the county have paid approximately $683,100, leaving only $452,900 paid by farmers and farm owners. This shows that out of every tax dollar the farmers of the county have paid, only the very insignificant sum of 5.8 mills goes to the county agent work. To put this in plain everyday money, it means that out of every ten dollars of taxes paid in, Mr. Stapp has received the staggering sum of a little less than six cents for four years work. At this rate, the man whose taxes has averaged say $10 dollars a year has contributed just a little more than a measley nickel to help carry on the work of the county agent ecah year. Don't take my figures for it, get out your own pencil and paper and figure it out for yourself.

Now since we have found out what our county agent has cost us each year, let's see if we can find out how much he has been worth to us on just a few things. Let us examine the matter of partixn amine the matter of fertilizer just a moment. To refresh your memory I am quoting in full here a circular letter whcih I received from Mr. Stapp relative to fertilizer early this spring. The letter follows:

"Dear Sir:

"We are having a large number of inquiries now about the prige of fertilizers. In order to comply with promises made in my last letter to help every way I could with the fertilizer situation this year, I am giving the following information for what it may be worth to you.

"The following are prevailing carlot prices off the car at present: Nitrate of soda, $45.75 per ton; muriate of potash, $43.00 per ton; 16 per cent acid phosphate, $13.05 per ton; 8-3-5 mixed goods, $21.50 per ton; 11 2½-3 mixed goods, $21.00 per ton; 12-3-5 mixed goods, $23.90 per ton.

"There has been approximately a twenty-five per cent reduction in the price of mixed fertilizers and acid phosphate during the past three weeks. This reduction in price, of course, makes it possible for you to figure a little more profit from the use of fertilizer than I indicated in my last letter.

"Again let me call your attention to the importance of using a better variety of cotton seed than most farmers of Chilton County are using.

"I also wish to call to your attention the importance of producing plenty food and feed crops this year, and get ready to have something to live on next year.

"Trusting this letter will be of value to you, I am, yours very truly,

"C. E. STAPP, County Agent."

Now most of my readers will remember that the common "cotton" guano—the 8-3-5 analysis—was being quoted by local dealers at the beginning of the season at $28 per ton. Immediately following the circulation of the above letter by Mr. Stapp, these same dealers met the prices above shown. This meant on this particular analysis guano, the farmers were saved $6.50 per ton on the cash price. I am not able to give the figures on the number of tons of fertilizer used in the county this year, but I will venture the assertion that this saving alone would amount to sufficient money to pay Mr. Stapp or any other county agent we might have for ten years. Then we may consider the added price which was secured for poultry through the efforts of Mr. Stapp in bringing the poultry cars to the county and the cooperative marketing of poultry. Several thousand dollars were undoubtedly placed in the pockets of the farmers of Chilton County as a result of these poultry cars, which they would not have received had they been forced to depend on the local market or ship individually to the commission merchant.

Then again, I have heard complaints relative to Mr. Stapp's activities in connection with the work of the Farm Bureau. The Federal and State Departments of Agriculture, who are backing the work of the county agents, approve of the collaboration of the two agencies, and since these departments pay the majority by far of the expense of the county agent, it would seem that since they sanction this coalition between the office of the County Agent and the Farm Bureau, that the poor farmer whom both are trying to help, should certainly have no kick coming.

Also consider the many thousands of dollars which have been poured into the purses of the farmers of this county from the sale of strawberries. This has been largely made possible through the untiring efforts of Mr. Stapp and the Farm Bureau working in harmony with the various trucking associations of the county. Then again on the other hand, we have heard expressions like this: "Why, I bought my soda and seed oats from Mr. ..... for fifty cents less than I could have gotten them from The Bureau." Mr. Farmer, have you ever taken time to wonder why this is possible in some instances? Well, here is why. The individual merchant who is selling fertilizer and seeds in competition to the Farm Bureau would like to see The Bureau outlawed. You had evidence of this fact when some of Chilton County's most prominent merchants were identified with the effort to get the Craft Bill through the legislature last spring. They sell lower than the Bureau in an effort to break it. But, listen to this. Where do you suppose prices of some of these commodities would go if there was no agency to hold them in check. In this respect alone, the Bureau is a very valuable asset to many a farmer in Chilton County who has never spent one dime at the Bureau store.

Now, in conclusion, let me say to the voters of Chilton County, the majority of whom are farmers, to stop and think for yourselves a little—don't let someone else do your thinking for you and tell you how you should vote on this question next Tuesday. Sit down in front of your fire place, put on a good back stick and think this matter over seriously and do a little figuring along the lines I have endeavored to show you in this article, then forget that measley nickel you have felt so hurt over having to pay on the salary of the county agent, come to town Saturday and pay a visit to the office of Mr. Sapp and invite him out to your place to tell you the best way to get your pig to fatten or your old hens to lay more eggs, and my guess is that he will greet you cordially whether you are a well-to-do land owner or the poorest tenant in the county.

Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for Mr. Stapp or rather the retention of the county agent regardless of what you do about Mr. Miller and his big bond issue.

B. LAWRENCE OFFERS AN EXPLANATION OF SCHOOL MUDDLE STATE IS INTO

In order that the public may understand the present school situation as far as possible, I am giving excerpts from a letter written by Dr. A. F. Harman, State Superintendent of Education, to Hon. S. H. Blan on October 21:

Honorable S. H. Blan
State Treasurer
Montgomery, Alabama.

My Dear Mr. Blan:

"In my opinion, your statement to Governor B. M. Miller, in your letter of October 17 in regard to educational funds is misleading. Funds for public education are of such great importance and interest to the people of the state that, as State Superinendent of Education, I feel jusified in requesting you to make without delay a more completely detailed statement in such undestanding terms as will reveal to the public the true situation.

"For illustration, your statement leaves the impression that payments have been made by the State to the various county and city boards of education and other boards of control, in excess of the actual amounts due by the State to these boards for educational purposes. Have you not completely overlooked or disregarded the fact that the total appropriations for educational purposes for the year ending September 30, 1931 amounted to more than $12,250,000 and that any unpaid part of these appropriations is a just and legal charge against the general revenues of the State?

"Is it not true that the excess payments for each and every year shown in your statement to the Governor were made in every case in accordance with legislative appropriations and were a just and legal charge against the general revenues of the State? You are doubtless aware that legislative appropriations for various educational purposes made prior to 1927 amounting annually to more than $2,500,00 have never been a charge against any special educational trust fund or other revenues specifically raised for educational purposes. Contrary to the inference to be drawn from your statement, these appropriations according to legislative mandate have always been paid from the general revenues of the State. They are not excess payments as indicated by you and could not legally have been paid from other revenues specifically raised for educational purposes.

Are not the outstanding unpaid warrants for the year ending September 30, 1931, amounting to $3,372,187.53 according to your statement, evidence of the fact that educational appropriations have not been ment as 'total payments to public paid according to the law?

"May I ask what part of the $7,992,058.01 reported in your statesihools and educational institutions and for departmental expenses and other educational activities during the year ending September 30, 1931 (not including payments of prior years' warrants),' is represented by certificated warrants? Is it not true that a substantial part of the $7,992,058.01 reported by you as payments is, in effect, an outstanding loan which so far has not been paid from receipts for educational purposes reported by you as amounting to $5,715,125.48? If it is true that this loan has not been paid from receipts as reported by you, then should you not inform the public as to what disposition has been made of the difference between the receipts shown and the amounts actually paid out from specific school funds? Will any part of the revenues for educational purposes for the year 1931-32 be devoted to liquidating the aforesaid loan as represented by certificated warrants or to meeting unpaid appropriations for the year ending September 30, 1931?

"You will recall, that you have not replied to my letter to you of September 28 requesting an itemized statement of the Alabama Educational Trust Fund for the year ending September 30, 1931, showing the amount derived from each source of receipts as set out in Section 2 of the Revenue Act of 1927 and the amount expended for each appropriated fund as set out in House Bill No. 318 of the 1927 Legislature. I hope that you may yet find time to supply this information as requested. The information is necessary to clarify the whole situation."

(Signed) A. F. Harman, State Superintendent of Education.

Another interesting item appeared in the Alabama Journal under date of Tuesday, October 20, 1931. This article was headed: "Blan admits schools paid only one-third of state trust fund." One paragraph of this article reads as follows:

"Although approximately $678,000 has been collected for the trust fund since the new fiscal year began October 1, State Treasurer S. H. Blan estimated that not more than $288,000 of this money has been disbursed for school purposes and that the rest has been used in paying warrants of other departments of the state government."

I hope that the patrons and citizens of the county are keeping up with the situation as is found in the daily press. The Alabama Journal has given daily about all the information available in so far as I have been able to ascertain. The County Board of Education can make no promises as to how long we shall be able to operate our schools unless the money due us from the State of Alabama is paid.

I remind you again of the fact that we have about $17,000 due us from last year's appropriations. If this amount is added to the appropriations for this year we will have upwards of $90,000 due us from the State of Alabama. If this money is not forthcoming we cannot operate over one-half year and in fact it will be necessary for us to have some of the money in order to operate a full half year, but it is the intention of the Board to continue the schools for one half year in order that the pupils may be able to receive full credit for that part of the work they do. It is a deplorable situation. Our State Superintendent is doing all that he can do to secure the needed funds but for some reason or other the money it not available from the State Treasury.

I assure you that it will be a pleasure to answer all inquiries or give such information as will enable the county to understand the situation as it is.

Trusting that something may yet happen by which we may be able to get a full term, I am,

Respectfully yours,
B. LAWRENCE,
County Supt. Education.

EMMETT POWELL HAS COME BACK TO CLANTON

After varied experiences of many years that has carried him to different parts of the country while engaged in the printing trade, Mr. Emmett Powell has returned to "the house of his fathers," and taken up his abode in Clanton once more.

He has taken charge of the business of the Powell Pressing Co., which was established by his father, Billy Powell, many years ago. This is, by the way, the first business of the kind that was established in Chilton County.

For the present, Emmett will live in the Gowan Addition of Clanton. In a few months he expects to move to the old home place of his father three miles south of Clanton, on the highway.

Many long years ago Emmett Powell was a devil in The Banner office. From that humble beginning he arose to printer and linotype operator. During the progress of the World War, when the owners of the business went to help Uncle Sam make the world safe for the Democrats, Emmett was left with the bag to hold. He did it in good style and kept the business going while we were away.

Later he followed his trade in Tuscaloosa, Montgomery, Caruthersville, Missouri, Macon, Georgia, finally landing in Decatur, where he has been for several years.

We are glad to welcome him back to Clanton. His many friends in Clanton and throughout Chilton County will be glad to see him. Here is hoping that he finds success sufficient to satisfy in the pressing shop business.

WONDER WHY THIS WAS OVERLOOKED?

The metropolitan newspapers of the country gave a great deal of attention to the stand of the American Legion convention majority on the bonus and beer.

Wonder how it happens that they overlooked the action of the Legion on the League Court and national defense?

A subcommittee of the Detroit convention voted two to one against consideration of a resolution endorsing the League Court. The full committee turned it down by a vote of thirteen to six.

The Legion convention also adopted ringing resolutions in favor of adequate national defense, but some way or other these resolutions were not considered worthy of mention by the reporters covering the meeting, or else they went into the wastebasket before they reached the newspapers of the country.

There is something significantly sinister in this suppression of important news. Is it possible that there are powerful forces in this country which are trying to slip things over on the American people by chloroforming majority sentiment? If so, it may safely be assumed that there is no purpose either honest or patriotic behind such a movement.

Propaganda may consist either in spreading lies or suppressing the truth. European politics has long been familiar with the system of deluding the people by hiding or destroying the facts. We see the result. America is being introduced to these Machiavellian methods employed on a large scale, and utilizing agencies from which the people of the county have a right to expect something better.—Munice, Ind., Evening Press.

The Democrats plan to raise $1,500,000 for the 1932 campaign. Well, that ought to help the situation among the unemployed, if the drive is successful.

FOLLOW THE LAW

If the tax commission of this state had followed the law in assessing the properties of the Alabama Power Company in Coosa and Chilton counties it would not have been necessary to conduct the rehearing which has concluded this week, citizens would not have been put to wholly unnecessary expense in efforts to defend their rights, and the present state administration would not have put another blot on its record.

The law has not been followed in the assessment of the properties of the Alabama Power Company for taxation in this state. S. R. Butler, the state tax commissioner, has admitted that these properties have been assessed at only 45 per cent of their value. The law requires a 60 per cent assessment. It was stated at the hearing in Montgomery that Mr. Butler's statement that he had assessed Power company properties at 45 per cent because other properties were assessed at that rate was incorrect, and that other properties were assessed at legal rate. Tax assessors of both counties made that statement. They probably know more about it than Mr. Butler.

The Constitution of Alabama, in Section 211, provides that "all taxes in this state shall be assessed in exact proportion to the value" of the property, which means that if the law provides for the assessment of property for taxation purposes at 60 per cent of its actual value, and farmers, merchants, manufacturers, home owners and others pay taxes on that basis, then the properties of all other taxpayers, including the properties of the Alabama Power Company, must also be assessed at 60 per cent of their actual value, and that taxes must be paid upon this basis. Section 217 of the same article of the Alabama Constitution also declares that "the property of private corporations, associations and individuals of this state shall be forever taxed at the same rate." If some properties are assessed at 60 per cent, obviously these properties are not "taxed at the same rate."

If the farms, homes, business establishments and other properties of Coosa and Chilton counties are assessed at 60 per cent of their value, as the tax assessors have testified, and the properties of the Alabama Power Company are assessed at only 45 per cent of their value, as Tax Commissioner Butler has admitted, then farms, homes, business establishments and other properties in these two counties are paying 15 per cent more in taxes than the power company is paying in these counties.

What can the thoughtful and honest men and women of Alabama think of a state administration that will permit these injustices in the matter of taxation to go uncorrected? What will they think of such flagrant disregard of both the law and the Constitution in these matters? Is Governor Miller's tax commission above and beyond the law, above and beyond the Constitution of this state?

It has been assumed that the tax commissioner is in office to serve the people of this state. The people pay him; he was put in office by Governor Miller who was commissioned by the people to perform that duty, among others equally important, and the people of the state, including the people of Coosa and Chilton counties, have a right to demand, and they do demand, that the governor shoulder his share of responsibility in this tax controversy, and that he take such action as may be necessary to protect the rights of citizens whose pockets are being plundered, and whose faces are being ground, with the consent of the government they are taxed to maintain.

When the Constitution of this state is flouted, when the plain provisions of the law are openly disregarded, and when other abuses are practiced to the hurt of citizens, it is the duty of the governor of this state to abandon a laissez faire attitude toward these evils and the public officials who are responsible for them, and to assume an attitude of aggressiveness in behalf of the law and the rights of citizens who are being oppressed and otherwise outraged.

Legal restraints seem to have become dangerously loose at the capital of Alabama. What has happened to citizens of Coosa and Chilton counties as the result of a tax commissioner's bungling is merely one example. The people of the state will expect Governor Miller to tighten these loose lines and to see to it that the law is respected by all men associated with him in the present state adminisration.—Montgomery Journal.

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS FAVOR HIGHWAY BOND ISSUE

In addition to endorsements given the proposed bond issue amendment for good roads by American Legion, League of Muncipalities and other organizations, the executive committee of the Alabama Automobile Dealer's Association adopted resolutions favoring the issue which will be voted on November 3, and called upon all dealers and friends of good roads, generally to join in the campaign for its adoption.

The committee met at Montgomery Friday and its resolutions declared the bond issue to be the only large measure now before the people for the relief of unemployment in this state; also that completed but unpaved roads are being destroyed by heavy travel and insufficient maintenance, with resulting loss of millions of dollars to the people of Alabama.

Members of the committee showed that the adoption of the good roads bond issue will settle one of the two major problems now agitating the citizens and the state government; that the highway question can be settled by the voters at this election, while the school deficit can only be corrected by special session of the legislature, which Governor Miller has promised to call at some future time.

"You will not help the school situation by letting the roads and federal aid highway funds go to waste," said Commander James C. Conner, of Alabama Department, American Legion, who is even more interested in education than in roads.

"Alabama's highway system stands alone. It is not financially associated with any other branch of the state government. It has its own state and federal funds which are not subject to any other use, except for road building and paving," said the commander.

"W. Cleve Stokes, of Montgomery, president of the Automobile Association, stated to the executive committee that "bad roads and unemployment patrons are handicaps to public education; also that citizens could afford to pay their school taxes if this outside road money was put to work during the present depression."

With the cellars being filled with canned goods rather than bottled goods there ought to be less hunger this winter than last.

For a man who was supposed to be a pacifist, Ramsy MacDonald is putting up a pretty good fight.

When Pepper Martin gets back to Oklahoma, Governor Alfalfa Bill Murray ought to put him in his cabinet, or something.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

That we are living in strange times, and that world conditions are changing rapidly, is evident on all sides. The trouble of Japan and China over the Manchurian situation is a case in point. Japanese troops have penetrated Manchuria for the published purpose of protecting Japanese nationals. The Chinese claim that Japan is seeking to hold Manchuria, just as it once seized and held Korea, and threatens war against Japan, making an appeal to the League of Nations. The Japanese reject League intervention, claiming that the Manchuria matter is one for China and Japan to settle between themselves. The League evidently does not think so.

American interest in the matter was quickened when Secretary of State Stimson made the announcement that "The American government, acting independently through its diplomatic represetatives, will endeavor to reinforce what the League does and will make clear that it has a keen interest in the Manchurian matter. By this course we avoid any danger of embarrassing the League in the course to which it is now committed." After further exchange of cables between the State Department and the American consul general in Geneva it was announced that an American observer would "sit in" on the session of the League Council at Geneva, if invited by all members of the League.

Later it developed that the Japanese government would object to an American sitting in on the League Council, and for a time it was believed that this might block American participation on the theory that action of the council would have to be unanimous. But later it was decided that the council could regard this question of American participation as a question of procedure rather than a question of principle. With this interpretation it would be possible for an American to sit in by invitation of a majority of the council. A vote was taken and the American was invited in by a vote of 13 to 1, Japan casting the dissenting vote.

Just what the outcome will be it is of course impossible to predict at this time as the international picture is changing every day. It is of course possible, in fact most people regard it as probable, that Japan and China will come to an agreement for discussions between the two nations and that the war clouds will scatter. If this happens, all well and good, and the show down on League authority will be reserved for the next crisis.

But if Japan does not come to terms with China and either ignores the League or withdraws from it, that would be something else again. The question would then arise as to what was to be done. Would the League through its principal powers seek to coerce Japan, and if so how far is Uncle Sam involved in the situation through the State Department's note, and the sending of an observer or participant in the deliberations of the League Council?

These are questions which are now being asked by American newspapers and American statesmen, and it is very likely that the question of our international relations and international procedure will receive a thorough airing at the next session of the Senate. Of course most of the statesmen are reserving comment at this time and there is little discussion for the reason that in times of crises, Americans stand by their government and do not desire to embarrass their State Department. But it is evident from newspaper comment and from the guarded statements of many prominent senators, that there will be a full and free discussion of the international situation in the Senate this winter.

In the meantime it is to be hoped that Japan and China can enter into an agreement for settling their difficulties all by themselves. Such a happy outcome would go far to solve what is now a very grave situation and threatens to become worse.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Why Farm Boys Leave Home—Just why do farm boys (and girls, too, for that matter) leave home? Many reasons have been advanced—better wages, easier work, and lots of other reasons. Only once in a while the theory of better educational chances is advanced. One night last week I was listening to some big bug discuss the matter, and what do you suppose he gave as the reason? Out of more than 500 boys who were questioned as to their reason, more than half gave as their reason that they noted that their city friends, as a rule, wore better clothes. The speaker left a hint that he thought that they were giving this reason to cover the real one—to find easier work—yet, he said, it was peculiar so many of them gave this reason, even though questioned separately. So, dads, there's a hint for you. If you want to keep sonny boy at home, see that he has a nicely creased suit to wear when he steps out. Now, ain't that sump'n? Oo-wah!

Do You Really Live—or Just Exist?—Not long ago Judge Leon McCord gave an interesting lecture before the Big Brothers Bible Class of Montgomery using this as his subject—and what a subject he made of it. Without even trying to tell you everything that Judge McCord said, this opens a good subject for one of my squibs, too. Every man, woman and child is in one of two classes—livers and existers. Money, position and the like have but little to do with it. If you really live, you are happy, no matter what your position, amount of money and property you have, or what your problems may be. You find some good, some fun, something you enjoy in nearly everything you come in contact with. You find pleasure in solving your hardest problems. You find time to enjoy games, outings with relatives and friends. You enjoy your church attendance. You get a wealth of pleasure out of your association with those you must come in contact with from day to day. You feel free—you know life's many thrills. You live! On the other hand, if you are wealthy and are forever afraid you may lose part of your wealth, if you are poor and consider riches the only requisite and cure for your ills, if you never find time to take off for a bit of fun or recreation or to attend church or social functions, but feel you must forever keep your nose to the grindstone, you are an object of pity. You are missing life entirely. You just exist! Now, which class do you belong to? You can answer the question for yourself. Another thing, one who lives usually makes a place for himself in the lives of others which nobody else can fill, while one who exists only within himself is soon forgotten. One is a success, so far as life is concerned, and the other is a miserable failure.

Who Said Squirrel?—Well, it won't be long now until we can go out and stake our prowess with gun and pup against Mr. Squirrel's speed and "dodgability." There's a word for you—"dodgability"—ten to one you never heard of it before—neither did I. But, all the same, I believe it pretty well describes Mr. Squirrel's excellent ability to completely disappear from one tree and show up on another a second or two later. But I'm getting off the track. What I started off to say was this: Let's all use a little common sense in hunting this season, and not try to kill 'em all, even if we could. Let's just go out and have a good round of sport, and if we're lucky, an appetizing meal, and save some of the fuzzies for another day. And, above all, be a sportsman—give the little fellows a chance. There are two kinds of hunters—sportsmen and killers. Be a sport! And, another thing—don't forget your license.

Are You A Good Swapper?—Of late, since there has been a kind of shortage in cash, I have noticed a lot of the fellows doing a bit of swapping. And some of the swaps they make—eggs for soap, turnips for gun shells, peanuts and "lightard" knots for newspapers, this for that, what they have for what they want. And the best part of it all is that both parties always seem to consider that they struck a bargain. That's good! Maybe somebody gets beat in some of the trades, but so long as he don't feel that way about it, but feels that he has made a good strike it all amounts to the same thing. Go to it, boys. Bring back the good old days when you traded your top for a knife, and such other boyish "business" transactions. Maybe you'll get an extra kick out of it.

Glimpses—Space is a bit limited this week, so I believe I'll see who is moving around and dry up for this time. Dewey Rockett with a bag of golf clubs over his shoulder; Jack Hayes with his golfing outfit; everybody and his brother has a cotton sample under his arm—even "Buck" Gore—now where'd he get any cotton?; Mr. Gillespie with a bunch of pink slips—watch your step; somebody turning completely around with his car in the middle of the street—don't see Chief Hardy anywhere; a boy with a new gun—happy days; Courtland Retherford out early, and dressed to kill—where to?; more golfers; the sheriff again, and a deputy with him this time. No, I don't feel guilty but here goes, just the same.—Man in the Moon.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

Folks are never satisfied. I saw a girl sitting in front of a mirror working and masaging that she might get the freckles off of her face. I saw a young lad without hat and sleeves that he might produce freckles on his skin. Being in a store where ladies come to buy, I observed a white lady purchasing curling tongs. A little later, along came a negro woman and she bought an instrument to straighten hair. The white woman is not satisfied with her make up, and so she curls her hair, paints her face and perfumes her body. The negro woman has curling waves, a printed face, and a perfumed body, but she works hard to get rid of these things. We are never satisfied with what we have. When we have red hair, we want hair that is black, I would like to find just one person who is satisfied.

When I was a barefooted boy on the farm, Brother and I owned a pet pig. One day this pig was between us. We were about seventy-five yards apart. I called the pig, and he started on a trot to me. I hushed and my brother called him, and the pig turned around and ran toward him. My brother hushed and I called the pig, and he turned around and came running back toward me. For several minutes we called the pig, one at a time, and we were amused as he ran his tongue out, and never got anywhere. The pig listened to every call and never made up his mind to go to either one of us. You have read the fable where the mule stood between two nice piles of hay, and starved to death, because he could not make up his mind to advance to either pile. How like some folks. They never seem able to make up their minds. They run hither and thither at every call, they stand still between two promising things, but they never advance to where results can be attained.

I saw a man in the water. He was hurling the water into the air, while he slashed and splashed about on top. Evidently he was not a good swimmer. I called to him: "Friend, what are you doing?" He replied: "I am trying to keep my head above the water." There he remained for quite a while, grunting, groaning, splashing, but all he accomplished was to just keep his head above the water. Another man jumped into the water, and stretched his hands out before him and glided through the water like a thing of the sea. He could not only keep his head above the water, but he could swim and be a life protector for others. There are two classes of folks in the world—one class is out in the midst of life, struggling, and splashing here and there, doing their dead level best to keep their heads above the water. The other class seems to be at ease in the stream of life, and they not only keep their heads above the water but they are able to be protection and support for their fellow man. It is better to keep your head above the water, than it is to sink, but why not learn how to swim, and enjoy the cool and invigorating waters of the stream of life?

Did you ever hear about the goose that laid the golden egg? The owner of the goose saw that he had a very valuable bird, and so he decided that the goose was full of golden eggs. To fill his pocket with golden eggs, he killed his goose. When the feathers of the goose were in a duster, the man would go to his goose nest for a golden egg, but there were no more eggs for him. If he had retained his goose she would have laid 365 golden eggs every year. Some people may think that a Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County is rather an expensive luxury, and they may feel that they should go to the polls to do away with this need in Chilton County, in order that they migh save three or four cents in taxes during these hard times, but they will find one year after they have done away with the County Agent that they have killed the goose that laid he golden egg. I am not "dabbling in politics," but I feel that I should say for the sake of the farmers of this county: "The most valuable man in the county is none other than your County Farm Demonstration Agent." Retain nim and you will have "cooperation among farmers, and a market for your produce."

I was reading a paper this week and ran across this advertisement of some firm that had a certain kind of medicine for sale: "It is better than whiskey for coughs and colds." That medicine could do coughs and colds no good and still be as good as whiskey. I have studied whiskey carefully and have come to a conclusion that it is not good for a thing that human beings need. If you want happy homes, whiskey is not good for that. If you want safe travel along the highway, it is not good for that. If you want a good husband, a good son or good daughter, whiskey will not produce them. If you want civilization, whiskey was never known to do that any good. If you want fighting, cursing, cutting, impurity, poverty, tears, sorrow and a thousand other things that tear the soul from life, just have whiskey. Whiskey is good for almost everything that a human does not need. When you hear a man or a woman saying that whiskey is good for this and the other, you just put it down, they are as simple and as unsafe as the mother who says that a razor is a good thing for a baby to have in its play box. If you would not have razors and poison in the play box of your baby, then be sensible and take whiskey out of the world.

Preacher's Neck Broken

Rev. W. S. Cox was in town Tuesday. When I asked him how he was making out, he said he was doing as well as could be expected of a man with his neck broken. I wondered where the joke was. But after talking with him a few minutes, I found out it was no joke. He says his neck is actually broken, and it has been proven by X-ray pictures. He says the upper vertabra of his spinal column was dislocated by a severe twisting of the head, which he received recently at the hands of a certain "rubbing and thumping doctor." I am sorry for the pain and suffering that has been occasioned by this incident; but folks have some day in some way got to learn better than to fool with such so-called "doctors."

Chief Boockholdt Visitor

Former chief of police, John Boockholdt, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. He was all smiles, cheerful, and in his usual good humor. His friends were cautioning him against the perilousness of jay-walking, and admonishing him gently against other entanglements of the laws which he might accidently run into if he didn't look out. The former chief was having lots of fun out of the friendly taunts.

Next Tuesday Is The Day

Next Tuesday is election day. That is the time when we vote on the question of keeping the County Agent. Various guesses at the outcome of the election have been advanced this week. Estimates are that the vote will be for the County Agent all the way from to 6 to 1 on down. The County Agent has received strong support from the progressive farmers of the county. They fought and talked and prayed for a County Agent for many years before we got him. Now they say they are more anxious to fight to keep him then they were to get him in the first place.

No Interest In Bond Issue

Very little interest has been shown in the State Highway Bond Issue which will also be voted on next Tuesday. Governor Miller has come out against it because he wants to levy more gasoline tax to build roads with. People are unconcerned about the whole business because they have concluded that the state administration is going to continue to do nothing, regardless of what happens.

It Will Happen Some Day

First thing you know somebody is going to get mixed up with our city fire engine, and then there will be a big story to write for the papers. When the fire whistle sounds, some of our leading citizens immediately hop in their cars and proceed to air out down the street, regardless of where the fire truck is coming or going. Just wait till it hits one of them some time. The sensible motorist knows that the safe place is close to the curb till the fire engine gets to where it is going. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

Ex-Sheriff Visitor Here

John L. Gore, former Sheriff of Chilton County, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday. Mr. Gore has been living on his farm in Stumps Hills ever since he retired from the Sheriff's office. Mrs. Gore threatened to give me a thrashing one time for saying she was from Stumps Hills; but Johnnie don't mind it. In fact, since T. J. Dorminey died, Mr. Gore is the only man I know who will admit that he lives in Stumps Hills.

Two jobs which no longer seem to have much future—bartender and bond salesman.

GOVERNOR SEEMS CONFUSED ON ROADS AND SCHOOLS

Those who are most charitably inclined must admit that there are several points of difference between the speeches which Gov. B. M. Miller made during his campaigns for the governorship and the one which he made before the United States Good Roads Association in convention at Birmingham last week, and that the governor seems to be confused on the subjects of schools and highways.

The Camdonian statesman, excellent Christian gentleman though he is, did not intimate during the struggle for the Democratic nomination or in his campaign against Judge Hugh Locke, between the primary and the general election, that he would oppose the issuance of road bonds to pave that portion of the state highway structure that is now without a roof and is therefore going to pieces under the stress of heavy travel.

He certainly did not say, as a candidate in the industrial sections, that he would put an additional three and one-half cents tax on gasoline and use the money to build and pave roads with convict labor, or that he hoped to put a convict road camp in each one of the sixty-seven counties of the state; though that is his plan, as disclosed to the good roads convention at the Tutwiler Hotel, in an impassioned address which also went broadcast by radio. His former friends in the fields of labor would scarcely have believed he said this if they had not heard his speech.

The proposed bond issue, which will be voted on Tuesday, November 3, is the only measure now before the people for the improvement and preservation of the state roads in Alabama. Congress has been asked to appropriate a billion dollars for this purpose in the country at large and Governor Miller says he will ask the Legislature to pass a three and one-half cents gas tax bill for Alabama roads, but these measures of relief are far away and worse than uncertain, while more than 2,000 miles of constructed but unpaved state roads are in immediate jeopardy.

Labor for road building is plentiful and cheap—too cheap. Road building materials are less expensive than they have been, or are likely to be again.

The employment situation alone should suggest to the governor's mind the necessity of authorizing the road bond issue and putting free Alabama labor to work on the state highways; of obtaining all possible federal aid for road building and paving, and doing it now, or as quickly as possible.

Those who are charitably inclined hold the thought that Gov. Miller would see these facts and conditions clearly if he were not confused by multiplicity of detail and magnitude of problems to which the Camdonian judicial mind is unfitted and unaccustomed.

It is truly fortunate that the governor can not use convicts on federal aid projects, which will total more than $28,000,000 in the remaining years of the Miller administration; provided the road bond issue is ratified by the voters.—From The Southern Labor Review.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

WAYS TO CONTROL INSECTS IN CORN

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 26.—Insects which do most damage to stored corn in Alabama are granary weevil, the rice weevil, angonomois grain moth, and the Indian meal moth. The same control methods apply to all.

Before storing new corn, remove all old corn and shucks from the crib. Sweep walls and floors thoroughly. All the meal, trash, and live weevils collected in sweeping should be removed and burned. If this is done, a large number of old weevils will be destroyed. The floors and walls of the crib should be inspected for places that are not as near air tight as they might be. The floor and walls should be made as tight as possible to keep out rats and mice, and also reduce the amount of "high life" needed for fumigation.

Gather all corn as soon as it is mature and well dried. The first field of corn planted should be gathered first because this field serves as a trap crop and most of the weevils found in the fields will be in this early corn. All early corn should be stored separately so that it can be used at once or treated as soon as it is stored.

The tightness of the floor and walls of the crib to be fumigated determines largely the amount of "high life" to be used. If the floors and walls are made of tongue and groove material, 10 pounds or 5 quarts of high life are sufficient to fumigate 200 bushels of corn. Cribs that have fairly good floors and walls but are not made of tongue and groove material can be fumigated, but 16 pounds (or 2 gallons) of high life should be used to fumigate 200 bushels of corn.

In cribs that have cracks in both floors and walls, it is almost impossible to get "high life" concentrated enough for good control. It is heavier than air. Hence it penetrates downward through the corn, and, therefore, "high life" should be placed in shallow pans on top of the corn, which should be covered with sacks or burlap. Fumigation should last 36 to 48 hours, after which the building should be opened and the surplus gas allowed to escape. Ask your county agent about it.

SCHOOL CHILDREN NEED GOOD LUNCHES

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 26.—It is appalling to think of the number of growing children who rush away to school each morning without breakfast and it is equally appalling to think of the school children who are spending six to eight hours a day in school with lunches made up of left-overs from supper of the previous day. Such are appalling because they impair health and retard school work.

Miss Helen Kennedy, extension nutritionist, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, in making recommendations for wholesome lunches for growing children, says that the lunch should contain a drink, a fruit, a vegetable, a sweet, any of which may be prepared in a variety of forms. More information will be supplied by county home demonstration agents.

Since every growing child requires a quart of milk a day, provision may be made for a part of it in the school lunch by using a pint fruit jar, Miss Kennedy suggests. If a thermos bottle can be provided, cocoa or hot soups will fill the need for something hot on cold days. A little investment in a thermos bottle may be a great saving of the health and ability of the child.

Vegetable sandwiches are palatable and nutritious. Care should be taken to use the most wholesome ingredients possible. Whole wheat bread is recommended rather than white bread.

A safe guide to use in preparing lunches for school children is the daily ration outlined by Miss Kennedy, as follows:

Each child should have each day a quart of milk, 5 servings of vegetables, 2 servings whole grain bread or cereal, 2 servings eggs, cheese, meats, or dried legumes, and 6 to 8 glasses of liquid. By making a distribution for three meals the requirements for lunch can be readily recognized.

ADVANTAGES OF SOY BEAN OIL MEAL

By Dr. John M. Evvard

Carefully conducted experiments prove that soy bean oil meal when properly blended with other selected protein feeds such as meat meal tankage, linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, peanut oil meal, alfalfa meal, and suitable minerals increases the nutritional and economic value of the supplement when fed to pigs along with corn.

As a matter of fact, soy bean oil meal when added to the ten ingredients in "big 10" a swine feed supplement developed at Iowa State College, increased the efficiency of "big 10" rather markedly even though only 10 per cent soy bean oil meal was introduced. In these tests soy bean oil meal produced practically the same beneficial effect as a high grade fish meal, both making the supplement more efficient as a balancer of corn.

It should be stated that the "big 10" mixture carries a considerable amount of tankage in addition to linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, peanut oil meal, alfalfa meal and suitable minerals supplying calcium, phosphorus, sodium, chlorine, iron and iodine.

Soy bean meal carries considerable vitamin A so essential to growth, reproduction and adequate "bodily functioning." Soy bean oil meal is rich in vitamin B, the antineuritic vitamin which is helpful in preventing certain nerve disorders and constipation and also in promoting appetite.

Soy bean oil meal carries considerable of vitamins C and E. The former being necessary for promoting certain skin and growth functions of the body and the latter essential for reproduction.

Soy bean oil meal is fairly rich in phosphorus, carrying practically twice as much as corn grain. When properly processed it is very palatable. It carries unsaturated or double bonded fatty acids some of which in the light of most recent researches seem to be of great value in animal nutrition.

In building up variety adequate in a superiorly constituted supplemental blend, soy bean oil meal is an outstanding nutritious asset. Experience shows that it is beneficial in the promotion of feathering in birds and also in developing feather bloom or sheen. It has a favorable influence in the production of eggs. The quality of the eggs being good, the consistency all right and the taste appetizing. It also has the ability to promote wool growth.

Soy bean oil meal is economically produced in the United States and the quantity of it available is gradually increasing. Soy bean oil meal is superior to whole or ground soy beans from the supplemental standpoint, primarily because it is much more concentrated with proteins, vitamins, and minerals than the feed from which it is produced.

Soy bean oil meal has been proved on countless farms to be of special merit in cattle, sheep, and swine production. Poultrymen are rapidly finding that it is very efficient not only for growing purposes but also for the production of high quality eggs.

Adoption of a 6-hour day by several dupont concerns as a means of providing work for unemployed was announced on October 15. Many other concerns have taken action similar to this.

ALABAMA IMPROVING POULTRY INDUSTRY

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 26.—Alabama is improving her poultry industry, says R. B. Jones, state poultry inspector.

During the past year Alabama poultrymen had 51,937 birds in 567 flocks tested for bacillary white diarrhea. "This is an increase of 9,145 birds and 106 flocks over last year," Mr. Jones reports to Commissioner Storrs.

"Thirty-one accredited hatcheries had a capacity the past year of 342,610 eggs. This is an increase of 52,196 eggs in accredited hatcheries capacity," he continued.

Within the past twelve months Mr. Jones and his two assistants have handled 77,372 birds, 51,937 of which were tested and 25,435 were classed as culls and sent to the market.

"In addition to out testing work in 43 counties we assisted county agents in vaccinating 13,100 birds against chicken pox.

ALABAMA FARMERS ARE PLANTING BETTER SEED

Montgomery, Ala., Oct 26.—Alabama farmers this year planted the best quality seed planted any year during the history of seed testing by the state, reports L. N. Allen, seed analyst.

As evidence that field and garden seed were of higher quality Mr. Allen reported that the Department of Agriculture suspended from sale three to five times as many lots of rye, oats, hairy vetch and various other seed last year than were suspended this year despite the fact that more than twice as many seed samples were collected and tested this year than last year.

"Intensive inspection work by inspectors and a desire on the part of seed shippers and dealers to improve seed account for this," Mr. Allen said.

"A total of 1,422 seed samples were tested during the past 12 months. This is a larger number of samples than were handled in the two previous years which followed the establishment of the seed laboratory."

Commenting upon the testing and analyzing of farm seed, Commissioner Storrs declared that Alabama has one of the most up-to-date seed testing laboratories in the country. "This newly equipped laboratory has permitted increased efficiency and facilitated analyzing seed samples."

LOW CUT STUMPS MAKE MORE TIMBER PROFITS

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 26.—The amount of good lumber material wasted in the woods by being left in high stumps was one of the first features that attracted the attention of efficiency engineers, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, Alabama State Forester. Conditions are rapidly changing in this connection, however, says Colonel Bunker, and the time appears not far distant when this costly and extravagent system will almost entirely disappear.

So long as the supply of forest materials was apparently inexhaustible it was difficult for the lumber industry to persuade the public that inferior grades of lumber were adequate for many common uses. The consumers demanded the best and refused to take anything of lower quality. With certain species of trees growing in particular localities the part of the tree next to the ground sometimes defects caused by the swaying of the tree in the wind. To eliminate this defective material without making a second cut the tree was sawed through at a considerable height from the ground, leaving high stumps.

No objection could be taken to this practice by the efficiency experts, providing the material in the stump was actually defective. However, in the great majority of cases it was found that the cutting of high stumps was not necessitated by the quality of the butt material, but was really the result of carelessness or laziness of the sawyers. It is somewhat inconvenient to saw a standing tree through close to the ground. However, with practice the process proved to be strictly practicable and at the same time very profitable for the reason that, where defects caused by the wind or other agencies do not exist, the best material is found in the lower part of the tree.

A good rule of thumb to follow is to cut at a height from the ground equal to the diameter of the tree. However, in most well managed extraction operations a fixed stump height is specified. This varies all the way from eight inches to eighteen inches, depending to a very great extent upon the size of the trees.

The Interstate Commerce Commission declined to grant to railroads a 15 per cent hike in freight rates. On the other hand, the commission favors certain advances for the good of the railroad industry and not any particular road.

Southern bankers, with cooperation of the Federal Farm Board and the cotton marketing associations, are endeavoring to finance 7,000,000 bales of cotton with a view to holding it off the market until the summer of 1932, unless it can be sold before then for more than 12 1-2 cents per pound. In Alabama the Farm Bureau Cotton Association is cooperating in the work.

CELLOPHANE PACKAGES ARE EASILY OPENED

Objections against cellophane-covered cigarette packages such as that voiced by the Buford, Ga., Advertiser, which says "now we need a can opener to get at those cellophane covered cigarettes" are eliminated by the new notched-tab package just put on the market by one of the larger manufacturers. Holding one of the tabs firmly the smoker pulls the second tab and the cellophane parts along a slight impression made in it automatically during the packing operation. The protection offered by cellophane supplements such other modern methods of manufacture as the toasting process including the use of ultra violet rays. Many people agreed with the Russell, Ky., Times which commented on cigarettes "wrapped in this new fangled stuff called cellophane" and says "many cigarette smokers tell us they think it is just a nuisance and makes the package hard to open." The new notched-tab cellophane humidor will eliminate this criticism.

NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

Improvement in business and agricultural conditions in South Australia is officially reported. Unemployment is definitely declining, says the report. Meanwhile advances in the wheat market have been distinctly helpful.

Retail food prices in 51 cities of the United States, as reported to the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Deparment of Labor, showed an average decrease of about one-third of 1 per cent on September, 1931, when compared with August 15, 1931, and an average decrease of about 18 per cent since September 15, 1930.

Radio Station WAPI in Birmingham and 50 other radio stations in 40 states will broadcast a special 4-H club program from 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., Saturday, November 7. Half of the program will be presented from the studios of WAPI in Birmingham. The other half will be presented from Washington. It will be broadcast by 51 stations.

NEWS-AGE-HERALD OFFER NEARING CLOSE

The Birmingham News and Age-Herald big bargain offer is drawing to a close. This was a special October offer, made to rural and star route box holders, with a special bargain price of $2.19 for a year's subscription to either The News or Age-Herald daily only, or $3.19 for The News or Age-Herald daily and Sunday. This offer is meeting with an enthusiastic response.

"We are indeed gratified at the response to this offer," The News-Age-Herald states. "In order that people living on rural and star routes may have the advantages of a big deaily newspaper, the same as those living in larger towns and cities, believing that such a paper gives them informative and educational advantages for which they are anxious, we have during the past few years, made a similar bargain offer, but never before have the results been so gratifying. It looks as if every one wants the News or Age-Herald, and is rushing in the subscription before the expiration of the offer. This, of course, is the wise thing to do. There is only a short time left, and those who postpone mailing their subscription may put it iff until it is too late. Our advice to those who have not already mailed the subscription is 'do it now.' Your neighbor has mailed his subscription and you and your family will enjoy The News or Age-Herald, with its excellent news columns, entertaining and instructive editorial features, the work of the highest paid writers and artists in the world, the farm and society departments, the market news, sports news, and many other features, just as much as he will. You are just as progressive as he is, so don't let him get ahead of you!

"Parents find that The News or Age-Herald not only serve to keep them abreast with state and world events, but that their children are also helped from a general informative standpoint, and from the standpoint of laying a foundation for the better understanding of school studies.

"This special bargain offer is positively only to rural and star route box holders, and those living in towns where no News-Age-Herald carrier delivery is maintained."

NEGRO FINDS $500 PEARL IN COOSA RIVER NEAR WETUMPKA

A 22 1-2 grain pearl, appraised by jewel experts of New York City at $500, nas been been found in the Coosa river a short distance from Wetumpka. The stone, said to be one of the few ever taken from fresh water streams of Alabama, was brought to Montgomery Wednesday by a negro who found the pearl in an old muscle in the river.

Before offering the pearl to local jewelers, the finder sent it to New York for appraisal. Then he started out to find a market for the pearl, which at present prices is worth more than 15 bales of cotton.

Montgomery jewelers told the owner they could not find a market advised him to offer it to New York buyers.

Max Bell, one of the jewelers who examined the pearl, said it was one of rare beauty and almost perfect. Like everybody else, he was almost dumfounded when informed the pearl had been picked up in the Coosa river.

No one here seems to have found the exact spot where it was found. The few familiar with the place are not talking just now.

NOTICE OF ELECTION

I, W. H. Gillespie, Sheriff of Chilton County, Alabama, do hereby give notice that on Tuesday, the 10th day of November, 1931 an election will be held at the several polling places in Chilton County, Alabama, for a vote by the qualified electors of Chilton County, Alabama, in the manner and form and places as required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, namely:

"ARTICLE XXI, Section 219 of the present Constitution is hereby annulled and set aside and hereafter the Legislature of Alabama may provide for the assessment, levy and collection of a tax upon inheritances and for the levying of estate taxes not to exceed in the aggregate the amounts which may by any law of the United States be allowed to be credited against or deducted from any similar tax upon inheritances or taxes on estates assessed or levied by the United States on the same subject. The Legislature shall have the power to levy such inheritance or estate taxes in the State of Alabama only so long as and during the time an inheritance or estate tax is enforced by the United States against Alabama inheritances or estates, and shall only be exercised or enforced to the extent of absorbing the amount of any deduction or credit which may be permitted by the laws of the United States now existing or hereafter enacted to be claimed by reason thereof as deduction or credit against such similar tax of the United States applicable to Alabama inheritances or estates."

This, the first day of October, 1931.
W. H. GILLESPIE
10-8-4ch. Sheriff Chilton County, Ala.

PHONE MEETING HERE SATURDAY

Directors Say That Only This One Meeting Will Be Held

The annual meeting of the Peoples Telephone Company will be held at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday afternoon, October 31st at 2:30 o'clock. Everybody interested in the company is urged to attend this meeting, as it will determine what will be done the coming year. If you want the central office to operate, be at this meeting. If the prospects are sufficient to justify it, the operation of the central will be continued; if not it will be stopped.

For the benefit of the phoneholders, we will state that there have been quite a few applications for the job as operator. There are, in our estimation, some good reliable men who have applied for the job, and their offers are very reasonable, considering the hard times. We believe that it can be operated on the same revenue as was collected last year, and as good or better service given.

Remember, that we are going to do our "do" at this one meeting. If you have any suggestions to offer, do not wait, for this is the only chance that will be given. We are not going to call another meeting.—O. R. Robinson, Chm., J. M. Robinson, Lee Popwell, E. H. Mims, T. E. Wyatt, Directors.

SAVE THE PHEASANTS

Dr. P. T. Hinkle requsts all squirrel hunters to please refrain from shooting pheasants when they get out after squirrels and rabbits and quail this winter. In order to protect the pheasants, Dr. Hinkle, Jim Armstrong, and a number of other farmers in their neighborhood will not permit any hunting at all on their lands this winter.

The pheasants are doing fine, according to Dr. Hinkle. The young ones are larger than the old ones which were turned loose last spring, and of much more beautiful plumage, he says.

It is hoped that hunters will be careful not to shoot any of these fine birds this winter. By leaving them alone, there will likely develop a stock of them in this county, as they have started off well this the first year.

MAPLESVILLE BOY ELECTED SECRETARY STUDENTS UNION

Auburn, Ala., Oct 26.—J. W. Griffin, of Maplesville, junior in agriculture at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, was elected secretary of the Alabama Baptist Students Union at a convention held recently in Tuscaloosa.

Other officers elected were DeWitt Matthews of Howard College, president, and Hattie Briscoe of Judson, treasurer.

FINANCE NEEDED NOW FOR SCOUTS

Kiwanis Will Ask Pledges To Carry On Work In County

Like everything else, finances are needed to continue the fine scouting work in Chilton County. The first year work has many excellent objectives as brought out in the call meeting of the Board of Directors of Kiwanis last evening. Among the most outstanding accomplishments of the local Scout District during the last twelve months may be mentioned. The fine attendance on the part of local scouts during the summer to the Council Camp Spring Villa; the outstanding civic work of the Clanton scouts during the Confederate Veterans Reunion in Montgomery in June, the Scoutcraft Jamboree in Auburn, May Day, monthly Courts of Honor where every scout made some advancement. Also may be included the many individual good turns as well as Patrol and Troop good turns. the publicity in educating the general public to the value of scouting; the active anniversary week, the number of excellant and prominent professors from Auburn who helped our scout executive train leadership, the work of our Cup Pack at Mitchell Dam and the fact that we have 45 boys of the county daily living up to the Scout Oath and Law. All these are satisfying where one goes over the part years activities.

The Board of Directors announce the new slate of office for scouting in Clanton District, namely: Chairman, C. E. Stapp; Camping, John Hollis; Court of Honor, Prof. L. C. Warr; Finance, W. M. Wyatt; Health and Safety, Dr. Arthur Johnson; Lone Scout, Earl Thomas; Publicity, Billy Smith; Reading, Dr. S. J. Ezell; Training, Sam Powers; Treasurer, Grady Heflin; and Troop Organization, J. G. Newton. This new slate of officers was elected unanimously. These men begin their term of office at once. The first duty of the group will be to secure the again accepted quota of $350.00 toward the Council Budget of the Central Alabama Area Council.

Next Wednesday the Scout teams will be in the city securing cash and pledges to carry on the Scout work. Reports will be made at Kiwanis meeting next Thursday at which time John J. Sigwald and other Scout leaders will have charge of the program.

CARRIER PIGEON FOUND

Mr. J. W. Cagle found a carrier pigeon at Mitchell Dam on October 22. The bird evidently had alighted on the dam to rest when it was picked up. There was an aluminum ring on one leg with the date of Aug. 31, and the number 1745; also the abbreviation Atl. On the other leg was an ivory ring. The bird was a light color with some green. It was not killed but turned loose, and the rings were not taken from the leg. It is supposed that the Atl. means Atlanta, and that the bird was carried from Atlanta and turned loose at some place out west, and was then making its way back to Atlanta.

CONCORD-BILLINGSLEY

On last Thursday morning God called to her reward, Mrs. Sidney Turner. She lived to the age of 75 years. She was a good old Christian woman, and was loved by every one who knew her.

She leaves to mourn her absence two sisters, seven sons, and a number of grand children and friends.

Funeral service was held Friday morning at ten o'clock with Rev. J. H. Lembrick and Rev. A. S. Bentley conducting the service, and with Martin of Clanton in charge.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely, but we would like to have a larger attendance. We have been trying to think of a solution to get those who do not attend Sunday school to ome, so we are putting on a ontest between the males and females. The side that has the most new members at the end of the quarter will be winner and will be entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Weldon.

Misses Connie and Sallie Shaw were the guests of Miss Allie Williams Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Williams took dinner at the home of Miss Lena Pearl Shaw Sunday.

Mrs. W. W. Williams and niece, Allie, visited Mrs. J. F. Sheppard of Clanton Saturday afternoon.

Remember that next Sunday is our regular singing afternoon. We extend to all a special invitation to come and be with us, and help us in our singing.

SINGLE CORN STALK HAD TEN GOOD EARS

Ike Jones, colored, Jasper, Alabama, this year grew a stalk of corn with ten good ears on it, according to information reaching the Department of Agriculture.

"Every ear has corn on it, but some of the ears grew on 'sucker' sprouts," says the report.

CONCORD 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Concord 4-H Club met last Monday night. There were 16 present. Each member promised to distribute the circulars he had, and work to keep Mr. Stapp. We have always enjoyed the club work, and have learned better methods of farming. Mr. Stapp has helped us in learning to be better farmers, and better citizens for our county. We urge all voters to vote for the Demonstration Work. Mr. Stapp helps us to get better prices for our products, and to raise more stuff.

If we want any information about farming; or if there is anything gone wrong with your poultry, you can't go to Mr. Stapp and find out what is wrong, and how to remedy it.

Mr. Stapp is worth the money that is paid him to the 400 4-H Club boys of Chilton County. We have a 4-H Club Camp each year. The last 4-H Camp was paid for by Mr. Stapp. The 4-H members always enjoy the camp.

If the voters of the county vote Mr. Stapp out of office, they are only voting out the welfare of the county.

We have elected new officers for the coming year, which we hope to make more profitable than the past year. The officers are: Cleveland Driver, president; Judson Easterling, vice president; Leonard Wyatt, secretary-treasurer; Frank Clackler, reporter.—Frank Clackler.

LENZO I. BATES DIED

Lenzo I. Bates, age 55 years, died last Wednesday at his home near Providence, in Beat 16. Mr. Bates had been sick for a long time.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Janie Jones Bates, four children, Mrs. Sidney Mims, Mrs. Willie Mims, Mrs. Charley Dickey, one son, T. J. Bates, age 17 years.

The funeral was held Thursday at Providence church, conducted by Rev. W. W. Robinson and Rev. M. J. Parrish.

The deceased was a son of the late Tom J. Bates, who was in his lfietime one of the most prominent citizens of Beat 16.

T. O. REESE TO CONDUCT REVIVAL AT MARBURY

Rev. T. O. Reese of Perry, Florida will begin a revival meeting at the Marbury Baptist Chhrch on Monday night, November 2, at 7:30. Everybody cordially invite.—W. A. Goss, pastor.

MT. PISGAH

I want to call the attention that on next Sunday afternoon, November 1st, our singing society will meet again.

We are expecting help from East View, Samaria, Maple Springs, and maybe other places. We cordially invite everyone who can to come and help us. Your presence and help will be greatly appreciated. Music is the praise service of the church. A joy in the home, a passport to society. It conduces to culture, contributes to refinement, and tends to elevate the heart, mind, and soul.

To nave excellent music we must toil together, stay active and wide awake, to succeed in the race for knowledge. For knowledie is the gateway to eminence. A willing heart and active mind are the levers; perseverance the fulcrum, and knowledge the power to overthrow the walls of ignorance.

There is joy in the race for knowledge, especially in building our singing classes. One who does not enjoy good singing would not enjoy being in heaven, for we are told there is singing in heaven. Some say "times are so gloomy, we are in no mood for singing." Here we should learn a lesson from Paul, and Silas, who were beaten with many stripes, and cast into prison with their feet fast in the stocks. At midnight they prayed and sang praises unto God. And suddenly a great earthquake came and all the doors were opened and every one's bonds were broken.

Let us sing that in this gloomy hour, with skies bedimmed by doubt, by hate, by fear. We can rejoice that good alone has power, can prove it true, and thus win heaven here.

SINGING AT CONCORD

The Central Singing Society meets with Concord next Sunday afternoon. Everybody urged to be there by 2 o'clock. Singers especially invited. Bring both 1932 books.

The singing at Poplar Springs last Sunday afternoon was great. All of the committee was present, and a good program was arranged. All of the directors could not be used on account of lack of time. There was a large class and the singing was good. We were glad to note the presence of Prof. W. M. Devaughn and Mr. Willie L. Mims. They always add impetus to the singings when they are present. We were also glad to have Mr. Jesse C. Jones, who is one of the best singers in this section. You are always welcome to the Central singings, whether you sing or whether you listen. Try and meet with us at Concord next Sunday afternoon. If you haven't one each of the new books, purchase yourself one.

CENTER HILL

The United Singing Society met with the Cooperative Singing Society here Sunday afternoon. There was a large crowd. The singing was good. Visiting directors were Burl Martin, W. J. Northcutt, Dr. J. B. Williams, E. L. Glasscock, Russell Scott, Ellis Martin. Organists were Mr. George Anderson, Mrs. Howard Roper, Mrs. B. L. Cobb, Miss Ruby Smith and Miss Emma Campbell.

The Cooperative Society meets with Oak Grove next Sunday afternoon. Come and be with us.

A wedding of much interest to their many friends was that of Mr. Clady Scott and Miss Willie Mae McGraw, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie McGraw, at Jemison, Thursday night, October 22. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott of this community. They will make their home here with his parents. We wish them a long and happy life.

Mr. Jesse Matthews and Miss Francis Collumn were quietly married at the home of Judge B. L. Cobb Saturday night.

Mr. Cobb also solemnized the rites of matrimony between Mr. Donald Ray McLean of Pletcher and Miss Agnes Durbin of Jemison at his home Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large crowd of friends and relatives.

MULBERRY

Please allow me to say a few words about some very important work which is being forwarded by our Mulberry people. It is relative to our every-member canvass. All of the committees have been secured and training courses arranged so that we can go immediately, into the work. We believe and trust that our people will respond in this worthy cause.

Depression does not excuse us from doing what we can to carry the Gospel of Christ into all parts of the world. Christ did not say that if times grew hard He would excuse us, but He said, "Go." Through the cooperative program Missionary Baptists have agreed to do this. May we appreciate Chrsit's salvation enough and love Him so well, that we will give the world the Gospel at any cost.—Williams.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Our Sunday school is gradually developing. Within the last few weeks we have organized a Home Department, with 35 members, a Cradle Roll, with 15 members, and Young Men's Bible Class, with a growing list. Mrs. J. Q. Wade is the teacher of the Young Men's Class, and they are going out after the young men of the city. Meet with us at 9:45 next Sunday.

Preaching by the pastor at 11:00 o'clock.

At seven o'clock Sunday night Dr. N. B. McLeod will preach for us and after the sermon will hold our fourth Quarterly Conference. Let methodism take notice that next Sunday you are to begin an offering for the benevolences of the church. Make this a special sacrificial offering. Our annual conference meets in Montgomery on the 19th of November. We have less than three weeks in which to get ready for conference. Much to be done. Do your part.

PREACHED AT FRIENDSHIP

Rev. J. Robert Bean filled his regular appointment at Friendship last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, preaching three sermons.

At the close of the service Saturday night the members presented Rev. and Mrs. Bean with a box of groceries, which were very greatly appreciated. Rev. Bean said that the collection would weigh about 150 pounds.

Services next fourth Sunday will be held as usual, except the night services will begin at 6:30 o'clock instead of 7:00.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their assistance and contributions toward relief of our hardships following the burning of our home last week. We appreciate the kindness shown us.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Baker.

POOR SLEEP DUE TO GAS IN UPPER BOWEL

Poor sleep is caused by gas pressing heart and other organs. You can't get rid of this by just doctoring the stomach, because most of the gas is in the UPPER bowel.

The simple German remedy, Adlerika, reaches BOTH upper and lower bowel, washing out poisons which cause gas, nervousness, bad sleep. Get Adlerika today; by tomorrow you feel the wonderful effect. You will say the day you read this was sure a lucky day for you.—Upchurch Drug Company, Clanton, Ala.

COLLINS CHAPEL JR. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Mr. John Littleton is resting very well, his friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Little James Littleton is doing fine.

Mrs. Gladys Cox is improving.

Mr. Elbert Hall has returned to his work after a few days illness.

Our school is doing fine. All the children and teachers are putting forward every effort to make this the best school year. We have 163 on roll.

Mr. and Mrs. Dansy Dungan and son, Donald of Wetumpka were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Hall.

A farmers meeting was held at the school house Saurday night and was well atteded, there were about fifty farmers present. The subject discussed by J. P. Montgomery and C. R. Foss was the Farm Bureau and its work in our county.

There will be a singing practice at Collins Chapel Church Thursday night, all singers be there and bring your Morris and Hensen books.

Don't forget that next Sunday is our regular preaching day at New Salem Church. So come on folks in time for Sunday School.

Next Sunday night the B. Y. P. U. at Collins Chapel will give us a program. There will be preaching also.

PEOPLES PHONE OFFICERS NAMED

Payment Of Central Fees For Year 1932 Now In Order

At the annual meeting of the Peoples Telephone Company, held at the courthouse last Saturday afternoon, new officers and Board of Directors were elected. Jesse Baker was elected president, and T. E. Wyatt was re-elected secretary-treasurer. One change was made in the Board of Directors; the place held last year by Lee Popwell was filled by the election of J. P. Jackson. The other two members of the board who were re-elected are James Moses Robinson and E. H. Mims.

The meeting last Saturday afternoon had to be set back over an hour on account of the farmers meeting at the courthouse, and was therefore not very well attended. A number of people had to go home before the farmers meeting adjourned. However, a good interest in the telephone business was manifest in the meeting.

The Board of Directors held a meeting Monday afternoon, and the matter of an operator for the coming year was considered. Six people had placed their bids with the secretary, all of which were taken under consideration by the Board. In the mind of the Board, the best and most feasible proposition was made by the present operator, Mr. A. L. Giles.

A proposition is being considered of moving the switchboard to new quarters, and at present it seems that such removal will be to the interest of better service to the patrons of the company. Complete plans for this have not as yet been worked out, however it is almost certain that the switchboard will be moved between this and the first of the year.

The Board of Directors desire to give the very best service possible considering the conditions of the system. Not much work can be done toward repairing just now, but what money that is collected will be used to the best advantage that it can. The amount of fees this year will be the same as it was last year. Phoneholders are urged to pay their central fees as early as possible, as funds are needed to start off the new year. The company does not owe one penny, but there are no funds in the treasury to start off the new year.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS PARTY

The Home Makers Class of Clanton Baptist Church will have a "trip around the world" party on Friday, November 6. A car will start at Upchurch corner for Mexico at 5:30 o'clock, and every 15 minutes thereafter, so get your tickets and be ready. You will visit eight countries on the tour, beginning in Mexico and ending in Iceland. Each country serving refreshments. We promise you a real treat. Round-trip tickets, adult, 25c; all school children, 15c. This is the total cost. Proceeds to be sent as Christmas offering to Orphanage.

Rev. Bob Jones To Preach In Clanton

Services At Methodist Church On Tuesday Night Nov. 10th

Dr. Bob Jones has announced that he will preach in Clanton on Tuesday night, November the 10th. The service will be held at the Methodist Church at 7:30.

Dr. Jones is touring the state in the interest of the state-wide evangelistic meetings that are to be held the first of January of next year. He is preaching the introductory sermon for the meeting to be held in Clanton, and the people are urged to hear him in his message. No collection will be taken, but a strong gospel sermon will be preached.

This is not the first visit of Dr. Jones to Clanton. He has many friends here who will deem it a privilege to hear him again, and it is expected that the large auditorium of the Methodist Church will be crowded to its capacity. Those who know him best, think of him as the best platform man in the South. He has but few equals before the public.

Phone 119 for Hat Cleaning.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

How many Sundays have you missed going to Sunday school this year? Soon the year will be over, and will you be ashamed of our record when you face the judgment? It is never too late to do right, and you should be in your place at Sunday school next Sunday at 9:45.

We have a special invitation for all World War veterans to worship with us next Sunday. There is no question before the American mind than is of more importance than the question of peace. At 11 a. m. next Sunday hear this message about "The Prince of Peace." Then if you are inclined to worry over things, come Sunday night at 7 o'clock and hear "Don't Worry."

Last Sunday we reported the church certificates of Miss Lona Thompson, Mrs. E. C. Powell and Robert Winston Powell. We welcome these new members into our fellowship.

At Wadesonian Theatre Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Nights

At the regular meeting of Chilton County Post of the American Legion Monday night, it was definitely determined that the Post will sponsor a special picture show program at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton next week in connection with some special features for the Armistice Day period.

The picture will be shown at the theatre for three nights, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The title of the picture is "The Dawn Patrol," and is specially suited for the Armistice Day. It is an airplane war picture full of the greatest thrills ever shown on the screen.

The Legion invites the public generally to see the picture, and to witness the other events that will be put on. It is planned to have a speaker of prominence to make an address at the theatre on the last night of the show. This will be of great interest to the public in general, as well as all ex-service men.

During the afternoon of the 11th, Armistice Day, a firing squad of Legion members will pull off some stunts, drills, and other maneuvers on the streets of Clanton.

The regular prices of admission to the picture show will prevail. The public is invited to see it. Come and celebrate Armistice Day with World War Veterans.

FIRE AT POTTS PLACE

A small blaze on the roof of the old Potts residence next to the courthouse was discovered just after noon last Friday. Prompt response of the city fire fighters to the sound of the alarm resulted in extinguishing the fire before it hardly got started.

The Potts place is occupied by the educational department of Chilton County.

BIRMINGHAM POST OFFER IS EXTXENDED THROUGH MONTH OF NOVEMBER

The Birmingham Post has authorized us to extend the special subscription offer one more month—through November. During this month we can sell the Banner and The Post for $3.20 for one whole year. In clubs of three we can sell both papers for the total sum of $8.40.

NEGRO DIED MONDAY

Ernest Stone, negro, age 26 years, died Monday at his home in West Clanton. Burial was at Hopewell Tuesday.

UNITY MINUTES FINISHED

The Banner Print Shop is this week finishing up the minutes of the 77th session of the Unity Association. They will be turned over to the clerk, Mr. Grady Harris, the last of this week. The association was held at Bethesda in Autauga County on October 6th and 7th.

MRS. DRUCILLA WILSON DIED

Mrs. Drucilla Wilson, age 86 years, died Tuesday morning at the home of relatives in Birmingham. The body was brought to Clanton Tuesday afternoon by Martin.

Burial was at the Wilson family graveyard Wedsesday, with Martin in charge.

Mrs. Wilson was the mother of Mrs. A. P. Vinson.

BIG MAJORITY IN FAVOR OF KEEPING THE COUNTY AGENT

Votes Cast Tuesday Were Nearly Four To One For County Agent. State Bond Issue Snowed Under By Majority Of Nearly Seven To One

Incomplete and unofficial returns on Tuesday's election show that those who voted are by a large majority in favor of keeping the County Farm Demonstration Agent, and by a larger majority opposed to the State Bond Issue.

The total vote was light, with less than half of the qualified voters of the county going to the polls. On the County Agent the vote was as follows, according to the unofficial figures:

For County Agent	1,433
Against County Agent	414
For Bond Issue	230
Against Bond Issue	1,597

When the County Agent was first voted on in June, 1927, the vote for him was 743, and against him was 413. Compare these figures with the totals for last Tuesday's election.

Reports from over the State Wednesday morning indicate that the $25,000,000 Bond Issue was lost by a heavy majority, perhaps more than two to one.

Below is the unofficial tabulation of the vote by beats on both the County Agent and the Bond Issue, as compiled by The Union-Banner Wednesday morning.

"The Dawn Patrol" Is Thrilling Drama Describing Warfare In The Clouds

Marvelous Picture Will be Shown at Wadesonian Theatre Next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Sponsored By The American Legion Post

There have been great aviation pictures in the past; but there has never been one like "The Dawn Patrol."

This latest First National and Vitaphone Picture, starring Richard Barthelmess, which opens next Monday night at the Wadesonian Theatre stands without doubt in a class by itself as a drama of war in the air. For thrills, chills, terrors, triumphs and the sweep of sheer reality, this picture seems to the present reviewer to be without a peer.

A great cast supports Barthelmess in a great story. Such names as those of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Neil Hamilton, Clyde Cook, Gardner James and Frank McHugh speak for themselves. It is an all-masculine cast, by the way, and the plot is a story filled with an iron quality of masculinity that exerts an irresistible power over the spectator. Here, at last, is the real thing. Here is the war as it was actually fought in France in those desperate years which saw the sacrifice of so many brave young lives. Here is a ceaselessly moving panorama of the great tragic drama of actuality which shook the civilization of the twentieth century to its foundations.

Photographically "The Dawn Patrol" sets a new standard, far in advance of anything hitherto attempted. This is also true of the sound effects. For the first time on the screen we both see and hear battle in the clouds authentically reproduced. There are camera shots that almost make one leap from one's theatre chair, so completely are we identified with the cavaliers of the air as they struggle for the cause that is nearest to their hearts.

And through it all—through the soaring and swooping of the fighting planes and the rattle of the deadly machine guns—runs the spirit that anmiated the youngsters who faced it all and went through with it in a spirit that makes one proud of the human qualities that inspired and sustained them.

This is the romance of realism—not the faintest hint of false sentimentality; just the sheer stark actuality of those heroic days, newly revived with all the technical and artistic resources of the modern screen.

It is impossible to write of "The Dawn Patrol" without enthusiasm. It forces one's attention, grips it and holds it; and the memory of the picture will live long after the last scene is flashed upon the silver sheet, for it is the supreme aviation picture. The utmost resources of a great modern studio, and the best efforts of many skilled and gifted men, have been expended upon it; and their labor has not been in vain. "The Dawn Patrol" belongs in the select list of classic pictures.

This picture is being shown in Clanton under auspices of Chilton Post of the American Legion, November 9th, 10th, and 11th.

JOHN LITTLETON DIED

The death angel has again visited our community and severed the life cord of one of our dear friends. This dear friend was Mr. John Littleton.

Mr. Littleton had lived in and near the Collins Chappel community most of his life. He being one of the oldest members living here could remember much of our community when it was not what it is today. He has been influential in making our community what it is today.

Mr. Littleton was born December 12, 1859. He died October 29, 1931 at 10 o'clock p. m. Had he lived until December 12, 1931, he would have been 72 years old.

Mr. Littleton is certainly going to be missed in our community, because he was a friend to everybody; for to know him was to love him. He was a true and faithful husband and father. Mr. Littleton is survived by his wife, three daughters, tow sons, and eighteen grandchildren.

INVITES BURGLAR TO TAKE DINNER

Ruby Chasteen Was Relieved Of Goods In His Store Last Week

Dear Editor:

May I ask through your paper that the burglars bring back what they took on last Wednesday night while I was asleep, resting my poor bones. The burglars came along and took most all I had in my little old store. Though I am sure they did not know just how badly I needed it or they would have let me by, but they just loaded up and went on.

But Mr. Burglar, if you will come by some time and take dinner with me and see my clothes which I must face the cold winter with, I believe you would bring everything you got back to me, and more too. I have gone hungry and cold trying to make an honest to God living. But the other man enjoyed it.

I believe if I could have got help we could have found out something. But there was no help for me. Just out of luck. But hope the burglar will take care of my gun, also a finger ring which I wish they would return. Well, Well, it's too bad; but could have been worse.

If anyone sees the burglar please tell him my conditions, and maybe he will have a heart. Thank you Mr. Editor, for space in your paper. —Ruby Chasteen.

LICENSE BUSINESS GOOD

Judge Reynolds reports that the license business at the Probate office this year is holding up to about the average of former years, despite the hard times.

Last year his office issued 367 business licenses. In October this year licenses were bought by 362 concerns.

Definite figures have not been compiled on the sale of automobile tags, but Judge Reynolds says it appears that the sale will be about up to the average.

KIN VINSON COMING BACK TO CLANTON

The many friends of Mr. Kin Vinson will be glad to learn that he is coming back to Clanton to live. He was here this week, and entered into a contract with the Sinclair Oil Company to handle the wholesale distribution of Sinclair products in this territory.

Mr. Vinson will return to his home in Sandersville, Georgia, this week and make immediate preparations to remove his family to Clanton and begin the operation of his business here.

MOTLEY-WRIGHT

There was a wedding of much interest last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. Jim Bullard. The bride was Mrs. Ellen Wright and the groom was Mr. Robert Motley of Vida, Alabama. It was a surprise to relatives and friends. The bride was 55 years old, and the groom was 69 years old. Rev. Buford Lawrence performed the ceremony. After the wedding all were served a nice, fine dinner.

HARGETT CHILD DIED

Leonard Arthur Hargett, four-months-old child of Mr. George W. Hargett, of Mt. Creek, died Wednesday of last week. Burial was at White City Thursday, with Martin in charge.

RADIO PROGRAMS FROM GOODYEAR

Dief Invites His Friends To Hear New Broadcasts Now Being Made

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, Goodyear dealer, and proprietor of Dief's Service Station in Clanton, invites local radio fans to tune in on the new Goodyear radio programs at 9:30 Tuesday evenings and 10 p.m. Saturday evenings. The programs can be secured from any one of 54 broadcasting stations in the NBC network.

Headlining the programs are John Phillip Sousa, Arthur Pryor, and their bands, the Goodyear Quartet composed of James Melton, Lewis James, Phil Dewey, and Wilford Glenn, and a full concert-dance orchestra, according to Mr. Diefenderfer. There will be 54 stations broadcasting the program through WEAF and the NBC network on a coast-to-coast hookup.

The first program in the broadcast attracted international attention, featuring the commissioning on Navy Day of the U. S. S. Akron, new navy airship, recently completed by the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation. The ceremony at Lakehurst, N. J., and Washington, D. C., included several addresses by high navy officials.

Of special interest to listeners everywhere is the program of November 10, Mr. Diefenderfer said, when Goodyear will announce a weekly prize contest that every car owner will want to get in on.

Mr. Diefenderfer further assures his friends that they will not have to sit up all night to hear the Goodyear programs. They will come at convenient hours, 9:30 on Tuesday nights and 10 o'clock on Saturday nights. This ought to make the broadcasts much more attractive, said Mr. Diefenderfer.

DR. O. C. CARMICHAEL TO ADDRESS LOCAL P.-T. A.

On next Thursday afternoon, November 12, at 3:00 o'clock, Dr. O. C. Carmichael, president of Alabama College at Montevallo, will address a joint meeting of the Grammar and High School Parent-Teachers Association. This meeting will be at the high school auditorium.

We especially urge every parent to make a sacrifice on this occasion, and come out to hear Dr. Carmichael. He is, in addition to his special training, a man of unusual experience, and a wide range of travel. Clanton will be honored to have a man the calibre of Dr. Carmichael address them on this date.

VISITORS TO AUBURN

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Taylor and Miss Janice Danforth went to Montgomery last Friday. Mrs. Taylor and Miss Danforth continued the trip to Auburn where they attended the various functions of annual homecoming day at the college. They were guests of Mr. Aubrey Taylor, a student at A. P. I.

Upon their return home Saturday night Mrs. Taylor and Miss Danforth were accompanied by Mr. Aubrey Taylor and his friend, Mr. Clinton McCord.

Conference Called For S. S. Workers

Meeting At Clanton Baptist Church Next Monday Afternoon, Nov. 9

On Monday afternoon, November 9th, at 3:00 p. m., a conference of all the officers and teachers; superintendents and class officers working in Intermediate and Adult Departments in Sunday schools will be held at the Clanton Baptist Church. Representatives and workers in these departments in all the schools in both Unity and Chilton Associations are urged to come. There will also be a conference Monday night at 7:00 o'clock. Mr. W. A. Harrell, young people-adult specialist from our Sunday School Board will lead the conferences, assisted by Mr. Davis Cooper, Jr., and Mrs. Sam Heath. All superintendents are urged to come and bring their Sunday school forces to these sessions. Please announce these meetings at Sunday school next Sunday, and urge the teachers and workers to come and stay for both conferences.—S. J. Ezell.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

FARM WOMAN'S CURB MARKET SALES LARGE

Auburn, Ala., Nov 2.—Mrs. S. H. Pharr of Cecil in Montgomery County, Alabama, read of the success of other farm women in selling products on curb markets. These inspired her and caused her to conclude that she could do likewise.

Consequently she studied the market, prepared her products, and began selling on the Montgomery market. Result: In six months her sales totaled $1,614.90, or $269.15 per month, equivalent to more than $10 per working day during these six months.

Her sales include 1,404 chickens and turkeys, squabs, butter, eggs, cut flowers, plants, flower seed, vegetables, strawberries, cakes, jam, and preserves.

Mrs. Pharr made a study of curb market selling before she began. She did this to determine what the buyers wanted, how they wanted it, and how to obtain and hold customers. In this way she soon became one of the most popular sellers on the market. She assisted other sellers, and served also as a member of the executive committee of the curb market.

With her money she has remodeled and refinished the interior of her home; refurnished the dining room; bought new rugs and curtains for the living room; bought a refrigerator, an oil stove, and rugs for the kitchen; and bought two registered Jersey calves. And to cap the climax she has a nice little bank account left over.

The work of Mrs. Pharr was reported by Mrs. Mamie C. Thorington, home demonstration agent of Montgomery County. It is accepted at Auburn as a good demonstration of successful curb market selling.

DAIRY COWS MAKE AGRICULTURE SAFE

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 2.—Continued growth and improvement of the dairy industry in Alabama is foreseen by Prof. A. D. Burke of the dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. Several reasons are assigned by Prof. Burke for the conclusion. Among them are that dairying is a stable industry with present prices being well maintained, despite the depression; its reguluar or weekly returns in cash; more efficient use of land; improvement of the soil; and better farming in general.

After pointing out that wherever dairying prevails the people have prospered, Mr. Burke said:

"Thus the foster mother of the human race furnishes man's best food, she builds up the soil, she furnishes a steady income. Her propagation is basic to agricultural permanency. She provides even distrbiution of labor throughout the year. Her products enter the arts, for making paints, photographs, imitation ivory, cosmetics and all manner of useful articles. Her products help to keep us healthy and when maladies catch us we regain our health by taking restoratives made with her products.

"Her calves furnish 90 per cent of our supply of veal, her bones our fertilizer, her body much of our meat and her hide the soles of shoes for our feet. Even her hair and the switch of her tail are used for the cushions of chairs on which we recline." And Alabama agriculture will be more profitable with more good cows, well managed, comfortably housed, on good pastures, and fed a good ration largely of home-grown feed, Prof. Burke added.

ISABELLA F. F. A. NEWS

The Isabella F. F. A. boys went on a weiner roast to Lover's Lane, which is a few miles northeast of Jemison, Saturday night, October 24. All enjoyed a nice time. Another new member was received last week.

The regular meeting was held Wednesday, October 28. On account of the absence of some of the members, part of the program was omitted. James Deason gave a talk, and plans for the program for the banquet to be held December 4, were discussed. There being no further business, the meeting was dismissed.

NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

Miss Margaret Garrett, home demonstration agent for Baldwin County, has been made state leader in 4-H club work for girls with headquarters at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. As a state leader, Miss Garrett will cooperate with the district and county home demonstration agents throughout the state.

A prize of $250 and a silver loving cup has been awarded to Clay County home demonstration agent and 4-H club girls for winning second place in the international canning contest held at Aurora, Ill. With Mrs. J. E. S. Rudd, home demonstration agent, as the county leader, the women and girls and also the P.-T. A. and the home economics teachers and classes prepared the exhibit of approximately 800 jars.

Building permit reports received by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of Labor from 345 identical cities, each having a population of 25,000 or more, showed that there was an increase of 6.4 per cent in the number of buildings and a decrease of 29.2 per cent in the estimated cost of buildings during the month of September as compared with August, 1931.

A slight but gratifying gain in employment in the United States was reported by the Associated Press. The news brought fresh encouragement to the public in general and to workers in particular. If the gain becomes widespread and continues to expand until all who want work and are capable of working find steady employment at satisfactory wages "Old Man Depression will disappear.

The Brazilian government is experimenting with the use of inferior coffee compressed into bricks as a fuel on the government-owned railroad. This is being tried as another means of disposing of low-grade stock, and also increasing the price of exports. It was authorized as a supplement to burning or dumping into the ocean surplus coffee.

VALUABLE ALABAMA TREES

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 2.—There are some species of timber native to Alabama that are comparatively rare when the total amount of standing timber in the state is considered, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. Quite a few species, among which are black walnut, wild black cherry, dogwood and persimmon, coming under this classification are very valuable when properly cut, handled and marketed. Owners of this class of timber are urged to find a market before they start to cut their timber. Usually the buyeds are very particular as to cutting specifications, such as log lengths, diameters, grades, etc. Unless the seller acquaints himself with the market requirements, his timber, which prior to cutting may be a valuable asset, when cut into logs may be worth hardly more than enough to meet his pay roll. In the case of black walnut, the stumps left by the careless logger may be worth more than the logs he hauls to the mills or loading point.

One disadvantage in marketing logs of these species is that quite frequently a landowner may not have enough to make a carload. Logs in carload lots are worth considerably more than in odd lots. It is to the material advantage of the owner to cooperate with his neighbor in shipping logs in carload lots, or else buy sufficient logs of the desired species to complete a car in case he has not sufficient logs of his own.

THE NEW PROMOTION PLAN OF THE BAPTISTS

The new promotion plan of the Baptist denomination is unique in that it seeks to provide for the needs of the local churches first.

In the every member canvass that will be put on in all churches of the Southern states, November 29th through December 6th, the first idea is to get a living budget subscribed for the local churches, which, of course includes the pastors' salary.

The denominations hope to raise $31,000,000 for local church expenses and $9,000,000 for missions, education and benevolence. In addition to this they hope to enlist one million tithers during 1932.

It is said that pastors and laymen are alike pleased with the plan and that more enthusiasm is being shown than with any movement the Baptists have known in recent years.

The district associations have been organized and now the local churches are preparing for the canvass. In many churches classes are being taught in stewardship and the pastors and deacons of the local churches are receiving envelopes and canvass cards which will be simultaneously used in all churches on the canvass date—November 29th to December 6th.

A certain salesman was proposing to his best girl.

"And, sweetheart," he finished, "I'll lay my whole fortune at your feet."

"It isn't a very big fortune," she reminded him.

"I know, dear," he replied, "but it'll look awful big beside your little feet!"

He got the girl.

WORD OF THANKS FROM M. LOCKHART

I wish to express my appreciation to Refuge and adjoining communities for the splendid surprise pounding which they gave me Thursday night, October 29. It was a total surprise to me. There were about 100 present on this occasion. The boys and girls seemed to enjoy themselves immensely; playing various games.

In this pounding was found 12 cakes. The crowd was so large until the pastor was forced to carry the table out in the yard in order to give free access and accommodation to all. After God's blessings were invoked everybody seemed to add more joy to the occasion and expressed themselves as being satisfied.

After the cakes were served a count was made and found that there was $12.00 worth of groceries of different kinds, which space will not allow to mention just here.

I dare not try to mention every one who anticipated in giving, lest I fail to mention some one, as some articles failed to bear names. The following are the names of families represented: G. N. Easterling, S. V. Miller, E. L. Powell, O. R. Robinson, A. N. Mims, R. N. Connell, Jodie Connell, I. N. Miner, Mallie Easterling, Lester Powell, J. E. Easterling, R. V. Mims, T. B. Easterling, J. S. Easterling, E. L. Mims, W. M. Mims, Wm. R. Baker, Mrs. Nancy Mims, A. H. Mims, John Mims, Andrew Miner, Cary Easterling, Harvie Easterling, Virgil Miner, S. J. Powell, Ollie Varden, Marion Easterling, Jim Baker, Mrs. Laura Powell.

Surely nothing less than a desire for the spread of the gospel could have prompted such cheerful giving. When Paul left his followers at Benea and went through Athens and then to Corinth as a lonely worker, he preached and worked at tent making until his followers came and gave him a pounding from the Macedonian brethren. It is an interesting picture of the results of Paul's work after these brethren came and gave him this wonderful lift.

You will recall that on one occasion he said he worked day and night that he would not burden any one. What was the occasion of Paul writing such a letter? It was this: After Paul had left Macedonia he was accused of covetousness. Thus he reminds them that he was not guilty. What did he teach the Corinthians? Let every one of you, upon the first day of the week, lay by him in store an offering. God blesses the cheerful giver.—M. Lockhart.

J. Z. MIMS URGES PEOPLE TO REGISTER

Dear Editor:

Just a small space in your columns to say that there appears to be a great number of young men and women who have become 21 years of age since the Registrars met and I take this means to insist that they come and register this week if possible. If you cannot come to Clanton this week see when they will be in your beat and meet them there. Remember it does not cost anything to register but you cannot become a legal voter without registering.

Register now without fail, and pay your poll tax later that you may be allowed a voice in the governing affairs of your county, state and nation. Next year is presidential election year and we will all want to vote then, but we must make the necessary preparations now.

Let me say again, come and register now before it is too late. There are some who have moved in from other counties and need to register even though they registered in the county from which they came. Register now and get your transfer from the other county and be ready to vote. There are many important questions coming up all along that every citizen should express themselves on at the ballot box.—Yours very truly, J. Z. MIMS.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Virgil Sewell, who was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County on August 29th, 1928, in two cases, for forgery, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of from two to four years, will make application to the Honorable State Board of Pardons for pardon or parole. (Signed)—Virgil Sewell. 10-29-2tpd.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the work of rebuilding the Chilton County jail will be completed on December 1, 1931, and any or all persons who may have claims against the contractors for labor or materials are hereby notified to file such claims before that date.—Moore & Woolley, Inc., Contractors, Birmingham, Ala. 10-29-4tch.

THE NEW LUCKY STRIKE PROGRAMS RETAIN THEIR FAMOUS SIGNATURE SONG

"Happy Days are Here Again," famous signature song of the Lucky Strike radio programs in the past, will be retanied in the new programs to be known as the Lucky Strike Dance Hour which begins November 3rd, according to an announcement by the American Tobacco Company.

The new Lucky Strike dance hour will feature a different dance orchestra of national prominence on each of the three regular weekly broadcasts. These orchestras to play from whatever part of the country they happen to be in at the time of the broadcast, promises to be one of the most unusual and elaborate presentations of dance music ever sponsored. "Happy Days are Here Again" will continue to open and close the programs of all three orchestras, not only because of its wide popularity but also as a guide to the thousands of listeners who have associated its melody with their favorite dance orchestra in the past.

Wayne King and his orchestra open the series Tuesday, November 3rd, at 10 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, from Chicago, playing over a nationwide NBC network. He will be followed on Thursday, November 5th, by Andy Sannella and his orchestra, broadcasting from New York, and, on Saturday, by Gus Arnheim and his orchestra who will play from the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles.

BILLINGSLEY

(Too late for last week)

Well, it seems that time does not efface the hard struggle. Money still seems to be an object. Even preachers and teachers are wearing a long face. I say, cheer up, we shall hope for a brighter day ahead.

Misses Inez and Maud Lee Pattillo of the University spent the past week end with their parents.

Mrs. N. H. Harrell visited his sister, Mrs. Sigh Foshee, of Clanton the past week.

Mrs. C. L. Harrell of Arabian Gap, Ga., is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pattillo.

Mr. Joe Marlar and family of Clanton were Sunday guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Marlar.

Mr. and Mrs. Amey Parnell of Scottsboro, came over Saturday afternoon. Mr. Parnell returned Sunday, leaving Mrs. Parnell and children to visit Mrs. Parnell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baxter.

Messrs. S. A. and Jim Bentley, R. E. Upton and Coach Washington motored over to Montgomery Saturday.

Misses Lila Green, Mable King, Mrs. J. F. Apperson of Billingsley, and Miss Annie Cherry of Vida, attended the Nature Study Course at Prattville Saturday. This course is being taught by Dr. Farmer, of Troy.

R. A. Hicks made a business trip to Prattville and Montgomery Saturday.

Mrs. Will Headley and Miss Gladys Hicks are on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vinson, Mr. J. C. Vinson, and Mrs. Mattie Daniels spent Sunday with Mrs. Vinson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Jackson at Independence.

The many friends of Mr. L. P. Mills will be grieved to learn that he recently got a bad fall in which he received a fractured knee.

Not So Easily Caught—"Jones," she said, reprovingly, "you might at least raise your hat to me."

"I beg your pardon, m'lady," said the peasant, "but my poor wife ain't been dead ten days and I ain't started lookin' at the wimmen yet."

SUPPLEMENT FARM GRAINS

(By Prof. W. B. Krueck)

It is readily conceded by most good livestock authorities that the animal unit on the farm is worth relatively more today than it has been during the last few years. This is due to the fact that the animal unit can do relatively more with farm grains today than it has in the past.

This, however, can only be accomplished when farm grains are properly supplemented to give them the proper balance in the ration. Feeding grain alone to hogs, to poultry, to beef cattle or to dairy cattle does not make a material increase in the return received for that grain at the present time. However, when these grains are properly supplemented with good protein the return from the farm grains in many cases can be increased from 50 to 100 per cent.

Therefore, farmers at this time, because of a liberal supply of grains, should not overlook the importance of properly supplementing the crop which they have produced on the farm.

PEANUT PARCHING

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Crane entertained a large crowd at their home last Thursday night at a peanut parching and cake guessing, in honor of Miss Ruby Wells of Liberty Hill. Music was furnished by Mr. Fonza Smith and Ira Scott. Many games were played. They had a cake for matching paper dolls. Mr. Henry Smith and Ruby Wells won the cake. Miss Zonnie Hayes guessed what was in the second cake, a flag seed. The cakes were cut by the winners and served with peanuts to the guests. Every one had a jolly time, and plenty of peanuts and cake.

MT. PLEASANT DEFEATS BAKER JUNIOR HIGH

The Mt. Pleasant basket ball quintet rode to an easy victory over the Baker five last Friday afternoon on the Baker court, 31-4.

The game opened with Traywick the stellar little forward netting the ball for 8 points the first 3 minutes of play. His running team-mate, Burnett, looped the ball for 12 points for the game.

Traywick was, however, the usual high scorer, getting 17 points to his credit for the game. Littlejohn made a nifty crip shot for the other two markers.

Cecil Traywick, regular running guard for the winners, was out of the game, due to an injured knee. Melton filled his place in a creditable manner, breaking into Baker's clever pass work throughout the game, and with Parker at his usual position, the Baker team could not break through the defense. Their four points came by virtue of fouls. The half closed with the count 25-1.

The Union Grove team comes to Mt. Pleasant next Friday, November 6. This will be a close game, and a large crowd is expected.

CAROLINA GOES REPUBLICAN IN STRAW BALLOT

Chapel Hill, Oct. 20.—Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Norman Thomas are the official presidential nominees of the students at the University of North Carolina.

A straw vote conducted by the Daily Tar Heel, student newspaper, reveals that President Hoover polled more votes than any other candidate, regardless of party, while Governor Roosevelt led all the Democratic candidates, being closely followed by Owen D. Young. Norman Thomas was the successful Socialist.

More than 2,000 votes were cast. The Tar Heel, which has notified the successful nominees of their selection, recommends that the national committees of each party forthwith select these men as their respective standard bearers and thereby dispense with the "expense and ennui of conventions."—Durham (N. C.) Morning Herald.

All who are interested in Shiloh cemetery are requested to meet there Thursday, November 12, to clean off same.—B. M. Deason.

Abie was supposed to be dying of small-pox. His last request was that they send for a priest.

"No Abie," the doctor insisted. "It's a Rabbi you want, not a priest."

"I know vat I vant," returned Abie. "It's a priest—for vy should a rabbi get small-pox?"

S.S.S.

...sparkling vitality and a clear skin

reflect rich, red blood cells

NATURE has its own way of making a strong body and a clear skin * * * by its use of the red-blood-cells.

So often the pressure of work and worry or some sickness "burn up" these precious red-blood-cells—then the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning * * * so are pimples, boils and paleness.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial. Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

FARMERS AND TAXES

Our people are very much exercised over the tax situation. Our assessments have not been reduced and we are being called on and have expected to pay as much tax as ever, notwithstanding the fact that cotton is down to 5 cents per pound.

I am a farmer, and like many others, I take cotton for rent. My land is assessed on the tax books just the same as when cotton was 20 cents, and I will have to give four bales of cotton to the tax collector where I gave one before.

Debts contracted a few years ago on a basis of 20-cent cotton are due to be paid now with 5-cent cotton, which is an advance of 300 per cent. This looks hopeless. What are we to do when our taxes are raised 300 per cent and the capitalists are paying less than before.

What are we to do when the schools all over the state are closing their doors in the faces of our children and our teachers are turned out to beg for a living, all because the governor and lawmakers have a personal grudge at each other and allowing more than $3,000,000 of school funds actually paid for schools by the people to be diverted to other purposes?

How long will the people stand for such robbery and corruption?—B. M. Faris, Pittsview, Alabama.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

With the approach of the end of the year there is bound to be a quickening of interest in national politics. For the past few months the headquarters of both political parties have been unusually quiet in Washington. This has been due to more than one reason. First there has been a disposition to let politics play second fiddle while President Hoover was seeking to outline a program for restoring confidence at home, and one for agreement with European nations on disarmament and other questions abroad. Another reason is financial. With hard times upon us, political organizations have suffered along with everyone, and funds for campaigning have been none too easy to get.

The Republican National Committee will meet in the middle of December, however, for the purpose of selecting a meeting place for Republicans in 1932, and after that the Democratic National Committee will hold a meeting for the purpose of selecting a city for the 1932 Democratic national convention. Then will follow state primaries and conventions, and, before we know it, we will be in the midst of another presidential campaign.

Just at present, judging from newspaper gossip, there seems to be more interest in the identity of the Democratic standard bearer in 1932. This is naturally true, because the Democratic party is out of power and the presidential field is wide open. For some time, of course, Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, has been out in front, but there are shrewd politicians who think that he may develop his maximum strength too early in the game. A recent poll of Democratic newspapers indicated that the majority of them thought that Roosevelt would be nominated, although the majority sentiment of the editors themselves favored Newton D. Baker, the Secretary of War in President Wilson's cabinet.

Roosevelt is said to be very strong in the South and West. During the early part of the year he was making rapid strides toward the nomination. Of late, however, his proggress has not been so rapid. Whether this is due to a reversal in sentiment, or to the belief of his managers that he had been gathering strength too early and too rapidly remains to be seen. At any rate, the horizon is not so cloudless, from Mr. Roosevelt's viewpoint, as it was a few months ago. This is in a measure due to the reported rift between Governor Roosevelt and no less a figure than Al Smith, the Democratic standard bearer of 1929. Political developments during the past few weeks indicate that Smith and Tammany may not be so enthusiastic over Governor Roosevelt's candidacy as might be anticipated. One of the first evidences of this cause in Mr. Smith's opposition to Governor Roosevelt's pet scheme for handling the forestry question in New York. The question is in itself, of course, not a national issue, but the significance lies in the opposition on the part of Mr. Smith, which seemed a little more vehement than the nature of the question warranted. Whether Tammany and Mr. Smith will oppose Governor Roosevelt openly, in the coming convention, remains to be seen. And it is only fair to say that while Tammany opposition might injure Mr. Roosevelt's chances in New York and other eastern states it would tend to help him in the West and South.

In the meantime people over the country are beginning to talk about the qualifications and prospects of "Jim" Reed, of Missouri, for the nomination. It is admitted that, if nominated, he would be a formidable candidate. Recent developments have tended to bring international issues to the forefront, and it is among issues of this sort that Senator Reed shines. He opposes American membership in the League of Nations and the World Court, is opposed to debt cancellation and the interference of Uncle Sam in European affairs. There can be little doubt that these views of "Jim" Reed are very popular in the country, especially west of the Alleghenies, and the recrudescence of internationalist issues might make the former senator from Missouri a formidable and dangerous candidate.

AN IMPRESSIVE VERDICT IN FAVOR OF COUNTY AGENT

Once again have the people of Chilton County said in no uncertain tones that they are in favor of having a County Farm Demonstration agent.

The vote that was cast in the election Tuesday ought to be impressive enough to convince anybody.

It took many years to get the work of a County Agent started in Chilton County. It was necessary to have an election on the subject before those who were opposed to it would be convinced that any considerable number of people wanted it.

Last year, after the work had been carried on by Mr. Stapp for three years somebody got the idea that the folks might not want to keep the services of a County Agent.

A mass meeing was called at the courthouse. The courtroom was filled to overflowing. The endorsement of the County Agent was unanimous. Not a single person was present to oppose the County Agent.

A few weeks ago some opposition developed, and the Commissioners Court, in order to settle the matter, asked the people to express themselves at the ballot box.

They expressed themselves Tuesday to the tune of more than three to one in favor of the County Agent work.

We are gratified. We are glad that the people of Chilton County have again definitely declared themselves in favor of agricultural progress. We shall continue to have a County Agent.

If those who voted against the work will now get busy and begin to make use of the help that the County Agent can give them, we honestly believe they will soon learn that it is worth while to them.

Attention, Farmers! Forward march!

A PSALM OF COTTON

One of our subscribers handed the following article to us Monday and though there's humor in it, there is also lots of truth, and we pass it on to our readers:

Cotton, thou art my shepherd, and I am in want;

Thou hast caused me to feed in a dry pasture, thou hast destroyed my credit; thou hast led me into the paths of poverty, liens, lawsuits and near-nakedness;

Thou hast destroyed my soul and happiness;

Thou hast caused me to go to a banker with my hat under my arm and mortgage the muscle and produce of my farm;

Thou hast caused me to live in a rented house in full view of the moon, while stars come twinkling through the cracks;

Thou preparest a naked back and empty stomach for me in the presence of my friends;

Thou anointest my head with ignorance, superstition, poverty and unpaid accounts—how can I trust thee?

Thou hast kept my children out of school, church and society, thereby robbing them of that which is good, noble, elevating and refining;

Thou hast caused me to go to the barn and bring out the old fertilizer sacks and ask my wife to make me a shirt;

Now, behold as I stand in the midst of my friends in my shirt with these inscriptions in full view;

"Eighteen per cent acid phosphate" on the breast and "12-4-4" on the tail.—Prattville Progress.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Cap shore is one sight. He say he is a one-gallus farmer, and is disable to work very much. Tother day when us was restin' I say Cap, how is you come out on yore pea patchin' business?

He say Remus, you know I only got 14 acres, and here is what I have made on it: 265 bushels of corn, 1 ton of soy bean hay, 1,000 bundles of fodder, one and a half tons of peas, watermelons to give away, plenty of sweet and Irish potatoes, plenty of syrup. Besides this, Cap say he got hogs in de pen, a good milk cow, plenty of wood and pine for winter.

I say Cap tell me 'bout dem water millyons. He say he et his first one July 8th and et his last one September 22. Cap say he didn't use any fertilizer under his corn.

A man was walking over Cap's field. He say Cap, what did you put under his corn? Cap say man, I put elbow grease and brains. The man say I never tried dat.

Cap say dat reminds him how some folks do about Stapp. He say de reason Stapp ain't helping dem is cause day won't let him.

Cap say he spects he will tell us some advice to the Commissioners Court next week, and also some of the sights he seed in Okmulgee swamp.—Uncle Remus.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Sensible Dogs—In meandering around during the first of the week, I heard of a man coming in from his day's work and pulling off his shoes and socks. Now, I don't suppose there was anything strange about that. But this particular man at this particular time sat on his front steps to shed his shoes and socks, and, carelessly, left them on the porch overnight. In the morning they were gone. We all got a big laugh out of his supposition that his dogs had carried them off and buried them. Even that would have been evidence that he had smart dogs. But, later, we hear that the shoes and socks, as well as a cap, have been found, all together, some distance from the house. It would take wise dogs to do that, considering these facts: A dog couldn't have carried both shoes and socks, and a cap, too, at one trip. So the dog must have made two or three trips, and, too, must have been an extra wise dog to deliver all his loads at the same place. Evidently that dog was preparing for a cold winter. Any way, the man was advised to be more careful where he left his wearing apparel, or to build a good warm kennel for his dogs.

Writing In The Dust—I try to be good-natured as much as possible, but there are a few things that never fail to make me mad. One of these is to see some guy taking his writing lesson in the dust on my car. Have you ever noticed anybody doing this? Why do they do it? I don't know, but they do it just the same, even grown people who ought to know better. It seems to be an unaccountable mania with some folks, just like kicking tires, blowing horns, and the like to walk up to a nice car, with a pretty, satiny finish, and proceed to write his name or do a little figuring in the dust. The owner of that car can't appreciate that a bit. The next time you go to do that, don't do it. And, if you see somebody else start to do something like that, call his attention to it. If he is a sensible man, who unthoughtedly does such things, he can't get mad about it. If he is unreasonable enough to resent the reminder, he needs somebody to look after him any way—he isn't accountable for his actions. Any way you take it, the car owner will certainly appreciate it.

Bible Proof—Did you ever hear a guy get into a big argument about something, and ring in with proof like this: "You know the Bible says . . .", and go on to quote Bible passages to bear out his particular contention? I have! And what ridiculous arguments can be substantiated by the Bible. Sometimes the wording of the Bible is twisted a bit to make it fit perfectly. The latest and most ridiculous instance of this kind that I have heard is that in which a United States senator offered Bible proof that our prohibition laws are wrong. He is a very smart fellow, and the way he pointed out that in olden times the use of wine and strong drink of other kinds was common and not frowned upon in the least, was worthy of better cause than that for which he spoke. He even pointed out that wine was used in sacramental observance, and many times spoken of favorably by the Savior, Himself. But, strangely enough, the senator "failed to remember" that passage where He said "Wine is a mocker; strong drink is raging, and whomsoever is deceived thereby is not wise." Yep! He forgot that. And, so, the next time you hear some fellow cut loose with a lot of proof from the Bible to carry a point, just remember that no matter what he is arguing about, his contention must surely need great substantiation if he must call upon so great an authority as the Bible for it. His argument needs a strong prop, and, most of the time, is questionable.

Here's News—Yes, sir, here's news that IS news. You've heard the definition of news haven't you? Well, I'll tell it to you. Somebody said, in the long, long ago, that lots of people didn't really know what news is. He said: "If a dog bites a man, that's no news" but if a man bites a dog, that's news." So, I reapeat, here's news. It has been reported that "BUCK" GORE HAS BEEN HUNTING! I haven't heard "Buck" verify the rumor, but it is news, nevertheless. I know "Buck" has been hunted lots of times, for he is forever roaming around out on his farm, near here, and somebody is forever wanting to see him about something, busy man that he is. But I still contend that even a rumor that "Buck" has been hunting is news. Not that there's anything wrong about it, if he has been out on a hunting trip; it's his own business, and all that; but—oh, well, I don't know exactly why it seems so strange, except that, as a rule, "Buck" just don't hunt. He just don't do it, and that's why it's news.

Yes—And No!—Yes, sir, the people of Chilton County evidently want to keep the County Agent—by about four to one. And by about the same margin the voters don't want another bond issue. At least that's about the best that can be told about the matter at the time this is written. I believe that's a pretty sensible decision on the two matters, too. Of course, the County Agent's office may not have been of any benefit to a few, but, if so, they are few and far between. Lots of people have been benefitted who don't realize it. That is, some may not have received direct benefit, but very few farmers have failed to benefit at least indirectly. Any way, there are enough who have been benefitted to keep the agent. Hats off to the voters of Chilton—they're hard to fool—they know a good thing when they see it, judging by the way they snowed the $25,000,000 bond issue under.

Glimpses—More swapping—this time it's peanuts for shaves. There's a car on fire—now it isn't—somebody put it out with dirt before the fire department had time to get under way. Another filling station—can anybody tell me where I might find gasoline for sale around here? A bus rushes through—thought at first it was the fire department. And that's that.—Man in the Moon.

Helping Everybody—Miss Fanny says she sees by the papers where Mr. Hoover will have a concrete program for relief of unemployment to present to the next session of Congress, and she's glad, because putting the men to work building concrete highways will help them and also be a blessing to all us motorists.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

WHAT IS YOUR HOBBY?

Maybe we are wrong, but we honestly believe that nearly every man or woman who ever amounts to anything, has a hobby. A hobby is the finest safety valve there is.

It doesn't matter what you choose for your hobby—flowers, sheep, dairy cattle, alfalfa, good machinery, antiques, athletics, or what not—the main thing is to have some sort of a hobby—something that will take you out of yourself, will absorb your interest, and by doing so will cause the development of the finest talents in your character and personality. In addition, a hobby will bring real happiness, genuine satisfactoin, better health, a more normal mental attitude towards life and neighbors, and generally a longer life. If a hobby will do all this, it surely would be a mistake to overlook cultivating one, wouldn't it?

Farm folks are more fortunate than city folks, in that they can develop hobbies at home and in connection with their own business more easily because of the nature and wide diversity of interests in farm life. For example, a farmer may take for his hobby the goal of developing an ever increasing high production herd of dairy cattle. Another may absorb himself in developing a variety of seed corn, one best adapted to his section and that by constant selection will give higher yields. Better sheep may strike the fancy of many farmers. Flowers and shrubs will be popular choices with many farm women. Both farm men and women have an almost unlimited number of choices.

A hobby on the farm is not only a diversion but in many cases it proves profitable to the farm business; it adds to the attractiveness of the farm, and it renders a contribution to the upbuilding of farming in the community and in some cases the state and nation. After all, a hobby is some specialty in which you strive to excel and on which you concentrate in order to become an expert.

What's your hobby? If you haven't one, you're cheating yourself, your family, and your neighbors. Success is not measured by the work of a few years but rather the consistent, conscientious efforts of a lifetime. It's the long, constant pull that counts—and it takes a hobby to keep you from breaking under the strain and make you enjoy life as you go along.—The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist.

Mechanical Steering Wanted—The man who invented the device to steer battleships might try his hand at originating something to steer an autohobile driven by a drunken man. He would greatly reduce the casualty list.—Los Angeles Times.

A motorcycle exploded and did no damage except to wreck itself. Perfect! Let us have more explosions like that.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Waste That Is Criminal

One day last week a bunch of prowlers were seen in the woods of Coosa County. They were hunting wild chestnuts. They had with them a couple of axes. When they came to a chestnut tree they proceeded to cut it down and gather up the fruit. This appeared to me as a 1931 model of the man in mythology who is reputed to have killed the goose that layed the golden egg. No wonder we can not have forestry conservation when such criminal destructionists are at large. They are the kind who set fire to the woods and cause untold damage and waste of natural resources.

If Christ Came To America

If Jesus Christ would apply for citizenship in the United States He would be turned down because He wouldn't swear that He would bear arms for the defense of the country. If He was a native-born citizen He would get in jail for violating the prohibition laws in less than a week after He begun His ministry. He made at least 108 gallons of wine on the third day after He begun His ministry in Galilee, and it is safe to estimate the quantity at 144 gallons, which is half way between the minimum of 108 and the maximum of 180 gallons He made on that occasion. For making that much wine they wouldn't stop a calling Him a wine-bidder; they would call Him a bootlegger.—Opp Weekly News.

Strange As It Seems

The man who wrote the paragraph above in The Opp Weekly News is a "hardshell" preacher who supported Al Smith for President. I wonder what some folks think of such a statement as he makes. In a certain Sunday School class the teacher invited the men in the class to express themselves about the eighteenth amendment. A visiting gentleman, who is a Sunday School teacher in a nearby city arose and proceeded to tell some truth about the operation of the prohibition law enforcement in his city. Another gentleman remarked later that the fellow should have been stopped and not allowed to say the things he said.

Edison's Greatest Discovery

"It is very beautiful over there."—

Going out to meet his Pilot face to face, thus spoke the great Edison as he stirred in a heavy sleep a short while before death forever stilled his speech. 'Tis true his great brain and hands lighted the universe, but this last utterance, snatched from dying lips while "crossing the bar," lighted the world's spiritual soul. Edison's earth-darkened eyes, so fond of light, caught the beams of the evening star; all was so glorious it stirred the great genius from his death slumber to murmur to a listening world, "It is very beautiful over there." For the universe and Edison, this was his greatest discovery. (This is clipped from Voice of the People in The Birmingham News).

RISING COST OF GOVERNMENT

The Index published by the New York Trust Company recently presented an article which pointed out that "rising costs of government inflicting heavy tax burdens are causing grave concern in most countries and in the opinion of many competent observers are proving a serious obstacle to the restoration of our ecenomic prosperity." They also point out that in the face of diminishing receipts Congress at its last session appropriated the enormous sum of $10,249,819,315.60—the largest sum ever appropriated at a single session in peace time in this or any other country. State, county and municipal governments have followed the lead of the national Congress and have steadily increased their expenditures and raised their taxes. According to figures presented by the Index of the $12,609,000,000 gross total spent in 1928 the federal government accounted for 31.5 per cent, state governments for 14.5 per cent and local governments for 54 per cent.

These are facts. But what lies back of them? The legislatures, state and national, do not meet and simply because of a desire to spend money appropriate millions that must come out of the pockets of their constituents. There is a definite well organized demand for the moneys not with the legislatures but with the taxpayer. Sooner or later he must come face to face with the fact that the government cannot meddle in all things he advocates without his paying the bill. Unfortunately those who pay large sums for taxation are in the comparative minority and those who advocate large government expenditures are in the majority. In self defense property owners must join hands to stem this rising tide of expense.—Miners Congress Journal.

Remember the good old days when the streets were full of profiteers and bloated bond holders?

25 YEARS AGO

News Items as published in The Union and in The Banner, Issues of November 1, 1906

Work on the new Banner office building was begun Wednesday morning. Farley and Thacker promise to have it done by the first of the year.

The home of P. M. McKee, one-half mile south of Clanton, burned Tuesday morning.

E. H. Mims and three daughters, J. S. Parrish and wife, W. J. Armstrong and wife, J. D. Armstrong, and Misses Lettie Dupree and Julia Parrish, all took a hay ride Saturday night to Higgin's Ferry.

Miss Velma White of Mulberry is visiting Mrs. Renfroe Mullins this week.

W. J. Calloway has removed his family to Birmingham.

The Man on the Corner says: Cast your vote for F. A. Gulledge for the Legislature. He is a safe Democrat.

J. P. Parrish is superintendent of a fine Sunday school at Concord.

MITCHELL DAM

(By E. E. McGraw)

For the past three months Mitchell Dam has been the scene of feverish activity. May we offer this as an excuse for our belated news.

However, during lull periods, sevreal of our residents have become proud mothers and fathers, including Mr. and Mrs. B. L. McCary, a fine girl, little Miss Peggy Louise. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hendrick, a manly speciman titled J. G. Hendrick, III., and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Miller, another fine girl answering to Barbara Ann.

The old stork certainly sees to smile on Mitchell Dam. He is a frequent and welcome visitor here. As a matter of proof that the above statement is true, we have an enrollment of 17 in our grade schools this Fall. They are under careful guidance of Mrs. Eula F. Ogletree. Mrs. Ogletree reports perfect attendance and prospect for a fruitful year.

During the absence from the columns of Powergrams, we have constructed a very modern and efficient telephone line from Mitchell Dam to Clanton. Fond memories are held for the "old grape vine" phone, and we are proud of our new Bell telephone connection.

The water wheel on No. 2 generator has also been welded. As to why and what makes a water wheel pit, several theories are advanced by the workers concerned. However, we are sure that water wheels will be welded on into the years.

Plans and excavations are under way for a new settling tank, which is to be added to our water supply system.—Powergrams.

LAY DAM

By Elery Hanson

Mrs. R. A. Hudson recently underwent an operation at the Norwood hospital in Birmingham. She was brought home several days ago and seems to be feeling much better.

Mrs. Evans of Birmingham has been visiting her sister, Mrs. S. R. Powers, for the past three weeks.

Our Boy Scouts have been working on erit badge work. A number of men in camp have been helping them prepare for their examinations. Most of the boys have won several of their badges and are trying to be ready to pass the Eagle Scout test in the Spring.

A number of changes have been made in the Lay Dam Scout troop. Edmond Lakeman is now Scout leader, with F. D. Green, assistant. Mr. Powers has been the leader ever since the troop was first organized, has been appointed Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Clanton District.

Hugh Branch is on his vacation, or maybe I should say tour. It would never do to write to him now, for he is moving around so fast that a letter would never catch up with him. The last report we had from him was from Cullman.

The operating department has just finished the installation of a ground relay on our Leeds 110kv. line. We now have ground protection on all our outgoing lines.

There was some talk of moving the Coca Cola Bottling Co. from Atlanta to Lay Dam. In fact if the World Series had continued, George Wilkinson would have had to buy the entire plant. For some reason, his team always comes second best. George, why not bet on the other team next time?—Powergrams.

NEWLY REGISTERED CAN NOT VOTE NOW

At the request of Judge Reynolds, it is stated for the information of those newly registered that they are not entitled under the law to vote in elections this year.

The question was raised at the election Tuesday, and will perhaps come up agin at the election next Tuesday.

Judge Reynolds, in commenting upon the situation, said newly registered persons have no way under the law of getting their names on the qualified list until the registration books and the poll tax books are turned in at his office and the new qualified list is made.

This will not be done until next spring. In the meantime, according to the Judge those persons so situated cannot be considered as legally qualified to vote.

Rev. Ivey of Wetumpka will exchange pulpits with Rev. Ezell next Sunday.

Jim Lecroy of Louisville, Ga., has been visiting relatives and friends here this week.

MRS. SALLIE JANE MADDOX

Mrs. Sallie Jane Maddox, age 78 years, died last Sunday at her home in Pates Chapel community. She was the wife of Warren F. Maddox, who died last June.

Burial was at Pate's Chapel Monday, with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. R. M. Honeycutt.

KINDERGARTEN OPENS HERE MONDAY, NOVEMBER 9TH

Miss Madelyn Orr opens up her kindergarten in the Exchange Hotel here next Monday, November 9th. Miss Orr will be glad to have all children in reach enroll in her little school.

ROUND DOZEN SEWING CLUB

The Round Dozen Club had a spend the day quilting at the home of Mrs. Dewey Eubanks last Thursday. A delicious chicken dinner was served. Those present were Mrs. Dewey Eubanks, Mrs. Joe Mims, Mrs. George Wyatt, Mrs. M. A. Rutherford, Mrs. Bill Norris, Mrs. Webb Parrish, Mrs. G. W. Golson and Mrs. Herbert Lowery.

MOUNT PISGAH

On last Sunday afternoon our singing society was called to order by our president, Mr. Jake Henley. Prayer by Rev. Ollie Hayes. Mr. Henley directed a few songs while the committee was arranging the program.

Director for the afternoon were: Dr. Williams, Mr. Jake Henley, Mr. Tom Wells, Rev. Ollie Hayes, Mr. Cornelius Hand, and Prof. J. M. Williams. Organists were Miss Birdie Edwards.

The sining was fine we had visitors from Clanton, East View, Samaria, Highland, Bethsalem, Liberty Hill Pleasant Valley and Floyd. We were very glad to see you all with us. We welcome you back every first Sunday afternoon. Your presence and help is great encouragement to us to press forward for a little better singing class.

All who were not at the debate here Sunday night, missed hearing some fine speaking. The subject was "Resolve that the bootlegger is worse than the booze buyer." Afrmative was Mr. Eugene Aldridge and Rev. Ollie Hayes. Negative, Mr. Dave Adams and Elmer Hayes. All four made some fine points. Mr. Adams made a beautiful word picture of the cross of Christ, and that one full of booze can't look that cross and may loose his last chance.

We also had two ears of corn, one yellow with a few white grains, the other a white ear, he proved traits to be hereditary.

Mr. Elmer Hayes told in an eloquent way, how the drinker starves his family has no respect for the Sabbath and that the boy get his first drink from the drinker. Mr. Eugene Aldridge makes plain that the bootlegger is dishonest, tempts the appetite of those who would quit drinking and that the government works harder after the bootleger.

Rev. Ollie Hayes makes it plain that the bootlegger drinks and sells, is guilty of all he bad things that go with booze, and is responsible for all the trouble caused by booze. I've only mentioned a few things each speaker made plain. I am afraid I am calling for too much space.

I believe that such speeches will be uplifting for how can a man or boy touch booze after hearing such talks?

There will be another debate here Saturday night at 7 o'clock. The subject will be "Resolved that the prohibition law is a benefit to the United States." We invite all woh can to come and be with us.

Judge L. H. Reynolds will go to Dothan next Monday to attend the Kiwanis Convention.

Rev. H. D. Durbin of Route 7 was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Robinson of Birmingham spent last Sunday in Clanton with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powers of Lay Dam were visitors to Birmingham Wednesday.

Emmett Smith and family have returned home to South Carolina after a visit with relatives and friends in Mineral Springs community.

SINGING SOCIETY MEETS AT PROVIDENCE SUNDAY P. M.

Providence is the meeting place of the Central Singing Society next Sunday afternoon. Singing will begin at 2 o'clock. Singers and those who like singing have a cordial invitation. Bring your 1932 books, both kinds, and be there by 2 o'clock.

The singing at Concord last Sunday afternoon was very good, although the class was a little weak. There were more directors than singers. Prof. Grant, the president, had charge. Only one member of the committee, J. R. Robinson of Verbena, was present, who took care of that part of the service very creditably. We hope that every member of the committee will make a special effort to be present at Providence next Sunday afternoon.

TWO MEALS A DAY BEST FOR STOMACH TROUBLES

Skip one meal and drink water instead. Wash out stomach and bowels each morning by drinking water with spoonful of simple glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline compound (called Adlerika).

Adlerika brings out poisons you never thought were in your system. If you are nervous, can't sleep, full of gas, it will surprise you. Get it today; by tomorrow you feel the wonderful effect of this German doctor's remedy.—Upchurch Drug Company.

ITEMS FROM STANTON

Miss Dorthea Courtwright of Birmingham spent the week end with her aunt, Mrs. Sadio Thrash.

C. E. Cagle and family visited Dan Cagle at Centreville Sunday.

Miss Alma Schurter is spending a few days at Safford visiting relatives.

Mrs. Warren Henry of Selma visited relatives and friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Little were in Clanton Monday night on business.

Last Friday afternoon our boys played Enterprise a game of basket ball, the score being 21 to 6 in favor of Enterprise. While the score indicates a very one-sided game, it was not so much so as it appears to have been. While our boys are smaller and far more inexperienced they played an excellent game, especially through three quarters of the game, then they seemed to have gotten off the defense and their opponents began to loop 'em fast and furious for the few remaining minutes. O. V. Harrison was high point man for Stanton, while Gray of Enterprise led his team mate, Griffin James, by a margin of one point for high score. Coach Stuart is putting his boys through some stiff work-outs and with the addition of Huston and Royster to the line-up, we predict better luck from here on.

Tip, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnett, was very painfully injured last Friday afternoon by being struck by an automobile driven by a salesman for the Gulf Refining Co., whose name was not learned. Tip was rushed to a hospital in Clanton where an examination showed his right arm to be broken above the elbow. He had several cuts on the head and minor bruises about the body.

From the best information obtainable it seems that Tip crossed the highway in front of the approaching car. The inference is the driver thought him safely across. At this point he was called by a playmate, and unmindful of the car attempted to cross again when he was unavoidably hit. The driver of the car rendered all possible aid. A last report from the hospital says Tip was resting nicely. We hope he is soon able to return to school.

Our boys ball team will play the lads from Baker here next Friday night. The game is to be played in the gymnasium which assures all a nice comfortable place to see our boys in action on the local court for the first time this season. A good game is expected. Back our boys to the limit. They deserve it. Your presence will make them try harder to win.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E Norton, Manager)

Ralph Pate met with an accident in a football game last Friday on the Thorsby Institute campus which left him with an arm broken just above the wrist.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mills and Mrs. C. E. Lucas spent Monday in Birmingham.

Rev. and Mrs. Each had as dinner guests last Sunday five students in Thorsby Institute, who come from families in West Florida who are old friends of the Each family.

The Congregational Aid Society will meet this week, Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Burt Higgins. All ladies of Thorsby are invited.

Clinton Arthur of Montgomery and a young lady friend were guests of Miss Odie Lee Arthur last Sunday.

Mr. Vinson Sutlive's mother, who has been ill for two weeks, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital in Birmingham Monday morning.

Harry Thompson spent the week end in Birmingham.

Members of the Ladies Guild are requested to have their recipes ready to hand in at the Ladies Aid Social Thursday of this week. Each lady is supposed to bring five recipes and as many more as she wishes.

The sales committee of the Ladies Guild bazaar wishes to remind the ladies of the Guild that bazaar day is coming along fast, to be exact November 28th is the time for which you are supposed to be ready.

Mrs. W. B. Hamilton and son of Birmingham attended the football game at Montgomery Saturday and stopped en route home to call on Mrs. N. Laurell.

Miss Mabel Colley of Prattville spent a few days with Mrs. C. M. Gray last week. Mr. Howell Vann, of Wadsworth, was also a guest of the Gray family Thursday.

Misses Willadean Bean and Linnie Bell Reinhardt spent the week end with friends at Wilsonville.

Miss Ottis Murray of Jemison spent the week end with Luticia Bean.

Fred Price of Wadsworth was a visitor one day last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horst and son, Fred, florists of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charley Howard.

Mrs. Fred Howard and daughter, Mabel, spent Sunday with Mrs. Kenneth O'Barr near Morris, Alabama. Mrs. O'Barr is best known in Thorsby as Lucille Howard.

At Howard Brothers where we made a recent call, we learned that carnations are now plentiful and of good quality.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray spent Sunday in Prattville.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper and Mrs. Ed Piper spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Endorus Killingsworth of Bessemer visited his grandmother, Mrs. Martha Primm, Sunday.

Miss Mary Ella Gerald has been elected a member of the Jemison School faculty.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. Janie Sutlive stood the trip to Birmingham very well. Mr. Sutlive returned to Thorsby Tuesday morning leaving his mother in the hospital for observation. His wife will remain there a few days with friends to be near his mother if needed.

Messrs. Fred, Charles, and Lloyd Howard spent last Friday in and around Birmingham attending to business. At Leeds, Ala., they visited a factory where electric irons are made. Everything there was interesting. They also spent a little time with Fred Howard's daughter, Mrs. Kenneth O'Barr, near Morris, Ala.

Mr. Charlie Swanson gave a housewarming party in his new house last Saturday night. A good many of his friends were present and report the party a success as all had a good time. Mr. Swanson intends to spend most of the winter in his Thorsby home.

Mr. E. N. Steiner of Marion Junction has been in and around Thorsby for several days visiting kinfolks and old friends.

Rev. Fred C. Ensminger, superintendent of Congragitnoal mission work in Alabama, Tennessee, and West Florida, spent a couple of days with Thorsby friends this week.

Rev. Each lectured on China last Sunday night; was attended by a good audience, and was very interesting as showing the progress of missions in that country.

Mrs. J. Honeycutt had as her guest Sunday Mrs. Freeman Jones and mother of Birmingham.

The Misses Lola and Jessie Martin and Edna Childress spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson had as guests for Sunday Mr. M. A. Carleton and Mrs. H. M. Carleton, and the Misses Lucille and Louise Carleton, all of Dadeville, Ala. Also Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fincher of Waverly, Ala., and as a week end visitor, Miss Mortie Fincher from Montevallo College.

Phone 119 for Fall Cleaning.

Mrs. Anderson Marcus and family desire to publicly express our grateful appreciation of the many kindnesses and helpful service rendered by their friends and neighbors during the illness of their husband and father. We especially want to thank Dr. Horace Franklin and the nurse, Mrs. Irene Jones. Mr. Marcus is improving splendidly.

Mrs. Ludie Lenoir of Clanton spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Ben Davenport.

Mrs. Frank Higgins and children of Birmingham spent the week end with Mrs. Burt Higgins.

The Eastern Star spend the day social will be held with Mrs. H. O. Bean on Friday of this week instead of Wednesday. Please take note of the change of time.

The dinner sponsored by the Ladies Guild of Thorsby on election day was in many ways a unique and successful affair. Mrs. Charles S. Howard, as chairman of the committee of arrangements, secured a very efficient corps of assistants. They were favored by ideal weather. The unfinished building gave an open air picnicky effect. The tables were graced with large boquets of beautiful roses, and the oysters were served piping hot, and of delicious flavor while the accompaniment were first class in every respect. Everybody was made to feel comfortable, at least while eating, and many expressions of satisfaction were heard. There seemed to be enough for all who came and it was all used. Net results added $15.20 to hte Guild treasury. The ladies are all wearing a broad smile and want to thank everybody who helped in any way to make the dinner so enjoyable.

Mr. J. L. Foss is reported quite ill with pleurisy.

The oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice is reported to be sick with scarlet fever.

While writing these notes word came Tuesday afternoon of the death from pneumonia of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomason of Lay Dam. Mrs. Thompson was well known in Thorsby as Bernice Willaims, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams. Their many friends will sympathize with them in their affliction.

The new term of Thorsby Institute began this week Monday. In next week's paper will be the names of those on the honor rolls.

Wednesday morning at chapel Mr. Sigwald, district scout master, gave a most interesting talk. Thorsby Institute is sponsoring a troop now under the leadership of Mr. H. R. Maddox, as Mr. Sutlive resigned from the position.

Monday afternoon the mothers of the members of the Freshman and Junior Classes were invited to the campus cottage for a social hour with the faculty. Light refreshments were served.

Saturday night at the dining hall a Hallowe'en social was given by the social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society. Evie Lee Rowe, Janie Kelley and Miss Mary Ella Gerald constituted the committee. The dining hall was very effectively decorated. Several games appropriate to Hallowe'en were played and fortunes were told. After the refreshments a hymn was sung and Rev. Jos. E. Each offered a prayer of benediction.

A week from Saturday night at 7:30 the operetta, "Christina of Greenland" will be given at Thorsby Institute by the Helen Keller Literary Society. Admission 15 cents and 25 cents for all not pupils or teachers at the Institute.

Ida Lou Pate, a sophomore at Thorsby Institute, spent the week end with her brother, Rev. James Pate, of Calera.

Douglas Surls returned to Thorsby Institute Sunday after a few days' visit with his mother in Prattville.

Elwyn Robinson, a Junior at Thorsby Institute spent the week end with her parents at Lay Dam.

Phone 119 for Best Dyeing.

At The Hospital—Matron: Only relatives are allowed to see him. Are you a member of his family?

Girl: Why, yes, I'm his sister.

Matron: Oh, really, I'm so glad to meet you, I'm his mother.

Inspector—"Got away has he? Did you guard all the exits?"

Country Constable—"Yes, but we think he must have left by one of the entrances."—Cooperative News.

He—"If you could have two wishes come true, what would you wish for?"

She (frankly)—'Well, I'd wish for a husband."

He—"That's only one."

She—"I'd save the other wish until I saw how he turned out."—Pearson's.

Joe: "What were you doing at the jail today, John?"

John: "I wanted to see the man who broke in my house last night."

Joe: "Why did you want to see that burglar?"

John: "I wanted to ask him how he got in the house without awakening my wife."

UNION GROVE

The people of Union Grove are glad to announce that the Collins Chapel B. Y. P. U. are to be with us next Sunday,night and put on a program. We are always glad to have other B. Y. P. U.'s to be with us at any time. We think this helps to hold interest. So we invite everyone to come and help to build up our union, instead of pulling it down.

After the meeting there will be preaching by our regular pastor, Rev. J. R. Bean. Brother Bean will preach Saturday night, and Sunday at his regular time.

There will also be singing Sunday afternoon. The United Singing Society meets with us. Everyone is urged to attend church at Union Grove November the 8th, Sunday night.

THE HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The home economics club of Isabella High school met October 26 for its program which consisted of our club song sung by the club, and recitations by different members of the club. It was decided that Myrtle Durbin should give creed and Gertie Owens our aims and accomplishments for the annual banquet, which will be December 4th.

The Sr. II class in Home economics is studying a very interesting unit of Child development. The first period of our Home economics class is given to the children from grades one to four. We teach them rhythm and how to play different games. Each girl gave something in the way of blocks, back of tents and hammocks, and tires for the boys to roll. We hope to have permanent play ground equipment such as sand piles, etc.

We have had three weeks of this study, and find it to be very interesting.

May God's richest blessings be yours is our prayer.—Mrs. John Littleton and family.

The boy's essay was a beauty, full of definite detail. But somehow or other it didn't seem to have much relation to the subject. So the teacher asked "where did you get this information on moths?"—and Johnnie showed his source of information—a book labeled—"What a Young Mother Should Know."

DOES IT CRAMP THEIR STYLE?

As late as 1928-29, private cotton buyers were frequently "mistaking" an extra white, strict middling, inch-an-a-sixteenth bale of cotton for a blue, half-and-half dog-tail, if we are to judge by prices they paid, as reported in government publications.

Whether they are making this "mistake" as frequently where the cooperative associations have set up classing and marketing service is information which we hope to announce at a later date.

Bulletin 165, Georgia Experiment Station, published in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, entitled "Farm Price of Cotton Related to Quality," is one of the recent sources of information. It shows that in 1928-29 some farmers received $32.50 a bale less than others for the same quality of cotton, in the same town, on the same date. Differences of $20.00 per bale are reported as frequent.

Twenty dollars to $32.50 a bale seems like a big "mistake" to us, but we wouldn't ask the cotton shippers to look into it just now. They have really serious problems, like pinning the world depression, prohibition, and the pink boll worm on the Farm Board. Later, maybe, they'll have time to explain how that $32.50 "mistake" is the untrammelled working of the laws of supply and demand.

It does cramp their style, no doubt, when cooperative associations put out daily quotations showing the value on the day's market for every grade and staple, and supplying the service of federally licensed classers, employed by the farmers, themselves, to fix that grade and staple. Yes, sir, we imagine it does cramp their style.

HE WILL CARRY YOU THROUGH

Why should we worry over hard times?
We are no better than our Lord;
He was troubled while here on earth,
For He says so in his word.

The Lord, He sends the sunshine,
And He sends the rain;
And if it was not for His blessings,
We would not make the grain.

We should go to Sunday school, also go to church,
It is our duty as same as it is to work;
For if the Lord's blessings was a thing money could buy,
The rich would have it, and the poor would have to pass by.

If you will only trust Him,
Work and let your heart be true;
No matter how hard the times are,
He will carry you through.

Remember, we have only a short time here,
Why should we be so blue?
For there is one who has more power than man,
Watching over you.

Just thank God for His blessings,
Let them be great or small;
Begin this in spring,
Times will be better in the fall.

They may take your cotton,
They may take your bread;
But they can't take your home in Heaven,
Remember what He said.

So many seem to have forgotten Him,
Not thinknig of His love;
But while you are in trouble,
He is still above.

Count your many blessing,
Count them one by one;
Count your many blessings,
See what God has done.

So remember what He commands us to do,
Do unto others as you would have them do unto you,
And only trust in Him,
And He will carry you through.

CIRCUIT COURT HERE WEEKS OF 2ND AND 9TH

The circuit court of Chilton County, regular July term, convenes at the court house in Clanton on Monday, November 2nd, according to J. Z. Mims, Circuit Clerk. The civil trial docket will be held Monday thru Thursday of the week beginning on November 2nd. The criminal docket will be taken up on Monday, November 9th, and continue on to the latter part of the week. There will be no grand jury, as this body convened at the non-jury term two weeks ago. A very heavy docket is scheduled in both civil and criminal weeks of court.

T. G. Lake, of Verbena Route 2, was a visitor to Clanton the first of this week, in attendance at circuit court.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(©, 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 8

PAUL IN EPHESUS

GOLDEN TEXT—And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:1-41.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the City of Ephesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in the Key City of Asia.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Bonfire of Bad Books.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel Facing Error.

I. John's Disciples Become Christians (vv. 1-7).

These twelve disciples had only been taught the baptism of repentance as preparation for the Kingdom. Paul taught them to believe on Christ; that is, to receive Christ as the one who on the cross provided redemption for them through the shedding of his blood. When they believed and received Christ as their Savior, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, and Paul laid hands on them and they received the Holy Spirit.

II. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv 8-10).

1. In the Jewish synagogue (v. 8) Though the Jews were Paul's enemies, he inflexibly followed his rule to go first to them with the gospel. His preaching was characterized

a. By boldness (v. 8).

b. By reason (v. 8).

c. By persuasion (v. 8).

d. By speaking concerning the Kingdom of God (v. 8). He did not discourse on philosophy, or the latest in literature, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

2. In the schoolhouse of Tyrannus (vv. 9, 10). The Jews, being enemies of the gospel, were only hardened by Paul's preaching, and spake openly against this way of salvation in Christ. Paul separated the disciples from them and resorted to the schoolhouse of Tyrannus.

III. God Working Miracles by Paul (vv. 11-16).

Ephesus was noted for its wonder workers. That Paul's ministry might be successful here, God in an extraordinary way put his seal upon the work. Handkerchiefs and aprons that had touched Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits. Seeing the marvelous power operating through Paul, certain Jews who went about the country practicing magical arts undertook to use the name of Jesus in their incantations. Knowing that their connection with Christ was not real the use of his name by them only enraged the evil spirits who sprang upon and overcame them.

IV. A Glorious Awakening (vv 17-41).

1. Fear fell upon all (v. 17). News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It brought to the front those who professed faith in Christ while not living right lives (v. 18).

3. Many gave up the practice of the black arts (v. 19). Black arts are forms of jugglery by the use of charms and magical words. No one can have fellowship with God and practice such arts. They proved the genuineness of their Christian profession by publicly burning their books, valued at $12,500

4. Uproar of the silversmith at Ephesus (vv. 23-41).

a. The occasion (vv. 23, 24). The power of the gospel was destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his fellows. Their primary interest was its financial effect upon the principal business of the city.

b. The method (vv. 25-29). Demetrius, a leading business man, called a meeting and stated that much people had been turned from idolatry and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his fellows

(1) On the ground of business (v. 27). The world is willing to tolerate any kind of religion or moral awakening so long as it does not interfere with its business or way of living.

(2) On the ground of religious prejudice. He said that the temple of the great Goddess Diana would be despised (v. 27). He became religious when he saw that his business was being damaged. His speech gained his end. The crowd in a rage cried, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." The mob was quieted by the tact, good judgment, and counsel of the town clerk (vv. 37-41).

Obedience

The golden chain of obedience is broken if one link is missing. If you are hanging over a precipice by a chain and one link goes, you are lost.

Difference in Men

One man will make all human nature seem contemptible; another will exalt it to immeasurable heights of beauty and benignity. So there are men who make it hard, others who make it easy to believe in God.—Jno W. Chadwick.

Holiness

The holiness taught in the Bible is the same as that lived by the saints of the Bible. The saints of the New Testament showed us how holy people ought to live.

Have You Given For Boy Scouts?

Solicitation Now Being Made For Carrying On Work In Chilton County

Let every citizen give at least something to scouting. Tonight it is hoped that Clanton District Boy Scouts will go over the top with their finance effort to carry on the work for another twelve months. Give to the boy scouts. In the past year much has been done in the way of promoting scouting. Four units instead of one are now holding weekly meetings as of this time one year ago. Much more organization work is yet to be done. While over fifty boys are getting the scout training now the number should be doubled by next October. Your dollar will assure regular visits of the Scout Executive.

Besides the list of objectives enumerated in this paper last week, the scouts have many other accomplishments. Someone said this morning at a meeting of scout finance workers that building better boys is big business.

It makes for a better community when already a large number of boys are daily carrying out the scout laws of trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent.

Last night the scout executive met with the troop at Lay Dam. Yesterday afternoon the executive assisted local girl scout leaders in the instruction period of the girls.

This paper will print the names of all those who give to maintenance fund this week. Here's hoping we announce a success to the efforts of the men who have the work of Charter development and citizenship training at heart.

There will be a special boy scout program at the Kiwanis Club luncheon today at the Methodist church.

Concord-Billingsley

A number of the members from this church attended the fourth quarterly conference which was held at Pleasant Grove Church last Saturday. All who were present reported a nice time and especially enjoyed the sermon that was delivered by the president of the Alabama Conference, Rev. C. W. Walton.

The singing was very good Sunday afternoon. We had with us a number of visiting singers, which we were indeed glad to have with us.

Several directors rendered a lesson, and two quartets were arranged by the class. We are glad of the cooperation shown by the visiting singers.

Our Sunday school meets Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and Christian Endeavor at 6:30 o'clock every Sunday night. You are always invited to come.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Victor Cowart.

HELP ORPHANS WITH PRODUCE

Unity and Chilton Associations Will Send Car Load of Stuff To Troy

At the meetings of the associations this year it was decided that the Unity and Chilton County Associations unite in sending a car of produce to the Baptist Orphanage at Troy again this year as they did last year. A committee of the two associations, composed of G. F. Harris, W. I. Mullins, J. W. Jones and Homer Carroll, have sent a letter to all Sunday Schools and churches of the two associations, calling the matter to their attention and requesting that they organize each church in the movement.

Loading of the car will be at Thorsby on Tuesday, November 24, and at Clanton Wednesday, November 25. All persons are requested to take their gifts to the place that is most convenient.

The committee in their letter points out that because of the falling off in the contributions of money to the Orphans Home, there is a greater need of produce than ever before. The superintendent of the home says there is need of everything which can be used in any home.

Mention of a few of the things which are needed at the home is made as follows: Canned vegetables and fruits, syrup, corn, beans, peanuts, hay, cottonseed meal and hulls, flour, corn meal, sugar, coffee and all other groceries; all kinds of cloth for making clothes, household goods, such as pillow cases, sheets, blankets, towels, chairs, etc.

It is very important that everything be crated and packed ready for shipment, as this will help greatly in loading the car.

DR. BARTON WILL PREACH THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH

On Sunday, November 22nd, at eleven oclock, Dr. L. E. Barton of Montgomery, State Baptist Secretary, will preach at Thorsby Baptist Church. Rev. J. W. Jones, the pastor at Thorsby, says: "Urge the people in reach of Thorsby to attend this service. Dr. Barton is a wonderful speaker, and I want the people of this section to hear him at this hour."

Mrs. Sophia Jones and Reed Mullins, went to Florence, Monday on account of the illness of little Nell Ross Mullins, who underwent an operation for appendicitis early Monday morning. Late reports say that she is doing fine.

BANQUET FOR FIRE FIGHTERS

Big Feed Enjoyed By Boys At Matt's Lunch Shop Last Week

Fifteen members of the Clanton Fire Fighters enjoyed a barbecue and banquet last Wednesday night at Matt's Lunch Shop, in Clanton. Only one members of the outfit, Sleepy Miller, was absent, being in Florida at the time.

The occasion was the end of an attendance contest among the members, where the losing side had to set up the winners to a feed. Points in determining the winners were based on the number of each side at the regular practice meetings of the Fire Department every Wednesday night over a period of two months.

At the conclusion of the banquet last Wednesday night it was voted to start another contest which will end on the 23rd of December with another barbecue and banquet.

The firemen wish to publicly acknowledge their thanks to Mr. Matt Ware and the personnel of his cafe for providing such a bounteous feast for them on this occasion. Everything was perfect and right on the dot.

The boys disbanded at the conclusion of the banquet, everyone feeling full to the brim. By a strange coincidence, it was only about an hour later that they were all together again fighting a fire which had broken out in a residence on east Second Avenue. Some of them found out that it is not good to have such a full stomach when fighting a fire. They might have had worse results, however, if they had been at home trying to sleep in that condition.

CHARLEY COX'S HOME BURNED

The home of Charley Cox, near Mt. Zion church, was completely destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. None of the family were at home when the fire occurred. The house, barn, and storehouse, with all contents were completely destroyed.

Mr. Cox estimates that his entire loss was around $7,000, and he had only about $1,000 insurance on the house.

Mr. Cox and his family had moved back to their old home place only a few months ago.

When the fire occured, Mr. Cox was at a sawmill a few miles away, and Mrs. Cox had gone to visit her daughter, Mrs. Crit Jones, at Lay Dam. "We didn't know a thing about it," said Mr. Cox, until I got back there and found the whole place reduced to a pile of smoking embers. All I have left is what I have got on right now."

MORGAN JUDGE DIED OF HURTS

Accident Injuries Fatal To W. E. Skeggs, Former Probate Judge

Decatur, Nov. 9.—Judge W. E. Skeggs, 65, for 25 years a prominent figure in Morgan County political circles, was struck down and fatally injured by an automobile here last night.

Reymond Stevenson, of Moulton, captain of the Lawrence high school football team, who officers said, was the driver of the automobile, was held in the Morgan County jail today pending further investigation of the accident.

Judge Skeggs was removed to a hospital, where at first his injuries were not considered serious. An X-ray, however, showed both hips were broken and he died two hours after the accident.

For 17 years Judge Skeggs was judge of probate of Morgan County. Recently his second trial on a charge of slaying Patrolman T. E. Wright, two years ago, resulted in a mistrial. At a former trial he was convicted and sentenced to 10 years in prison but an appeal to the state supreme court won for him a new hearing.

Patrolman Wright was shot to death by Judge Skeggs when the officer attempted to arrest him for a traffic violation.

KIN VINSON NOW SINCLAIR MANAGER

Mr. and Mrs. Kin Vinson arrived in Clanton last Saturday, moving back here from Sandersville, Georgia. They have taken up their residence at the corner of Ninth Street and Seventh Avenue.

Mr. Vinson has already begun his work as manager and distributor of Sinclair oil products in this territory. Sinclair has a large distribution plant located alongside the railroad tracks near the city waterworks.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Vinson are glad to have them back in Clanton again, after an absence of about three years.

DR. CARMICHAEL WILL SPEAK HERE TODAY

Dr. O. C. Carmichael, president of Alabama College, at Montevallo, will speak at the Chilton County High School this afternoon (Thursday) to a joint assembly of the parent-teachers associations of the high school and the grammar school.

Every parent and school patron should make a sacrifice if necessary in order to have the privilege of hearing Dr. Carmichael. He is a man of special training, high ideals and attainments, and his address will certainly be an inspiration to every parent and school patron.

SPECIAL SALE OF USED CARS AT POLK BROTHERS

Attention of people interested in buying or trading automobiles is directed to the advertisement of Polk Brothers Motor Company, in this issue of The Union-Banenr.

One fact in particular relative to new license tags is pointed out by Mr. W. M. Polk. He reminds automobile owners that in future all tags must, according to law, go with the car for which they are bought. Consequently, if you buy a new tag for your car now, and trade it in any time during the year for a new or used car, your tag will have to go with your old car, and you will have to buy another tag for the car for which you trade.

Therefore, Mr. Polk advises all who may be contemplating a trade in the near future, to trade before they buy new license tags.

Peoples Telephone Co. Contracts With Giles

Central Office Will Be Moved To John Giles Home and Operation Will Be Continued. Payment of Central Fees Is Urged By Board of Directors

At the board meeting of the Peoples Telephone Company here Monday, the president, Mr. Jesse Baker, and all of the board were present. The meeting was to dispose of some unfinished business left over from last week, that being the final decision as to an operator for the coming year. It was decided that A. L. Giles be retained as central operator, his duty being also to keep up the lines inside the corporate limits of Clanton.

The matter of moving the office to new quarters was taken up, and it was decided by the board to move the central into the house of Mr. John Giles on third Avenue in East Clanton. The work of moving will be done within the next few weeks, according to the present plans.

The board urges the payment of central fees as fast as possible, as the funds of the company are now exhausted. Mr. Jesse Baker, the president, said: "We believe that we can give fair service this year with reasonable co-operation from the phoneholders. The phones are needed this time worse than ever before, due to the fact that lots of people are not able to operate automobiles; but we believe that everyone can scrape up $2.50 to pay their central fee with. I want to urge everybody to pay just as soon as possible so that we may be able to pay as we go. We don't owe anything now, and we want to stay that way."

Below is a copy of the contract which was offered by Mr. Giles and accepted by the Board of Directors:

Operator Contract

I, the undersigned, A. L. Giles, hereby agree to operate the central of the People Telephone Company, for the year beginning November 1, 1931, and ending October 31, 1932. I also agree to keep up the lines of said Company within the corporate limits of Clanton, Alabama, said Company to furnish all material.

In the operating of said central I agree to keep the switchboard in as good repair as I can, considering the condition of same and to keep an operator at said switchboard ready to answer any calls from all lines both night and day. I further agree that the operator at said swithchboard will use no partiality in the service given but will render to all who pay central fees the very best service possible regardless of the line they are on. This same method will be followed in keeping up the lines within the corporate limits of Clanton, Alabama

It is my understanding that the Peoples Telephone Company agrees to pay the house rent and the light bills incident to operating said central office.

This, the 9th day of November, 1931.—(Signed), A. L. GILES.

An arrangement has been worked out whereby Mr. Giles will rebuild and work up the interest on some of the lines that have been out of commission for the past two years. Anyone interested in getting your old line put back in without cost to you, see Mr. Giles or some members of the Board.—T. E. Wyatt, sec'y.

M. J. BARRETT DIED OF INJURY

Former Citizen of Thorsby Passed Away At Home Near Selma

The people of Thorsby were shocked Tuesday morning to hear of the accident which took the life of a former and highly esteemed resident of this community, in fact one of its pioneers, known as M. J. Barrett, who died at his home near Selma, as a result of being crushed in a hay press which he accidently fell into.

Word was immediately sent to Clyde Mead, in Thorsby, who, with his wife and Mrs. Chambers, went driectly to the Barrett home, arriving before Mr. Barrett died. He was conscious to the last and gave directions for his funeral and burial.

Mr. Barrett came to Thorsby with his wife. They had no children, among the early settlers of the Northern Colony named Thorsby. He settled on a farm about a mile north of the railroad station, and later developed one of the finest dairies of thoroughbred Jerseys in the state, this he conducted successfully for several years, making records which attracted attention from state agricultural officials, both in dairy cattle and pure bred hogs, which did much to emilinate the "razor backs" so common in those days.

When the anti-tick law was passed and was being fought out in Chilton County, by the blowing up of dipping vats, and obstinate refusal on the part of scrub stock owners to comply with the laws the state had begun to enforce, the quarantine provisions of the law, which stopped all sale of cattle from tick infested areas. No matter how anxious one man might be to comply with the law, or how free from ticks his herd might be, it simply made it impossible for him to do business in Chilton County, until the county was declared tick free, which took two or three years to accomplish.

In order to carry on, Mr. Barrett sold his fine farm in Thorsby and moved to another near Selma, which was in a tick free district, where he conducted a successful dairy business for several years. This he later gave up to become a large producer of alfalfa hay.

Mr. Barrett was a charter member of the Congregational church at Thorsby, also a trustee, and until he moved away, he was a valued member of the Board of Trustees of Thorsby Institute. He was in many respects what may be term, "a desirable citizen."

At his request the funeral and burial will be at Thorsby, some time Thursday of this week. The hour awaits the arrival of a brother from Iowa. It is expected services will be held in Thorsby Congregational church, under auspices of the pastor, Rev. J. E. Each, and burial in Thorsby cemetery.

D. H. GENTRY DIED MONDAY EVENING

Was One of Leading Citizens of Chilton County For Many Years

Mr. D. H. Gentry, a prominent citizen of Thorsby and Chilton County, died at his home in Thorsby at 6 o'clock p. m., Monday, November 9th; aged 73 years and seven months. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Cora Bates Gentry, four sons, Adolphus, Arthur, J. D., and Sidney; one daughter, Mrs. Ida Bean; one step-son, Ernest E. Porter; and three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Pierce, Mrs. Dora Bates, and Mrs. Fanny Nix; one step-sister, Miss Lucinda Thacker. He also raised two orphan children, one, Mary Louise Bates, now in high school, who lived as his daughter since she was three years old. There are 13 others who have lost Grandpa.

He was born in Alabama and has spent all his manhood life in Chilton County. He was a member of Southern Baptist churches for 45 years; A. F. and A. M., No 759 in Thorsby 22 years, and a charter member of Eastern Star in Thorsby. He served a while as County Commissioner, and on Thorsby public school board. He was always interested in church and educational affairs, and took an active part in all good community activities. Although his life was mostly spent as a farmer, he was a leader among men, a man of exemplary habits and kindly Christian character, a man whom to know was to love.

About four years ago he came to Thorsby, and with his wife brought letters to Thorsby Baptist Church, with which he was connected at the time of his death, after a lingering illness.

When he had decided he could not live long, he calmly advised his family as to his funeral arrangements, and burial. Selecting Colilns Chapel Church, of which he was long a member, for the funeral, and Rev. Ezell, the well known pastor of Clanton Baptist Church, to conduct the service, with burial in the Collins Chapel cemetery, beside his first wife. Spigener of Clanton as funeral director.

COUNTY AGENT THANKS VOTERS

Stapp Is Glad People Want To Continue County Agent Work

I wish to take this opportunity to thank my many personal friends as well as the friends of County Agency Work for their splendid support and cooperation during the recent campaign and the election on November 3rd.

I sincerely regret that more than four hundred saw fit to vote against the continuation of the work. I assure those who voted against the work that I am just as conscientious now in wanting them to see the value of the work as I was prior to the election.

If those who voted against the work will come to me or call a meeting I will be more than anxious to meet with them and be of service to them.

As I stated during the campaign there are only two classes opposed to county agency work. One is the fellow who is opposed because of some personal greed; the other is the fellow who has not given the work thought and consideration.

I am more anxious than ever to make the work of greater value to Chilton County.—C. E. STAPP.

CAR WRECK NEAR LAY DAM LAST SUNDAY

Two Ford cars ran together on the Lay Dam road last Sunday morning. It was a perfect head-on collision. One of the cars was driven by Charles Simpson, the other by Grady Gillespie. Mr. Simpson was in the car with Charles. Gillespie was alone.

The cause of the wreck is said to have been the dense smoke which made it impossible for the drivers of the cars to see their way.

The cars were badly wrecked. Charles Simpson was seriously cut about the face. Mr. Simpson and Gillespie escaped without injury.

DEER KILLED BY CLEVE LITTLEFIELD

Cleve Littlefield went on a deer hunt last week with Dr. Fonville, of Birmingham, to a game preserve near Eutaw, in West Alabama. He returned last Friday with him evidence to show that he killed a big buck while on the hunt.

At home he has the antlers, which he will preserve as a trophy. He brought one of the deer's feet to The Union-Banner office. We hope to be able to keep it too.

Cleve says he brought the buck down with three loads of buckshot fired from a 16-gauge Browning automatic.

Mr. Littlefield was in a party composed of Dr. Joe Moore, Dr. Averyt, Dr. Fonville, Dr. Walker, and Bill Hamilton, all of Birmingham. Mr. Hamilton is Tax Collector of Jefferson County.

A tradgedy happened on the hunt Wednesday morning, after which the party disbanded. One of the hunters, John Roper, was accidently shot and killed by his bosom friend, Ulay Robinson.

HAZEL NUTS IN CHILTON COUNTY

Rev. J. Robert Bean of Beat 16 was in Clanton Monday morning with a handful of something kindly like acorns, kindly like chinquapins, and kindly like chestnuts. When questioned about them he said that he gathered them in the woods up close to Union Grove and that they were hazel nuts. We never knew before that this variety of nuts grew wild anywhere in Chilton County. Rev. Bean said that he was taking some of the bushes and was transplanting them on his farm near Providence.

TAX CASE APPEAL RULING DELAYED

Decision of Butler Will Be Made the Last of This Week

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9 — Decision in the appeal of Chilton and Coosa Counties for a reassessment of the Alabama Power Company properties in those counties, S. R. Butler, state tax commissioner, said Monday would not be ready before late this week.

After a public hearing here on October, 22, at which the counties presented their arguments against reductions of more than $1,000,000 in vauations in each county, Mr. Butler said he would try to reach a decision by November, 10.

The hearing followed requests by citizens of the two counties who protested the reduction in the valuation of the power company properties.

The reduction for Chilton County totaled $1,666,042 and for Coosa $1,103,272. This, the petitioners claimed, reduced the assessment to 45 per cent of its valuation while the constitution provides for assessments at 60 per cent of the reasonable and fair market value.

In announcing the reduction, Mr. Butler said the power company assessments throughout the state had been revised on a uniform rate of 45 per cent valuation, showing an increase of $908,568 for the state.

Four suits asking writs of mandamus to force raising the power company assessments to 60 per cent in Chilton and Coosa Counties now are pending before the Montgomery Circuit Court until Mr. Butler announces his decision.

APPLETON AND BEAN WILL EXCHANGE PULPITS SOON

Rev. J. Robert Bean informed The Union-Banner Monday morning that an arrangement has recently been made whereby he and Rev. Zac Appleton will exchange pulpits, On the third Sunday in December Rev. Bean will preach for Appleton at Collins Chapel, and on the fourth Sunday in January Rev. Appleton will preach for Bean at Friendship. Of course both pastors intend to be present at their churches at each of these services.

Each of the above services will be held at 11 o'clock and the people of the respective communities are asked to bear the date in mind and attend.

KENNAMER PICKS ASHLEY FOR JOB

St. Clair County Man Becomes United States Commissioner At Montgomery

H. G. Ashley, a native of Montgomery and widely known political leader of Ashville, was to arrive Thursday to take the oath of office as United States commissioner for the Montgomery division of district court, succeeding W. A. Jordan, whose term expires Friday.

Mr. Ashley will take office by appointment of Judge Charles B. Kennamer for a term of four years, the office operating on a fee basis and paying approximately $2,500 annually. Mr. Jordan, who has practiced law for many years in Montgomery, was appointed eight years ago by the late Judge Henry D. Clayton.

Mr. Ashley, who left this city in his youth, has many friends and relatives here. He formerly was chief deputy in the United States marshal's office in Birmingham, and later served as collector of customs in Mobile and register of the Federal Land Bank in New Orleans.

He has been prominent in affairs of the Republican party in north Alabama and is widely known throughout the state. The appointment fills the last office that was opened when Judge Kennamer was appointed to the bench and by the expiration of terms in the district.

Mr. E. H. Mims brought to The Union-Banner Monday a bunch of Yates apples, there being eleven growing in one cluster. They were all small apples but were well developed. This was an abundant peach year, and it looks now as if there were going to be quite a few apples after the late ones are all gathered.

SINGING AT MAPLE SPRINGS

The Central Singers will meet at Maple Springs next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All singers are cordially invited. The singing at Providence last Sunday afternoon was fairly well attended and was very good. Prof. O. L. Devaughn, the vice chairman, had the program in charge. Two members of the committee, J. R. Robinson and Willie L. Mims, were present. W. M. Devaughn, the other member, was absent.

VISITS UNION GROVE

The Collins Chapel B. Y. P. U. went up to Union Grove last Sunday evening and put on a program. Reports from Union Grove say that the program was very fine and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The pastor, Rev. Bean, especially thanks the Collins Chapel young people for their splendid Christian work as displayed before his church at Union Grove.

MAPLE SPRINGS

People are through harvesting now, and it seems that everybody made plenty and some to sell, if they could get a market for it. We ought to be thankful for it.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are going fine now. There was a drop in them but Sunday and Sunday night everybody seemed to have a good spirit for better work. Next Saturday and Sunday are preaching days. There will be four services, and maybe five. We have preaching some times on Saturday night. Let every body come to preachinb Saturday, and maybe Saturday night, Sunday school at 10:00 Sunday, preaching at 11:00; singing in the afternoon, and B. Y. P. U. Sunday night at 6:00. There is something we can all do.

PILGRIMS REST NEWS

Miss Evelyn Deramus spent last week end with Miss Mollie Belle Ousley.

Mr. Jim Chandler has returned to Wetumpka after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chandler.

Miss Leila Belle Smith, our teacher at Pilgrim Rest, spent last week end at her home in Clanton.

Mr. Lester Chandler and family are spending several days with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kendrick, Madge, and Mrs. G. B. Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Browning.

Mr. Claude Traywick and Mr. G. B. Williams attended the singing at Alpine Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Abbott spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Apperson.

On Monday evening of last week Miss Leila Belle Smith, assisted by Miss Sudie Keen and Miss Mollie Belle Ousley, delightfully entertined a number of patrons and friends at a Hallowe'en party at the school building.

After a number of games and contests were enjoyed in the house the party moved into the yard in a pine forest, which had been made for the occasion. Everybody seemed to have the Hallowe'en spirit, as they sat in the dark forest, lighted only with jack-o-lanterns, eating peanuts and telling ghost stories. In the meantime several balls of fire came over the forest, and ghosts were seen at intervals.

At a late hour the following enjoyed a weiner roast and hot coffee: Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kendrick, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Headley, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Traywick, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Pursey Henson, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Ousley, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ousley, Mr. and Mrs. K. C. SHILOH NEWS

Dear Editor:

Please allow us space in your paper for a few words to remind every one who can and will to come to Shiloh next Sunday afternoon and help us sing. It is our regular singing day, and we are always very glad to have all who can sing and lovers of singing to come and help us and listen.

The B. Y. P. U. social at Mr. O. L. Ray's Saturday night was enjoyed by a number of young folks. We had some visitors from other communities and we were proud to have them with us, and we ask them back into our community, and to our B. Y. P. U. every time they can and will come.

Mr. J. D. Mullins and family were the Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. C. L. Pierce and family of Enterprise.

Mrs. Leonard Traywick and little daughter, Gulma, of Clanton, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Ray.

Mr. Joe Dennis and family of East View were the Sunday guests of Mr. Henry Dobbs and family.

Misses Galie and Lonnie Ruth Ray were the Sunday guests of Miss Adell Ray of Enterprise.

Misses Agnes and Verlon Mullins, Misses Myrtle, Thelma, Maggie, and Jewell Pierce and Mrs. Virgil Griffin, and Mr. John and Jessie Pierce attended the singing at Pleasant Valley Sunday afternoon.

Don't forget our singing next Sunday afternoon. Everybody who will be with us.

MT. PLEASANT WINS OVER UNION GROVE

In a swift and interesting game of basket ball the Mt. Pleasant Junior High School boys swept the fast Union Grove quintet down to an 18 to 9 defeat last Friday afternoon on the former's court.

Cecil Traywick opened up the scoring with a beautiful shot from the side, close to the center line. His team-mate, Burnette, soon followed with a nice crip shot. This four-point lead was held until the third quarter, when the Union boys gained a one-point margin only to lose it shortly afterwards, as the Mt. Pleasant lads settled down to a fine exhibition of pass-work, which led them through their opponent's defense where they netted 8 additional points.

The half closed with the winners clinging to a slim lead of 8 to 7, which Union soon overcame by registering 2 foul shots. At this point of the game the Mt. Pleasant team began their real drive to victory. H. Littlejohn, center for Mt. Pleasant, gave the large crowd a great thrill when he dribbled the ball from back of center-mark to the goal where he made a beautiful looping shot, netting the ball for 2 points.

The Union Grove boys succeeded in getting only 2 points the last half, these coming through foul shots. The intense rivalry between the two teams was perhaps the leading cause for excessive fouling by both teams. Mt. Pleasant committing 7 and the Union boys 4.

Retherford, for the losers, led his team in scoring with 2 field goals and 2 foul goals for a total of 6 points.

Burnette, for the winners, led his team with 6 points also. The Union Grove team took particular pains in guarding his running team-mate, Curtis Traywick, holding him to 5 points, however, Traywick missed several nice shots which he ordinarily makes good.

It Really Doesn't Pay To Try To Do Without It

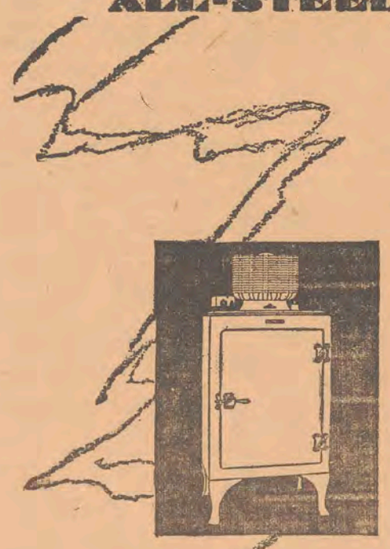
The telephone is such a familiar part of daily life that its convenience and value are often overlooked until it is out of service.

This is the experience of those who discontinue their service for one reason or another. They soon find that the small cost of the service has been repaid many times each month in convenience, in time and actually in money saved.

Telephone users constantly tell us that the cheapest service they can buy today, compared with its value, is telephone service.

There have doubtless been times in your own experience when your telephone service has proved priceless—when the ability to call instantly a doctor, a policeman or the fire department, could not be measured in terms of money.

But it is not alone the emergencies that give the telephone its true value. There are the commonplaces of every day conversations—the twenty-four hour a day convenience in the home, the shop, the office, whenever you wish two-way communication with anyone almost anywhere.



On reflection you will doubtless agree that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

Chief Justice Hughes In Tribute to Red Cross

One of the finest tributes ever paid the American Red Cross and its membership was that by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court, on the occasion of the fiftieth birthday anniversary of the organization on May 21 of this year. Mr. Hughes said:

"The American Red Cross represents the united voluntary effort of the American people in the ministry of mercy. It is the finest and most effective expression of the American heart. It knows no partisanship. In the perfection of its cooperation, there is no blemish of distinctions by reason of race or creed or political philosophy.

"However we may differ in all things else, in the activities of the Red Cross we are a united people. None of our boasted industrial enterprises surpasses it in efficiency . . . It moves with the precision and the discipline of an army to achieve the noblest of human aims.

"The American Red Cross is not only first in war but first in peace. The American people rely upon its ministrations in every great catastrophe. It has given its aid in over one thousand disasters. When, as we hope, war will be no more, still the Red Cross, in the countless activities of relief and rehabilitation, will continue to function as the organized compassion of our country."

Mr. Mr. W. J. Satterwhite of Calera, Route 1, was in Clanton Monday and Tuesday of this week attending Court.

JOHN CRAWFORD'S VISION

John Crawford, colored, of Lomax recently had a vision, wherein he saw a large field of corn totally destroyed by cows. Efforts of folks could not save the corn. John asks the Bible readers to interpret his vision according to the Scriptures, and see what it comes to. John says that time will prove if his vision means anything.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

In walking about town Monday morning, in reportorial capacity, we heard the clatter of a gasoline engine, long silent. On investigation we found E. F. Mead and Son's cement works running full blast, which certainly seemed to us "good news." Mr. Clyde Mead, the manager, told us he had sold out his stock of well tile, and turned down several orders, but was now making fresh stock of a superior quality, stronger and smoother than any he ever made, and yet would sell them at a low price.

Thorsby Baptist Ladies Aid Social will be held Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Wilder.

There will be preaching, morning and evening, by the pastor next Sunday at the Congregational church, also union prayer meeting at 7 p. m., Wednesday.

Miss Helen Dizney from a hospital in Taiku, China, a missionary, home on a furlough, and partly supported by Congregational churches in Alabama, will be in Thorsby and speak Friday at 7 p. m., at Thorsby Congregational Church. The people of this community are invited to hear her.

Cecil Each came home a little while Sunday to tell his folks he has been promoted in the plant of The Independent Ice Company, where he has been working for some time. He has been made cashier, paymaster, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Each and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard went to Montgomery shopping Friday, taking dinner with Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Horn, former residents of Thorsby, whom they found looking very well, and mighty glad to greet them.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Honeycutt, with two sons and Earl Marcus left Monday for Atlanta to go into business.

Rev. and Mrs. Each were guests at supper and spent the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard. They passed the time playing dominoes.

Miss Esther Johnson of Birmingham spent Sunday with home folks.

Mrs. Fred Howard and daughter, Mabel, visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Barr at Morris Sunday.

Mr. R. D. Gibbons with his wife and little daughter, visited his mother, Mrs. Ola Kelley, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott were Sunday guests of Mrs. Ola Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schuette of Birmingham were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. N. Laurell.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mills of near Flint, Michigan, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lucas, left for home by auto Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell of Bessemer were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nelson Sunday.

Mrs. Christina Christiansen had as Sunday visitors her son, Arnie, with his wife from Birmingham, and Miss Hulsey.

Miss Martha Williams spent the week end with home folks in Thorsby.

We are able at this time to give more particulars about the death of the Thomason baby, in whom Thorsby people are interested. Mr. and Mrs. Thomason were visiting Mr. Thomason's parents in Birmingham, with their 10-months old baby boy, who had never been sick a day in its life. The child somehow took cold. They tried simple remedies a few days, and when they found no improvement took him to the home of Dr. Ollie Wilson at Ensley, an uncle of Mrs. Thomason. He pronounced the trouble pneumonia, and applied the usual remedies faithfully for two days and nights. Finally the baby seemed better, and took nourishment and went to sleep but never waked up.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mead and daughter, Helen Louise, with Mrs. Archie Robinson and daughter, Lessie, spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mrs. H. V. Thompson is spending a two weeks vacation with her family in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hayes and son, George Jr., of Birmingham were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Thompson and Mrs. Thornburg recently.

Mr. Nels Petersen spent last Sunday in Sylacauga.

Mrs. Nels Petersen and Norman were visitors in Clanton last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth and son, Leonard, motored to Selma Saturday afternoon, bringing Christine and Theresa Bosworth, and Naemi Turnquist home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bosworth and son, Sidney, spent Sunday with James Bosworth.

The topic for Christian Endeavor last Sunday was "Our Share in Making World Peace Permanent." Odell Rowe presided over the meeting. The amount of money spent on war and the amount being consumed for the up-keep of our navy and army in preparation for war was largely discussed throughout the meeting. We, as Christian Endeavors, have a great part in trying to keep world peace.

Next Saturday night everyone is invited to come to Thorsby Institute to the Helen Keller Literary Society meeting. The operetta, "Christina of Greenland," will be presented at 7:30. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents to all not pupils or teachers at the Institute.

On November 28 the school will have its annual stunt night. This is always an enjoyable occasion. A small admission of ten cents will be charged.

There will be a public debate between the Clanton High School and Thorsby Institute November 20, 7:30 p. m., at Thorsby Institute auditorium. No admission.

MILLER NAMED PROPHET

Texas Commissioner Says South Looks On Governor As Cotton Moses

Montgomery—"The South is looking to Governor Miller to point the way out of its cotton problem," declared J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, following a conference with the Alabama executive at the capitol Monday.

The Texas official, who attended the recent conference in Birmingham at which additional uses for cotton were discussed, said he called upon Governor Miller at the request of Governor Sterling to confer with him in regard to the cotton states conference to be held in Jackson, Mississippi, November 23.

"Governor Sterling, in common with the chief executive of other cotton growing states," said Mr. McDonald, "regards Governor Miller as a great and outstanding lawyer with whose aid a plan can be worked out for reduction of cotton acreage next year that will be agreeable to all and will stand the test of the courts."

The main purpose of Mr. McDonald's call upon Governor Miller was to ask that he appoint delegates to the Jackson meeting and that he personally head the Alabama delegation. Governor Miller expressed his regret that he would be unable to attend, but assured the commissioner he is ready and willing to do everything in his power to aid in the solution of the cotton problem.

An effort will be made at the Jackson meeting to evolve a plan for application in all cotton states to effect acreage reduction.

Drouth Chews Away 3,000 Miles Gravel Roads Over State

Alabama now has approximately 3,000 miles of road originally surfaced with gravel, chert or sand-clay, on which very little surfacing material is left, due to the protracted dry weather, it was made known yesterday by State Highway Director, L. G. Smith.

"The roads of Alabama have suffered a great deal from the drouth this year," Mr. Smith said, in the course of an interview. During dry weather gravel, chert, and sand-clay surfacing materials become loosened and ground up by traffic and are rapidly blown away.

"So far this year has been the driest on record at Montgomery. The lowest rainfall to November 1 prior to this year at Montgomery was 31.4 inches. The rainfall at Montgomery November 1 this year was 25.2 inches. Hence this has not only been the driest year on record but there has been 20 per cent less rainfall than the next driest year in history of the weather bureau.

"This extreme druoth causing this unusual loss of materials came at a time when the surfacing of a great many of the roads was already very thin. Roads constructed more than four years ago with surfacing of standard thickness have worn thin. A majority of the roads constructed in the last three or four years were surfaced with only a thin layer of gravel, chert, or sand-clay and hence these newer roads are also thin. Alabama now has approximately 3,000 miles of road on which very little surfacing material is left."

The Highway Director then sounded a note of foreboding as to the coming winter. "With this unusual loss of materials from the already thin surfaces," he said, "it will be very difficult to keep a considerable part of this mileage in good, serviceable condition during a normal rainy winter season.

"The State has increased its forces in resurfacing such roads, which is the only phase of highway work that has not been curtailed. But even with these increased forces only the worst sections of road can be resurfaced before winter."

Maplesville Dots

Rev. Stafford filled his regular appointment at M. E. Church, Sunday evening. The people here appreciated Rev. Stafford, and the church has paid up and ready for the conference.

The many friends of, Mr. Jack Northrop will indeed regret to learn of his death, on Sunday morning, at 3:15, November 8, at his home in Kerville Texas. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Northrope accompanied by Mr. Charles Smith, reached Kerville, on October, 31. They are expected to return to Maplesville, this week.

Miss Betty Baldwin, spent the week end with her parents at Mt. Creek.

Charles Haggard, student at Livingston, spent the week end with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cobern, Miss Katherine Deramus, and Mrs. Sallie Perry, spent Sunday, in Birmingham, guests of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Cobern.

Mrs. H. S. Watkins, has returned to her home, at Robertsdale, Alabama, after several days' visit to her daughter, Mrs. Dudley Nix.

Miss Ruth Mize, teacher at County Line, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Mize.

Miss Elizabeth Parnell, teacher at Guntersville, and Miss Lucy Parnell, student of Alabama College, Montevallo, were the week end guests of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. N. Parnell.

Miss Estelle Davis, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Davis.

The many friends of Mr. Walker, and his sisters, Miss Margaret and Sallie, hope for them a speedy recovery from serious illness.

ALABAMA PRISON PROBLEM LOOMS

Accommodations For 3,000 To Be Stretched To House 6,000 Prisoners

Montgomery — Alabama's penal population has grown from 2,876 in 1926 to 6,098 on November 7 of this year, giving the state the largest number of prisoners in its history. More than 200 prisoners are expected to be added to this number by January 1.

Cost of feeding, clothing, guarding, giving medical attention and other services to prisoners has increased from approximately $75,000 a month in 1926 to $150,000 a month.

In these figures lies one of the most perplexing problems of the state, inasmuch as Alabama possesses facilities for only 3,000 prisoners. The problem will become greater when cold weather necessitates housing of the 1,000 prisoners now quartered in road camps.

These 6,000 convicts cost the state $25 a month each, or $1,800,000 a year. The highway work in which some of them have been employed will soon be completed and the highway department will turn them back to the convict department.

A federal law which will prevent convict-made goods from going into interstate commerce will soon become effective to further aggravate the situation.

The prohibition law is largely responsible for the excessive prison population, officials claim.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION

There will be a fiddlers convention at Isabella School house, Saturday night, November, 21, at 7:00

Proceeds for benefit of Senior class. There will be three prizes, first prize, $2.50. Second prize, $1.50. Third prize, $1.00. The judges will be from communities representing the school. All fiddlers and lovers of music are invited to attend. Admission 10 and 20 cents.

WEST CHILTON

The rush of 1931, with the Chilton County farmers is about over, so he has ample time to figure on his losses for the year. Also a fine opening to start with renewed hope for next year, if he can start at all.

Shiloh Colored Church burned down a few days ago. It caught from the heater. They were teaching in the building at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crumpton, of Jemison will move to the Herbie Smitherman farm.

Newman Crumpton, has located on the Hugh Waldrop farm.

Mr. Joseph Martin, of Birmingham, was here Sunday. We presume looking after his interest here, he owns the John Merchant place.

Everybody would be glad to see it rain, it has been dry so long.

Singing at Freeman Sunday afternonn was good and well attended. Messrs. Scot Armstrong, Askew and Cofer, did the directing. Singing is going to be there again the second Sunday afternoon in December. In the Harp and Harmony books. Everybody come.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lenoir, of Pleasant Grove, were visitors at Macedonia, Sunday.

John S. Waldrop's car collided with a car driven by some young ladies from Selma, the other Sunday, on the Jemison and Randolph highway. The cars were damaged some, but the occupants were not hurt.

Glorify Your Cereals

IF Florenz Ziegfeld has been able to "glorify the American girl" in his latest Follies, it is no folly to believe that you can do something of the sort for your breakfast cereals. It is merely a matter of getting the best combination, and that is what this producer has done both as to taste and to looks.

Breakfast cereals are mighty good just with sugar and cream, but most people have a way of selecting only one or two of them, and their constant recurrence in the same form finally becomes monotonous.

Why not combine them with fruit? You should always eat fruit for breakfast. And there is one fruit available the whole year round where acid content turns alkaline in the body, which is just what you want it to do, if you are wise. That fruit is Hawaiian pineapple, and it has the additional merit that it is less expensive than most fruits. For an amount equal in volume to, say, an orange, it costs only two cents per person to serve. A No. 2 can containing eight slices can be bought for fifteen or sixteen cents nowadays, and there is more substance in one of these slices than in the average orange. So here are some recipes for combining Hawaiian pineapple with cereals at your morning meals.

Wheat, Rice and Corn

Fruit Wheatena: Have four cups of water, to which one-half teaspoon salt has been added, boiling rapidly. Add three-fourths cup wheatena slowly, and cook two or three minutes, or until thick. Add the drained contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple, cook a few minutes longer, and serve hot with cream and sugar. Serves eight.

Rice and Pineapple Mush: Bring three cups of water and the contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple to boiling, add one teaspoon salt, and slowly drop in one cup rice. Cook about three minutes over the flame, place over boiling water and steam until tender, from about forty-five minutes to an hour. Serve hot with cream and sugar. This serves eight.

Cornmeal and Pineapple Slices: Bring to boiling four cups of water to which one teaspoon salt has been added, add one cup cornmeal slowly, and cook a few minutes, until thick. Place over boiling water, and cook ten minutes. Add the drained contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, cook five minutes longer, and then pack into a buttered mold, loaf shape or round (a baking powder can makes a good receptacle for this) and let chill overnight. In the morning slice and mold and panfry in hot fat. Serve with butter and maple syrup. This will serve eight people liberally.

With Other Fruits

You needn't limit your breakfast fruit to pineapple, however, for it combines most pleasantly with other popular fruits. Here, for instance, is a recipe for pineapple and orange juice which has been named

Sunrise Pineapple: Chill the contents of a No. 2½ can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple and one and one-half cups orange juice separately overnight. In the morning, drain the pineapple, place the slices in serving dishes, and pour over orange juice. Decorate with a sprig of mint, or a nasturtium leaf and flower, or serve plain. Pineapple tidbits can be used equally well in this combination. Save the syrup for use in sauces or fruit drinks. The amounts given in this recipe will serve eight.

Compote of Prunes and Pineapple: Soak one cup of prunes in one cup of water for several hours or overnight. Add the syrup from a No. 2 can of pineapple and one-half a lemon, sliced, and simmer gently until tender. Add two tablespoons sugar, and cook five minutes longer. Cool. At breakfast serve two or three prunes and a little of the juice over each slice of pineapple, having all very cold. This, too, serves eight.

A Different Toast

And here is a toast with a new tang that makes it different from the ordinary breakfast toast:

Hawaiian French Toast: Beat two eggs slightly, and add one-fourth teaspoon salt and three-fourths cup milk. Dip eight slices of bread in this, and panfry a golden brown on both sides in hot fat. Remove to a hot platter. Panfry in the same skillet the slices from a No. 2 or 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple, and lay one on top of each piece of French toast. Top with curls of bacon. If desired, a little of the pineapple syrup may be heated in the skillet and served with the toast. This serves eight.

HARD TIMES RENEW BANKER'S OPTIMISM

ROME C. STEPHENSON, retiring president of the American Bankers Association, declared, in an address on the expiration of his term of office that, in travelling about among the banks from one end of the country to the other during the past year, he had "come out of it with a renewed faith in the strength of our banking structure and our banking situation, and a renewed faith particularly in the spirit and courage of the men in the banks that have enabled them to rise unconquered over difficulties such as men never had to face before, or to accept with fortitude misfortunes that were beyond human power to prevent."

When he reflected, he said, that the "entire human economic structure has been brought to the verge of ruin under the difficulties that have swept over not only the nation but the entire world, and that the results of events of this kind react with particular directness upon the stability of our banks, and yet how few have succumbed, we may well renew our confidence in the banks of America; when we think also of how many of our bankers have stood up under the stress and storms of these times and how relatively few of them have been proved wanting in the series of crises that have assailed them, we may well feel a sincere pride in our fellow bankers." He added:

"So I come out of this year of somber experiences not as a pessimist, but as an optimist—as one with a renewed faith and confidence in the spirit of his fellow men under overwhelming difficulties. And particularly do I come out of this year as a banker who is proud of his fellow bankers for the undaunted way in which they have met their part of the great test through which the times have put the nation. I believe that this year has brought new honor to our banking traditions, and our banking profession and has won for the banker new title to the faith and trust of all classes of his fellow citizens."

Doctor—"You certainly have acute appendicitis."

Patient—"Oh, you flatter me."

COTTON REPORT

Therewere 17,822 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1931, prior to November 1, 1931, as compered with 19,187 bales ginned prior to November 1, 1930.

CAR BURNED SUNDAY NIGHT

Arthur Broadhead is suffering from severe burns on the face, and Rufus Brown is carrying three broken ribs, as a result of an accident last Sunday night, in which the car of Rufus Brown was burned up.

Broadhead, Brown, and Miss Wells, of Jemison were riding up the highway in Brown's car, with Broadhead driving. They attempted to turn around on the highway at the Sutley place above Jemison. The car backed off the road down a little fill.

While the car was tilted on the embankment, Brown changed with Broadhead to drive the car out. In swapping places they in some way knocked the switch key out of its place. They looked on the floor board and could not find it. Thinking it might have gone through the floor to the ground, Broadhead got out, went under the car and struck a match to look for the key.

When the match was struck, the whole place caught on fire from gasoline that had run out of the tank when the car tilted over to one side. Broadhead was covered up with the flames. He got himself out from under the car. With some difficulty he succeeded in getting Brown and Miss Wells out of the car.

Broadhead was seriously burned. The car was burned up. Brown got three broken ribs. Miss Wells was not hurt.

Mr. Bill Benson of Collins Chapel community was a visitor in Clanton Wednesday.

ITEMS FROM STANTON

Mrs. M. A. Woolley returned from Charlotte, N. C., Saturday night, where she has been visiting her son, Staff Sergeant Maurice W. Woolley.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ruddick of Cordova visited their mother, Mrs. W. J. Ruddick Sunday.

Dock and Clifford Gregg of Montevallo visited relatives here Sunday.

Several from here are attending court in Clanton this week.

Mr. Walter Hand returned to Birmingham Saturday. He will be employed by Dixie Metal Supply Co.

Mrs. Lena Fitzgerald and son, Buster, of Birmingham visited in the Woolley home last week.

The boys basket ball team of Baker Junior High engaged the local quintet in a hotly contested game here Friday night. While the Baker boys tasted defeat, they were not beaten in spirit. A team with such a true sense of sportsmanship cannot be completely drowned. All through the game they fought like the valiants they are and not once did their determination to give their best wane. They played a good, clean game from start to finish. Had our boys not been much larger and more experienced than the Baker boys, they likely would have lost. The score was Stanton 46, Baker 3.

An account of this game would be unfair and incomplete if we were not to mention the loyalty of the fans from Baker. You supported and encouraged your boys as becomes the good sports you are.

Houston, the elongated Stanton center, and Carter, right forward, vied with each other in an effort to be high point scorer. Houston, with 22 points to his credit won over Carter, who made 16 points. However, Carter looped a much higher percentage of his attempts than did Houston.

The Harrison brothers gave good account of themselves. L. D. Young, small as he is, gave good account of himself when it came to break up the Baker forward drives. Joe Ed Bearden, floor guard, defended his position so well that not a field goal was scored by the opposition.

ENTERPRISE SCOOL NEWS

We have a fine enrollment of nearly three hundred, in our school this year, and had fine attendance for the first month. Our average for the entire school being, 92 per cent. Miss Campbell's room led in attendance, their average being, 97 per cent.

We have two new teachers this year; Mr. Marion Smith, in the Jr. High Department, and Miss Mabel Wilkins, the first grade teacher. Mr. Smith is coaching our boys' team and under his able direction the boys are showing much progress.

We are glad to have Gulma Traywick back with us again, after being out two weeks with an infected foot.

The boys and girls that do not play basket ball are organizing a volley ball team. We soon hope they will have their ball and net.

Our boys will meet the Mt. Pleasant team on the home court, Friday afternoon. We expect this to be a very exciting game, and we want a large crowd.

The Jr. III Club will have it's second meeting, Friday morning. Every one has been asked to suggest a name for the club, and the members will vote on the most appropiate one. The slogan is, "Better Every Day English."

There will be a Christian Endeavor Social at the home of, Miss Lottie Edwards, Saturday night. All members are cordially invited.

NEW HOPE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED!

AS CLIMAX to his year's crusade on behalf of the unemployed, Bernarr Macfadden (inset, above) will have the satisfaction of seeing his "Back to the Land" movement introduced in Congress. Photo was taken on the experimental farm in Greenville county, South Carolina, where the Department of Labor, in co-operation with the Red Cross, is practically applying the Macfadden plan. The publisher suggests that a five or ten acre plot be turned over to each unemployed family head, together with necessities for cultivation of the soil. This is to be in form of a loan. It will take the jobless, despairing thousands out of the cities, make them self-respecting, and give them a new lease on life

CASH IS RECEIVED FROM WOOD SALES

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 9.—One way for Alabama farmers to obtain cash is by selling firewood for fuel to home owners in nearby towns and cities. Each fall and winter this is done and it probably will be done on a larger scale this year. Advertising in local newspapers should help to get customers. If the timebr is cut judiciously the forest will be improved because undesirable trees will be removed. It is a mistake to sell straight, sound trees of the good timber types, as firewood. The inferior woods not readily merchantable as lumber probably never will serve a better purpose than feulwood. Crooked black oaks, short bushy-crowned white oaks, unsound hollow beech, slow growing unthrifty trees are the kinds to cut for firewood. The removal of such trees gives the more grow.

Some farmers arrange to supply a purchaser for the entire year, hauling the wood as trips are made to town. It is well worth while to stack the stove wood so it can season as dry wood has a greater heating value than green wood, is more convenient to handle, and is very much lighter in weight. A roof or shelter to turn off water increases the value of seasoned fuelwood while a wood box indoors is a great aid in rough weather.

Firewood should be prepared in a size and form to suit the customer. Rather than wait on the courthouse square for a customer, it is many times more satisfactory to take orders in advance.

IS HISTORY A DRY OLD SUBJECT IN SCHOOL?

Not in the Maplesville school, where the fifth grade pupils began the year's work in history and geography by making a study of their own town and of Chilton County. Below is the story of Maplesville as clipped from the Alabama Booklet, as written by Willard Hayes, a member of the fifth grade class:

Maplesville is situated on the western border of Chilton County, near Mulberry Creek. The M. and O. and Southern railroads run through Maplesville. It is a convenient place to market the lumber and agricultural products.

The citizenship of Maplesville is of original Southern stock. There is located in the town two churches, a Baptist and Methodist. Maplesville has a strong and substantial bank, which carries the town name, "The Bank of Maplesville." We have a modern Senior High school building. All the grades are being taught here from the first through the twelfth. We have eight teachers.

This town was first settled three miles east of here in 1822. It took its name from a prominent pioneer named Maples. In 1850 when the railroad was completed from Selma to Dalton, Georgia, the town was moved so that it would be more convenient. Mr. Redding Hicks was the pioneer merchant.

We have now about twenty business houses and a population of about five hundred law-abiding citizens.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

S. Fossett of Jackson County was the first Alabama farmer to make an entry in the 1931 International Grain and Hay show at the Union Stockyards in Chicago, November 28 to December 5th. It included 10 ears of white dent corn in the world's largest competitive display of farm crops.

Trading wheat for coffee, as was done recently through Federal Farm Board, is being opposed by the National Coff· Roaster's Association. A resolution to this effect was adopted at a recent convention in Chicago.

BEEF CATTLE ARE GAINING IN STATE

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 9.—A brighter outlook for beef cattle in Alabama is foreseen by Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension animal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. Farmers of the State are turning their cutover and unused land into profitable use by grazing beet cattle; and they will use a portion of the land released from cotton for beef cattle production, Dr. Sugg said.

The recent introduction of the trench silo is destined to play an important part in beef cattle production in Alabama. These silos can be filled with sorghum, corn, or any other good silage crop. Lowlands are used for raising these crops on a large scale, thereby producing silage at a low cost and filling with it an inexpensive but practical silo made in the ground. In addition to silage a little hay and cottonseed meal are needed to winter beef cattle. Hay can be produced at a low cost and only a very small amount of cottonseed meal is needed.

We must continue to improve the quality of our beef cattle, Dr. Sugg added. "We must use purebred beef bulls and we must save our good heifers and use them for breeding stock."

Dr. Sugg explained that a general practice in Alabama is to sell beef calves four to eight months old. In this way they are sold while milk fat. An effort is now being made to produce feeder calves, which must be better in quality, and selling them to feeders in other states. These calves are sold at from 8 to 15 months of age. County agents, he said, are giving special attention to this type of beef cattle production.

In the chrysanthemum show held in New York, November 5, 6, 7 and 8th, premiums as high as $5,000 were awarded, according to the Florists' Exchange. It was one of the finest displays of chrysanthemums ever seen in the United States.

Albert May Todd, the mint king, who died recently at Kalamazoo, at the age of 81, began growing peppermint when he was a boy of 17 attending school. Later he incorporated his business and became the largest producer of essential oils in the world. His work enabled thousands of farmers of Michigan and Indiana to turn their waste muck land into profitable production of mint.

WHAT CHICKENS EAT AND WHAT BECOMES OF IT

Gray Summit, Mo., Nov. 9.—A hen eats only one cupful of feed each day and of that cupful only one-fourth goes into the egg she lays;" that's the report of feeding experts who have just completed feeding tests on 8,050 hens at the experimental farm of Purina Mills.

Chickens used in the test were all standard bred hens, such as may be found on most farms. The scientists first sought to determine how much feed one hen ate each day. Then they set out to learn just how much of that feed went into the making of an egg. Once these men learned it was only a quarter of a cupful of the feed that went into making an egg—just an ordinary coffee cup filled a quarter full—they no longer marveled that feed had such an influence on egg production.

Body maintenance takes most of the cupful. First the hen takes care of her body, replacing worn tissues, building feathers, etc. Nature made her that way. Then with the last quarter of a cup she makes eggs—if that quarter cupful is right. If there is anything lacking or some one thing not just right—she quits laying.

Part of that quarter cupful, report the experts, is grain and part of it is mash. The grain develops the yolk of the egg while the white and part of the shell come from the mash.

If a surplus of grain is fed, it is stored as body fat. Later, if the grain ration becomes shy, she draws on this stored fat for yolk making materials.

But white and shell material, scientists have found, is not stored in appreciable amounts. It must be supplied each day in the mash feed. If the mash ration is shy, there will be no white and shell for tomorrow's eggs.

"These experiments show that mash feed is really the limiting factor in egg productnon," says C. S. Johnson, head of the Poultry Department of Purina Mills. "We know a hen can store surplus grain and later, if the grain ration is shortened, draw from the storage the materials needed for yolk development. But not so for whites and shells. These are built from the laying mash she eats each day. There is little storage.

"Of course, no one uses a cup as feed measure. But in considering a poultry ration, it's wiser to regard it from the cup standpoint than figuring on the basis of 100 pounds. Each cupful must be perfect—every cupful must be alike. It must contain every necessary thing for making the eggs. That's why hand-mixing of laying mash is a risky job.

"In hand-mixing, the entire mix might contain all necessary ingredients but every cupful won't be mixed evenly until just alike. Thus one hen might get a cupful containing more of one ingredient than she needs; while another hen would get a cupful lacking in that ingredient. Too, the cupful a hen gets today might have enough of one ingredient for four eggs and tomorrow's cupful might have none at all. As white and shell materials aren't stored a lot of egg-making material is wasted in the first cupful and lacking in the second.

"The one way of making sure of each day's cupful containing the materials needed for egg-making," concludes Mr. Johnson, "is to feed a mash made of the proper ingredients that have been selected, tested, and put together in the proper proportions, and that have been machine mixed over and over."

GENERAL WASHINGTON HOST AND HUNTSMAN

That General Gearge Washington was an enthusiastic huntsman, is evidenced in many of his own writings and letters, according to the division of information and publication of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission. He was a superb horseman; many contemporaries in their writings noted his splendid appearance on horsback. Lafayette, in describing him in a letter home, spoke of him as the most magnificant figure he had ever beheld, when mounted on his white charge.

General Washington loved his horse and dogs, and enjoyed the keen sport and excitement of the chase. In fact he joined in hunting and all sports and games more for this reason than for honors or success.

He was in the habit of hunting three times a week if the weather was favorable. During the hunting season, Mount Vernon entertained many sporting guests from the neighboring estates, from Maryland and elsewhere. These guests arrived, often with their own retinues of servants, their own mounts and remained for visits, not of days but of weeks, during which time they were entertained royally in the good old style. Breakfast was served at candle light, the table groaning with the bounty of delectable southern dishes. Washington himself, however, rarely partook of anything but Indian corncakes and milk. He often asked the blessing at his table, unless there was a clergyman present, all standing during this ceremony.

At dawn the cavalcade would be ready to start, Washington mounted on his favorite hunter, Blueskin, a fiery animal of great endurance, dark iron gray in color. For hunting, he wore the fashionable costume of the times, a blue coat, scarlet waist-coat, buckskin breeches, top boots and a velvet cap. He carried a whip with a long thong.

Billy, who was Washington's body servant during the war, rode with the hounds, mounted on Chinkling, a French huntsman's horn slung over his shoulders, riding fearlessly through brake and tangled wood, in a style which would strike terror to the heart of most modern riders.

Washington took great pride in his hounds and had his pack so critically drafted as to speed and bottom, that in running, if one dog lost the scent, another was immediately at hand to recover it. When running in full cry, you could "cover the pack with a blanket."

Following these early hunts, the party would return to Mt. Vernon for dinner, usually finding additional guests who had arrived from neighboring estates to learn the result of the hunt and to enjoy the afternoon's gayety.

A bounteous dinner was served, after which some of the guests would play loo, the preferred game of the times, others would gather about the harpsichord, and with the accompaniment of lute and violin, raise their voices in pleasing choruses.

All sports were suspended during the war, and hunting was never revived at Mt. Vernon on its old time scale. In 1785, Lafayette presented Washington with a pack of hounds, but increasing private and public duties caused him to give up such pleasure.

Fur Auctions during August, September, and October indicated that raccoon were in demand more than any other article. Skunk, oppossum, mink muskrat, badger and red Fox are also in great demand, but at prices not much higher than last year.

W. G. Culp went to Birmingham Sunday, where Saturday and Sunday was organized a state-wide singing convention. The convention will meet once a year in Birmingham. Prof. John Dye was elected president and P. B. Shaw was elected secretary-treasurer. Mr. Culp states that the singing Sunday was the best that he has attended in several years.

Rev. W. H. Faulkner of Howard College, Birmingham, was in Clanton Monday attending court as a witness in the Helton case.

INDUSTRY SEES HOPEFUL SIGNS, BANKERS TOLD

Leading Automobile Unit Expects to Employ More Men This Winter Than Last

MOTOR SUPPLY IN HANDS OF PUBLIC FALLING OFF

Twelve Million Years Less Transportation in Nation's Car Inventory Than Considered Normal, Manufacturer Tells Financiers

ESTIMATING that transportation in the form of automobiles now in the hands of the American public is twelve million "car-years" below normal, and that this deficit will eventually have to be made up, Richard H. Grant, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, recently told the American Bankers Association convention that employment in his company may be greater this winter than last year.

"Employment during the winter months is a very important thing," Mr. Grant said. "So far as our corporation is concerned, in November, December, January and February we will be employing at least as many and probably more men than we did this past year."

In order to gauge the outlook for next year's market his corporation, he said, attempts to set up sales indices based on intensive scientific studies in addition to observation and common sense.

"We are in the habit of looking upon an automobile not merely as an automobile but as transporation," he said. "We figure each automobile produced as six years of transportation. Then by following up records of production yearly, we get a graph which indicates what ought to be a normal inventory of transportation in the hands of the American people, and whether there are more or less miles than might be expected. According to our figures, there are about twelve million years less transportation in this inventory at the present time than has been considered normal since 1925.

The Outlook for Business

"Consequently, if we retain the same purchasing power in this country, it is quite evident that on the first upturn of business there will be a rush to replace that inventory. In developing this graph, it has come out very strongly that every third year is a big automobile year. The biggest automobile year was 1929 when 4,100,000 cars were produced for American consumption. This year the industry will produce somewhere between 1,800,000 and 1,900,000 cars. As 1932 is three years after 1929, if economic conditions were normal we could be sure we would do a tremendous business, because the third year is the time when the bulk of the replacing takes place."

He added that there are factors at work that make it uncertain how big the year will be, instancing that "money is being hoarded from lack of confidence and this takes away some purchasing power that we would otherwise have, while family budgets are being cut on account of changes in income conditions, which again means that purchasing power for the automobile, like a good many other things, will be knocked down." As a result, he said, it was necessary to measure what statistically would be a big year against a practical consideration of the curtailment of expenditures which is going on and determine how big the year will be under these circumstances.

"From a long haul standpoint, regardless of how many automobiles are sold in 1932, we are storing up a big business for the future," Mr. Grant said. "There will be fewer automobiles sold in 1931 than will go to the scrap heap. With 12,000,000 car-years out of the inventory, nine percent more gasoline was used up to August 1, 1931, than was used in 1930. With fewer automobiles, the people must have been running them faster and longer to consume the additional gasoline. This means that we have some 22,000,000 people working hard to make a fine business for our industry when there is an economic recovery.

No False Optimism

"I am not attempting to create any false optimism—I am not speaking without a statistical background. Using the best sense we can, we have drawn conclusions from the figures we have, and I am willing to make the statement that as far as the conduct of our business for the first half of 1932 is concerned, we shall set the indices somewhat higher than the actualities of 1931. We are willing to set our advertising budgets and our selling expense on that kind of indices. With economic conditions as they are, and since the obsolescence is so great and we have sunk so low in this year's sales, we figure that the first half of 1932 must necessarily be better than was the first half of 1931."

Bankers Help

Seven banks of Kennebec County, Maine, cooperated with the county grange, farm bureau, and local creamery, in financing the publication of a booklet, entitled, "The Agricultural Situation in Kennebec County." It presents in a concise manner the farm resources and practices of the county, with suggestions for improvement.

Clarence Billingsley, of Enterprise community, was in Clanton, Monday, shopping.

J. Z. MIMS URGES PEOPLE TO REGISTER

Dear Editor:

Just a small space in your columns to say that there appears to be a great number of young men and women who have become 21 years of age since the Registrars met and I take this means to insist that they come and register this week if possible. If you cannot come to Clanton this week see when they will be in your beat and meet them there. Remember it does not cost anything to register but you cannot become a legal voter without registering.

Register now without fail, and pay your poll tax later that you may be allowed a voice in the governing affairs of your county, state and nation. Next year is presidential election year and we will all want to vote then, but we must make the necessary preparations now.

Let me say again, come and register now before it is too late. There are some who have moved in from other counties and need to register even though they registered in the county from which they came. Register now and get your transfer from the other county and be ready to vote. There are many important questions coming up all along that every citizen should express themselves on at the ballot box.—Yours very truly, J. Z. MIMS.

May: "Who is that guy Mamie's been running around with lately?"

Mr. Sigwald Visits School (Nell Neghbors)

Mr. Sigwald, boy scout executive, was here Thursday. He talked on the subject of scouting, which we all enjoyed. All scouts were asked to stand at attention and repeat the scout oath. He then asked John Ezell to talk about scouting in Clanton. After this Joe Moore talked on the progress that troop 47 has made in the last year. J. C. Connell, Lay Dam scout, talked on the progress that troop 51 has made in the last year. Everyone enjoyed these talks and we want to thank Mr. Sigwald and hope he will come again soon.

Boy Scouts Speak at Kiwanis Club (John Ezell)

Last Thursday at 12:00 the three local patrol leaders of the Clanton Troop, and the two patrol leaders of the Lay Dam Troop, were the guests of the Kiwanis Club, along with Scout Executive Sigwald. The following topics were spoken on by the following scouts: "The history of Troop 47," by Morgan Reynolds. "What Troop 47 has done during the past year," by Joe Moore. "What Scouting has meant to me," by John Ezell. "What Troop 51 has done in the past year," by J. C. Connell. "The value of a Scout Executive," by Thomas Marcus.

The purpose of these talks was to aid in raising money to carry on the scout work for the coming year.

C. C. H. S. Glee Club Entertains

The student body enjoyed the entertainment given Friday morning at the assembly period by Miss Mary Ellis and the Glee Clob. They rendered a beautiful song entitled: "Mighty Like A Rose." Several new pupils have recently joined the club, and it has shown much progress.

We are intebted to Miss Ellis and her glee club for their splendid entertainments they have given since the club has been organized.

Masterpieces of Modern Art Put on Exhibit

The art exhibit to be held at the Chilton County High School during the week of November 30 to December 4 is creating quite a bit of comment. This exhibit will no doubt attract many visitors and is eliciting the praise of all who are familiar with this type of art work.

This collection of 150 fine prints reproduced directly from the original is said to be the most artistic exhibit ever displayed here. The originals of these are in the most famous art galleries of the world.

This art erhibit will be fostered by the P.-T. A. of the High School, and will be open to the public each afternoon from 3:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

"Tell me what pictures hang upon his walls and what books are his companions and I will tell you what manner of a man he is," are the words of a wise man.

That the school should train for the use and choice of good books is accepted and every school does this obviously, to a greater or less extent. But to be fell educated means a many sided development and the knowledge of art is one of the prerequisites of modern education.

H. G. Wells denies that conservatism won in England, according to the New York Times. There is one socialist who never knows when he is licked.

According to latest reports the Democratic debt is around $768,000. Well, if the boys ever get discouraged at that, all they have to do is to look at Germany's debt and then cheer up.

Now if Uncle Arthur Henderson, England's most celebrated lame duck since the recent election, only lived in the United States, he could get a job on some government commission.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

The recent British election bringing to the Nationalist government the most complete victory in the history of British elections may well be an important step upward out of the world-wide depression. A few weeks ago a great many people were fearful that Great Britan was about to be engulfed in a wave of financial chaos. There were rumors of mutiny in the British navy, the budget was unbalanced and the country had to go off the gold standard. The British Empire had apparently come to the parting of the ways.

That there was a real national crisis, that the nation was faced with the choice of a return to fundamentals or chaos, is not to be doubted. In this hour, the inherent patriotism of the British people asserted itself, and the result was the most decisive blow for nationalism and against international socialism in the history of the country. That this occurred need not surprise those who are familiar with the history of Great Britain. Separated from the mainland by water, the British people were able to form a nation long before the same thing was possible on the continent. As an island nation the people early became convinced that their national safety rested on the foundation of unity and national defense. National defense took the form of the most powerful navy in the world.

As a result, British tradition is centuries old, and for many generations the people have been convinced that their very existence depended on their national unity and their British traditions. So successufl were the efforts of the people that the little island country grew to be an empire on which the sun never set. National traditions of safety were therefore enforced with national pride. Of late there have been indications that the British empire might disintegrate, that Great Britain might lose its place as the clearing house of the world's business. Whether or not this is true. the fact remains that when the British people realize that their nationalism, and that their place in the sun was threatened by economic disaster, and realized the cause of this threatened disintegration, they spoke in no uncertain terms at the ballot box. The sweeping endorsement of conservatism in government was the result.

There is a lesson for America in this election. The time may come perhaps sooner than many of us realize, when we will be faced with a choice between fundamental principles of government, and national disintegration. Will our answer be as decisive as that of Great Britain? Is it true that we have written a glorious history in the short time allotted us as a nation. We do not possess centuries of tradition and the national unity, as found in Great Britain, but we do have, or had recently, an American spirit which balked at no danger and no handicap. The great heart of America is still sound, still adheres to the fundamental principles of American government. But there are abroad in the land forces of disintegration, as powerful as those which almost wrecked havoc in Great Britan. We have men in high places, so called intellectuals, who sneered at patriotism, who decry the teaching of history from the American standpoint, who would destroy our national defense and our constitutional government.

At present they seem to be getting the space in the newspapers, and a great deal more attention than they deserve. What will the result be? If we are to meet the crisis as Great Britan has met it, when our hour as a nation strikes, is it not necessary that we have a revival of real patriotism and of national thought? There is too much internationalism abroad in the land, too much philosophy which has its roots in eastern Europe rather than in the soils of the United States. When we get back to preaching principles and acting them as well as preaching them, in our religion, in our business, and in our home and social life, things wil lonce more adjust themselves and the good ship America will move forward again.

THE THIMBLERIGGERS ARE STILL AT IT

When Congress passed the Liberty Loan acts, it provided that portions of the borrowing thus made from the American people, might be invested in the bonds of foreign nations then associated in the World War with the United States.

The Liberty Loan bonds were then sold to the American people under this representation. Unfortunately, bonds of the Allies were not taken, but demand notes or mere verbal agreements to pay.

After the war the drive for the cancellation of American loans to Europe was begun by private interests which had made loans to these countries at higher rates of interest, which could most easily be made good by taking money out of the pockets of. American people by way of these cancellations.

To illustrate how completely the American people were fooled at that time it was represented that France had been bankrupted by the war and was unable to pay. We forgave all of the French debt except that which represented advances after the Armistice. Today France has a larger gold reserve in proportion to her population than any other nation, has no unemployment and is the most prosperous nation, next to the United States, in the world.

Now the ballyhoo for complete cancellation is on, despite the fact that the World War cost the United States more than it did any other country in the world, and we are suffering the after-effects of that great waste. The leaders in the movement again are the international bankers who have made big and profitable loans in Europe, which they are not proposing to remit or reduce. Their following is among befuddled altruists and idealists who imagine they are serving some good cause, rather than playing the dupe to commercial exploiters.

It is about time for Americans to begin a return to common sense. After all, it is clear, we are not in position to carry the whole world on our backs. The business of American statesmanship and of American patriotism is to see that our country and its people get fair play. The international bankers have already got this country into such a fix that the job of looking after its welfare looks big enough. And looking after its welfare is the most important service we can do for the rest of the world, for if America goes down, the rest of the world will go down with her.

DEBT AGREEMENTS

Aside from an understanding on financial policy between the two most powerful gold standard nations, the principal discussions between President Hoover and Premier Laval, according to the press dispatihes, had to do with war debts and reparations. It is said that an understanding was reached to the effect that any future attempt at revision or moratorium should originate in Europe and not in the United States.

A great many newspapers, especially in Europe, have characterized this as a victory for Premier Laval, recalling that the moratorium last summer originated in the United States. It would seem to the average observer, however, that this is as much a victory for the United States as for France. The reason is not hard to find. Uncle Sam has nothing to do with reparations, but he does have a great deal to say about the war debts which the allies owe us. Now the money which they have been paying us on account comes from Germany, so that all the talk about our debtors being unable to pay their debts is pure bunk.

If Germany is no longer able to pay the reparations agreed to under the Young plan that is the lookout of the allies and not of Uncle Sam. The Young plan made provisions for a crisis of this kind, and the matter is to be worked out between Germany and the allies. If Germany defaults on her reparations payments that does not relieve the allied nations either morally or legally, from paying their debts to Uncle Sam. Of course if they maintain that they no longer have the ability to pay the full amount of the settlement that is a matter for examination later. But it will be difficult to convince the American people that France, which is much better off now than when she signed the debts agreement, can only pay us what she gets from Germany. And the claims of the other nations which owe us will be worth looking into, also, so far as ability to pay is concerned.

Certainly in view of the state of affairs it is better for Uncle Sam to have Germany arrange her reparations with the allies under the Young plan, in the regular way, and to consider taking up the matter of war debts if necessary after this adjustment has been at least tentatively made. To have Uncle Sam agree to make sacrifices first, before Germany defaults, would be putting the cart before the horse, would be giving the "high ground" to the other side, would certainly deprive us of our diplomatic trump cards, and all to no good purpose.

G. Bernard Shaw says that now the conservatives have power in England they will probably shoot Mr. Gandhi. But maybe they will confine their celebration merely to cutting Mr. Shaw's whiskers, thereby de-bolshevising him.

Uncle Arthur Henderson, leader of the British Labor party now knows how Al Smith felt on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday in November, 1928.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Cap shore is one sight. He say he wants the Commissioners Court to give a prize to the best acre of corn, and fix it so nobody can take a chance at the prize cept a one horse farmer or a one gallus farmer or sumpin like that. He say it will show us little fellows what us can do with one acre. The acre shall be measured by three men; also the corn shall be measured by three men.

I say Cap I shore nose what you is fixin for. You wants to git dat prize. Cap say he got second prize about fifteen years ago. He say he was title to the fust prize, but a preacher beat him out of it. Cap say some preachers make mistakes every pop—some pops eny way.

Cap said last week he would tell you sumpin about de sights he seed in Okmulga Swamp. He say he can show you a gum root 70 feet long from stump to where it inters ground and four inches in diameter where it goes into de ground. He say he can show you a pine log 174 feet long 24 inches in diameter. He say he can show you a pine log 42 inches in diameter 60 feet from de stump, and one 10-foot cut off of it made 1,100 feet of lumber. He say he can show you land in dat swamp that is worth $50 an acre, and de tax value on dis land is not as much as his sandy land on Sand Mountain Ridge.

He say it shorely is a loose screw somewhere. I ax Cap if dey is a big still in Oakmulgee Swamp. He say I ain't seed dat yit. Cap shore is one sight. No tellin what he will talk about next.—Uncle Remus.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

This Cotton Business—Here a while back the government gave out a cotton report and the price fell promptly. That wasn't so much of a surprise—it was really expected; but recently another government report came out, and the total was even higher than had been reported before, and still the price of cotton went up. Now, what caused that? Seems like the amount of cotton we make doesn't have so much to do with the price after all. If it doesn't, then what DOES control the price? What about that old supply and demand gag?

The American Legion Program—Folks, if you missed the American Legion program put on at the Paramount Theatre, commemorating Armistice Day, last Sunday morning, you missed plenty. I didn't know it was coming off like that, or I would have been on hand to SEE it. As it was, I tuned in on Radio Station WSFA in time to get it that way. It was something fine, even by radio, and I can imagine it was even greater for those who saw the tableaux. If you will pardon my making this into such a lengthy article, I'll tell a few things about it as I heard it. First came the soldier as he enlisted. (This, after President Wilson read the war message to Congress). Then the training scenes. Following came the actual fighting in France, followed by the lull in actual combat, as the doughboy lay in his mud bed in the trenches, thinking of home and mother and other things a soldier thinks of. Followed more fighting. Then came the realization that the war was over, with the boys shouting their joy to the world. What wild ecstasy they indulged in—and why not, after all the awful experience they had gone through. Then the joyful return home, when mothers and fathers thrilled at the return of loved ones, and mourned with other parents for valient sons who never would return alive. It was a thrilling pageant indeed, interspersed with songs of World War days. Among those present were several of the Ohio soldiers who trained in Montgomery, and had returned to witness and take part in this Armistice Day celebration.

Eddie Rickenbacker—Another radio program worthy of comment was that in which Eddie Rickenbacker told of the thrilling moment when actual fighting in France stopped at 11:00 o'clock, November 11, 1918. Captain Rickenbacker was ranking ace of American flyers in the World War. Last Saturday night he was given 30 minutes by one of the big broadcasting systems, in which to describe his last fight in the air, and also to describe the scenes in France as fighting ceased. Captain Rickenbacker was about 1,000 feet over the contact trenches at the time actual fighting stopped, and his tale was interesting as he told how infantrymen lay in the trenches or stood on the fire step on both sides of No Man's Land during the last minutes of warfare, looking for a chance to bump some enemy off, and the next few minutes meeting those enemies on the open ground between them and joining with them to dance 'round and 'round joyfully as they realized it was "all over." When he returned to his airdrome, he found similar scenes, as men rushed here and there in joyful abandon. He told how one man rushed up to him and exclaimed, "Isn't it wonderful—I've lived through the war." How the poor fellow repeated it time and again, as if he could hardly realize it was true, then rushing off to tell somebody else the glad news. He told how another came by him, whooping like a maniac, "It's great! Oh, boy, how good it feels to know that somebody isn't trying to kill me any more. Just think, Captain, we won't be shot at any more." After his vivid description of these stirring times, Captain Rickenbacker concluded with a plea for peace at any price within the bounds of reason and honor, and gave out a few statistics on the cost of the World War. Among these statistics, I noted two, in particular. He stated that the World War cost the world approximately ten million men in one way and another, besides non-combatants (men, women and children not actually engaged in fighting), and $247,000,000,000. He expressed the belief that the world's effort to pay off this enormous debt was one of the greatest causes of the depression at this time.

"Cut Flowers"—Judge Leon McCord lectures before the Big Brothers Bible Class of Montgomery at the Paramount Theatre every Sunday morning. One Sunday morning last Spring his subject was "Cut Flowers." And what a subject it was. And what a lecture Judge McCord delivered on his subject. It was great. Since that time, many people have asked the judge to give this lecture again. So he will give "Cut Flowers" all over again next Sunday morning. If you enjoy good talks by finished speakers, you will make a point of hearing this. Take it from me, you'll never regret it. Don't forget the place—at the Paramount Theatre next Sunday morning. If you can't be present in person, tune in on Radio Station WSFA. You'll get an ear full.

What Price Glory,—Here's something a little curious. Some few months ago, a certain man drove all over this county, wrote letters, and made talks trying to be elected to some office. After going to all this worry and expense, he was defeated. And then, one day last week, somebody broke the news to him that he had been elected to the presidency of something. He button-holed me as I passed last Tuesday morning, and told me all about it. He was laughing over the matter of how he had worked for one office and failed to get it, and then had another given to him without his knowledge or consent.

Glimpses—This is court week, so there are plenty of glimpses. Joe Calloway waiting on the customers—waiting for them to come in, Joe says. Judge Smoot and Mr. Huddleston making their way to the courthouse to deal out justice. Broadus Connatser putting a bottom in a chair—page Uncle John Pembleton, please; Ernest Moore feeds 'em, right and left. Roderick Beddow in town—somebody is in for a hot time. Charlie Simpson with his face plastered—close call for Charlie, but he's coming around nicely. Spurgeon Calloway with his hand in plasters—looks like it hurts. I see "Traveler" Thompson wants to sell his bicycle—guess that's the one he rode all over the country on. I believe nearly everybody and his brother are in town—I guess my place on the sidewalk will be very well covered, so I am going hunting. S'long.—Man in the Moon.

It will be noted that in all of the hot campaign in Great Britain, no party, not even the socialists, advocated cutting down the British navy.

Not All—A food expert says a normal boy should eat more than his father. But he ought to leave something for father.—Albany News.

Discourages Many—Maybe people would reform more readily if they weren't afraid of becoming like the reformer.—San Francisco Chronicle.

But They Hurt The Cotton Business—Seemingly the new hats of the 1870 period are giving new life to the long depressed ostrich plume business. Can't the ladies do something to revive steel, lumber and concrete?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Opposing Theories—In every small town there are two classes of people who puzzle one another. The curb sitters wonder why the workers don't get rich and the workers are surprised when the curb sitters don't starve to death.—Mount Vernon Chieftain.

A Safe Old Rule—The best way to make progress in the world is to pay as you go and if you can't pay don't go.—Florida Times Union.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

Between Clanton and Thorsby a freight train slowed down and then stopped dead on the track. The conductor and flagman hurried down the track to a car where a white smoke boiled from beneath. They had a hot box and there was much danger of the train catching on fire. This hot box was produced by the friction that was in the axle beneath the car. Water and packing soon stopped the smoke, but the train was delayed for at least half of an hour. Worry in the human heart is the thing that creates hurt and danger to us in our travel along the path of life. Worry is friction and where there is much worry there is danger of a "hot box." The sin of worry is almost as abundant as the sin of selfishness. In this time of depression we have given ourselves over to worry, and it is wrong. Many a man has had to stop and recuperate because he worries. Henry Ward Beecher said: "The man who takes his worries and nurses and fondles them and carries them to bed with him, is sure to get up the next morning with a headache and a gloomy day ahead. The man who spanks his worries and then sends them away, will get up the next morning full of hope and life. If you do not want "hot boxes," if you really want to live—don't worry.

I know two Clanton girls. They are about the same size, they have black hair and a beautiful face, and often they are seen in company with each other. One of these girls carries herself like standing up and walking was a burden to her. I have noted that when she is near a chair, or a seat, that she flops down with a sigh. Her face carries an expression of being in a dream, her eyes are far away and her thoughts, if she has any, are among the stars. Just to be honest, this girl makes the impression that her whole ambition in life is to sit down, eat and sleep. The other girl carries herself erect and with quick step she hurries on her way. Her eyes sparkle with wit and humor and she is waiving her hand and smiling to every passerby. It is a joy to meet her on the sidewalk. She leaves you with a song in your soul. She is so full of pep, life and fun until it really seems that she never has any time to sit down, to eat, or to sleep. There is no question about that girl, she is going to win her way to the front. Laziness will hold a girl back, if it fails in killing her. When I see any one, male or female, just "dragging around," I feel like setting off a big cracker right under their feet.

The other day I saw a mocking bird sitting on my garden post, singing at the top of his voice. The happy bird did not seem to care whether he had ears to listen to his music. I listened to him from the back door, but he did not know that I was enjoying his song. While I listened to his varied notes and tones, a little negro boy came along the back street, near the place where the bird was sitting, and he stopped in the middle of the street and watched the bird and listened to his song. Then the little feathered songster seemed to know that he had an audience, and he would flutter two or three feet above the post and settle back, all the time bursting his throat with a happy song. The negro boy was clad in rags, and his person looked dusty and unkept, but what cared the bird, he was listening to his song and the bird's breast was ready to explode with music. If that had been a human on that post and a black little negro boy had come along and wanted a song, he ,or she, would have replied, "you are too ignorant, too filthy, too low down, for me to sing to you," and no song would have been given. When will we ever lose our class distinctions, our race restraints, and our pride of soul, so that we can give of our best to the high and the lowly?

I saw a man sitting at the wheel of his car, and he was guiding it almost to perfection. He kept his hands on the wheel, his foot on the brake and his eyes on the road. In that car with him were his wife, and the little ones who had come to bless his home. Their lives were in his hands and of course he was going to guide his car in safety, and carry his loved ones without danger. I saw that same man sitting in his own home with his hands upon the wheel of home life, and the picture was altogether different. He was in his home as the head of his family. He was expected to make this safe in every respect for the loved ones who lived with him. But, this man did not have his hand on the wheel of home life, he did not have his feet pressing the brakes, and neither did he have his eyes on the welfare of his future home life. This great big, strong man was sitting in his home, letting it run itself, and giving to his children liberty without restraint. This man never went to church, he had nothing to do with the Sunday school, he spent his Sundays golfing or fishing. It is more of a tragedy when a man fails to guide his home life to the church and to God than it is when he fails to guide a car safely in which are his loved ones. Men of Chilton County, you are indifferent at the wheel of your home. Many of you have gone to sleep in your responsible place. It is the father's place to get up every Sunday and guide his family to the house of God. The father is at the wheel of the spiritual life of his home, and he is guiding his family to the rock of sin, he is carrying them into that far away country, where there will be a tremendous crash, and the uplifting cry of souls lost without God and without hope in the world. Fathers, where are you guiding your home?

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Sizemore and High Here

Emmett Sizemore and Jim High, of the Extension Service at Auburn stopped for a while as they were passing through Clanton Monday afternoon. They expressed their pleasure that the voters of Chilton County determined last week to keep the County Agent. Mr. Sizemore is district agent of the Extension Service in the district in which Chilton County is located. Mr. High holds the same position with reference to a district composed of counties in north and northwest Alabama.

A Report On Kudzu

Last year, through Mr. High, Jasper Dennis sold a hundred thousand kudzu crowns which were planted in north Alabama. While here Monday Mr. High stated that out of four hundred thousand crowns which he put in his district, those he obtained from Mr. Dennis were the best in the bunch. This, of course, brought a smile of satisfaction upon the face of Mr. Dennis. In all his dealings with folks, Jasper Dennis is never satisfied until his customer is satisfied first. That kind of a motto makes a successful man, no matter what kind of business he is in.

Improvement In Rural Living

Farm life faces a reconstruction that is as fundamental as the industrial revolution. These far-reaching readjustments call for the most capable leadership our nation can produce. The leaders of reconstruction in rural conditions must come directly from the farm. Nobody else can have the full background of understanding that is required. This is a challenge to the rural schools to train the youth of our farms for new conditions and larger needs. It is likewise a challenge to every phase of our intellectual development. As an instance where this challenge is being met with definite and effective training, one may point with pride to the boys club work which is being fostered by the Extension Service through the work of the County Agents.

Agriculture, The Foundation

Agriculture is firmly based on the solid rock of human necessity. From the farms have come many of our great leaders in politics, business, and the professions. Upon agriculture the whole world depends for food. It is easy to see, therefore, that a fair start in life for the rural child is of the greatest concern to the whole world. The country is greatly concerned today about dealing with the difficult problems of the present time. Agriculture has its puzzles. Everything is faced with grave problems. The wise man will not forget, with all this, that the future will hold its own problems, and future citizens will have to solve them. Our boys and girls of today are those future citizens. They must be trained as they grow up so they will be able to meet their tasks.

People Coming To Court

Clanton has been working alive this week with people who came here to attend circuit court. They came with every kind of interest. There were those who came to get a quick way bill to the penitentiary. There were those who came to see their near and dear friends and relatives whisked away in the carriages that bore them to penal servitude. There were those who came, I imagine because they had nothing else to do, and chose to come and look at the great human drama that was being enacted while the wheels of justice ground out the verdicts of the law.

The Cost Of Law Breaking

One man faced the judge. He had been convicted about a year ago, and the court extended him leniency to give him a chance of paying off instead of having to go to the pen. He told the judge he had been unable to get up the money, and added that he had been unable to get a job and part of the time his family had gone hungry. I can imagine the pullings at hte heart strings of Judge Smoot as he declared the man must go and do time to square his account with the State of Alabama. The cost of law breaking is not altogether calculated in dollars nor days of servitude. There is so many times sacrifice, privation, and even stark hunger with which the innocent must suffer.

25 YEARS AGO

News Items as published in The Union and in The Banner, Issues of November 8, 1906

Well, the election is over, and once again the Republican party of Chilton County gets the offices. We had hoped and believed that this time the Democrats would win by a small majortiy—didn't look for much, but thought there would be enough to make a glad shout rise. But it is less than two years ago.—Man on the Corner.

Fire was discovered in the house of J. E. Evans Saturday night. Little damage was done. An hour later the barn of Dr. P. I. Hopkins caught and was completely destroyed.

HUGE TASK IN DROUGHT AID MET BY RED CROSS

Relief Given to Distressed Helps in Meeting Serious Situation, Chairman Payne Says.

"The year of the great drought," as these past twelve or more months will be known to future generations, wrought great damage to millions. Not alone did the crops, which were burned in the fields in twenty-three states, in the summer of 1930, deprive several million persons of food, but the drought disaster continued in the summer of 1931 in the northwestern states, and also brought other minor catastrophes in its wake, such as forest fires, and the grasshopper plague.

More than a year has elapsed since the American Red Cross launched, in August, 1930, its first moves for relief of the drought-stricken farmers, and in that time more than 2,750,000 persons were given food, clothing, medical aid, shelter or other type of assistance. At no period during this year were there fewer than 70,000 persons being aided and at the peak of the relief work on March 1, last, more than 2,000,000 persons were being helped.

Today, still as a result of the drought, the Red Cross is giving extended relief in parts of North Dakota, Washington and Montana, where resources of hundreds of families were wiped out this past summer, when a second and more severe spell of dry weather was prolonged in that region.

This drought relief presented the greatest task that has ever been undertaken by the Red Cross as a peacetime activity. The Mississippi Valley flood of 1927, while more spectacular, and calling for relief of a costlier type, because homes and possessions were swept away, affected hardly one-fourth the number of people who suffered because of the drought.

In addition to the broad program of drought relief still being carried on, John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, has given the following suggestion to Chapter chairmen, in regard to unemployment relief: "Where there is suffering and want from any cause and the fundamental local needs are not being met, Chapters may participate in the community plans for meeting the need."

Some type of general family relief, whether for the drought victims, the unemployed or the war veteran and his family, were carried on by more than 3,000 Red Cross Chapters last year, Judge Payne said.

"The drought relief work of 1930-31," he added, "the relief now being extended following last summer's drought, principally in Montana and North Dakota; the assistance which is being given to ex-service men and their families; and the part which several hundred Chapters are taking locally in their communities' relief measures are activities of the Red Cross, national and local, which have met and are meeting some of the serious needs of the present situation."

BING CROSBY FEATURE OF RADIO PARTY

Bing Crosby, radio's newest singing sensation, will cooperate with the Miami Junior Chamber of Commerce in their second annual international radio party on the evening of November 18th, when he will sing as one of his numbers, on his regular Cremo broadcast, the popular waltz ballad "On Miami Shore," according to announcement by his sponsors, the American Cigar Company.

The second annual international radio party is being held November 16th, 17th, and 18th in cooperation with the international radio club, as a testimonial to the good will which has been exchanged by radio between Miami and over 200 radio stations and cities during the past year. Bing Crosby, whose following in the South is growing by leaps and bounds, said that he was delighted to entertain those listening in on the night of November 18th with "On Miami Shore" and added that he considered it an honor to be invited to participate in this manner.

Bing Crosby's rise to national radio fame has been one of the most sensational in the history of broadcasting. A few months ago, he came east and in a short time had completely won the hearts of eastern listeners, just as he had won those on the west coast. He sings for fifteen minutes each night, except Sunday, from station WABC in New York over a nationwide CBS network. He sings his program twice nightly—once from 7:15 to 7:30 Eastern Standard Time, for those in the east, and again from 11:00 to 11:15 Eastern Standard Time, for those in the west. Bing is assisted in his presentations by Carl Fenton and his orchestra and his programs are being sponsored by the makers of Certified Cremo Cigars.

Lesson for November 15

PAUL IN JERUSALEM

GOLDEN TEXT—For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.
LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:17-23:22.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in Trouble.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in Trouble.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul Faces His Enemies.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Bearing Testimony in the Holy City.

I. Paul's Vow (21:17-26).

Upon Paul's arrival at Jerusalem representatives of the church there gave him a cordial reception. In order that the brethren in Jerusalem might graciously receive him, it was proposed to him by the elders that he take a Jewish vow to prove that he was in no way opposed to the law. They recognized that such an act would in no way compromise or involve the Gentile brethren. Nor did it compromise his own principle of action; namely, to the Jews he became a Jew and to the Gentiles a Gentile, all things to all men in order to gain them for Christ.

II. Paul's Arrest (21:27-40).

How far this act conciliated the Christian Jews we are not told, but it enraged the unbelieving Jews, causing them to resort to mob law. These maddened Jews seized Paul, dragged him from the temple and beat him mercilessly, intending to put him to death. He was rescued from the mob by the Roman guard. In order to protect him from the murderous frenzy of the mob, the soldiers lifted him upon their shoulders and bore him up the stairs. Paul kept himself under control and politely asked permission of the captain to speak to the people. When he addressed him in Greek and mentioned his Roman citizenship, the captain granted his request.

III. Paul's Defense (22:1-27).

Paul's chief concern was not his own safety. He used this last opportunity to witness unto them of Christ.

1. His claim for a rightful hearing (vv. 1-3).

a. His birth (v. 3). He was a Jew born in Tarsus, a city of no mean reputation.

b. His education (v. 3). He was educated under the tutorship of Gamaliel, and instructed according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers.

c. His zeal (v. 3). He was as zealous toward God as the Jews who were trying to destroy him.

2. His former attitude toward Jesus (vv. 4, 5). "I persecuted this way unto the death."

3. How his attitude was changed (vv. 6-16). This change of attitude was brought about by the intervention of the Lord. While on his way to Damascus with authority to bind the Christians at Jerusalem, he was smitten to the ground by a light from heaven, and the voice of the Lord said, "Why persecutest thou me?" When Paul inquired as to what he was to do, he was told to go into Damasus where he would receive instructions. Ananias was sent to him by the Lord for this purpose.

4. The Lord commissioned him to go to the Gentiles (vv. 17-21). It was not of his own will that he preached to the Gentiles but by the Lord's direct commission.

IV. Paul before the Sanhedrin (23:1-10).

The Roman officer in order to learn why Paul was arrested commanded the chief council to assemble and brought Paul before them. This shows that there was an effort made by the Romans to give justice to Paul.

1. Paul's earnest look at the council (vv. 1, 2). This was a solicitation of their honor to give him a fair hearing and also a look of conscious integrity and unfaltering courage.

2. Paul's stern rebuke of the head of the council. "God shall smite thee, thou whited wall." Paul shows that he had the highest respect for the office, but the man now occupying it was not worthy of it.

3. Paul's appeal to the Pharisees (vv. 6-10). Seeing that he could not get a fair hearing, and perceiving that the body before him was made up of Pharisees and Sadducees, he appealed to the Pharisees, for his preaching had something in common with their belief.

V. The Lord Stood by Paul (v. 11).

He was in great need of grace. He may have begun to question the wisdom of his going to Jerusalem, but the Lord assured him that his course was right.

VI. The Conspiracy to Kill Paul (vv. 18-22).

More than forty men banded together for the purpose of getting Paul out of the way.

The Divine Presence

Of the reality of fellowship with God every religious man is assured. Religion implies such a fellowship of love and grace on the part of God. How such a consciousness brings strength and comfort to a human heart let every one who knows the power of salvation attest.

YOU NEED THE RAILROADS

and the Railroads need your Patronage

THE OLD RELIABLE L&N (LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.)

The successful operation of the railroads is of vital importance to every American. You, as an individual, may not own any railroad securities but all over the Nation, financial, educational and charitable institutions are, because of large holdings of railroad securities, seriously concerned in the earning power of railroad stocks and bonds. Thus both our business and social structure are linked with the prosperity of our railroads. Their prosperity is your prosperity and railroad problems your problems.

Present economic conditions and unregulated competition have placed the railroads of the United States in a perilous position. If these conditions are permitted to continue, we may face even greater economic disturbances than are now harassing the Nation.

Read these startling figures. In 1930 the number of cars loaded with revenue freight fell 7,000,000 below the figure for 1929, and the freight revenues decreased $742,000,000, or 15 per cent.

Passenger revenues decreased $144,000,000, and the total revenues, including mail, express, etc., decreased approximately one billion dollars. The rate of return earned on railroad property invested, fell from 4.84 per cent in 1929, to 3.30 per cent in 1930---and for the first 8 months of 1931 the rate of return was 2.14 per cent.

To what extent the railroads have been involved in the present unemployment situation, can be seen by the fact that the number of railroad employees has declined from 1,661,000 in 1929, to 1,488,000 in 1930.

Payrolls and purchases of materials and supplies have decreased to such a degree as to entail a loss of $637,000,000 in the purchasing power of the railroads and their employees.

These significant figures tell briefly the railroad story.

In spite of such tremendous losses the railroads have kept faith with the public and are rendering more satisfactory service, in safety, speed, and luxurious equipment than ever before in their colorful history.

It is time to consider the railroad problem, honestly and without prejudice. Your patronage and good will is the foundation upon which their success depends. They also need, and ask, your cooperation in obtaining legislative relief for yourself and for them. If that success, which has meant so much to the Nation at large, is to be maintained in the future, the traveling and shipping public must lend their active support by patronizing the railroads.

OAKS DEFOLIATED BY CATERPILLARS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 9.—Investigation of the state forestry department reveal that leaf eating caterpillars are defoliating oak trees in western Alabama, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester. Two species of these insects have been identified, one being a species of heterocampa manteo and the other a species of datana. During 1921 and 1922 the former species was very abundant in Virginia and North Carolina on deciduous hardwoods, especially oak, beech, maple and hickory. The present infestation is the first to be noted in recent years in Alabama.

As in the case of most caterpillars occurring in the forest, very little can be done toward control. Usually, however, after a species has increased considerably in numbers natural enemies and disease catch up with it and result in its elimination from the locality. In the future airplane dusting probably will be developed along practical lines so that valuable timber can be protected. Shade or ornamental trees can be safeguarded by spraying with a stomach poison which usually contains some form of arsenic.

The damage to Alabama timber in the present instance probably will not be fatal since defoliation occurred late in the season after the winter buds had already formed and growth was practically at a standstill. The greatest damage will be reflected in a slight decrease in timber growth for the ensuing season.

ENTERPRISE DEFEATS THOMAS JR. SCHOOL

Enterprise defeated the Thomas Jr. team with a score of 20 to 13 in a game played at Thomas Jr., last Friday. The game was very interesting because of the keen rivalry between the two schools.

James Griffin, on the Enterprise team is little but loud. He went through the defense of the Thomas Jr. team and made 9 of the 20 points. He played as right forward. Cecil Yeargan, on this team, also showed his ability to shoot goals, by shooting backward or forward, he added 6 points to the score. L. C. Cagle, Guy Silas, and Lois Stroud also let the Thomas Jr. boys know that they were on the field, by holding them to the losing score. Cagle and Silas made 5 points by pitching field goals, making a total score of 20.

Ray, playing as center, on the Thomas Jr. team, made 6 of the 13 points for Thomas Jr., George Wilson also demonstrated his ability as left forward, by piling up their score, 6 points more. Jim made 1 field goal, making a score of 13 for the Thomas Jr. team.

Mr. G. C. Weldon is coach of the Thomas Jr. team, and Marion Smith, the Enterprise team.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Next Sunday is the last day of this conference year, and we urge the people of Clanton to hear two special messages. At 11 a. m., come and learn about "God's Tomorrow." At 7 o'clock Sunday night come and hear the message that tells about "Sweeping the Clouds Away." There are many people in Clanton who have not heard the pastor of the Methodist Church preach this year. Are you going to let the year go by without this? We have room and a welcome for you.

Be in Sunday school at 9:45. Our school has been above the hundred mark for some time. Let's break the record of the year next Sunday.

Preaching at Isabella Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The pastor leaves next Wednesday for conference in Montgomery. The people of Chilton county are invited to visit the conference session at Dexter Avenue Church the last part of next week. Hear Bishop Ainsworth next Sunday.

BALL GAME AT CONCORD

A picked basket ball team from Providence, better known as the Punkin Town Team, and captained by Calvin Robinson, will play the Concord Junior High team on the latter's court, next Friday afternoon, November 13.

Aid for War Veterans

More than 430,000 ex-service men and their families were aided through 3,008 Red Cross Chapters and the national organization during the year ending June 30, 1931. Dependent families were cared for, veterans' claims were filed, hospitalization obtained and many other services given. Part of each contribution during the American Red Cross annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, goes toward supporting this vital work for veterans of the World War and other wars in which the United States has engaged.

Books for the Blind

Through American Red Cross Chapters, 3,827 volumes of novels, class books and others, transcribed into braille for blind readers, have been added to libraries, in the past year. These books are to be obtained through the Library of Congress and city libraries. This activity, carried on by a great number of devoted women volunteers in Red Cross Chapters, had its inception in preparing books for war blinded.

RETURNS FROM KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI

Last Thursday evening the family of Forney J. Huett, consisting of himself, his wife and six children, arrived by automobile from Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Huett has been living up there for the past twenty years, and has been home only once since—about nine years ago. He was married to Miss Pearl Swanson of Kansas City. Forney is the oldest son of C. B. Huett of Enterprise community. Their intention now is to locate in Birmingham, we understand.

PARDON NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Roy Howard, who was convicted for forgery, in the Circuit Court of Chilton County on April 4th, 1930, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of 30 months to 4 years, and who is now out on parole, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for permanent pardon.—Roy H. Howard. 11-12-2tch.

BRING CREAM IN MORNING

Mr. Stapp asks us to pass the word around asking people who market cream through the farm bureau to please bring it in to the office here Saturday morning whenever possible. Mr. Stapp says that when everybody brings in their cream Saturday afternoon, it works their force mighty hard getting it ready for shipment. If most of it is brought in Saturday morning, that will give them more time to get it all graded and ready for shipment.

CHINESE SLAY MISSIONARY

Nanking, China, Nov. 5—The Rev. J. H. Vinson, member of the American Presbyterian mission at Haichow, Kiangsu province, has been slain by Chinese bandits, U. S. Consul General Hillis R. Peck, was advised today.

Vinson was kidnapped last Sunday. His death presumably occurred yesterday. Immediately upon receipt of news Peck asked the Chinese foreign office for details of the incident.

At the instance of the American government, he had made representations to the foreign office following the kidnapping and was assured the Chinese government would do all in its power to obtain the release of Vinson.

The missionary is survived by three young children, all of whom live with relatives in Lexington, Va. His wife died several years ago.

News of Vinson's slaying was forwarded to Peck by Dr. Lorenzo Norgan, of the Presbyterian mission at Haichow.

It was Dr. Morgan who reported Mr. Vinson's capture by the bandits. The capture took place about 30 miles south of Haichow.

GARNIE WILSON SERIOUSLY HURT

Found Monday Morning In Car On Lonely Road With Throat Slashed

Garnie Wilson, age 23, son of Mr. Lum Wilson, was brought to the hospital in Clanton about noon Monday, suffering with a very serious wound. His throat had been slashed from ear to ear. The young man was found by mail carrier Ed Miller, as he was going his route Monday.

Young Wilson was in his car on a little side road between Strassburg and the Carlson place, near Thorsby. It is reported that he told Mr. Miller he had been there in that condition since two o'clock Monday morning. He was very weak from the loss of blood.

It was said that there was a razor in the car, supposedly the weapon which was used to cut the young man's throat.

The details of how the thing all happened remain a mystery. Young Wilson has regained consciousness, but he has not made any statement. Authorities at the hospital express the belief that he will recover in due time.

Some have expressed the belief that it was an attempt at suicide; while others maintain that the young man was the victim of foul play at the hands of other parties.

WILL SING AT COURTHOUSE THURSDAY NIGHT, NOV. 26TH

There will be singing in the new books at the courthouse in Clanton on Thursday night of next week, November 26th, beginning at 6:45 o'clock. The singing will last for two hours, and the 1932 Morris-Henson and Stamps-Baxter books will be used. This song service is sponsored by all of the singing societies of the county, and it is hoped that all will be well represented. Everybody come, filled with the spirit to sing praises to Almighty God.—Akins I. Collins, W. G. Culp, W. M. Devaughn, A. H. Glasscock.

MRS. MATTIE VICTORIA HEADLEY

Mrs. Mattie Victoria Headley, age 68 years, died Tuesday night at her home near Mt. Pisgah. Burial was at Mt. Pisgah Wednesday afternoon with Martin in charge.

Former Alabama Educator Passes

Dean R. A. Rasco, of Miami Law School, Died In Florida

Coral Gables, Fla., Nov. 16.—Dean R. A. Rasco, of the University of Miami law school, died at his home here Monday night from an illness that affected his heart. He was 60 years old.

He was a native of Newton, Miss., and held degrees from Dickson College, Normal College, Southern Normal University, Arkansas Normal College and Stetson University.

He was principal of Chapel Institute, Thorsby, Ala., from 1898 to 1900 and founded Thorsby Normal School in 1902.

He was superintendent of schools at Jemison, Ala., from 1904 to 1908, going from there to assume the deanship of the law school at Stetson University, Deland, Fla. He held this position until 1921 when he accepted a professorship in law at the University of Florida, going from there to the University of Arizona, where he held a similar position until 1926.

In 1926 Mr. Rasco organized the law school of the University of Miami and in 1928 he became its dean. For eight years he was a member of the summer school law faculty at Stetson University.

The above clipping was taken from The Age Herald of November 8th. The school Mr. Rasco started at Thorsby was the forerunner of Thorsby Institute. It failed for lack of support because he was ahead of the time when people were ready to support a good school. He was an educator of no mean order, and the seed he sowed in Chilton County is bearing good fruit today, as demonstrated by the interest and progress in educational matters all over the county.

PASTOR'S REPORT OF THE CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

On Wednesday I closed my work as pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church. I wish to say to all who are concerned that my work among you has been pleasant. It has been a joy to worship with you, to be with you in your homes, and to strike hands with you on the streets. I have never spent a more active year since I have been in the ministry. Am sorry that the fruits of my labor are not more abundant.

Some people think that a preacher has leisure time, and that he lounges about more than other people. The pastor of the Methodist Church has eaten no idle bread this year. Here are a few of the things that he has done. He has traveled 12,000 miles, preached 202 sermons, made 437 pastoral calls, made 397 calls to the sick, held 29 services for children, conducted 62 devotional meetings, made 24 addresses before clubs schools and gatherings, attended 486 religious meetings. In addition to this he has written 21 new sermons, prepared 129 articles for publication and read 42 books. He has exercised his muscles in much repair work on the parsonage, rather than playing golf, hunting and fishing.

The Bishop and his cabinet will say whether we shall be in Clanton next year. Should we come back, our hands and hearts will be dedicated for continued service. Our blessings upon our flock and friends. —D. W. HASKEW.

Sunday school meets at 9:45 next Sunday, but there will be no preaching services at the Clanton Methodist Church.

THE TAYLOR BOYS BUY OUT SMITH

Transaction Will Become Effective About First Of January

In a recent business transaction, R. W. Taylor and T. M. Taylor, owners of the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company, were purchasers of the wholesale grocery business of J. Lee Smith, the consolidation of the two businesses to become effective on or about January 1st, 1932. The firm will continue under the name of Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company, and will be run in the building heretofore occupied by J. Lee Smith.

Tom and Roland Taylor are pioneer wholesale grocerymen of Clanton, there being only two men who attempted the wholesale business here before they did. The first man to enter that business in Clanton was J. Lee Smith, who has recently sold out to the Taylors, and the other was J. B. Downs, with whom the Taylors were in partnership for several years before they acquired full control of the business. Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company already does a huge business in this section of the State, and this acquisition will greatly increase the scope and volume of their trade.

ERNEST EUGINE THOMAS BURIED LAST FRIDAY

The body of Ernest Eugine Thomas, age 22 years, was shipped to Clanton and buried in the Popwell cemetery last Friday. Young Thomas was killed in a railroad accident near Bessemer last Wednesday.

He was the son of William H. Thomas, a former citizen of this county, and a relative of the family of Alfred Popwell.

DR. L. E. BARTON TO PREACH AT THORSBY

Dr. L. E. Barton, secretary-treasurer of the Baptist State Executive Board, will preach Sunday, November 22, at 11:00 o'clock, at the Thorsby Baptist Church. Churches in reach are urged to attend. Rev. J. W. Jones, the pastor, extends a cordial invitation to all who can to be present.

CHILTON AND COOSA LOSE IN BUTLER'S TAX CASE RULING

Assessments Made For 1931 On Alabama Power Company Property In Two Counties Will Stand As Originally Made, So Far As Butler Is Concerned, He Says

Tax Commissioner Denies Setting Ala. Power Co. Values At 45 Per Cent

The assessment made by the State Tax Commission for Alabama Power Company's properties in Chilton and Coosa Counties for the year 1931 will stand as originally made, according to a decision rendered late Saturday afternoon by S. R. Butler, State Tax Commissioner.

Under the decision of the commissioner the valuation of the Alabama Power Company's properties as a whole in Alabama is raised $908,568. This total rise is in spite of the reductions of $1,666,042 in Chilton County and $1,013,272 in Coosa County. Elmore County, alone, gains $2,817,914 in power company assessments through the decision of the commissioner.

Under the decision of Commissioner Butler upholding the original assessment made for 1931 of the power company's properties, 48 counties in Alaama will get an increase in value while 17 counties will get a decrease in values.

The State Tax Commissioner, in a statement announcing his decision makes it clear that neither the State Tar Commissioner, the Assistant Tax Commissioner nor any chief clerk of the Tax Commission has ever made the statement that the properties of the Alabama Power Company were valued on a basis of 45 per cent of the market value. They are valued approximately on a basis of 45 per cent of the value for rate making purposes which is an entirely different matter.

The statement of the commissioner follows:

"The State Tax Commission on September 30, 1931, acting on petition from Coosa and Chilton counties, set aside the assessment of the Alabama Power Company for the tax year 1931 in the counties of Coosa and Chilton and granted a hearing, which was held on October 22, 1931. After careful consideration of all evidence produced at the hearing, the State Tax Commission decided that the original assessment should stand.

"Neither the State Tax Commissioner, the Assistant Tax Commissioner, nor any chief clerk of the State Tax Commission has ever said the property of the Alabama Power Company was assessed at 45 per cent of its value, or 45 per cent of its market value, or 45 per cent of its cash value. The State Tax Commission has said and only said that the assessment was 45 per cent of the value for rate making purposes. The value for rate making purposes is quite different from the market or cash value."

"The Commission regrets that there had to be so great a reduction in the assessments in Coosa and Chilton Counties, but this reduction could not be avoided, owing to former assessments of the two power dams in these counties having been so far in excess of 60 per cent of their market or cash value." — Montgomery Advertiser.

Butler Under Attack After Tax Ruling

Tax Commissioner Refuses To Raise Assessments In Two Counties

Refusal of S. R. Butler, state tax commissioner, to raise the assessments of the Alabama Power Company in Coosa and Chilton counties was termed Monday by Sen. John Darden, of Goodwater, as an "open and flagrant disregard of the law.

Mr. Butler Saturday issued his ruling refusing the petition of these counties for the restoration of $2,700,000 in assessments previously stricken from the 1930 valuation.

"The lower assessment is the result of a new uniform system of assessing utility property at 45 per cent of the valuation allowed for rate-making purposes," Butler said.

60 Per Cent Lawful

Every premise Butler invoked to justify his ruling is false, Senator Darden declared in a long distance telephone statement to the Post.

"The law clearly says property shall be assessed at 60 per cent of its rightful market value," he said. "Butler is assessing the Alabama Power Company property at only 45 per cent of its rate-making valuation, which is millions of dollars below the 'rightful market value'."

Darden said that he would go to Montgomery Tuesday to confer with Governor B. M. Miller on the situation.

"I think we should renew our mandamus proceedings in the Montgomery circuit court to compel Butler to comply with the law," he added.

May Seek Governorship

"This issue will have to go before the people in the next general election. If somebody else does not run for governor on a platform calling for the utilities to bear their fair share of taxation, I shall run myself.

"The Alabama Power Company gives its properties a book valuation of $191,000,000. The rate-making valuation allowed by the public service commission is $139,000,000. Yet Butler is allowing them to get by with paying taxes on an assessment of only $56,000,000.

"The company acquired $10,000,-worth of new property last year but Butler increased their total assessment only $900,000."—The Birmingham Post.

Borrowing A Weekly Newspaper May Be Dangerous, Says P. O. Davis

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 17.—The practice of borrowing has its advantages but it also has its disadvantages, thinks P. O. Davis, editor at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. It works on some things but not on others.

"When it comes to borrowing the weekly newspapers I am of the opinion that subscribing is much better than borrowing," said Mr. Davis.

"Borrowing is not good for the reader and it is bad for the editor who realizes that borrowing is a tribute to his paper but he is unable to show names of borrowers on his audited subscription list; and here is where he suffers in addition to losing the subscription money, which he needs to pay his bills and give his readers a good paper."

So far Mr. Davis has not been able to offer a solution; but he calls attention to a paragraph which has been going the rounds of the press for many years and will still bear reprinting.

"A farmer, rather than subscribe to the paper, sent his boy to borrow a neighbor's. The lad knocked over a stand of bees. His father, hurrying to help him, ran into a barbed-wire fence, gashing his leg and ruining a new pair of overalls. Hearing the noise, his wife ran out, upsetting a four-gallon churn of cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the litter. At the same time she dropped and broke a new set of store teeth. During the excitement the daughter eloped with the hired man, the dog broke up the setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed up a line of washing hung out to dry. All to save one or two dollars, the price of a subscription."

BIG FOOTBALL GAME TO BE AT BIRMINGHAM THANKSGIVING

Having won its first and only inter-sectional game of the season from Oglethorpe by a score of 12 to 0, Duquesne University, of Pittsburgh, is coming to Birmingham on Thanksgiving Day determined to maintain a clean record so far as the South is concerned. The Catholic "night riders" and the Howard Baptist "Bull Dogs" will meet at the Legion Field Satdium, Birmingham, in their second annual clash, with the Pittsburghers one-up on the Baptists.

Howard invaded Duquesne's territory last year and came home with the small end of a 14 to 9 score, and this year the Catholics will play a return engagement which promises local fans every thrill football can furnish. Both teams are said to be evenly matched in present-season records and manpower.

The Howard Baptists are equally as determined to get revenge for their last year's defeat and their 1931 season's record indicates that a battle royal, such as Thanksgiving's combat will be, will find them on the big end of the tally, despite the fact that Coach Layden of the Catholics and a large number of students, who will accompany the team to Birmingham, believe otherwise.

It is reported that a large number of Clanton football fans will attend the game, which will start promptly at 2 o'clock. The splendid condition of the highway to Birmingham and the fact that it will be the only big game in North Alabama on Thanksgiving Day, asured a large attendance from all sections of the state.

TRAVELERS INSURANCE HAS AGENCY OPENED IN CLANTON

Mr. Forney J. Huett announces his connection with the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., and will be located in Clanton. Mr. Huett has had a wide experience in the insurance business, having worked at that profession for the past twenty years in Kansas City, Mo. He is the oldest son of Mr. Charlie B. Huett of Enterprise community. Mr. Huett anticipates living with his family in or near Clanton, and will maintain an office in Clanton just as soon as his business will justify it.

The Travelers Insurance Company has in its line any kind of insurance that one might want, including life, fire, automobile, burglary, plate glass, liability and compensation. For the present Mr. Huett will confine his work to Chilton County.

LEGION MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

Capt. R. D. Woodson, of Lay Dam, commander of Chilton County Post of the American Legion, requests us to announce that there will be a special meeting of the Post at the courthouse Friday night, November 18th, at 7:30 o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting is to consider further the matter of bonus payments, and all members of the Legion, and all ex-service men who are not members, are urged to be present.

TWO DIED FROM CALERA SHOOTING

Randolph Man was Killed By Calera Police Chief Sunday

Calera, Ala., Nov. 15.—Two men were shot to death, one instantly, in a shooting affray on the Montevallo Highway, near here, at 5 p. m. Sunday, following an attempted arrest of an auomobile party accused of disorderly actions in Calera.

Luke McCary, resident of Randolph, Ala., was shot and killed instantly by Chief of Police H. A. Miller, of Calera, who said Filma Cost, of Calera, was shot in the abdomen and fatally wounded by McCary, just before he was killed by the officer.

Cost was rushed to a hospital in Birmingham, but died en route. He was a farmer and a resident of Calera.

Shortly before the double tragedy, an automobile in which McCary, Cost, Mrs. McCary and a man named Millstead, a railroad employe, were riding, halted in front of a pottery shop in Calera, Chief Miller said he was told.

Chief Miller said L. M. Fuller, proprietor of the shop, reported the party acted disordely in the shop, damaged wares on display and finally drove away with some objects of pottery.

Chief Miller said Fuller reported the occurence to him and the two departed in the chief's car in pursuit of the other machine. Overtaking the group at a point about a mile west of Calera, Miller said he ordered the car to halt after he had succeeded in blocking the highway.

When the car stopped, he said, he ordered the occupants to get out. Cost was driving and McCary was sitting near him, the officer said.

Chief Miller reported that at this point McCary produced a pistol and that Cost, apparently in an effort to prevent McCary from firing, seized his pistol, the bullet striking Cost, and then wheeled around, pointing the weapon at the officer.

Chief Miller said he then shot McCary, the bullet entering his heart and killng the latter instantly.

After the tragedy, Mrs. McCary and Millstead were returned to Calera for questioning. No charges were placed against the two survivors or the chief of police Sunday night.

Martin and Sons went to Calera Sunday night and brought the body of Mr. McCary to Clanton and prepared it for burial, which was at Randolph Monday. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Buford Lawrence.

Republicans Face Dry Law Vote Plan

Chairman Fess Spurns Idea Idea Advanced By Former Senator

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Republican party was called upon Sunday by James W. Wadsworth, former senator from New York, to sponsor a constitutional convention on prohibition.

Wadsworth made his proposal in an open letter to Senator Fess, of Ohio, dry advocate, who is chairman of the Republican National Committee. He explained hat he wrote to Fess because his office may be said to be the clearing house for exppression of Republican opinion." Fess dismissed it as "propaganda."

The New York Republican leader's proposition was that Congress submit to conventions of the people in the states an amendment to the federal constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment.

The Wadsworth letter followed closely an appeal from Philadelphia Republican leaders to Chairman Fess for an anti-prohibition stand by the national party and it was regarded here as indicative of a determined effort by some of the Eastern wing of the party to force a wet and dry showdown at the national convention in June.

NON-JURY TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT SET FOR DECEMBER 7-9

Circuit Clerk, J. Z. Mims, announces that a term of non-jury court is close on the way, although a jury term was just finished last week. The civil cases on the non-jury docket have been set for Monday, December 7, and the criminal cases will be tried on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 8 and 9.

Raise Broilers For The Spring Market

The outlook is bright for the spring broiler market. This is due to the fact that the storage plants are empty, which in previous years have been loaded with fryers and broilers.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES WITH YOUR CHICKS

If you spend your cash for strong vigorous chicks and attempt to grow them on a poor quality feed both time and money will be wasted.

WHAT ABOUT A GOOD RATION FOR THE CHICKS?

So much depends on so little here. A baby chick eats only 1 thimbleful a day for the first twelve days of its life. In this small quantity of feed you must have Minerals, Fats, Proteins, Fibre, Carbohydrates, Vitamins. On these the baby chick will live and grow but they must be present in every thimbleful and in equal proportions. Just think, only One Thimbleful to Produce Life and Growth in the baby chick. What a job for a thimbleful of feed. Every thimbleful of Purina Chows is equally balanced to give everything the chick needs for life and growth.

If you need profitable work you can start a business of your own with only a small investment. We shall be glad to furnish you complete instructions for the business of growing chicks.

We also carry a complete line of Laying Chows, Pig and Hog Feed, Dairy Feed and Flour.

OUR PRICES ARE ALWAYS LOWEST

Because we buy in car lots only, and we strictly guarantee every bag of feed and flour that we sell. When in town come to see us. Look over our stock and let us tell you the cheapest way to build broilers for the high spring price.

HEAVY PECAN POOL FOR YEAR REPORTED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 17. — A heavy delivery of pecans to the Central Alabama Cooporative Pecan Association is reported by Clifton Kirkpatrick, president, and J. B. Sylvest, manager.

The association is expecting to handle more than 700,000 pounds of nuts, the membership having almost doubled that of last year and now standing at 529. Last year's delivery totaled nearly 300,000.

The pool closed Octobr 31, the second will close November 15, the third November 30, the fourth December 20, and the fifth March 1. The different pools will be handled and marketed separately in the order they are dated.

SHELLED NUTS GO DIRECT TO MARKET

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 17—For the first time in history, Alabama peanut producers are shipping shelled peanuts direct to the leading market centers of the world.

The Alabama-Florida Cooperative Peanut Association has shipped shelled nuts in carlots to Boston, New York, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Iowa, Kansas, and other large markets, reports J. J. Watson, general manager.

Mr. Watson also reported that the association has increased its advances to $244 per ton for No. 1 Spanish peanuts and $20 per ton for No. 1 runners. Final settlement will be made on all peanuts not later than June, 1932.

NOTICE TO BAPTISTS

The car for loading produce to be sent to the Baptist Orphans Home at Troy, will be at Thorsby Tuesday, November 24 and at Clanton Wednesday, November 25.

Baptist people of the Unity and Chilton Associations are urged to remember these dates and bring something to be sent to the orphans,

Any items of food or clothing, or anything that is of use about the home is accepted.

Bring your stuff to the car, either at Thorsby or Clanton. There will be someone in charge to see after loading what you bring.

BALDWIN IS LEADING TRUCK CROP COUNTY

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 16.—Baldwin County is by far the leading truck crop producing county in Alabama with Mobile taking second place and Escambia and Conecuh counties following.

Annually from 3,000 to 4,000 cars of fruits and vegetables shipped from the state come from Baldwin County, reports the Alabama Department of Agriculture. Mobile farmers ship from 1,200 to 2,000 cars annually with Escambia and Conecuh shipping from 500 to 1,000 cars each.

Reese Mullins, Jr. is at home from the University of Alabama. His mother, Mrs. Clara Mullins, will return to Clanton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosea Downs went to Gadsden Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Clara Mullins's mother.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET IS A BIG SUCCESS AT C. C. T. S.

Success spelled the outcome of the Father and Son Banquet last Thursday night, sponsored by Prof. Benjamin Anderson, teacher of vocational agriculture at the Chilton County Training School. Music debates, awarding prizes and a delicious repast were among the many interesting things on program.

The subjects for the two debates one by the evening school and one by the vocational boys respectively, were as follows: Resolved that there should be no cotton planted in the year 1932, and Resolved that it can be detremined whether one animal is better than another by observation.

Mr. A. G. Gordan, a negative representative for the evening school kept the audience at his finger tips throughout his discourse. Mr. Ben Brown, the affirmative representative did equally as well. The affirmative won.

With Lizzie Draper, a representative of the negative side for the vocatiional boys, the negatives were bound to win with his eloquence, gestures and praise. Among other speakers were Ernest Brack, Cleveland Monroe and John Dickerson.

There was music galore by the Bryant brothers, "Melody Four," doing their bit by singing good old negro spirituals, which set our souls on fire.

A miniature plow was presented to Mr. Ben Brown, one of the oldest citizens and farmers in the community, for outstanding work done on the farm. He is recognized as a farmer who lives at home and boards in the same place. Prof. Anderson, in his presentation speech, said in part "A farmer should not buy anything he can produce on his farm. Mr. Brown has not produced everything but he has set the pace in this community by growing food and feed crops, raising chickens and livestock for milk, butter and meat. Take this little plow, keep it in remembrance of our appreciation of your service to God, to your community, and to your race.

Miss Rose V. Lee, teacher of home economics, pleasingly served the guests with chicken sandwiches, cake, and lemonade.

The banquet was to mark the close of the evening school classes which opened in August, but the farmers voted to continue the class throughout the year.

After the delicious repast, the guests departed saying "The Best Yet."

POWER COMPANY TO PAY REGULAR STOCK DIVIDENDS

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 12.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alabama Power Company held today in the company offices in Birmingham, the regular quarterly dividend on its $7.00 and $6.00 preferred stocks for the quarter ending December 31, 1931, was declared payable on January 2, 1931, to stockholders of record December 15, 1931.

Also the regular quarterly dividend on its $5.00 preferred stock for the quarter ending January 31, 1932, was declared payable on February 1, 1932, to stockholders of record January 15, 1932.

The approximate amount of these dividends will be $588,000.00 to be distributed on the two dates January 2, and February 1, 1932.

ALABAMA HAS LARGE SURPLUS FARM LABOR

There is a tremendous surplus of labor on Alabama farms, reports F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician.

"The supply of farm labor on November 1 was 129 per cent of normal while the demand was only 56 per cent of normal. This indicates a tremendous surplus of farm labor.

"The heavy advance from a month ago is probably due to the completion of harvest in many counties with no further use for extra labor in those sections."

POPLAR SPRINGS

Our Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. are doing fine now.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We hope to have a large attendance. Sunday afternoon Dr. Barton will lecture here. Visitors are especially invited to hear this lecture.

Next Suday night the Intermediate B. Y. P. U. class will render a Thanksgiving play, everyone who can should hear this play. It might help us to be more thangful in this time of depression.

Several from here attended preaching and singing at Maple Springs Sunday. They report a good attendance.

FARMERS ENTER WINTER MONTHS WITH MORE FEEDS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 16.—Alabama farmers are entering the winter months with a much larger supply of food and feed crops than they did last winter.

F. W. Gist, agricultural statistician, reports that state farmers this year produced about 18,000,000 more bushels of corn, over 1,000,000 more bushels of sweet potatoes, 900,000 more bushels of peanuts, a half million more gallons of syrup, 2,000,000 more pounds of pecans, and 34,000 more tons of hay than produced in 1930.

SERVICES A FRIENDSHIP

Next Sunday is regular preaching day at Friendship, and Rev. J. Robert Bean, the pastor, will preach there Saturday night and Sunday night at 6:30, and Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. There will be Sunday school Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, and singing in the afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Central Singing Society. Everyone has a cordial invitation to attend these services.

ALABAMA COLLEGE NEWS

Montevallo, Ala., Nov. 16.—With a view to meeting the popular demand over the state for educational radio programs, a demand increased by the gruping of number of homes both in rural and city sections which enjoy the use of radios, Alabama College has inaugurated a definite series of programs which are being broadcast over WAPI each Sunday from 2:00 to 3:00 p. m., and each Thursday from 4:00 to 5:00 p. m.

These programs are being contributed to each of the college departments. Information related to every phase of the curriculum has been compiled for those who listen.

A series which should be of particular interest to all citizens of the state at this time is one to be offered by the history department soon, entitled "What is happening in State Governments?"

In the series, an attempt will be made to understand the reasons for and the results of state surveys, such as Governor Miller has provided for Alabama, for instance. A review of surveys already made in some states will be offered, including those for the states of Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Mississippi, and Maine. Something of the set-up of organizations which make the surveys will be included, also.

Among the series already being broadcast are included a weekly talk on Sundays about problems of parents in bringing up their children, and a ten minute discussion of religious books.

The Thursday programs present timely suggestions to home-makers, a review of books especially interesting to children, and short talks along other lines of individual development.

Music plays a large part in both the Sunday and the Thursday programs. Pipe organs, voice, violin, and piano numbers are to be heard, as well as student glee club and string quartet selections.

ACRE YIELD OF COTTON IS HIGHEST SINCE 1914

Alabama this year produced the highest yield of cotton per acre since 1914, says the Department of Agriculture.

This year's yield per acre is estimated at 198 pounds of lint. Only twice in the State's history of cotton production has this yield been exceeded—in 1911 and 1914, said the report.

The Alabama crop is forecast at 1,400,000 bales which is 15,000 bales more than indicated a month ago and 73,000 bales less than last year. Up to the first of November 1,180,000 bales, or about 85 per cent of the crop, had been ginned.

Newt Myatt of Beat 16 was hurt one night last week by falling into a deep ditch. His dog treed a possum near the house; in going to the dog in company with his boy, Mr. Wyatt attempted to walk a log across a ditch. The log broke under his weight and he was painfully hurt. It is reported that he is now able to be up again.

County High School

Electric Clock System Installed

The Senior III Class of 1931-32 is very proud of the new clock that has recently been installed in Chilton County High School. They are going to leave this clock as a memorial to their alma mater. They had a substantial payment to make on it which speaks well for the general activity and interest of the class.

This clock embodies the most advanced features of electric time system engineering. It automatically supervises the entire system. All secondary units check hourly with the master clock, positively preventing scattering, and insuring correct time throughout the entire system.

The clock winds itself every minute, sounds all the warning and signal bells, cuts off every night at 6:00 p. m., cuts back on next morning at 6:00, cuts off Friday night at 6:00, and cuts back on next Monday morning at 6:00. When regulated in position, is guaranteed to run within 30 seconds per month of correct time.

The system complete consisting of the master clock and eight secondary clocks (one in each classroom would cost the school $543.40. The Senior Class bought only the master clock and one secondary clock which is placed in the auditorium. This cost them $335.00. They will receive one-half state aid, as this is permanent school equipment.

This project on the part of the seniors, far surpasses any donation ever made by any graduating class in the past history of the school. We feel they are to be commended for their loyalty and school spirit.

Science Room Has New Desks

The science room has always used a straight chair. These chairs have never met the needs of the room. We now have 40 new table-arm steel desks. The entire desk is steel except the back, seat, and the arm on which the student writes. This material will meet a long felt want in our school. We now have as good desks as can be found in any high school in the State.

Dr. Haskew At Assembly

Dr. Haskew made his regular visit to our school last Monday at 10:15. He brought us an interesting message and inspiring words that we shall never forget. We always welcome him for he has something new for us and something that will make us better citizens of tomorrow.

Armistice Day Fittingly Observed

A suitable Armistice Day program was carried out at chapel last Wednesday. The following pupils carried out the program: Song, America, by the school; purpose of this observance, Joe VanDeerver; proclamation by President of U. S., Tom Tiffin; devotional reading, Micah, 4:3, Mary Robinson; national prayer, Sallye Mahan; in Flanders Fields, Jane Roberts; America's answer, John Ezell.

Clanton-Holtville Football Game Ends In Deadlock

Chilton High football team met the strong Holtville team Friday afternoon at Clanton. The game ended in a scoreless tie with the ball in Chilton's possession on Holtville's ten-yard line. Chilton went deep into Holtville's territory in the first minute's play. The ball was advanced to about the twenty-yard line when the drive was bolted by Holtville. The game was a hard fought one with Holtville showing unexpected strength. Jesse Frank Foshee stood out in Chilton's line, while the hard blocking and tackling of Captain Robert Sumner was outstanding in the backfield.

We are looking for the hardest fought battle of the season next Friday, when the strong Montgomery County High School team from Ramer comes to play the last game on our own field. Everything points that we will win this game.

"Safety First" A Big Success

Those who did not see "Safety First" last Friday night at the high school auditorium, put on by the Grammar School, missed an hour and one-half of real fun and spontaneous laughter. The play was a great success from beginning to end. The characterization was splendid and the humor was of the kind that inspires hearty response.

FARMERS ADVISED TO HOLD FOOD AND FEED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 16.—F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician, has advised farmers not to sell their present food and feed crops at this time but to wait until next spring "at which time any surplus may be disposed of to much better advantage."

Since Alabama farmers have produced a splendid supply of food and feed crops and since credit conditions seem to be unfavorable for next spring farmers are advised not to sell their food and feed at this time, he said. "Prices are low at present but are bound to be better next spring, at which time any surplus may be disposed of to much better advantage."

WITH THE ALABAMA LAW

Q. Is it permissible to sell cold storage and preserved eggs in Alabama without labeling them as such?

A. No person, firm or corporation, by himself or his agents, shall sell, agree to sell, or advertise for sale any cold storage or preserved eggs without making it known to the purchaser, or prospective purchaser, that the eggs are cold storage or preserved eggs, and all boxes or other receptacles in which cold storage or preserved eggs are displayed for sale, sold or delivered, in wholesale or retail, shall be marked or lettered in a conspicuous manner with the words "cold storage eggs" or "preserved eggs."—Agricultural Code.

Q. Does the law permit the selling of rotten eggs in Alabama?

A. No person shall sell any eggs unfit for human food, unless the same is broken in shell and then denatured so that it can not be used for human food. An egg shall be deemed unfit for human food if it be addled or moldy, a black rot, a white rot, or a blood ring, or if it has an adherent yolk, or a bloody or green white, or if it be incubated beyond the blood ring stage; or if it consists in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed or putrid substance. —Agricultural Code.

Mrs. R. D. Woodson and Mrs. W. M. Wyatt spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Miss Dera Colley of Verbena spent several days recently with frieds in Clanton.

More than Indemnity

Your fire insurance dollar provides far more than you realize. Of course it protects you from financial loss in case of fire. But it does so much more that it ranks as one of the most effective dollars you spend.

Merely as indemnity, Stock Fire Insurance is one of the cheapest necessities. Its average rate has consistently declined for more than 20 years, until in 1930 it reached the lowest figure in all American fire insurance history.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

teaches better building practices—furnishes a service for the suppression of arson, another for the improvement of community fire defenses and conducts many general fire prevention activities, all of which have contributed to the reduction of fire waste and the loss of life by fire.

MT. PLEASANT JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

On next Saturday night a chicken supper will be given at the school building. A large plate heaped with many good things to eat will be served for only twenty-five cents. Proceeds will be used in purchasing new shades for the school. Two string bands will be present, tap dancing and other features will round out the night's entertainment for all who attend. We are expecting the Kiwanis Club from Clanton to come out and help us. Tickets for the plates are now on sale by the Junior High school pupils. A handsome prize will be given to the boy and one to the girl who sellsthe greatest number.

The school work is moving along nicely. The enrollment at present is about 200. Attendance for the second month thus far has been slightly better than the first month which was 92.5.

The girls of Mt. Pleasant school have been busy the past two weeks selling candy, for the purpose of raising money to equip the basket ball team with uniforms. With the sales soon completed, the material has been bought and the girls are now making their uniforms which will be ready this week. Any junior high school desirous of games for the girls please write to the principal of this school. The boys games have already been arranged through the schedule completed by the committee appointed by the Chilton County Junior High School League.

The Mt. Pleasant boys team suffered their first defeat of the season when the heavier Enterprise lads won over them last Friday by the count of 16 to 8. Two of the regular Mt. Pleasant boys were suffering with a sprained, and swollen hands. This made necessary the use of a substitute player who was unable to match speed with the clever little forward, Griffin, who led the Enterprise team in scoring with 9 points. Most of the points on both sides were made through foul shots. Two field goals were registered by Mt. Pleasant and four by Enterprise, is evidence of the close guarding and unnecessary fouling by both teams.

Enterprise will come to Mt. Pleasant next Friday afternoon for a game at 3 o'clock. Both teams being almost evenly matched a hard fought and interesting game can almost be assured. We expect a large crowd out to cheer the boys.

Mrs. Wright, our sixth grade teacher, presented an interesting little program at chapel exercise last Friday morning. Several of the members of the sixth grade staged a highly pleasing negro comedy act; while several members of her Junior I English class dramatized the play entitled "Little Women." The Liberty Hill quartet has promised to render a program for the school within the next few days.

The Mt. Pleasant school plans to sod he school grounds with grass and plant shrubbery and shade trees after the next rain. Due to the present drouth it has been almost impossible to beautify our grounds by planting.

An entertainment is going to be given in honor of the Junior III Class soon.

The Mt. Pleasant faculty, and student body is glad to know that their friend, Mrs. Frank Mastin, is rapidly recovering from recent illness.

The school is deeply grateful to Mrs. Mastin for her recent contribution of a nice set of encyclopediae to Mt. Pleasant Jr. High; also Mr. Mastin, who gave a large number of beautiful and attractive pictures to the school.

J. Harvey Foshee went to Opelika Monday to attend Federal Court.

BRING CREAM IN MORNING

Mr. Stapp asks us to pass the word around asking people who market cream through the farm bureau to please bring it in to the office here Saturday morning whenever possible. Mr. Stapp says that when everybody brings in their cream Saturday afternoon, it works their force mighty hard getting it ready for shipment. If most of it is brought in Saturday morning, that will give them more time to get it all graded and ready for shipment.

W. S. Clark, Joe Raines, J. W. Howard and T. J. Guledge, all from the neighborhood of Mt. Creek, were business visitors to Clanton Monday morning.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Again we are called to pay a tribute of respect to one of our brethren whom the great architect of the universe has seen fit to call from our midst, Bro. D. H. Gentry, who was a member of Thorsby Lodge No. 759 A. F. and A. M., passed away November 9, 1931. His loyalty and faithfulness were attested by his regular attendance, his eagerness to learn and his ability to serve. His stalwart character has left its indelible imprint upon our memory.

He will be greatly missed as a citizen and Mason. Be it resolved,

First, that we extend to his family our deep sympathy in their sorrow, and comment to them the following found in our manuel: "We cherish his memory here and commend his spirit to God who gave it."

Second, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, one spread upon the minutes of our lode, and one to each of our county papers.

C. N. Eiland, Donald Merchant, and W. A. Hayes, Committee.

A NEW KIND OF ACTOR—HE DOESN'T LIKE SPOTLIGHT

New York has found a new kind of celebrity in the person of Bing Crosby, the boy from the West, who is singing nightly on the Cremo cigar program at 7:15 and 11 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, over the Columbia Broadcasting system, and whose popularity is such that he has been drafted by the stage and is appearing daily at the Paramount Theatre in the heart of the White Light District. The other night he saw his name in bright lights over a theatre, and he wasn't particularly pleased because he doesn't like the usual theatrical ballyhoo and and huge electric signs. Such fame is the goal of most stage people but Bing feels much more at home without so much praise. There is nothing he can do about it however, because his audience is increasing rapidly. His original type of singing has caught the public fancy and already he has a host of imitators. Bing himself in addition to the radio and theatrical engagements has made a series of talking pictures which will soon be distributed all over the country. A pretty rapid rise for a boy who was almost unknown a few months ago.

BUSINESS AND SOCIAL HOUR ENJOYED BY S. S. CLASS

The following members of the Fidelis Sunday School Class enjoyed a business meeting at the home of one of its members, Sallye Mahan, last Wednesday evening: Mrs. Renfroe Mullins, teacher; Flora Harris, Mary Lee Pyron, Mary Foshee, Janice Danforth, Carrie Foshee, Gladys Williams, Mary Frank Smith, Vera Jones, Charlsie Pyron, Lucille Cox, Bonnie Clyde Griffin and Sallye Mahan.

After the business games and contests were enjoyed. Delicious hot coffee and cakes were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoskins (Elizabeth Duncan) of Waco, Texas, announce the birth of a daughter on Friday, November 13. They have named her Margaret Elizabeth.

Bronson Ruffin, William Arthur Willis, and Grover Harris, Jr., students at the University of Alabama, were at home last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Roberta Childress, of Thorsby, has accepted a position in the dime store of the Clanton Building Supply Co. Mrs. Childress was for a long time clerk in the office of Tax Collector, Tom Rockett. Her many friends will be glad to know that she is to be back in Clanton again.

TODAY, please take a moment to find out why you are sluggish or low in spirits.

That "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy. "Don't let them count you out" when more red-blood-cells will give you that New Strength.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a trial.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Program

Of the Helen Keller Literary Society of Thorsby Institute, which was held November 14, at 7:30 p.m.

Business meeting. Devotion, by Evie Lee Rowe; operetta, "Christina of Greenland." Cast of characters: Peder Aaldborg, Danish administrator, Oliver Lyon; Mrs. Aalborg, who craves a title, Kathryn Lenoir; Christina, their daughter, dreads a title, Lois Thompson; Lord Doolittle, who possesses the title, Mr. C. B. King; Thelma Larsen, Christina's cousin from Copenhagen, Myradine Martin; Ralph Winslow, newspaper reporter. Leo Spivey; Milton Blair, his pal, Ralph Pate; Captain Boyd of the U. S. flying corps, J. T. Faircloth; Anno Thorssen, maid to Mrs. Aalborg, Anna Fae Price; Pat, just himself, Carl Ekblad; Ag-Wah-Woo, a wild and wooly Eskimo, Cecil Blow; Iggi-Moo-Moo, not so wild and wooly, Conradine Pate; Igorinsky Russovitch, even worse than his name, Brady Billingsley; Danish national dance, Pauline Poole and Brady Billingsley; choruses, moonlight maidens and Eskimos.

A very important part of acceptably rendering an opperetta is the chorus, and though seldom mentioned individually, much of the success of the whole performance depends on their exhibition of "team work," which depends in no small degree on their trainers. In this case Miss Thoromon, assisted by Miss Edith Johnson, was eminently successful in synchronizing the voices and activities of the entire company of forty high school people, most of whom were attempting such a performance for the first time.

As an amateur performance it was well done, and few in the audience which filled the hall did not greatly enjoy it, and many expressed themselves as surprised at the excellence of the whole performance.

Thorsby Lutheran Ladies Aid Society will be held this, Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald.

Next Sunday at the morning hour for church service, in the Congregational church at Thorsby, there will be a special Thank offering to be applied on the apportionment fund for missionary activities of the denomination. Contributions to this fund have fallen considerably below the item in the budget of this church and liberal contributions are needed to complete the amount assumed by the church members in annual meeting.

Attention of all residents of Thorsby is called to the Union Thanksgiving service to be held at the Congregational church at 10 o'clock a. m., Thursday, November 26th. All citizens of Thorsby regardless of denominational affiliation, are invited to join in this thanksgiving service.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Petersen, accompanied by Ed Piper, visited Harry Petersen and family at their home in Homewood, Ala., near Birmingham, where he runs Shades Valley Touring Camp, comprised of 10 cottages, one of which he occupies, and furnished throughout with furniture, bedding, cooking appliances, electric lights, city water, baths, and also a filling station. These cattages will each accommodate four people, the charges being $1.50 each cottage for one night, or $5.00 per week. Just now he is getting a lot of south bound tourist traffic, part of which spends one to three weeks enjoying the scenery and sights in and around Birmingham.

Mr. N. Laurell spent the week end at his home in Thorsby.

Mother Sutlive was brought home from a Birmingham hospital Saturday. She is improving.

Miss Dorothy Botler, who is attending a library school in Atlanta, was a surprise week end visitor at her home in Thorsby.

Mrs. A. Amundsen gave a small party Saturday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Soberg and Mrs. Each, both of whom had a birthday anniversary.

Rev. and Mrs. Each, with Rev. and Mrs. Butler, were delegates to the Congregational State Conference from the Thorsby church, which was held at Phoenix City Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of last week. On account of the Barrett funeral, Thursday, they were obliged to drive home at night.

Miss Helen Dizney, head nurse at a missionary hospital in Shansi Province, China, was met by a good audience at Thorsby Congregational Church last Friday night. For more than an hour she talked rapidly of scenes and incidents in that far away land; showing how amenable the Chinese are becoming to the acceptance of Christianity, when their confidence is gained by the ministrations of the medical missionaries. Also telling many interesting stories about the people, their habits and customs. Her coming was quite stimulating to the young people and others who just at this time are studying about the Chinese.

Miss Ruth Peterson of Birmingham visited home folks Sunday.

Sam Mims and family have moved from the R. R. Franklin house, corner Summit and Michigan Avenues, to the second floor of John Mim's home.

Miss Mary Sue Robinson is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. A. P. Villadsen, at Lincoln, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard, Mrs. C. S. Howard, with Lloyd and Ella, Spent Saturday in and around Birmingham.

Mr. Nels Petersen spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and Mrs. A. E. Reagan spent Wednesday in Selma.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth and Mr. Turnquist went to Selma Saturday, returning they brought Misses Naemi Turnquist and Christina Bosworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Gray spent Sunday in Wadsworth.

Mrs. Norton, Mrs. Laurell, and granddaughter, Christine Love, and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Duchi and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Terry were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R. Smith, Mrs. James Rogers, Mrs. L. C. Croker, and Pate Croker, of Bessemer, Mrs. Leslie and Gene of Ensley, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lawrence of Six Miles, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Piper within the week end.

Roy and Alton Connatser of Tuscaloosa were week end visitors with home folks in Thorsby.

Mrs. G. W. Scott of Birmingham spent the week end with parents in Thorsby.

Miss Elizabeth Leslie of Ensley was a week end guest of Juanita Connatser in Thorsby.

Next Sunday will be regular preaching, morning and evening, at Thorsby Baptist Church.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. M. J. Barrett wishes to thank her many friends of Thorsby for the beautiful flower offerings, for the funeral of her husband; and the many other things that was done for her in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Dr. and Mrs. Nicks, and two sons, Robert and Jean, Mr. Arnold Eggers of Iowa, Miss Reyeler, and Mr. F. Reyeler, of Montgomery, Mrs. Earl Meade of Calera, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade, Mrs. Russell Peterson, Miss Era Robinson, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meade of Calera Sunday.

Mrs. McKelley Hand of Calera spent Thursday with Mrs. Clyde Meade.

Mrs. Russel Peterson and mother, Mrs. Robert Bean, entertained for dinner Tuesday, Mrs. Rolland Miskell of Iowa, Mrs. Louie Self of Birmingham and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Mrs. Rolland Miskell of Iowa and Mrs. Louie Self of Birmingham are spending a week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus have moved into the old Meade home of Thorsby. We welcome them to our town.

Miss Dessie Robinson of Clanton spent Friday with her parents in Thorsby.

Mrs. Grover Bice is improving, having been confined to her bed for the past week with flu and a severe throat infection.

Little Oleta Bice is fast recovering from scarlet fever.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive went to Birmingham Saturday and brought Mrs. Sutlive home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Crosgrove and Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and children of Birmingham visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson Sunday.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. D. H. Gentry and family desire to express their deep sense of gratitude for the many manifestations of interest and sympathy they have received from so many friends during the long illness, death and funeral of our loved husband and father, D. H. Gentry. These kindnesses came from so many sources that it is impossible to thank you individually, and take this more public manner of acknowleging our obligations with a hope that it may reach all for whom it is intended.—Mrs. Cora Gentry and family.

Boy Scouts

Regular meetings are now held under direction of H. R. Maddox, acting Scoutmaster. Arrangements have recently been made for use of such space as they require indoors in Helen Jenkins Hall, and the hour set for meetings is 6:15 each Friday evening. Any boy in Thorsby over 12 years old, who is interested in Boy Scout activities, or think they would like to be, should see Mr. Maddox for information. Boys are never urged to become Boy Scouts. It is one organization whose members must express a desire to get in, because they are interested in Scouts.

The Christian Endeavor Society met Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The leader was Miss McKee. The topic was "What is the Purpose of Life?" A very interesting discussion was made of the whole meeting. The topic for Sunday, November 22, is "God's Gifts and My Obligations," led by T. A. McCallum. All young people are cordially invited to our meetings, held each Sunday evening at 6:30.

We are sorry of the illness of our president, Miss Lorena Primm, and hope it will not be long before she will be back leading us on to greater success.

Every young person in Thorsby, "let's make this a great success for our churches and give our pastors better cooperation."

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, Miss Odie Lee Arthur, and Miss Mary Ella Gerald were visitors in Birmingham Saturday, returning with Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moody, who were visitors here for the week end.

Ladies Guild Bazaar will be held a week from this week, Saturday, November 28th. Please be ready with gifts.

The chairman of the sales committee wishes to ask all those who are making things for the Bazaar to put their own price on them, remembering there will be 25c, 50c, 75c, and $1.00 tables; then please take them to Mrs. Norton's home so that the committee may know what to arrange for.

ENTERPRISE DEFEATS MOUNT PLEASANT

A very interesting game of basket ball was played between the Mt. Pleasant and Enterprise teams at Enterprise Friday, November 13th. The unusual interest manifest in this game is attributed to the fact that both these teams had won every game played with other schools this year. The Mt. Pleasant record was broken when the Enterprise team claimed victory with a score of 17 to 8.

Curtis and Cecil Traywick were high point men on the Mt. Pleasant team. Curtis made 5 points; cecil 2, and L. Burnett 1; making a total score of 8. The other players on this team were H. Littlejohn, and H. Parker.

James Griffin led the Enterprise team, making 8 of the 17 points. Guy Silas piled the score up 6 points and Cecil Yeargen scored 3 points, making a total of 17 for Enterprise. The other players on this team were L. C. Cagle and Louis Stroud.

The players of the two teams who did not score were by no means idle. They were on the alert, staying on the defense of the opposing team. Both teams struggled for victory during the game and the Mt. Pleasant team did not acknowledge defeat until the game was ended.

Concord-Billingsley

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor lesson was very interesting Sunday.

Mr. Houston Deramus of Maplesville spent a part of the past week with Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams and family.

Miss Connie Shaw spent Thursday night of the past week with her sister, Mrs. Victor Cowart.

Mr. Otice Weldon is spending a few days in Birmingham.

Misses Rena Devaughn and Clara Dell Sims were the dinner guests of Misses Bessie and Jettie Williams Sunday.

Messrs Olin and Hudson Williams dined at the home of their sister, Mrs. R. A. Hicks, of Billingsley, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wililams and niece, Allie, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Herrod and family of Haynes.

Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Wililams visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cox, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lindol, and children, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lonza Williams and family Sunday.

Several of the Christian Endeavor members attended the preaching service at Billingsley Sunday night after the program here.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foshee and family wish to thank their many friends and relatives for their many tokens of love and friendship bestowed upon them in their deepest hour of sorrow.

Mrs. Virgie Nell Foshee Smith is reported doing nicely after a painful operation Saturday at a hospital in Selma.

L. E. Diefenderfer was a visitor to Montgomery Monday.

MRS. VIVIAN FOSHEE DUNCAN DIES OF INJURIES

Formerly Of Maplesville, Passes Away At Spartanburg Hospital South Carolina

The people of this county and other places were shocked Thursday morning to hear of this awful auto accident which took the life of this noble character; and seriously injured her husband. The little twins, Vivian and Virginia, were on the back seat of the car and received a few scratches. Mr. Duncan is slowly recovering, but was unable to attend the funeral at Maplesville.

The body arrived at Maplesville Saturday afternoon, with Martin of Clanton in charge. Funeral was held at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 1:30, with Dr. Ezell and Rev. Paul Oden officiating. Flower girls were Misses Ethel and Ruth Mize, Lucy and Ruth Parnell, Imogene Dawson and Mrs. Traywick. Pallbearers were Dr. H. M. Nix, F. A. Shanks, J. P. Payne, Rubie Bearden, T. R. Edmundson, J. E. Dennis.

The many beautiful floral offerings from Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Baltimore, Detroit, attested to her popularity. She was one of the sweetest and purest in God's family, for the writer knows she was registered in His book.

She leaves a husband and twin girls, Vivian and Virginia; father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Foshee; three brothers, Maurice, of Birmingham; John Alvin, of the University of Alabama; and Hubert, teacher, of Clanton.

MILLION DOLLAR LOSS FOR LACK OF SMALL SUM

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 16.—The people of Alabama face a prospective loss of over a million dollars merely because at the present time the State Treasury does not contain available for forestry purposes sufficient funds to permit active cooperation with the various communities in forest fire prevention, says Colonel Page S. Bunker, State Forester.

The smoke blanket lying over the greater part of the Gulf region during recent weeks is due almost as much to the lack of wind as to the fires which create the smoke, according to Colonel Bunker. When there is little wind to dissipate and carry away the smoke the latter remains in the vicinity of the fire and creates a condition of low visibility which often comprises a hindrance to traffic of all kinds. With numerous fires in existence, although each one may be comparatively small, large areas may be covered with smoke in this manner. With the coming of brisk winds, however, the smoke pall is generally lifted, but the spread of the fires themselves at the same time may be greatly increased.

The present season is one of the most hazardous known in the history of the South, points out Colonel Bunker. This is not only on account of the weather conditions that are contributive to the forest fire danger but is due also in a very great measure to the business depression which is reflected in the current facilities for carrying on public activities.

The State Forestry Fund is comprised of license fees paid in by the forest and wood using industries. Many of the concerns engaged in such enterprises have temporarily discontinued business, and doubtless others find the payment of the license fee when due a matter of considerable inconvenience. As a result the collections from these sources have been very far behind the average, so that the accrued amount available for public cooperation in state-wide forstery measure is extremely small.

The first ten months of 1931 have been the driest of any similar period since the beginning of the keeping of weather records in the State. An enormous number of fires have sprung up. The only factors that thus far have prevented a most disastrous situation are the facts that although there has been very little precipitation during the present period the relative humidity has not been extremely low and that thus far there have been no high winds.

Books for the Blind

Through American Red Cross Chapters, 3,827 volumes of novels, class books and others, transcribed into braille for blind readers, have been added to libraries, in the past year. These books are to be obtained through the Library of Congress and city libraries. This activity, carried on by a great number of devoted women volunteers in Red Cross Chapters, had its inception in preparing books for war blinded.

GULF SETTING UP CLANTON FIREMEN

Through the kindness of Mr. Arthur Willis, local agent, and the district representatives of the Gulf Refining Company, the local fire department and the city officials of Clanton, were treated to a banquet and dinner at Matt's Lunch Shoppe Wednesday night.

This favor on the part of the Gulf pople was extended in appreciation of the fine work of the fire department in putting out a very dangerous and threatening fire which occured a few weeks ago in a building close to the storage tanks of the Gulf Company in South Clanton.

BASKET BALL GAME

Last Friday afternoon the Punkin Town Team met with the Saullie Pond quintet, and a very interesting game was played. The game was a victory for the Saullie Pond team, 12 to 4. The first half ended 6 to 2 in favor of the winners. Howard Wyatt, left forward, made three fine field goals. Lonza Bates, running guard for Punkin Town made 1 field goal. Both teams fought hard for the game. In the last half Clarence Baker netted the ball for a field goal. Howard Wyatt made 3 more points in the last half, making him 9 points throughout the game. Dalton Bice made one point on a foul. Calvin Robinson made another field goal from center for Punkin Town, playing as right forward. The other players of the team were Douglas Robinson, Ernest Bates and Marshal Mims, who played well for Punkin Town. Judson Easterling and Melvin Powell did good work for the winners, playing one half each.

The same two teams met again Saturday afternoon, and played another game, which was a tie; ten minutes more being played to decide the game. The Saullie Pond team was the winner, 8 to 6. Both teams are "outside" teams.

Mr. Lucien Duncan and J. P. Crumpton Jr., of Birmingham spent last Sunday with friends in Clanton.

John Barefield, an old subscriber and friend of The Banner from Minooka, was a visitor to Clanton Wednesday.

Mr. Earl Gore was a visitor to the Union-Banner office Wednesday of this week.

CO-OP GIVES FINAL CLASS TO MEMBERS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 17.—Four additional classers have been added to the list of experinced cotton men now giving final classing service to members of the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton Association. This brings the total of final cotton association classers in Alabama to 35, and they are serving members in the majority of the counties, J. A. Beaty, manager, reports.

The new places added to the list are Demoplis where R. K. Welch is located; Bowden, Georgia, with L. P. Beck; Roanoke, with J. B. Howell, and Lafayett.

At all these places and at all other final classing points, members can get a final report on the grade and staple of their cotton on the day their sample is carried to the offices. The grower can use the class and weight report to draw an advance on the Association for the full authorized advance.

Members not within reasonable distance of classers are delivering to warehouses designated by the Association or to railroad platforms and drawing on the Association for a flat advance which is brought up to the full authorized advance by a check sent from the Montgomery offices as soon as the cotton can be classed.

The Association is giving quicker service on cotton pooled in this way than in former years, the office machinery having been made more efficent.

There has been a decided trend this year to cooperative marketing of cotton. Not only are old members delivering their cotton, but since the season opened 3,730 new members have signed the contract and delivered cotton. This brings the total membership to well above 30,000.

RED CROSS RELIEF IN 79 DISASTERS IN YEAR

Forest Fires, Plagues, Storms, Earthquakes, as Well as Drought, Call for Help.

The forest fires which have raged in Idaho and other western sections this year have presented a serious disaster—one of a number, in addition to the enormous drought relief problem, which have been met by the American Red Cross relief forces.

Suffering, faith and courage are contained in a story coming from the Priest River section in Idaho, told by a volunteer Red Cross worker as follows:

"Picture a happy little homestead near the banks of Priest river in northern Idaho. While father, with a little son tagging at his heels, is out tending crops and adding to the clearing, mother is at home making preparations for another arrival. Then comes the fire demon, sweeping all in its path. While father fights to protect his little home, the stork announces its arrival.

"Mother and baby are bundled in a quilt and loaded on a truck for the race through the flaming forest. Father drives the truck and the little boy sits at his mother's side, brushing away the sparks which fall like rain upon the improvised litter."

To the Red Cross worker, the mother expressed her anxiety to return to the hills to rehabilitate the little homestead. All they possessed was lost in the forest fires. The Red Cross aided all of the families and is working to help them rebuild their homes.

Altogether seventy-nine disasters called for Red Cross help and money during the year just closed. Aside from the drought, which required services of volunteer workers numbering more than 60,000, and a drought relief fund of more than $15,000,000 of which $5,000,000 came from the national Red Cross treasury, help was given in 22 fires, 13 tornadoes, eight storms and eight floods, six forest fires, four earthquakes and four mine explosions, three typhoons and three epidemics, two cloudbursts, and one each hurricane, mine cave-in and railroad accident.

Aside from a major catastrophe such as the drought, when the whole

Mrs. Clara Mullins was called to Gadsden last Saturday on account of the death of her mother.

BANKERS DEVELOP NEW FINANCE AID

President of American Bankers Association Describes Plan and Services of National Credit Corporation

NEW YORK.—The National Credit Corporation, a billion dollar cooperative institution, is the method worked out by bankers to put into practical effect the central point in President Hoover's plan for renewing the commercial and industrial activity of the nation as proposed in his statement to the nation of October 7, Harry J. Haas, president of the American Bankers Association stated in a recent interview.

The corporation is strictly cooperative in character, he said, to unite the entire banking system and increase the effectiveness of the financial services of banks to their communities in rural districts as well as the cities. The plan will marshal the banking resources of the country, he explained, by creating a national institution whose funds will be loaned when necessary to banks which have assets in their portfolios that are thoroughly sound but are not eligible for loans at federal reserve banks.

To Benefit Everybody

"There is no citizen in the United States but will benefit in very practical ways from the results of the operation of this forward-looking plan of cooperation, which may be regarded as one of the most constructive steps that have been taken toward revival of sound business activity," Mr. Haas declared, adding:

"The National Credit Corporation represents an instrumentality that should have far-reaching effect in restoring the confidence of the public. The plan not only has been formulated by the country's leading banking authorities, but also will be carried out locally as well as nationally by banking representatives who have given their time and thought to this undertaking as a real public service.

"The American Bankers Association convention was in session at the time the plan was proposed and unanimously endorsed it in principle. I have examined the detailed formulation of the working plans as developed by the incessant labors of some of the Nation's leading bankers who have undertaken to put it into practical operation in single-minded devotion to the national welfare, and I am able to say without reservation that the National Credit Corporation as set up by them constitutes a practical, sound and efficient means for carrying out President Hoover's proposal."

ARTHUR DAVIS DIED

Arthur Davis, age 6 years, son of Mr. J. A. Davis, Jr., of Clanton, Route 6, died last Wednesday. Burial was at Bethel Thursday, with Martin in charge.

JOHN R. NORTHRUP DIED IN TEXAS

John R. Northrup died at his home in Kerville, Texas, November 1, 1931. He went to Kerville four years ago to try to recover his health. His many friends will miss his always smiling face. He was cheerful and happy to the last.

Mr. Northrup was born at Prairie Bluff, Wilcox County, on the Alabama River, October 20, 1881. He lived at Temple Texas for ten years; from there to Catherine, Alabama, where in after years he took a course in telegraphy and shorthand. He was at Thomasville and Marion Junction for a time as agent for the Southern Railway. He also was at one time dispatcher for the Southern Railway at Selma.

From Selma he came to Maplesville, where he was agent for the Southern Railway for about nineteen years. He was considered one of the best men of the community while he was at Maplesville. He was always friendly and accommodating. He was a man of Christian character, a devoted husband, son, and father.

Funeral services were held November 2 at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Kerville. Rev. F. M. Brasier conducted the funeral, with Kerville Funeral Parlors directing. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Masonic Lodge. Active pallbearers were J. L. and M. L. Pampell, M. F. Weston, W. B. Anglin, E. Goldbraith, Tom Carr, and Jack Hampton. Honorary pallbearers were Dr. E. E. Palmer, Dr. J. D. Jackson, Dr. S. E. Thompson, Dr. H. Y. Swayze, and Dr. A. M. Rothrock, all physicians who had cared for him during his residence in Kerville.

The surviving father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Northrup, of Maplesville, attended the funeral. He leaves a widow, Mrs. J. R. Northrup, and son, Jack, of Kerville. One brother, Howard Northrup, of St. Petersburg, Fla. His mother-in-law is Mrs. H. E. Hull, of Kerville.

SCOTT BOY KILLED WHILE HUNTING

Lester Grady Scott, age 13, son of J. H. Scott, near Verbena, was instantly killed last Saturday afternoon by the accidental discharge of a shotgun.

The boy and his father were in the woods hunting. Soon after they parted the boy's gun fired, and when the father returned to the place the boy was dead. The load of shot from the gun went in under the chin and up through his head.

Burial of the boy was at Zion Rest Sunday with Martin in charge.

MARY MARTHA DALENE FERRIS

Mary Martha Dalene Ferris, 7-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Vergil Ferris, died last Wednesday. Burial was at Cane Creek Thursday, with Martin in charge.

Wise Spending

Careful and wise spending will help solve our economic problems and will be of untold benefit to the farmer. Our troubles are not caused by the spending of money, but because it was spent public was asked to contribute funds for relief. Red Cross relief in these disasters was met from the organization's funds and from special local contributions. Part of each membership, subscribed to Red Cross Chapters at the roll call period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, goes toward this important work.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

VOTERS OF ALABAMA WANT COUNTY AGENT

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 17.—Determination on the part of the people of Alabama to retain the services of county agents and home demonstration agents is regarded by Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Aubnrn, as a bright spot in the rural situation of the state. Evidence of their high esteem of the work was the recent election in Chilton County where the electorate voted almost four to one in favor of retaining the county agent. The vote was 1,480 for and 417 against.

Retaining the service of the county agent and home demonstration agent in each county is one of the wisest and most productive expenditures a county can make, Mr. Duncan continued.

"To discontinue the work," he added, "would be like withdrawing soldiers from the line of battle during time of war. I realize that many of the counties of the state are forced to reduce their expenditures, but very little reduction is made by reducing or even discontinuing these agents.

"On the other hand, much is lost, because the services of a county agent and a home demonstration agent are invaluable at all times and especially under present conditions because agriculture is in a trying condition. It is changed and the very ables leaders are needed to assist them in a changing to the best arvantage.

"Discontinuing county agent work would be as bad as killing the goose that lays the golden egg. The only point for it is a small reduction in public expenditures and this reduction is not large enough to be an important item. On the other hand, much is lost if it is done."

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

Throughout Alabama there is a scarcity of eggs and consumers are calling for more of them, according

In September of this year the value to Prof. G. A. Trollope, Auburn. of building permits in Alabama was 25 per cent greater than in August. Much of this increase was registered in Mobile and Tuscaloosa with a more moderate improvement in Birmingham, as reported by the department of Economics at Auburn.

In October of this year farm wages for the United States were 113 per cent of pre-war as compared to a price level of 72 for farm commodities, accordig to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

Sales of life insurance in Alabama in Septemeber of this year were 15.5 less than for September of 1930, as reported by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau of Hartford, Conn. September sales were 10.3 per cent below August. Sales for the entire United States declined also, the report revealed.

The Alabama Economic Review, which is published monthly by the Alabama Polythecnic Institute at Auburn, says that cotton textile and electric power industries continue to be the bright spots in the Alabama industrial situation. Improvement in these industries began in the summer.

By a large majority the electorate of New York voted to amend the constitution of that state and issue bonds for the purchase and reforestation of one million acres of land during the next 11 years. Need for such reforestation in Alabama is recognized by forestry leaders.

HOME OF DOCK BROADHEAD BURNED

The home of Mr. Dock Broadhead, near Culp Schoolhouse, in Beat 15, was destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. All of the contents of the home were burned. Mr. and Mrs. Broadhead, who are old people, were at home, but were unable to stop the fire.

The blaze was started by a spark from a chimney falling on the shingle roof of the house.

Lesson for November 22

PAUL IN ROME

GOLDEN TEXT—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 25:1-12; 28: 16-31.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the Greatest City of the World.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Life-long Ambition Fulfilled.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Prisoner Proclaims the Gospel in Rome.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Ministry in the World's Capital.

I. Paul Appeals to Caesar (25:1-12)

In order to appreciate this action on the part of Paul it is well to get a synthetic grasp of the experiences which forced him to make this appeal.

1. His trial before Felix (Acts 24) The officials of the Sanhedrin were represented by Tertullus, a Roman barrister. He brought a fourfold charge against Paul:

a. A pestilent fellow (v. 5).
b. An inciter of rebellion (v. 5).
c. The ringleader of a sect (v. 5).
d. A profaner of the temple (v. 6)

To this charge Paul replied in a clear and dignified manner, setting forth the facts of his life, and demanded that his adversaries bring proof of their accusation. Felix was greatly moved by Paul's testimony concerning Christ, but postponed decision, expecting to receive a bribe from Paul.

2. Trial before Festus (25:1-12) Festus was the successor of Felix Two years had elapsed, but the Jewish hatred had not abated. Paul's foes in Jerusalem sought to have him brought there for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus, willing to please the Jews, purposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. For this Paul rebuked him, declaring that he very well knew that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice at the hands of Festus, he made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar. Festus was taken by surprise and found himself in an embarrassing position, as he was unable to explain to Caesar as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial.

3. Trial before Agrippa (25:13-26:32). This was occasioned by the visit to Festus of Agrippa and Bernice. Upon their arrival, Festus told them of his perplexity. Therefore, they expressed a desire to hear Paul. Paul gladly made his defense before them and appealed to them to accept Christ.

II. Paul's Journey to Rome (27:1-44).

1. The ship (v. 6). It was in a vessel of Alexandria sailing from Myra to Italy.

2. The company (vv. 2, 37). Two of Paul's friends, Aristarchus and Luke, were permitted to go with him. Besides these three there were 273 in the ship.

3. The storm (vv. 14-20). The ship made little headway on account of unfavorable winds. Paul advised that they winter in Fair Haven (vv. 9-12) but his advice was unheeded. In verses 14 to 20 we have a most graphic description of the storm. Tempestuous winds as well as soft breezes await God's faithful ones.

4. Paul's serene faith (vv. 21-26). God is as near to his faithful ones on a stormy sea as in the quietude of the home. Paul was not only calm, but bade the people be of good cheer (v. 22). He promised them safety though the ship would go to pieces.

5. The ship's crew safe (vv. 27-44). All turned out as God had promised.

III. Paul's Ministry in Rome (Acts 28:15-31).

1. Welcomed by the brethren (v 15). They met him at the Appii forum, a distance of about forty miles from Rome. This was the first time he was thus welcomed.

2. Paul's lenient treatment (v. 16). He was allowed to hire a house and live apart, being guarded by a soldier.

3. Conference with the leading Jews (vv. 17-22). He allowed himself only three days to rest. His object was to have a fair understanding with the Jews. He explained the reason for his being there. The result was that the Jews took neutral ground, but expressed a desire to hear what Paul could say in defense of a sect which was evil spoken against.

4. Paul expounding the kingdom of God and persuading concerning Jesus (vv. 23-31). He pointed out a real kingdom, the Messianic Kingdom, with the historic Jesus as the King. The kingdom to Paul meant a definite reign of a definite person, not merely an improved state of society. This he showed from the Scriptures. He went through the Old Testament, carefully showing the kingdom teaching to be in harmony with the law and the prophets.

Personal Consecration

There is also need of a clear understanding of what consecration means It is not an indulgence in pious yearnings and smug phrases. It is the willingness to face facts squarely, to deny one's self in behalf of others, to give, to work with one's heart and soul that God's kingdom may come upon earth.

Pleasures Not Lasting

The pleasures of sin are but for a season, but the punishment of unpardoned sin is everlasting.

PERRY COUNTY BOY WINS CLUB PRIZE

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 16.—The Alabama state winner in the National 4-H Meat Animal Livestock Project Contest is Roy C. Heacock of Uniontown, Perry County, state club leader, T. A. Sims, reports to the National Committee on boys and girls club work.

Roy will receive a 19-jewel gold watch in recognition of this achievement from Thomas E. Wilson, prominent livestock breeder, packer, and chairman of the National Committee on boys and girls club work, and sponsor of this contest. His project record will be judged along with those of state winners in the Southern extension division of the United Stated to determine a sectional winner. The sectional winner will be awarded an educational prize trip to the tenth national boys and girls 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 27th to December 5th, during the same week as the International Livestock Exposition.

The records of the four sectional winners will be judged in Chicago. During the week of the Club Congress, Mr. Wilson will award a $300, $200 and $100 agricultural college scholarship to the three national winners in the order of their rank.

Roy is 14 years old, a junior in high school and has been a 4-H Club member for three years. He fed three calves for show this year. The net profits of his baby beef club work total $310.00. He has also won $82.00 in prizes showing his calves at Montgomery the last two years.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR EVERY MEMBER CANVASS

It is reported that the Baptist churches of the south are making intensive preparations for their every member canvass which they propose to put on November 29 to December 6.

The object for the canvass is to raise forty million dollars for the work of the Southern Baptist Convention. Thirty-one million dollars of the amount will go to the support of the local work of the churches and the other will go o missionary, educational and benevolent objects.

The objects of the Southern Baptist Convention are home and foreign missions, the three theological school, the woman's missionary training school, the board of annuities and relief which provides for their old ministers, and the Baptist Hospital in New Orleans. The objects in Alabama which will get a share of the funds are Howard and Judson colleges, the orphanage at Troy, State missions and the Selma hospital.

Preparatory to making the canvass many of the churches have on institutes in which stewardship and tithing are being taught and the workers are being trained for making the canvass.

It is said that greater interest is being shown in the proposed undertaking than has been experiendced in several years, and it is earnestly hoped that they will meet with great success in their efforts.

JEMISON F. F. A. WORKS ON YEARLY PROGRAM

The Jemison F. F. A. has not completed its permanent plan for a program of work for this year. However, they do have their permanent plan partly worked out. It includes any work that would improve the buildings and equipment of the Jemison High School. They are now working on that part of the progrom and are making six tables for the sixth grade. They have made good progress on the tables during the past week and will soon have the work completed. The boys are using walnut oil stain and clear varnish. A coat of yellow shellac was omitted because of the extra cost.

How Alabama Power Service Cut $5,225,000 Yearly From Alabama's Electric Bill

THE first full year of operation by the Alabama Power Company was the calendar year 1914. From 1913 to July 1, 1930, the company acquired electric plants in 93 cities and towns in Alabama. Of these, one was owned by the State and 29 were municipally-owned. Communities served by these companies had to depend upon isolated plants—few were connected with central station service. In every case rates were higher than the then prevailing rates of the company. Under rates prevailing in cities and towns at the time they were acquired by the company, customers today would pay annually $4,768,000 more than they pay the company under its existing rates. Domestic customers formerly served by municipally-owned plants save 54.5 per cent and commercial lighting customers save 63.9 per cent as a result of the changed ownership. Customers formerly receiving service from privately-owned plants before acquisition by the company save 38.7 per cent in the case of domestic service and 48.3 per cent in the case of commercial service.

In addition, savings effected from time to time in behalf of domestic, commercial and rural customers initiated by the company and savings effected through revisions and equalization in street lighting, industrial and other rate schedules approximate $442,000 annually or a total aggregate annual saving based on former rates and on existing use of about $5,225,000.

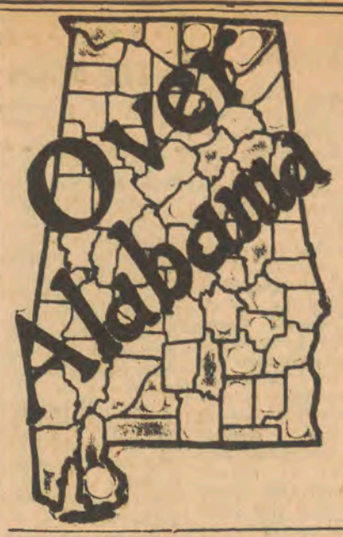
On Display At Dief's Service Station As Prize For Sales

Unusual photograph of the giant Navy airship "Akron," and the Goodyear Zeppelin airship dock where it was built, taken by Margaret Bourke White, famous photographer. The picture, framed in duralumin, the metal of which the ship's framework was constructed, was recently the prize award to Dief's Service Station, Clanton, Alabama, Goodyear dealer, who won a summer sales contest known as the Third Annual Zeppelin Race.

An unusual picture of the giant Navy airship, "Akron" taken by Margaret Bourke White, famous photographer, and framed in Duralumin, was received by Dief's Service Station here recently and is attracting considerable attention.



The picture showing the big dirigible emerging from the air dock at Akron, Ohio, was taken during the "walkout" of the ship, just before starting its trial flights. By a curious fore-shortening effect which Miss Bourke White caught, the dock or hangar, which is three full city blocks long, is narrowed almost to an arch, the rear doors of the building being open at the time accentuating this effect.

Scrap duralumin from the ship itself was used in the frame of the picture and held into place by a hundred duralumin rivets.

The picture was presented to Dief's Service Station, Clanton, Ala., winner in a summer merchandising contest instituted by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, constructor of the airship.

Presentation of the prize winning picture to the local concern was made public by L. J. Teijelo, sales representative of the Goodyear Company, who congratulated the recipient on his aggressiveness and fine character of service that had won the award for him in a depression year.

Explaining the anomoly of a tire manufacturer being in the unusual business of airship building, Mr. Teijelo explained that some 21 years ago, President P. W. Litchfield, of Goodyear, then superintendent of the company, was looking about for new products to manufacture, and was attracted to aeronautics for two reasons. The company was already experienced in impregnating cotton fabric with rubber in connection with making tire plies and belting. This is also the first step in building bolloons. And as a more important reason, he was already impressed with the importance of improved transportation, whether by land or air, and felt that aircraft was destined for an important future in economic history.

PLAYS UNION GROVE

Coach Stuart, accompanied by the boys basket ball team, went to Union Grove Friday afternoon, where they encountered a strong team and were badly beaten to the tune of 22 to 7. There is but one alibi to offer, and that is our boys cast aside all their coaching and played a slow incosistent game, making errors which assisted the opposition in piling up the substantial lead. Only two points were scored in the last quarter. They were made by Huston of Stanton. That Union Grove did not score in this quarter is due to the fact that they were using practically a second string team. If our boys had played heads up and had displayed some speed, no doubt the results would have been much different.

Coach Stuart is giving his boys some stiff workouts this week and we have reason to believe the score will not be so one-sided Friday night when they again encounter the Union Grove boys on the local court.

"Big Maria" Captured In Coosa, Friday, 13th

Friday, the 13th, according to traditional superstition, was an unlucky day for "Big Maria," and her promotors, near Quincy, in Coosa County. It is not stated whether a black cat ran across the road, or whether it was a rabbit that started across and turned back.

Anyway, "Big Maria," is no more, and Alfred McGowan and Jim Adams are in the toils of the law for operating what was one of the biggest wild cat stills on record. "Big Maria," was a fine 25-barrel copper distilling outfit, located on Pearson Branch, near Quincy. When she went down under the axes of Coosa County officers, they also destroyed with her 18 gallons of whiskey and 1,200 gallons of beer.

DR. BARTON HERE NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT, NOV. 21

Dr. L. E. Barton, secretary of the Baptist State Executive Board, will speak at the Clanton Baptist Church next Sunday at 7 o'clock. His subject will deal with some important phases of Baptist denominational work.

It is hoped that the people of all the nearby Baptist churches as well as those of the Clanton Baptist church, will avail themselves of this opportiunity to hear Dr. Barton's address.

IN MEMORY

On the morning of November 3, obout four o'clock, God in his incomparable wisdom saw fit to send his death angel to visit the home of B. H. Eiland, 224 west 3 avenue Birmingham, and bade the spirit of our beloved friend, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Drucilla Wilson, to take its heavenly flight. Mrs. Wilson was born in Bethel community August 3, 1847, she made her home in this community all these fourscore years, except for a few weeks at intevals at which time she was with her nephew, B. H. Eiland, of Birmingham. She is better known as aunt Ceil, for her many friends who knew her and loved her truest all called her that. She was a faithful member of Bethel church for many years, and as long as her health permitted she was a faithful member; she was faithful to her neighbors and was ready to minister to the needy. Her husband preceded her to the grave more than a half century, leaving her two children for which she had to toil. Tho she was always ready to work and render favors, not only to her family and to her friends.

She leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter, Mrs. Elinna Vinson, five grand children, four great grand children, several nephews with families and a host of friends. She was laid to rest in the Bethel Cemetary on November 4, Rev. Kelley officiating with Martin in charge.

Though they may be aged and bent with years, we are never ready to give them up, but let us be submissive to the divine will of God, and only try to imitate her life that we may meet her in that happy home beyond the skies.

Little Inez Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cox has been seriously ill with pneumonia for the past week. She is improving now, her nurse was able to leave her Monday, it is hoped she will be able to be up in the next few days.

Mrs. Culver was the widow of the late J. W. Edwards, merchant of West End. Their many friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Culver a happy life together.

NINE ARRESTS BY SHERIFF'S OFFICE

Reports from the office of Sheriff Gillespie for the past week gives a list of arrests as follows:

Three for assault with intent to murder; 1 for violating prohibition law; 1 for assault with intent to ravish; 1 for giving worthless check; 2 for presenting firearms and assault with weapon; 1 for burgalry and grand larceny wanted in Elmore County.

IN MEMORY OF ARTHUR DAVIS

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis November 11, 1931 and bore away the spirit of their little son, Arthur.

Arthur was born November 9, 1925. He was only six years and two months old. His stay with us was short. His death was a shock to his parents and friends.

Grieve not, dear parents, God worketh in mysterious ways. This little one that He has called is our loss but heaven's gain.

Little Arthur was the only child, as his sister was called by the mighty reaper on August 13th, 1930 to the mansions above that God has gone to prepare for the righteous.

These children's smiles was the sunshine of their parent's home, altho God loved them fit to take them from this world of pain and woe, to a home of joy and sunshine for ever more.

Arthur leaves to mourn his loss, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis, his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Davis and a host of relatives and friends. He gained many friends both young and old during his short stay on earth.—A friend.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

With the scattered elections of November 3 over and the votes counted, the attention of those interested in American politics now naturally turns to the coming session of Congress, and the preparations, soon to be made, for the major campaign of 1932. The Democrats elected three out of five congressmen and so evenly matched is political strength in the House of Representatives that this would seem to give them the organization. If there are no further changes, and if preliminary figures prove to be correct, Jack Garner, veteran Texas congressman and friend of the late Nicholas Longworth, will be chosen as speaker of the house.

The situation is not entirely comfortable for the Democrats, however, in spite of their slender paper majority. Already there are reports of a division in the Democratic ranks, due to sectional demands, and perhaps, in a measure to old sectional prejudices. If the rule of seniority is followed, as is usually the case, the House will have not only a speaker from the southern state of Texas, but about thirty chairmen out of a possible fortysix, of the congressional committees, hailing from below the Mason and Dixon line. This is not entirely to the liking of the northern Democrats, and already there are to be heard charges of "Dixie domination" of Congress.

Just what the results will be, cannot be stated. It is known, however, that there is considerable friction between southern leadership of the Democratic party, and New York leadership, which centers around Tammany Hall. Now if the rule of strict seniority is to be followed and no concessions are given to the northern Democratic congressmen, it would be easy for a few Tammany Democrats to absent themselves from the session in which the house is organized, so throwing control back to the Republicans. Whether they would go so far remains to be seen, but it is now evident that while the Republican leaders in Congress have their troubles with western insurgents, the Democratic southern leaders, are not immune from Tammany insurgents, when the margin in the House is close. Of course this is all presaged on the supposition that the Democrats will control the House. So narrow is the margin that almost anything might happen between now and the date on which the House is organized.

Governor Franklin Roosevelt won out on his forestry amendment to the New York constitution, in spite of the opposition of former Governor Smith, and the politicians believe this has strengthened Roosevelt's chances for the Democratic presidentjal nomination in 1932. There is still plenty of opposition to the New York governor with Governor Ritchey, Newton Baker, and Jim Reed in the offing, to say nothing of an occasional cry from the dry Democrats for William G. McAdoo.

So far as the Republican situation is concerned there is little change. Officials of the National Committee say that there is no question about the renomination of President Hoover in the next Republican convention. They say it will be without organized oppositoin. Thus far the only Republicans who have come out in the open in their angling for the nomination against Mr. Hoover have been Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, and former Senator France of Maryland. Friends of Senator Borah are said to have offered him support if he would agree to make the race but there is no evidence that he will do so. Of late there has been some revival in the newspapers of the gossip concerning Senator Hiram Johnson as a candidate but the California Senator, although he has vigorously critized the administration's foreign policy, has said nothing about being a candidate for president.

WHAT THE SCHOOLS ARE HELPING AMERICA TO ACHIEVE

This is American Educational Week. It is a concerted effort on the part of teachers and various interested agencies to increase the appreciation of the public for its schools. The interest of the press, the radio, and the pulpit have been voluntarily and gladly offered to this great and valuable movement.

American Education Week has been observed for ten years, with constantly increasing interest. It promises to become a great national festival in which the American people will annually re-devote themselves to the ideal of popular government based upon enlightened and progressive citizenry.

The general theme of American Education Week for 1931 is "What the Schools are helping America to Achieve." Nationwide cooperation in inspiring the public with renewed sense of the value of schools through programs built around this theme will be of great aid in keeping the gains made in recent years toward providing every child with a fair start in life.

Suggested program topics have been broadcast for every day this week. Not only the schools, but hundreds of other organizations will devote attention to these programs.

The theme for Monday was "What the Schools are Helping America to Achieve Through Economic Progress." This is followed on Tuesday with a study of the theme "What the Schools are Helping America to Achieve in Child Health and Protection." So on down through the week come consideration of what the schools are helping America to achieve in loyalty to law; in the improvement of rural living; in a higher level of intellectual life; in the enrichment of adult life; in high ideas of character and home life.

In the present trying economic conditions the schools need more than ever before the sympathetic cooperation and support of the people. Only a sincere and honest recognition of the significance of the schools will cause citizens to sacrifice last the education of their children. In communities where it is found necessary to reduce support of public enterprises, the schools should be the very last to feel the paring knife.

Education Week is intended to help maintain our present high standards of educational service, at a time when every public service must he highly valued by the people if it is to continue to receive continued effective support.

We hope the people of Alabama get a full dose of the doctrine that is outlined for preachment about the schools this week. It seems that somebody among us has been slipping away in their appreciation of the value of our schools.

SOME ENCOURAGING STATEMENTS—

These days, when everybody is looking with anxious eyes for the return of business normalcy, every bit of opinion indicating the rise of business and commecial activity, is hailed with gladness.

Commerce and Finance, a business publication in New York City, recently made a survey of New York daily newspapers, and found some interesting headlines under which were printed various articles on the subject of improvement in business. Here are a few of the headings:

Widespread gains seen in business—Commodity exchange seats bring higher prices—Wheat seen leading rally from slump—Rise in wheat benefits Canadian growers—Shipments heavy as prices advance—Silver price rise heartens Ontario—Advance continues in bond market—Deposits in savings banks reach new hight level—Stock prices rise as wheat up-swing spurs market—Prices of gasoline stabilized in Ohio—Steel industry thinks end of crisis was in October—Bankers expect early flood of new flotations—Cotton mounts in week on buying spots—New England plants add workers as orders gain—Grain rise aids all trades in Middle West—Gain recorded in building permits on Pacific Coast.

Some may be prompted to dismiss these statements as mere newspaper talk. And so far as we can say, they might be. But such things makes interesting reading these days.

The more we read about him the more we are convinced that Governor Huey Long's first name ought to be "Hooey."

The Chinese have referred their latest trouble with the Japs in Manchuria to the League of Nations. Which shows that the Chinese are a hopeful race.

Why should President Hoover call an International Trade Conference? There ain't any.

Reports from St. Louis declare that business touched bottom there and started to improve on October 5. Wasn't that the day that Pepper Martin got his home run?

Thomas Edison has gone on but his light will shine down through the centuries.

John J. Raskob has loaned more money to the Democratic Party, which is at least no worse than risking it on the stock market.

Japs and Bolsheviks are said to be looking warily at each other across the Manchurian border. And warily is the right way to look, in both instances.

President Machado blames eighty per cent of Cuba's ills onto the American tariff. Wonder what is responsible for the other twenty per cent.

Everyone has an opinion as to when the depression will be over. Here is ours: The depression will be over when the people get tired of it and commence thinking about something else.

The pessimist is the fellow who would substitute the raven for the eagle as the American national emblem.

The old fashioned American who used to make the eagle scream on July 4 now has a son who went to college and learned to advocate the theory of Uncle Sam's giving away everything he owns to "save the world."

Well, if John Bull joins the protectionists nations, where are the free traders going to go and be able to feel at home?

Remember the good old days when extra dividends were so common they didn't make the headlines?

An internationalist is a fellow who is convinced that Uncle Sam is always wrong even when he is right.

No Politics Required—The place to settle the farm problem is on the farm.—Forbes Magazine.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Prohi And The Prisons—It seems to me that some people get quite a kick out of the report that it is costing Alabama approximately $150,000 a month to feed, clothe, and guard her prisoners—about $25.00 each. Maybe they see in this report a good chance to raise a big hullabaloo to get the prohi law repealed or modifed. But anybody can see through that—these fellows are not smart enough to name a few other laws in with the prohi law as responsible for filling the penal institution to overflowing. Take one guy's tirade: "I tell you, something must be done about this liquor law; why, pretty soon they will have everybody in the pen in connection with some kind of liquor violation. I'm not in favor of liquor, and never have been, but (that BUT is always there) something has gotta be done. I tell you, I'm getting good and tired of the way things are going now. It'll break the State, sure, if they don't do something with this liquor law. It's a miserable failure." I hear lots of fellows say that, or words to that effect. I hardly ever hear a kick on any other of our laws—why is it? And, again, how can they figure the law is a "miserable failure" when it is getting results. These gripers seemingly fail to realize there are lots of other violations which help to fill the prisons—it's always "this liquor law" that gets the panning. I believe I know why there is so much such talk. We've had the answer with us for a long time—longer, in fact, that we have had the liquor law. It is in the form of an old saying: "The hit pup always howls." Let's try letting liquor alone for a while, and see what happens. I believe it will work wonders with the prison problem.

Politics And The Roads—As a result of the long dry spell we have had, and are still in, our roads are becoming mere lines of "duck nests." I hear good, far-sighted men, who look more than an inch in front of their noses, as they forecast what is sure to happen to these beaten-out roads when the winter rains set in, as they most surely will. I am well aware of the fact that times have changed, and that the old day of "pick and shovel" road repair altogether is gone. But I don't believe we have reached the time when our roads can be kept in good shape with machnery altogether, either. What Chilton County road-working overseers need to do is make use of both systems to keep our roads this coming winter. I know we can't go over all the roads with shovels and repair the breaks—and, neither can the road machines hope to go over and pull all that junk out of the ditches up into the middle of the road, leave it there, and expect it to furnish a good road surface. They just can't do it. There is no cure-all system within itself. The machines should be used for all the good there is to be had from them—go behind them with a crew of men handled by overseers who really know what it takes to smooth over the rough spots left, and we have reason to believe we can look forward to pretty fair roads this winter. And that would give lots of the farmers a chance to use themselves and their teams to advantage, both to themselves and the roads. But, here comes the big rub. I found out what was the big trouble not long ago, when I mentioned something like the above to one of the powers that be in Chilton. I said: "How about using the machines to dress up the roads, and then get a bunch of men, mules, shovels and scrapes, and wagons, whatever is needed, and go about this road maintenance business right, no matter who it benefits, just so it keeps the roads in good order." And here's his answer: "Well, you know, that's a little harder to do than it seems. We have a bunch of men who make jobs of this road work, and if us use them for a while, and then lay them off, that throws them completely out of work, with no way to make a living." That's mighty nice—having a Santa Claus to see that Old Pete's kept off the door-step, isn't it? That's politics! That's trying to work roads with politics instead of good sense, work, and road material! But politics will not hold up a loaded 5-ton truck. It might buy the truck, but it will not furnish it a good road to operate on. Let's prepare for war in time of peace. Lets build roads instead of furnishing jobs. What say?

Catching At Straws—I get a great kick out of just standing around and listening to people voice their opinions on things in general. To just stand by and listen in this manner is just like making a big stack cake of public opinion—you have the cake all cut open nicely for you, and you can just sit back and look it over and see what all it is made of. All the above, by the way, is just a kind of prelude to what I started out to say. I know you've heard the saying: "A drowning man will catch at a straw." I never saw it work out any nicer than one day last week when I happened to over-hear a bunch of fellows talking together about the recent drouth. Those fellows were plenty anxious to see some rain. And how they were catching at straws—ringing in every rain sign that they could remember that they had noted recently which MIGHT denote rain. One fellow had noticed more static than usual on his radio; another had heard a tree-frog singing—all kinds of rain signs had been noted. Well, it has been said that "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." Too, if people refuse to hope, they're whipped without a fight. Yep! Hope's a great remedy for what ails you, no matter what that is.

Jack-Ass Drivers—I read in some paper recently that when a certain airplane transportation company catches one of its pilots taking unnecessary chances, it very promptly takes him from the controls of passenger planes, puts him on the ground at work with a ground squad, and has a picture of a jack ass tacked on his working clothes. He becomes a member of the "Jack-Ass Squad"—in whose hands human lives can not be trusted. Now, I notice several automobiles carry safety league emblems—in fact, my own flivver carries one—denoting that the drivers of those cars can be depended upon to play safe. How nice it would be if some way might be provided to force drivers who take chances with their own and other people's lives in cars to place a "jack-ass" emblem on those cars. Then we could have a chance to know when we were dealing with lunatics, and be fore-warned to give them plenty of room.

"Some Punkins"—I never saw so many "punkins" in my life. Every day or so I see a load of the big yellow fellows pass. But I believe Mr. W. W. Fox, and Mr. John Gore will take all "punkin" prizes with their two big ones. Gee, what big ones! I ate a lattle "punkin pie" some time ago, and it tasted pretty good, too. Some of these days I'm going to buy one of those big fellows just to cut open and find out for myself what causes them to be so big and yet weigh so little.

Glimpses—Chief Hardy herding a bunch of little fellows across Sixth Street, on their way to school—that Second Avenue and Sixth Sreet crossing is exceedingly dangercus, what with auto-houses sizzing up and down the highway right through the heart of town. Somebody with a hunting license in one hand and a box of shells in the other—he'll be alone with nature before long. "Joey" Sewell pauses at a filling station for gas—where's Jack Hayes, he wants to know. A bus full of prisoners selling out for the pen—au revoir. What's that on the sidewalk—oh, yes—football this afternoon. Come to think of it, I enjoy football, and here comes Dewey Rockett to go with me to this game—see you later—this football game just must be seen—NOW.—Man in the Moon.

JUST FROM SHOULTS—

Cap shore is one sight. Tother day when us was restin Cap got to poppin off about fust one thing and two. Fore he quit he tuck a pop at the prohibishion business.

He say prohibishion is what God wants. But the funny thing about it, he say, the officers is the cause of the failure of prohibishion. Cap say God pity the man that say let us have whiskey back lack it used to be. He say he has seen men spend all their money for whiskey, and if they got any bread for the chillun they had to buy it on a credit if they could. Then tell me let's have whiskey back again. God pity such a man.

Cap keep on talking and say whiskey is the cause of family fusses, bad health, and a thousand other bad things.

Fore he quit Cap got on depression. Pears to me that is sumpin bout as big as prohibishion. Next week I will tell you what he say bout dat. Cap shore is one sight.—Uncle Remus.

LOOKS LIKE A FUTILE SESSION—

Predicting that the next Congress will be "a rather futile session," the following comment upon the political turn of things national is made in a recent issue of "Commerce and Finance," a New York weekly newspaper:

"As a result of the recent elections and sundry deaths among legislators elected last year, it is now indicated that the Republicans will control the Senate and the Democrats the House of Representatives in the Congress that convenes next month, which points to a rather futile session, unless the two parties cooperate, which seems improbable.

"Indications point also to a Democratic sweep of both houses and perhaps the Presidency itself next year, not that it will do any good beyond soothing the vindictiveness of the voters."

The above expression indicates to us an opinion which we have often felt prone to express: that people may be too much moved by vindictiveness when they express themselves upon men or measures at the ballot box.

DR. CHARLES E. DOWMAN—

The death of a doctor like Charles Edward Dowman is a two-fold loss to the world in which he has moved; science is bereft of a power for its progress, and humanity of a noble friend. His achievements in brain surgery and in related fields of neurology won for him a national distinction. His native genius, developed and enriched at the highest centers of medical education in this country and abroad, carried him far in his years of practice and opened roads to frontiers of knowledge hitherto but dimly discerned.

This, however, was hardly the half of what his life signified. For back of the thinker's penetration and the surgeon's wondrous skill beat a heart ever keyed to that of the Great Physician whose glory it was to go about doing good. Love of truth is a mighty motive for the advancement of humankind, though it spends itself in the coldest cloisters of research; but love of truth, when its daily goal is the good of people, becomes the most quickening and the most beautiful touch given the children of men. "Charlie" Dowman was like that—a rare surgeon, a rare friend of the world. Atlant Journal.

The beautiful truth of the above tribute to Dr. Dowman can be heartily attested by people all over these United States who have come into contact with him through his surgical work; some of whom live in Clanton.

A few scattered elections were held this month but they were only a sort of tuning up of the orchestra for the big show next year.

Since the Liberals have been pretty well put out of business, Lloyd George threatens to go out and build himself a new party.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

I Wish It Would Rain

Try to count up how many times you have heard somebody express a wish that it would rain in recent months. At the time this is written, I believe the drouth will have been broken by the time you read it. As I went down the street Tuesday Dr. Nip Johnson was sitting very leisurely on one of the sidewalk weighing apparatuses at Alred's. As I stopped to take in the peculiar situation he informed me he had decided to sit right there till it rains. It is a good thing he didn't take that notion, say six or eight weeks ago. He would have been into something similar to the tree-sitting business or endurance flying.

Help The Orphans Home

Baptist people in particular should be very keenly interested in the movement instituted by the Unity and Chilton Associations to send a car load of produce to the orphans home at Troy. We can easily afford to spare something of the kind that is asked for—any items of food or clothing that the children can use. People on the farms can help a lot in this good cause with very little if any expense to themselves. Bring what you have to give. The car for loading will be at Thorsby next Tuesday and at Clanton next Wednesday. You can come to the place most convenient to you.

Miss Madelyn's Kindergarten

I met Miss Madelyn Orr on the street Tuesday. She had with her a whole gang of children, who are attending her kindergarten school. The thought occurred to me, I will print the names of those children in the paper. If I do not happen to the good luck, perhaps somebody else will scan the files of The Banner twenty-five years from now and see the names of those who are kindergartens now, but—I wonder what and who and where they will be then.

County Agent Work

I see by the papers that some of the other counties of Alabama are being stirred up over moves made to discontinue the work of County Farm Demonstration agents. The Haleyville Journal says the county agent in Winston has been chopped off by the Board of Revenue. The matter has also come up in other counties. I am glad we have settled that question already in Chilton County when we voted by about four to one to keep our county farm demonstrator. It is nothing short of pure false economy for counties now to cut off their farm agents. What we need is for our boards of revenue to stay with the farmers in this business, and everybody get behind and push to get more farmers following the valuable advice that is theirs through the county agent.

Our City Fire Fighters

I am mighty proud of the "rep" that has been made by our city fire fighting squad in Clanton. Here is something that shows how much the public appreciates these boys and the fine work they have been doing. Recently the question was up before a certain group to cut down the amount of insurance on one of our public buildings. It was stated freely, and I believe correctly, that a fire could not possibly do damage to the building in the amount of the past insurance figure since we have such a dependable and effective bunch of boys to attend to our fires when they happen. More grit to the boys.

The Legion Picture Show

The Chilton County Post of the American Legion is grateful to the people who joined in with them on the picture show program that was sponsored at the Wadesonian last week, terminating on Armistice Day. The Post was able to realize a nice little bit of change out of the show, and all of the members are thankful to everybody who helped by their attendance. Especially are the soldier boys grateful to Mr. Wade for the use of his theatre and the fine spirit of interest and cooperation he showed.

Is Our Town Dirty?

A friend of mine returning to Clanton the other day from a long absence said: Is Clanton as clean a town as it used to be? I thought once, twice, three times before I spoke. I did not know whether reference was being made to the physical, mental, or moral conditions here. My friend came to my rescue by continuing with reference to the appearance of our streets. I assured the interested one that the ugliness of things was to be blamed on the dry weather that has afforded us such a plenty of dust. But as we parted I thought of all the floating leaves, stray paper, and several other unsightly things that sometimes appear, and I wondered to myself: Is Clanton a dirty town, in comparison with other towns? Really, I wonder.

An Issue Next Election

We are told that Senator John Darden declares that the Alabama Power Company tax question will be an issue in the next election for Governor of Alabama. So sure is the Senator that the question will be hot, he avers that if nobody else will run on a platform denouncing "power company favoritism in taxation," he will do it himself. I am sorry to see Mr. Darden make such a statement, since he is one of the attorneys representing Chilton and Coosa Counties in this matter. I believe the two counties have a good case, but it is too early to start a political campaign on that question. We might win our case before the election. Then I wonder what Mr. Darden would run on.

THE POWER COMPANY TAX CASE—

Following the announcement of Tax Commissioner S. R. Butler, that the reduction in assessments of Alabama Power Company property in Chilton and Coosa County would stand as he first fixed the same, The Mobile Register wired Judge L. H. Reynolds for a statement on the matter. Judge Reynolds replied to The Register, as follows:

"Chilton and Coosa Counties do not propose to be bound by the arbitrary and unreasonable tax valuation fixed by Alabama's one-man commission. Court proceedings will be pushed to the limit."

Cases have already been filed in the Circuit Court of Montgomery County, seeking tc compel the State Tax Commission to readjust the valuations of power company property in Chilton and Coosa. From the above statement of Judge Reynolds, it may be expected that we have not yet seen the end of the argument about this matter.

Oxford and Harvard are to debate by radio across the Atlantic. This ought to be fully as exciting as one of those trans-Atlantic chess tournaments.

Health of our community is good at present.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are both just fine, but could be made better. We had a large crowd out Sunday night and a good program.

The United Singing Society will meet here next Thursday night for practice. Let's everybody go and show them we are still interested in the singing society.

Misses Nellie Barnett and Pearl Chandler spent Sunday with Miss Bonnie Hilson.

Miss Claudie Smith of Thorsby who is teaching at this place has been ill with tonsilitis. We hope she will soon be well again.

Misses Amy, Edna and Winnie Kate Robinson, and Miss Leila Northcutt, and Mr. Howard Robinson spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Northcutt at Gorgas, Alabama.

Mr. Harlem Daniel spent the week end with home folks at Lomax.

Miss Dele Collum spent Friday in Clanton.

Don't forget the singing next Thursday night, and everybody come. Visitors are always welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Roache and daughter, Grace, of Montgomery visited Mrs. J. Q. Wade Sunday.

IN MEMORY

Last March 28th the stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Farris and left them a sweet little baby girl, whom they gave the name Mary Martha Delene, and she blessed the home some over 7 months, until last Wednesday, November 11, God sent his angel and took her out of her mother's arms and care, and carried her home to glory. He needed one more of His jewels in Heaven and he called for little Delene out of this world, while she knew of no trouble or care.

Deene had been sick six days with pneumonia, and bore her suffering well for a little one. All was done for her that could be done by the doctor, and kind hands, but God saw fit to take her home, and called her away where she will never know the troubles and sorrow of this world. Delene always welcomeed everyone with a smile, and would try to talk and reach her little arms. She never met a stranger until her sickness pulled her down so low.

She leaves a vacant place in her mother's arms, and in the home, which none others can fill. She was loved and is missed by all who knew her.

She leaves her father, mother, two brothers, Leon and Austin, at the home from which she has just departed to return no more, and countless relatives to mourn her loss. She was laid to rest in Cane Creek cemetery, Thursday afternoon, November 12, with Rev. Z. Y. Appleton conducting the service.

DR. L. E. BARTON TO PREACH AT POPLAR SPRINGS CHURCH

Dr. L. E. Barton, secretary-treasurer Baptist State Executive Board, will preach at Poplar Springs Sunday, November 22, at 2:30 p.m. Let all churches in reach be represented at this meeting. A great treat is in store for those who hear him. The pastor, Rev. W. P. Lowery, extends a cordial invitation to all.

CANE CREEK

The Eastern Singing Society will sing at Cane Creek next Sunday, November 22. Singing will start at 2 o'clock. Don't be late.—Sec'y.

CONGRATULATES PEOPLE ON RETAINING COUNTY AGENT

Please allow me space to say a few words in regard to our County Agent. You will recall that I did not write an article before the election; being a miniser or the Gospel I thought it best not to do so. But I feel it my duty to say a few words in the way of thanking the people for retaining such a great and important work.

As most people know, I do not own a single foot of land, nor am I speaking from a personal standpoint, when I say that the people would have never regretted anything as much had our county agent been voted out. I have always found Mr. Stapp to be a straightforward gentleman. In fact I would have not attended the Rural Church Conference held at Auburn in June of this year had it not been for our agent. I told Mr. Stapp that financially I could not remain to the close of the conference, which lasted four days. His reply was as follows: "If that is your excuse you can stay to the end, so go ahead and enjoy yourself." I consider that this is the most interesting trip ever afforded me. I cherish the thought of going back to Auburn next year to the Rural Church Conference.

Thanks to Mr. Stapp for his courtesy shown me as a minister of the Gospel. I am behind him with all pleasure.

I think the American Legion, Kiwanis Club, and 4-H Club boys are to be congratulated for their support during the late campaign of our County Agent.—M. Lockhart.

PARDON NOTICE

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and willing hands during the sickness, death and burial of our darling baby, Delene. We also thank Dr. Johnson for his service during her sickness, and Rev. Zac Appleton for the tender words of comfort which he spoke over her. We know our little one is safe in the arms of Jesus, but oh, how lonesome and lonely we are without her. But we hope to meet her where we will part no more. May God bless each and every one who lent a helping hand is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Farris and family.

CIGARETTE SMOKERS LIKE NEW PACKAGE

Reaching for a cigarette in a package wrapped in cellophane need no longer mean the possible loss of a fingernail or two for the new and improved cellophane wrapping has been devised for toasted cigarettes. The improved cellophane wrapper incorporates a notched tab feature which, while keeping the cigarettes fresh, makes the package easy to open by holding down one of the tabs and pulling on the other. This improvement marks another step forward in the adoption of the modern manufacturing methods in addition to the throat protection afforded by the toasting process, including the use of ultra violet rays. Certain harsh irritant chemicals naturally present in every tabacco leaf are expelled by toasting and these expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. The new notched tab package meets the critism that has sometimes been leveled at cellophane wrapped cigarettes as being difficult to open.

CONCORD BEATS PROVIDENCE

The Concord Junior High School team met with a picked team from Providence last Friday. A fine game was played, the winners being Concord, 7 to 0. Houston Robinson made 5 points, Robert Lynch, left forward, making one field goal. The game seemed to get pretty rough before the end, one being hurt. Both teams did good work.

Two Counties Will Press Tax Rate Suits

Coosa and Chilton Will Ask For Quick Action of Courts on Mandamus Case

Having been turned down by State Tax Commissioner S. R. Butler in their effort to place the Alabama Power company on a tax parity with farmers, merchants, home owners, automobile owners, and other taxpayers, the citizens of Chilton and Coosa counties now will press vigorously for an early showdown in their mandamus suit to compel the one-man tax commission to cease its flagrant favortism and assess the power company's property at 60 per cent of its value, as all other property is assessed, instead of at 45 per cent.

Attorney Speaks

This announcement was made Monday by Rep. Felix Smith, of Coosa county, one of the attorneys for the Coosa and Chilton county boards of revenue in the mandamus proceedings. He said a reading of Butler's statement denying the petition of the two counties showed it to be "misleading," and declared:

"It is our intention to vigorously push the mandamus suit. We will ask Judge Walter B. Jones, of the Montgomery county circuit court, to set it for hearing at the earliest possible date."

Sen. John A. Darden, of Coosa county, another of the leaders in the tax equality fight, scored Butler's action in a statement to this reporter, and predicted that the tax favoritism policy of the Miller administration would be emphatically repudiated by the voters of the state in the gubernatorial campaign.

Butler's action last Saturday in denying the Coosa-Chilton county petition, although immediately described by officials of the two counties as unjust, caused no surprise among those familiar with his administration of tax affairs. It was fairly clear from the beginning that Butler and his assistants were detemined to go through with their policy of favoritism, and the so-called hearing before Butler last month on the protests of taxpayers against the reduced power company assessments made it even clearer that he had no intention of granting the petition for relief.

Butler "Clears" Himself

Sitting as judge as well as defendant, Butler gave himself a clean bill of health and declared the reason he arbitrarily reduced power company assessments in Coosa and Chilton nearly $3,000,000 for the current tax year was that the assessments formerly had been "too high." Butler did not submit any proof of this contention, and the fact is that the power company did not attempt to bring about a downward revision of the former assessments.

Butler said, in rejecting the petition for tax equality, that the power company properties in Coosa and Chilton counties and throughout the state had been assessed under his "new system" at 45 per cent of the rate-making valuation. The valuation on which the company collects rates now stands at $139,000,000, and the power company contends that such valuation is $52,000,000 too low. It contends further that the market value of its holdings is tremendously in excess of the fair value placed on its properties for rate-making purposes, and contends at the same time that its taxpaying valuation of approximately $57,000,000 is high enough. Strangely enough, Butler's decision has upheld both of the company's amazing contentions.

"Donation" of $378,000

Butler's policy of extending favortism to the power company at the expense of other taxpayers will, unless nullified in the courts, result in a "donation" to the company for the current tax year of approximately $378,000 justly due the state in taxes on property valued at more than $18,000,000, according to charges made by a mass meeting of Chilton county taxpayers last month and reiterated at the recent hearing before Butler.

Although refusing to raise the power company's assessments to the 60 per cent basis required by law, Butler's department has directed the tax authorities throughout the state to make no reductions whatever in assessments on other classes of property.

It was shown by undisputed testimony at the recent hearing that all property in Chilton and Coosa counties except that of the power company is being assesed at 60 per cent, as provided by law, while the power company is getting by on a 45 per cent assessment, not only in those two counties but all over Alabama.

In informed circles here Butler is not being personally blamed to any great extent for his action in the power company assessments. It is being recalled that W. F. Feagin, head of the board of administration, had much to do with his appointment as tax commissioner after he had been defeated in his race for state superintendent of education, and the view is being freely expessed that Feagin is the man behind the guns in the granting of favoritism to the power company.

Justice to Be Demanded

Senator Darden's statement on the remarkable decision handed down by Butler follows:

"The future holds the key that will right this and other matters of taxation and rate making of public utilities. The people may have to endure for the time this and other favoritism enjoyed by certain utilities, especially the power trust in Alabama, but my prediction is the next governor and legislature of Alabama will be elected on a platform that will guarantee justice, equality in taxation and a fair rate for lights and power and an elimination of demand services and room charges now in vogue over the state enjoyed by the utilities and at the expense of the consumer. Right will finally win in this matter. I am committed to the people of Alabama to use what little influence I may possess and to exert what energies I may have until relief is obtained. As far as I am concerned, in the words of Paul Jones, I have just begun my end of the fight."—Montgomery Journal.

One-Man Tax Commission Refuses To Restore Power Company Tax Values

Original Valuation Of Property Would Be Held By Mr. Butler

Montgomery, Alabama., Nov. 14—F. R. Butler, state tax commissioner, issued a prepared statement today in which he said that "the original assessment would stand" in the 1931 tax assessments levied on Alabama Power company property in Coosa and Chilton counties.

The assessments in these two counties totaled approximately $2,700,000 lower than last year's figures, and attorneys for the counties filed suits in Montgomery county circuit court asking writs of mandamus against Mr. Butler to force him to increase the assesments to "60 per cent of their true and reasonable market value."

The suits were postponed after Mr. Butler announced the tax commission would set aside the assessments and reconsider the valuations, but attorneys served notice that if the valuations were not increased the suits would be pressed again.

New System in Vogue

The lowered assessment was the result, Mr. Butler said, of the installation of a new and uniform system of returning assessments against utility property based on 45 per cent of the rate making valuation filed with the Alabama public service comission.

"Naturally this system lowered the assessments in some counties and raised it in others; for the state as a whole the 1931 assessment is $900,000 higher than the 1930 assessment," Mr. Butler said.

Butler Issues Statement

In issuing today's statement, Mr. Butler said:

"The state tax commission on September 30, 1931, acting on petition from Coosa and Chilton counties set aside the assessment of the Alabama Power company for the tax year 1931, in the counties of Coosa and Chilton, and granted a hearing which was held on October 22, 1931. After careful consideration of all evidence produced, the state tax commission decided that the original assessment should stand.

"Neither the state tax commissioner, the assistant state tax commissioner, nor any chief clerk of the state tax commission has ever said that the property of the Alabama Power company was assessed at 45 per cent of its value, or 45 per cent of its market value or 45 per cent of its cash value.

"The state tax commission has said and only said that the assessment was 45 per cent of the value for rate making purposes. The value for rate making purposes is quite different from the market or cash value.

"The commission regrets that there had to be so great a reduction in the assessments in Coosa and Chilton counties, but this reduction could not be avoided owing to former assessments of these two power dams in these two counties having been so far in excess of 60 per cent of their market or cash values."—Montgomery Journal.

BUREAU EXPECTS BIG GAIN IN MEMBESHIP

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 17.—Reports coming to State headquarters of organized agriculture here show that membership in the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and associated organizations will show a great increase as a result af intensive membership campaigns in progress in the majority of Alabama counties.

Executive Secretary N. L. Deal is expecting that Cullman, Pike, and Baldwin counties will be found in the lead when the campaign is brought to a close with the annual meeting at Auburn next summer. The Baldwin goal is 1,000 and the Pike goal 750, though both counties are expected to exceed their goal by several hundred, Deal said.

Cullman has set its goal at 2,000, which will be an increase over the record of 1,714 for last year, and J. S. Hyatt, manager, reports that he may have 3,000 members by the middle of the summer. He is expecting to bring back from the national convention in December the membership trophy presented annually to the county farm bureau in the United States having the largest membership.

Other counties expecting large increases include Marshall, Dallas, Henry, Franklin, Calhoun, Dale, Limestone, Clarke, Lauderdale, Randolph, Pickens Tuscaloosa, Marengo, Butler, Elmore, Franklin, Winston, Walker, Russel, Coneuch, Perry, Bibb Monroe, and others.

MRS. L. P. DUNCAN BURIED SUNDAY P. M.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Foshee Killed in Accident at Spartanburg, S. C.

Mrs. L. P. Duncan, age 33 years, was killed in an automobile accident at Spartanburg, South Carolina, last Wednesday. The body was shipped to Maplesville and buried Sunday afternoon. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton, with Martin in charge of burial arrangements.

Mrs. Duncan is survived by her husband, who was also injured in the wreck; two twin daughters, who escaped the wreck without injury. Her father and mother are Mr. and Mrs. John W. Foshee, of Maplesville. Three brothers are Morris Foshee, of Birmingham; John Alvin Foshee, a student at the University of Alabama; and Hubbard Foshee.

Flower girls at the funeral were Miss Ethel Mize, Miss Ruth Mize, Miss Imogine Dawson, Miss Ruth, Parnell, Miss Lucy Parnell, and Mrs. Traywick. Pallbearers were Dr. H. M. Nix, F. A. Shanks, J. P. Payne, Ruben Bearden, Bob Edmonson, and J. E. Dennis.

The great array of flowers and the large attendance at the funeral was a fitting tribute of the love and respect which the deceased held in the hearts of the people among whom she was reared to womanhood.

The many friends of the family very deeply sympathize with the bereaved ones in this tragic sorrow which has befallen them.

REV. D. W. HASKEW WILL STAY HERE

Will Serve Another Year As Pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church

According to announcement made last Sunday at the close of the Methodist Conference in Montgomery, Rev. D. W. Haskew has been returned to the pastorate of the Methodist Church in Clanton.

Rev. Haskew was back on the ground Monday morning happy with the decision of the Conference to keep him here. He was being welcomed by members of his church and friends in general. All of us are glad to have Brother Haskew stay with us another year, and still another and another.

As he greeted the folks Monday morning, Mr. Haskew said: "I am back from the conference, ready to start another year's work in Clanton; and you can tell everybody from the start that it is going to be a year of real work."

Other conference appointments which will be of interest to people of Clanton are as follows:

T. G. Jones to the LaFayette Street Church, Dothan.
I. W. Chalker to Ozark.
L. B. Green to Abbeville.
C. C. Wilkerson to Camden.
R. J. Mills to Prattville.
J. F. Bilbro to Selma.
J. M. Metcalf to Verbena.
H. B. Childs to Brundige.
E. A. Childs to Troy.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Conference is over, and we are back in Clanton and Chilton County to do the work of a faithful minister. Will you not let me serve you in every way possile? I want you to let me know when you are sick, I want you to attend the services at the church, and I want to be a shepard to your soul.

Our Sunday school will meet next Sunday at 9:45. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 7 o'clock Sunday night. Start out now to make the next conference year better than the last. We crave your presence in all of these services.

I heard of a person the other day who said: "No, I can not go to church because I have no clothes that are fit to wear." It matters not about fine clothes, you come on just as you are able to clothe yourself. God does not look at your outside, but he is looking at the inside of your soul. Do like your pastor, and many others, wear your old clothes and come on.

Mr. Aarion Ellison made a business trip to Birmingham Monday.

CHILTON COUNTY ASSOCIATION MINUTES ARE NOW READY

Minutes of the Chilton County Baptist Association for 1931 are now ready for distribution. Clerks of all churches in the Association are urged to call or send for them at once, at The Union-Banner office.

MAN DROWNED IN MULBERRY CREEK

John Coburn Fell From Log To Meet Death In Water

People of Maplesville community were shocked last Thursday afternoon over the death of Mr. John Cobern. He and his aged father were walking a foot log across Mulberry creek and in some way the younger man fell in and drowned. His father, Mr. Charlie Cobern, called for help, his son, Jeff, was banking cane nearby and ran to his assistance and got the body out, but John was dead.

Dr. Hays of Clanton was called but couldn't do any good, it was too late.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cobern and was raised here and was 40 years old. He leaves three brothers, Mr. Jeff Cobern, of Maplesville, Mr. Ernest Cobern, of Birmingham, and Mr. Burr Cobern of, Tennessee.

He also leaves a widow and four children, Lucille, Johhnie Mae, Sara Nell, and James. Their many friends extend to them their deepest sympathy. Interment was made in Mulberry Cemetery, with Rev. G. G. Williams officiating, the Woodmen had charge of the body with Martin as funeral director. Mr. Cobern had a host of friends.

KIWANIS CLUB MEETS ON WEDNESDAY THIS WEEK

The Clanton Kiwanis Club will hold its regular weekly luncheon on Wednesday of this week at the Methodist Church at the regular hour, instead of on Thursday, as is customary.

This is due to members wishing to be at home on Thanksgiving. The program this week is in charge of Sam J. Ezell, and will be something of a Thanksgiving program. All members are urged to be present.

THANKSGIVING PRAYER SERVICE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The regular Wednesday night prayer service hour at the Clanton Baptist Church this week will be devoted to a service of thanksgiving. It is hoped that a good attendance will be shown.

There will be a special business meeting in the interest of the church work after the thanksgiving program is finished.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT COURTHOUSE

There will be a fiddlers convention held at the courthouse in Clanton Friday night, November 27, under auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Baker Junior High School.

Suitable prizes will be awarded to the fiddlers who take part in the program. Everybody is invited to attend. Price of admission will be 10 and 20 cents. Proceeds will go for benefit of Baker Junior High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith spent Sunday in Thorsby visiting relatives.

TWO NEGROES IN CUTTING AFFRAY

Arthur Calhoun Is Victim Of Knife In Hands Of Willie Sims

When Arthur Calhoun, negro, assumed the role of peacemaker Sunday morning, and sought to pour oil on the troubled waters between Willie C. Webb and his wife, Calhoun was almost cut to pieces by Webb. It seemed that Webb didn't want the racket settled, and instead of submitting to a settlement, he made it worse.

The scene of the trouble was at the home of Webb, who lived in one of the Aldridge houses by the side of the railroad back of the Masonic Hall. Calhoun was at the home of Webb when Webb and his wife got into a family row. When Calhoun sought to get them to peaceful terms, Webb resented his intrusion, and turned loose on Calhoun with a large knife. After he had finished his cutting he was not satisfied and went and got an axe and fell in on Calhoun with it.

Calhoun was carried to the hospital where he was sewed back together. His condition is very serious. Webb was arrested by county officers and is being held pending the outcome of Calhoun's condition.

HANS H. DAHL DIES

The Congregational Church at Thorsby was the scene of a funeral for one of its long time members, Mr. Hans H. Dahl, who died at a hospital in Sylacauga last Saturday, November 21st, aged 67 years. Mr. Dahl came to Thorsby in 1905, where he bought a farm and lived about 20 years, later moving to Sylacauga, to work in the mills there.

Mr. Dahl leaves a widow, two sons, Joe ond Olaf. One daughter, Miss Palma Dahl, and one step daughter Mrs. Tom Lucas.

Mr. Dahl was a quiet unassuming man of exemplary habits, he was by birth a Norwegian, who came to America in early manhood and became a good citizen in the land of his choice. His first wife was a Mrs. Grinley, who had two daughters. She died in Thorsby several years ago leaving three small children, which he raised, with the help of his step daughters. When the little ones were grown Mr. Dahl married a Thorsby woman, daughter of the, Mr. and Mrs. Pond, who lived for a time on the M. J. Soberg place, who survives her husband. Burial was in Thorsby Lutheran cemetery, by the side of his first wife.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. E. Each, pastor of the church. The body was in charge of Martin, of Clanton.

Baptist Churches Are Being Organized To Put On The Every-Member Canvass

Dr. L. E. Barton, secretary of the Executive Board of the Alabama Baptist State Convention, reports that all the associations and the large majority of the Baptist churches have been organized for the purpose of making the every member canvass November 29-December 6.

The object of the every member canvass which will be put on by the Baptist churches is to procure funds both for the local churches and for educational, missionary and benevolent objects of the Baptist denomination. Te aim is to get $40,000,000.00 subscribed, $31,000,000.00 for local church work and $9,000,000.00 for the denominational boards and institutions.

Secretary Barton reports that literature which explains the matter has been sent to all church directors and he expresses the hope that this will be distributed to all the members of the churches.

Secretary Barton expects all the Baptist churches to have services on the morning of November 29 for the presentation of the promotion work and every member canvass; and those present will be expected to make their pledge at that time. Then, working teams should go out immediately to see others who are not reached in the morning service. The effort should then be pressed with vigor and completed, if possible, by Sunday, December 6.

Dr. Barton says a fine beginning has been made but he recognizes that the real battle must be won in the local churches during the important week November 29 to December 6. He is hoping that the battle will be continuously until a great victory is won in each church.

STOLEN RINGS ARE RETURNED

Thieves Took Rings and Money From Home Of Curry Thomas

Some time between last Tuesday morning and Thursday night thieves entered the home of Mr. Curry Thomas and took away two valuable rings and about $15 in cash. The theft of the rings was discovered Friday and the loss of the money was found out by Mr. Thomas Sunday.

The rings belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas. The money represented the savings of little Blanche Timmerman, and was contained in a little bank which she used to keep her money in.

Monday of this week two unidentified rings came by mail to Upchurch Drug Company, from Montgomery. Investigation revealed that they were the rings which were taken from the home of Mr. Thomas.

In reporting the matter Tuesday morning Mr. Thomas said: "The affair has us puzzled ever since it was out that our home had been entered by thieves. But the mystery grows deeper since the rings have been returned from Montgomery. However, we wish to say that we very much appreciate the fact that the rings were returned. Furthermore, we would be glad that the parties who took the money would also return that."

WILL SING AT COURTHOUSE THURSDAY NIGHT, NOV. 26TH

There will be singing in the new books at the courthouse in Clanton on Thursday night of this week, November 26th, beginning at 6:45 o'clock. The singing will last for two hours, and the 1932 Morris-Henson and Stamps-Baxter books will be used. This song service is sponsored by all of the singing societies of the county, and it is hoped that all will be well represented. Everybody come, filled with the spirit to sing praises to Almighty God.—Akins I. Collins, W. G. Culp, W. M. Devaughn, A. H. Glasscock.

FARM MEETING AT TUSKEGEE

Annual Affair Will Be Held At College Wednesday, December 2

A farmers meeting of state-wide interest will be held at the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute on Wednesday, December 2. This meeting is an annual affair, at which prominent farmers and agricultural leaders from all parts of Alabama attend.

Judge L. H. Reynolds has received an invitation to make the address of the occasion, and he is also requested to get up as many farmers of the county as he can to attend the meeting. Both white and colored farmers are invited.

It will be well worth the time of anybody to go to Tuskegee and see what the negroes are accomplishing in their school. Judge Reynolds would like for anybody who has a car and can make the trip to make arrangements to carry three or four neighbors and come along.

The meeting is designed for the futherance of agricultural interests of white and negro farmers. On this day all white farmers who attend will be guests of Tukegee Institute; and anyone who has ever visited the Institute can assure you that you will be well taken care of in good style when you visit the place that was made sacred by the great negro leader, Booker T. Washington.

INDUSTRIES SEEKING SOUTHERN LOCATIONS

Within the past 60 days a larger number of industries have been seeking southern location than at any time during the past several years, according to a survey of the general industrial prospects made by the Alabama Industrial Development Board, Birmingham.

Industries have made $52,000,000 additional capital investments in Alabama since the Industrial Board began functioning three years ago. This has increased the industrial payroll in the state by $5,000,000 annually.

Plan To Hold Six Million Bales Cotton Is Assured of Success Now

Washington, Nov. 22.—An agreement to lock up 66,000,000 bales of cotton for one year until the crush of the enormus current crop has spent its force was anounced by the Farm Board.

Word was received from Nathan Adams, of Dallas, Texas, that Southern bankers have arranged to make or renew loans to farmers for holding 3,100,000 bales—400,00 short of the original goal.

The board and the American Cotton Cooperative Association, for their part, have agreed to hold their stores of about 3,500,000 bales until July 31, 1932, the beginning of the new crop year.

This pledge, however, would not be binding if the price should reach 12 1-2 cents a pound during the interim.

The bankers, Board officials and representatives of the Cooperative Association drafted the plan in New Orleans October 12 as an emergency move to increase prices by preventing gluts on an already congested market. A slight rise in prices resulted from the announcement.

The bankers sought financing for 3,500,000 bales, but encountered difficulty in obtaining full support.

The Farm Board appreciates the difficulties inherent in securing pledges for financing so large an amount of cotton within the limited time available, an announcement today said. "Although the number of pledges reported is 400,000 bales short of the goal set, we hope and expect that additional pledges covering at least this amount will be received. The willingness of Southern bankers to guarantee credit on cotton to such an extent abundantly evidences their sympathetic attitude towards cotton, their conviction as to the basic soudness of loans on the low price level of this year's crop and their cooperation with the Farm Board in its efforts to help Southern farmers."

The 1931 crop of 16,903,000 bales—the second largest in history—sent prices tobagganing to the five-cent level. Hoping for better returns, formers are generally storing as much as possible. The Agriculture Department has agreed to accept cotton as collateral for drouth loans at eight cents a pound to encourage storage. Many banks, too are making individual loans for this purpose.

CO. SCHOOLS MAY HAVE THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS

An announcement from the County Board of Education Tuesday morning says that schools will be permitted to take time off for holidays this week for Thanksgiving season; but all time taken off will have to be made up at the end of the school term.

This announcement will be greeted with hearty approval on the part of teachers and pupils.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. D. W. Haskew announces that he will begin his new year's work in Clanton with a community thanksgiving service at the church Wednesday night. An invitation is extended to everybody to come and worship together in thanksgiving. The service will begin at seven o'clock.

VERBENA SCHOOL HEALTH HONOR ROLL CREDITS

Marianna Messer, Marie Robinson, Nora Mae Jones, Geraldine Hollis, Ada Lake, Mary Warren Messer, Lucille Robinson, Ruth Anderson, Elizabeth Cathey, Aslee Goggins, Louise Johnson, Mary Lou Kelley, Mary Lou Gaines, Agnes Kelley, Flora Thornton, Myrtle Dawson, Ruby Alley, Mathilde Taber, Judith Gibson, Mary Ellen Manning, Dewey Belle Boyd, Lavurl Bullard, Idelle Anderson, Pauline Barron, Ludie Brooks, Earline Courtney, Vera Mae Culver, Olivia Dansby, Henrietta Esco, Pearl Hughes, Marguerite Johnson, Nancy Jones, Rosa Lee Jones, Pauline Littleton, Loraine McKinney, Helen Patterson, Florence Sawyer, Nell Frances Scott, Mildred Smith, Louise Smith, Elsie Thornton.

BOSSES NIGHT AT THE PILOT CLUB

Turkey Dinner Monday Night With Bosses As Guests

"Let joy be unconfined," was the keynote of the affair which the Pilot Club pulled off Monday night. It was known as "Bosses Night," and every Pilot had her boss present.

The introduction of the bosess by each member of the Pilot Club was a riot of fun. It brought forth a shower of verbal razberries, flowers, bouquets and brickbats.

The hall where the meeting was held was decorated in Thanksgiving fashion. The place cards bore a picture of the turkey gobbler that was being sacrificed for the occasion.

The program was full of pep from start to finish. Mrs. C. E. Stapp, president of the Pilot Club, had charge of the gavel and directed the program. To use a somewhat antiquated expression, one might say that she "called the sets."

Little Martha Higgins rendered a very attractive reading, which brought forth much applause. Misses Helen and Jane Roberts rendered a very beautiful violin selection. A trio in song was rendered by Misses Wells, Scarborough and Guy.

A litle spell of foolishness by Misses Madelyn Orr and Margaret Brown was the high point of the program. Miss Orr was a hard boiled business man. Miss Brown was the stenographer. Their dialogue depicting a scene in a business office was rich. Every boss present was made to wonder whose office inspired the scene. Miss Orr was fittingly attired for the role she played. She wore blue serge business suit, stiff collar, flowing tie, black derby, and loud socks.

The members of the Pilot Club held a voting contest in which they undertook to designate certain of the bosses present by their outstanding personal characteristics. The result was announced as follows:

The most absent-minded boss, Omar Reynolds; the vainest boss, Lawrence Gerald; the biggest flirt, Frank Callen; the most handsome boss, Mack Wyatt; the boss who pays the best salary, Maurice Lande. Suitable prizes were given to the winners of these honors.

The program was interspersed with a number of Pilot Club Songs. To say that everybody had a good time is only half expressing the feelings of those who were privileged to attend.

The dinenr served by the ladies of the Baptist Circle, was most delightful, with turkey, dressing and all suitable fixings.

FARMER'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Violence Suspected In Death Of Homer Jones In Jordan Lake

Wetumpka, Ala., Nov. 22.—Standing erect, his outstretched hands clutching the underwater growth about him, the body of Homer Jones, 55, well-to-do farmer or the Lebanon community, was foud at daybreak today in Jordan Lake, above Lock 18.

Sheriff James Hasty Golden of Elmore County is working on a theory of foul play. He found a large bruise on the left side of the man's forehead and a deep cut on the lower lip.

Jones left his home, 12 miles from Wetumpka, Saturday afternoon. He was to join friends at Lock 18 to fish.

Some premonition of disaster may have guided his last act before he left his house, Sheriff Golden said. Accustomed always to carrying considerable money, he returned just before leaving and thrust a roll of bills into his wife's hand, remarking:

"You'd better keep this. I might lose it."

It was the first time in his years of married life he had feared to "lose" money from his pocket, and always carried it with him wherever he went, his wife told Sheriff Golden. She said it looked as though he were "expecting trouble."

The friends he was supposed to join said they heard "struggling in the water" some distance away and went to investigate. They stated they found Jones's boot floating a few feet from shore but no sign of the man. The body was recovered shortly after dawn.

Under Grover Goodwin, justice of the peace, as acting coroner, a coroner's jury will investigate the case this morning.

LOCAL TEACHERS DEMONSTRATE BETTER METHODS OF TEACHING

More Than Forty Teachers Attend Meeting For the Purpose of Observation and Study

On Saturday, November 21, the following program was carried out in the Clanton Grammar School. This is given under the leadership of Miss Madge Scarborough, county supervisor of elementary schools:

Primary Group—First grade reading, Miss Emma Sue Morris; second grade reading, Miss Ruth Sessions.

Elementary Group—Fourth grade spelling, Miss Jewel Vessels; fifth grade georgraphy, Mrs. Curry Thomas.

Immediately following the observation an intensive study was made of the lessons taught. Miss Olivia Lawson, Alabama College, Montevallo, asssisted Miss Scarborough in the conference. Teachers enjoy these demonstrations from time to time because there the actual schoolroom situation is met and the newest and best methods of teaching are observed.

Mrs. Browder, manager of the lunch room, served a delicious plate to the teachers.

THREE NEGROES CAUGHT STILLING

150 Gallon Distilling Outfit Is Located About Six Miles West Of Clanton

Three negroes were caught operating a wildcat still near Highland, six miles southwest of Clanton, last Friday morning. The raid was conducted by Sheriff Gillespie and his deputies. It was a 150-gallon box still. The negroes had five barrels of beer which they were engaged in making into whiskey.

During the past week other arrests as reported at the office of the Sheriff Monday were three persons for violating the prohibition law; one for driving a car while intoxicated; one for issuing a worthless check.

NON-JURY TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT SET FOR DECEMBER 7-9

Circuit Clerk, J. Z. Mims, announces that a term of non-jury court is close on the way, although a jury term was just finished last week. The civil cases on the non-jury docket have been set for Monday, December 7, and the criminal cases will be tried on Tuesday and Wednesday, December 8 and 9.

SOCIETY SINGS AT FRIENDSHIP

Last Sunday afternoon the Central Singing Society met at Friendship and had two hours of very good singing. Prof. O. L. Devaughn opened the service, after which Prof. L. T. Grant arrived and took charge of the rest of the program. There was a full run of directors and a good class to support them.

The pastor, Rev. J. Robert Bean, preached Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night—three very good sermons. The ordinance of the Lord's Supper was observed Sunday night, following conference and a lecture by the pastor dealing with Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

MISS NELL MOORE WILL GO TO NATIONAL CLUB CONGRESS

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 23.—The most outstanding 4-H home economics club girl in Alabama this year is Miss Nell Moore of Union Springs, Bullock County, state club leader, Bess Fleming has reported to the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

In recognition of her club record she has been awarded a prize educational trip to the Tenth National Boys and Girls 4-H Club Congress which will be held at Chicago, November 27th to December 5th. This award is made annually by Montgomery Ward and Company to encourage 4-H Club activities in home economics projects. Similar awards have been offered in every state of the Union.

During the week of the National 4-H Club Congress, 1,400 4-H Club members and leaders from 44 states will meet in Chicago as the official representatives of 850,000 fellow 4-H Club members. Here they will engage in judging contests and exhibit their handiwork to determine the champions for the club year. They will attend the Intenational Live Stock Exposition and the Chicago Coliseum Poultry Exposition. In addition there will be sight-seeing tours to the Art Institute, Adler Planetarium, Shedd Aquarium, Field Museum, packing town, the Union Stock Yards, large manufacturing and mercantile establishments, and other world famous places of interest in and about Chicago.

ALABAMA BULBS AND HOW TO PLANT THEM

Fall bulbs in Alabama are planted in October, November or even into the middle of December. This year, owing to the drouth, planting was delayed.

Narcissus, hyacinths, amaryllis and crinums, tulips, crocuses, snowdrops, grape-hyacinths and bulbous anemones should be planted immediately, but gladiolus, even in bedding work, should be planted in the spring.

Narcissus should be planted in masses along shrub borders or in damp meadows. On the small property they may be planted in straight lines or in the bays of shrubbery.

Hyacinths, in addition to being excellent pot plants, are especially adapted to small geometrical beds either for the home garden or in public squares.

Narcissus, jonquils and daffodils are left in the ground year after year and only dug to thin. This is done every three or four years in the case of a vigorous planting.

Iris should be planted in the fall and should not be disturbed for several years. A rich loamy soil but with good drainage is essential and the iris grower should not be discouraged if fine blooms are not secured the first year. Two or three years are sometimes required for the plant to reach its best period of bloom.

Tulips give good results in Alabama but are inclined to run out after a year or two and must be renewed. Well drained soil that has had manure the previous year is best. Under proper management there is no more attractive mass than a planting of tulips.

ALABAMA COLLEGE NEWS

Special preparations are being made by the faculty of Alabama College to provide a full curriculum for mid-term high school graduates who may wish to enter for the second semester, which will open January 25, 1932.

"There are several hundred young women in the state each year who finish their high school course in January," President Carmichael said, "most of whom wait until the following September to begin their college work, partly because the colleges have not made the necessary arrangements to take care of them."

Arrangements are being made at Alabama College to provide a full curriculum in practically every department, in order that mid-term high school graduates may enter the second semester and, by continuing through the following summer school for both terms, may complete the year's college course by September instead of waiting until then to begin it.

Paul Holley, who has been in Birmingham for some time, is back at home near Clanton now.

TURKEY SHOOTS GROW AS NOVEMBER SPORT

Washington, D. C., Nov 23.—Scarcity of wild turkey isn't hindering the nimrod from earnnig, or trying to earn his Thanksgiving dinner by his marksmanship, according to a bulletin of the National Rifle Association which reveals that target turkey shoots are greatly on the increase.

November, especially during the last few days before Thanksgiving, is the big turkey hunting month. Few parts of the country, however, can today boast of anything approaching a bountiful supply of game turkey but what the shooter lacks in opportunity to bag his holiday dinner on the wing is more than compensated for by the opportunity to acquire it by his target skill. Everywhere in the country target turkey shoots have come into increasing popularity.

Years ago it was the custom in turkey matches to place a live turkey in a box, allowing its head to protrude as a target. The shooter who cleaved its head with a bullet was the winner. That sort of turkey shooting, however, no longer has the favor of the sportsman because of its unsportsmanlike cruelty.

An Interview With Henry Ford --- Business Conditions

"Money is like an arm or a leg—use it or lose it. That's the law. Try to save your strength by not using it, and you lose all the strength you had. With money it is the same. Germany put her money away to save it. But hoarded money shrinks, the value evaporates. Then Germany poured out money like water, and it was worth just about as much as water. It was cheaper to spend than to save. It usually is."

This is Henry Ford's comment on present conditions. He is neither a bull nor a bear—he holds that old fashioned common sense is the best commodity to boost in these times.

"The only choice left for optimism or pessimism is to decide whether this experience is going to teach us anything. The pessimist says it is not. He says the human race never learns anything, it just stumbles on from one panic to another, from one war to another. I am an optimist on that point—I think we have all learned a lot. We are going to remodel our economic machine so that it will not fly to pieces when it gets out on the road. It is a pretty good system—when it works. It should work better for everybody than it does, and a lot of thinking toward that end has been done since 1929. Everybody is thinking. That's the main thing. It doesn't matter that all do not think alike—to think is the thing.

"Good-will is not enough—it may be dangerous without experience. Experience is equally dangerous without good-will. Many excellent people are proposing things that would fasten upon us forever the conditions we now complain of. They have good-will but not experience. To regard present conditions as permanent and then to legislate as if they were, is a serious mistake. It is the surest way to keep these wrong things by us. I would not insure unemployment; to me that looks like the surest way of establishing unemployment as a permanent evil. What we should do is to abolish it. And that can be done. The world is full of work that ought to be done. But very little effort is being made toward doing it; all the effort has gone toward 'insuring' unemployment.

"There is great talk also about curtailing production. The word, I believe, is 'regarding,' but it means curtailing. The suggestion is made in good faith by people whose goodwill cannot be questioned. But it arises from despair, not from hope. How would it work? Who is to have the say as to how much is enough? Will the public stand for a system that puts the market at the mercy of the manufacturers? Isn't it a healthier condition where the manufacturers are at the mercy of the discriminating public? I grant that this so-called regulation would stabilize something—it would stabilize pretty nearly every wrong condition that we want to be rid of. Free competition for greater excellence in quality has done more to create wholesome and balanced conditions than all the business laws that governments have passed.

"The public is the judge because the public puts up the money. If we pay everybody when there is no work, then everybody will have to do the paying. There isn't anybody else. There is no source but the public. In every case where it exists unemployment insurance is simply taken out of industry's pay envelopes in advance. The men can do that for themselves if they want to, as well as any government certificates. They made their own insurance. That sum has decreased somewhat because our men have been drawing on it. It amounts to a little over $18,000,000 now. Somebody has to earn everything that is paid. No amount of juggling can change that fact. There is no exempt class. Establish unemployment insurance and you simply remove the pressure toward abolishing unemployment. The people then accept unemployment as a not too serious fact. But it is useless to discuss it because if you insure unemployment it is only a matter of time before your insurance collapses under the load of unemployment which it creates.

"Of course, if honest work production caused this present condition, then the threat to shackle industry might be justified. But who believes that it did? Legislators talk about curbing the factories. Surely it was not the factories that caused the crash of 1929. Why not apply the curb somewhere near the cause of the trouble? There's the stock market; why not stabilize stock values? Why not insure stock market transactions? Most people are under the impression that they lost their resources in speculation, not at honest work. Instead of government interfering with honest industry perhaps it is time for industry to interfere with incompetent government.

"I am afraid of any kind of artificial interference with natural production. This plan to destroy bread—that's what burning wheat and restricted acreage means—and to curtail useful labor, are startling illustrations of the power of the money obsession in our country. We think so much of money that we have entirely forgotten what real wealth is. We shall have to get back to earth again.

The stock market has no basic meaning whatever in this matter. When business becomes good again, the market will go up, naturally. The market does not affect business either way, except when it takes good men away from their business and turns good producers into feverish speculators. That was the damage of 1928 and 1929—good business men lured away from their jobs. People should forget the market. I see that wheat has gone up in Chicago. I suppose they must raise a lot of wheat in Chicago.

"The stock market will go up when it has something to go up on—when American industry turns out something better than it now has. Everything we now have is out of date. Everything. All our so-called progress has slipped behind the times. The automobile has not even started yet. The automobile is just where the electric light was when Mr. Edison left it. Everything is yet to be done. There is more work to be done than this country can catch up with in ten years.

"Some preliminaries must be attended to first. Taxes must come down. That cannot be delayed any longer. Too many governmental groups are authorized to collect from the citizen. Out here the other day I counted seven groups with power to put a tax on you. That's got to stop. We have seen something in America we never thought possible—the financial bankruptcy of local government. If politicians don't tackle this question, people who know how are going to do it for them. And this will have to be done before prosperity comes back. This country will never work hard again for the sole privilege of paying taxes. The kind of local government we have been getting has not been worth what we have paid for it. No government could possibly be worth what ours has cost. I am not speaking of American liberty and opportunity — those are separate things. I am speaking of government, which is only a delegated form of public management.

"Along with this there must be some improvements in our financial system before we can resume normal activity. Our financial machinery must be made more workable. We can't do without money, it is true, but lately we have not been able to do with it, either. Money is only another part of the economic and social machinery—it must stand up and do its part, or we must keep remodeling it until it does.

"So you see, everybody has a job cut out for him. Politicians must improve the quality and reduce the cost of government. Financiers must make money do its job at lower cost. Manufacturers must turn out better goods at lower cost. Maybe then our people will become the best market in the world; and we will be within sight of a continuous employment at one thing or another all the year round."

"How will we be able to assure continuous employment in this country?" Mr. Ford was asked.

"Nothing has driven me for the last year and a half like this problem of unemployment," he said. "We had fifteen years of continuous work in the Ford factories, and we have men even today who have never had a lay-off. But the whole problem has changed. Sometimes I doubt that it will be possible to continue to run factories a full twelve-month year. At other times I wonder whether we ought to even if we could. The conviction deepens that we made a fundamental mistake when we got too far away from the soil. Because of this separation both agriculture and industry have developed separate ills which I believe can be cured by bringing them both together again. Agriculture needs an outlet for its product such as industry can give it, and to this end we are continuously making experiments to find new industrial uses for ordinary farm products. Bring these two together, and you stimulate agriculture and also provide at least four months a year healthful out-of-door work for the slack employment of industry. To try to do this has been a big part of my personal job the last eighteen months. I have worked as hard at it as at anything I ever attempted. What the results will be I cannot say. But we are trying. I have faith that out of so much work some good must come."

NEW FILLING STATION BEING BUILT IN CLANTON

Workmen are engaged in the construction of a new drive-in automobile service station at the old Jim Jones warehouse on the highway. The front part of the old building next to the highway has been torn down to make place for the new and modern structure.

It has not been announced yet who will operate the place. It is understood that several of the representatives of gasoline companies are bidding to have their products distributed through the new station.

Dief's Service Station received a whole car load of Goodyear Tires last week. They are for sale, according to Mr. Diefenderfer.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

Query—My neighbor tells me to put five or six tablets of a patent preparation in the soil around peach trees to keep away all enemies. Is this treatment scientific?

Ans.—No. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and all the experiment stations are finding suitable preventives and remedies for tree and plant diseases. You should ask your Congressman for Farmer's Bulletins and write your state Experiment Station for bulletins on the enemies of peaches and other plants.

Query—What do you recommend for growing in porch boxes to make them green during cold weather?

Ans.—Winter rye and winter vetch should be planted. After well started, they will show much green during all the cold winter weather.

Query—What months are best for sowing grass seed in lawns?

Ans.—November is not a bad time when there is plenty of moisture in the soil. If the seed is not started before the coldest winter weather, it is best to wait until the milder weather of February and March. Use grass seed mixtures such as perennial rys grass, white clover, blue grass, red top, and perhaps other seeds, mixed together.

Query—Does it pay to fertilize with nitrate for winter grain as late as November or December?

Ans.—Fertilizing with nitrate should be done early enough to get considerable growth before coldest weather comes on. It is better this late in the year, to wait until February or early March. Sow the nitrate broadcast at the rate of about 100 pounds to the acre.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS FOR COTTON CLASSERS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 23.—Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, has appointed a three-man board of examiners for cotton classers and notified warehousemen and county farm bureaus that applications for examination should be made to the department of agriculture.

Appointed on the board were J. O. Kinney, R. A. Hester, and T. J. Flake, of Montgomery. Each holds a license as cotton grader from the United States Secretary of Agriculture.

J. H. Anderson of Verbena was a visitor to Clanton last Saturday.

MORE WORK for LESS PAY

Electricity takes a "Wage Cut"

ELECTRICITY is one of the few domestic servants that is doing MORE work for LESS pay.

Alabama Power Company's average rate for electric service in the home has been taking a "wage cut" each year for a number of years—the record is:

Year Ending December 31st, 1926—7.75c per K.W.H.
Year Ending December 31st, 1927—7.56c per K.W.H.

National Average Domestic Rate 1930—6.00c per K.W.H.

Thus, during the past 5 years the average rate of this Company has declined 37.1% and was 15.8% lower during 1930 than the National average. While electric service in the home is getting cheaper each year it has steadily become more useful.

Only a few years ago electricity was used chiefly for lighting—and cost more. Today, cheap electricity not only gives better lighting but does countless jobs, brings endless convenience to the home whether for lighting, radio, cooking, cleaning, washing, water heating, refrigeration or the like. A few cents in any of these tasks goes a long way at rates which make the average cost steadily lower as your use and enjoyment increases.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please allow us space in your valuable paper to express our heartfelt thanks to our friends and neighbors, both far and near, for their kindness and help rendered us in our recent loss by fire. Dear friends we can never live to, nor have words to express our deep appreciation to you. May the Lord bless and prosper every one of you is our prayer.

We wish to thank those who took their trucks and rendered their faithful time and service in our behalf. In fact our thanks is extended to every one for your donations, help and service rendered in any way. The Lord said it is more blessed to give than to receive. So we trust that we may live to be of some service to you. Deeply thanking you again, we are your true friends.—Mr. and Mrs. D. Broadhead.

The Festive Board Of Colonial Days

When the table groaned with good things on Thanksgiving Day, in the time of George Washington, it meant something besides a quick trip to the grocery store, or a hurried dash to the corner delicatessen. It meant that from one end of the colonies to the other households had been preparing for the events for days and weeks. Eating and drinking were among the most keenly relished pastimes of the period. The work of planting, garnering, preserving, we are informed by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, went on the year round.

The products of the farms were somewhat limited in variety. Most luxuries were imported from foreign shores: sugar, molasses, tea, coffee, and spices. Natural ingenuity had plenty of exercise in concocting palatable dishes, and in devising ways and means of preserving perishable foods. That the tables were bounteously supplied in spite of all, is evidenced in more than one record which has come down through the decades.

One Thanksgiving table in Philadelphia, according to a writer of the times, had at one sitting "turkey, duck, hams, chicken, beef, pig, tarts, creams, custards, jellies, fools, trifles, floating islands, sweetmeats of twenty sorts, whipped sillibubs, fruits, raisins, almonds, pears, and peaches, with the usual accompaniment of beer, porter, punch, and rum."

Since the earliest days in America, it had been necessary for housewives to experiment with new and strange foods, originating recipes, partly borrowed from the Indians, resulting in some of the dishes we have today. Pumpkins and squashes were native vegetables and grew wild. Indian corn, potatoes, and certain fruits were new to the colonists. They often made mistakes when encountering something new. In the early days in America they did not know what to do with coffee beans, and boiled them whole in water, eating the beans. Tea, for many years took precedence over coffee.

Pumpkins, or pompions as they were named, became a staple article of diet, and were dried for winter use. Bread, pancakes, pies and puddings were made from pumpkins until the early colonists felt they never wanted to see another. They liked, however, "injun bread" baked from yellow Indian corn meal, and they liked the succotash, a mixture made by the Indians from beans, peas, corn and pumpkins boiled together.

Potatoes, although native to America, had been rare to New Englanders, and were probably the sweet variety, as they were in the south. As late as 1763, a farmer in New England boasted that he had raised eight bushels of potatoes in one crop, an enormous amount. It was thought that horses and cattle would die if they ate them, so they burned the surplus in the spring.

Huckleberries or blueberries, blackberries, strawberries and grapes grew wild, but improved under cultivation. Orchards generously flowered and bore fruit. Pears and quince were plentiful. Apples, especially in New England, were a part of every meal. One encountered apple-slump, apple-mose, apple-crowdy, apple-tarts, mess-apple pies, puff apple pies. So it is easy to see that the New Englanders' reputation for having apple pie in every menu was earned at an early date. Cider was free to tramp or traveller in every New England farm house.

As there were no hermetically sealed jars, preserves, pickles, marmalades, candied fruits and flowers, were made so rich, that they could not spoil, and were kept in a stone crock, its top tied down with cloth or paper.

In cooking meats, great amounts of spices were used, even perfumes, perhaps with good reason, as there was no such thing as ice for preservation, the coolest places being the cellar, the spring-house or the bottom of the well.

The colonists potted fish and game and salted fish and meat in strong brine. November was the busiest month of the year, as it was "killing time." Oxen, cows, swine, which had been fattened for slaughter, met their fate in the dawn of early morning, so that the meat would be hardened for the pickle. Sausages were made, some slight variation in the recipes in the different localities being in evidence as were rolliches, hard-cheese and pickled pigs' feet. They tried-out lard and made tallow.

Many families secured sweetening from maple sugar and honey, although housewives of elegance always had some loaf sugar on hand for company. This was purchased in a large cone, covered with blue paper, which incidentally was carefully kept, and soaked for the indigo which was used as a dye. The ladies of the house usually performed the task of cutting the sugar for the day, a ceremony involving in some homes, a parade of silver salvers, specially made scissors, all laid out on the polished surface of the dining room table with much fluttering about of busy femininity over this important and delicate task.

So we see that the people of Washington's time did not have the fancy food which are used today, they always had more than enough to take care of their appetites.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has estimated that between 150,000 and 200,000 cars of truck crops were shipped by motor in 1929. Railroad and boat line shipments totaled 1,068,745 cars.

An official estimate from Washington states that 100,000 men were employed or will be employed on Federal buildings by January 1. The Federal building program calls for a total expenditure of $700,000,000, of which approximately $500,000,000 has been authorized by Congress.

In the aggregate, 760 eggs are laid every second by the hens in the United States, who thus create, according to the federal department of agriculture, $20 worth of wealth toward an annual poultry income of $1,175,000,000.

A sharp increase in cotton consumption in Alabama during September is reported by the Alabama Economic Review, published at Auburn. The Bureau of the Census found that mills in this state consumed 48,806 bales. August consumption was 43,039 bales, and September was 37,740 bales.

During the month of October 719 coke ovens were operating in Alabama, leaving 669 idle. During September the output of by-product coke in Alabama and Tennessee was 206,049 tons as reported by the Bureau of Mines. The September production was 11.6 per cent under that of August and 29.6 per cent below the figure for September of last year.

Alexander Legge, former chairman of the Federal Farm Board, thinks that agriculture "occupies perhaps a sounder position, all told, than any other great industry of the day." He said that after climbing to a high of sixty-six billion dollars the value of farm lands and buildings in the United States has declined to about forty-three billion dollars, on which the farm mortgage indebtedness is estimated at nine and one-half billion dollars, or 32 per cent of the value.

Mrs. Luther Teel returned home Sunday from Montgomery where she has been for several weeks an a hospital. She is reported to be getting well now.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Economy—is the watchword these days, but just because a dish is economical it need not be divorced from palatability. Here is one which costs not much more than a quarter and serves six people.

Fruit Cole Slaw—Crisp one cup finely shredded cabbage in ice water, drain and dry thoroughly. Just before serving add one diced orange and the drained contents of one 8-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Mix in carefully one-half cup boiled dressing, and serve on six crisp lettuce leaves.

Inexpensive Desserts—That taste expensive are an art attained only by the experienced housewife. Here is one that lives up to these specifications and costs little more than a quarter.

Baked Pineapple Pudding—Cream hree tablespoons butter and four tablespoons sugar, and add one well-beaten egg yolk. Add one-half cup dry bread crumbs and one-half crushed Hawaiian pineapple, and fold in one stiffly-beaten egg white. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven, 325 degrees, for twenty to thirty minutes. Serve with one-half cup thin cream. Serves 4.

An Economical Pie—That contains plenty of fruit, serves six people, and costs only about forty cents is:

Pineapple and Cherry Pie—Run four slices of Hawaiian pineapple and one cup of canned sour pitted cherries through the grinder, add two tablespoons flour and half a beaten egg, and cook in a sauce pan till slightly thickened. Pour into a small pie tin lined with pastry, cover with upper crust and bake, having oven hot, 450 degrees, for the first five minutes, then moderate, 375 degrees, till done.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Statements given out during recent weeks by leading Democrats to the effect that they do not favor the so-called debt cancellation scheme and believe that it would work a hardship on the American people, are causing many Washington politicians to wonder whether a change is not coming over the policy of the Democratic Party with regard to our foreign affairs.

Since the historic fight over the League of Nations in the United States Senate more than a decade ago, a fight which resulted in the defeat of the internationalists, the Democratic Party has carried a political handicap in its adherence to the League of Nations program. This has led a great many Americans to believe that the party is committed to internationalism in various forms and has caused it to suffer greatly at the polls. For every time the American people have had a chance to register their opinion on internationalism, it has been a verdict decidedly in the negative.

Several weeks ago Bainbridge Colby, one of the leaders in the Wilson administration, came out unqualifiedly against relieving the European nations of their debts at the expense of the American taxpayers. A few days ago, in a book of his experiences, just published, William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury under President Wilson, declared himself against debt cancellation. And just the other day in an Armistice Day speech to be exact, Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, a recognized leader of the Democratic party and former chairman of the War Industries Board, said, among other things, in discussing France, Germany and Poland:

"It seems to me that no matter what composition we make of debts and reparations they will be of no avail until those three nations come to some permanent agreement that will bring about and continue peace in Europe. As a matter of fact, this peace lies in the hollow of the hand of France. It is for her to say if peace and happiness shall reign over Europe. It would be unwise for us to submit to any change in the debts and reparations until that is done.

"Many people ask for a cancellation of debts, but they cannot be canceled. If we forgive the money that is owed us, the American taxpayer, manufacturer, laborer and farmer must pay it, because the receipts from the war debts have become a part of our budget and if they are not paid by others they must be paid by us."

In an Armistice Day address at Cleveland, James W. Gerard, prominent Democrat and ambassador to Germany in President Wilson's administration, advocated for peace, "an army of 500,000 men, an adequate navy and a resolution to sit tight and mind our own business."

In the newspapers the other day, Senator B. K. Wheeler, of Montana, who represents the Democrats in the so-called western progressive element, said in support of a proposed reservation to the World Court resolution: "I can see no reason for the United States getting into the League. As for the Court, the action taken on the Austro-German customs past was purely political and has done much to destroy the reputation of the Court."

There seems undoubtedly to be a drift in the Democratic ranks away from the internationalism which the party represented in the years immediately following the World War, an internationalism which, of course, has always been opposed by a group of Democrats centering around former Senator Reed of Missouri. If this drift is maintained, according to Washington observers, it means that the Democrats have come to realize the handicap which the accusation of internationalism has meant to their party, and are going to get back to first principles. It is too early, of course, to predict as yet just how far this movement will go, but it is one of the interesting current developments in American politics, and may have far-reaching effect. Reports coming from the West and Middle West are to the effect that the people in those important sections of the country are becoming heartily tired of the emphasis placed on European politics by certain influences, especially the Eastern press, and it may be that Democratic leaders, some of them at least, are awakening to this situation.

WASHINGTON'S LOST THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION—

Few Americans, we are told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, know that the first National Thanksgiving Proclamation was issued by our first president, George Washington, in 1789; and still fewer people know of the interesting history of that priceless document. On October 3, 1789, George Washington issued his Presidential Proclamation calling for a national day of Thanksgiving on Thursday, November 26.

This proclamation went into effect and was soon forgotten. No one apparently attached much importance to the document itself. It was completely lost sight of. Most likely it was misplaced or attached to some private papers in the process of moving official records from New York to Philadelphia, or from Philadelphia to Washington. All we know is that the original document was not in the official archives of the government until it was "found" in 1921 by Dr. J. C. Fitzpatrick, then Assistant Chief of the Manuscripts Division of the Library of Congress, and now editor of the forthcoming George Washington Bicentennial Commission series of Washington's writings.

It was at an auction sale being held in the American art galleries of New York City. Dr. Fitzpatrick, an expert on Washingtonia, examined the document and found it to be authentic. It was written in long hand by Wm. Jackson, secretary to President Washington at the time, and was signed in George Washington's bold hand. Dr. Fitzpatrick purchased the document for $300.00 for the Library of Congress, where it is now kept as a treasure. And no amount of money could remove it.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Tight Like That

The Moon Man is in no position to look things over this week. Instead of being out where I can see and hear what is going on, this week I am shut up tight. I might as well be in jail. I couldn't get out to see it if anything should happen. Hope to be able to tell you all about it next week, if the censorship is lifted.

In Court At Opelika

My old sky boat rides aloft as usual, but I am not in it. I have been on the jury in Federal Court at Opelika for a week. All I do is tramp back and forth from my room to the courthouse. I am not allowed to talk to anybody; and therefore I am not writing much.

Some Glimpses

Opelika is a town of funny-looking houses. Over there is one with a top just like a church bell. Here is anotner, a home, Chinese style, with pagoda and all the other Oriental fixings. Maybe you will wonder what the fixings are like I did when a friend in Mexico wrote me about eating real Mexican hot-tamalies with all the fixings. Opelika is not "on the square." It is X-shaped. I get all mixed up at many places where the triangular lots cause many streets to come togetner at curious angles.

Some Folks I Know

Here comes J. O. Middleton strutting down the avenue. He is our same J. O. Middleton, who is now assistant United States District Attorney. Arthur Chilton, with brief case bulging with many documents, stops in for a shave. Judge Charley Kennamer comes in for breakfast, but not at the same place where Chilton gets the shave.

The Tiger of the Plains

We are close by Auburn, and we hear the old Tiger of the Plains cutting up capers quite often. Saw an Auburn car come through on its way to Columbus. Mounted on the car was a real tiger skin stuffed full of something. I guess it was Auburn enthusiasm or something. Here is a newspaper. Think I will read a while. Oh pshaw. The paper has been all cut up. Confound this censorship business.

Will See You Next Week

I will have something in store for you next week. No, that is not what I mean. Here it is: I have something in store for you this week, but I can't let it loose until next week. So long.—Man in to Moon.

THE TARIFF AND THE INTERNATIONAL LOANS—

Mr. Thomas W. Lamont, prominent international banker, in a review of that interesting book, "The End of Reparations," by Hjalmar H. G. Schacht, prominent German banker, agrees with the executive of "a leading America corporation" that "until tariffs are reduced and international loans made to stimulate trade, a real international trade recovery is likely to be slow."

Well, now, let's see. Are we, first of all, interested in "international trade recovery" or in domestic trade recovery? Ninety per cent of our trade in the best of times is domestic. That's the normal per centage. And income from our foreign trade represents only two per cent of our total national income.

"International trade recovery" is greatly to be desired, but what that really means is ten for the foreign countries and one for us. And with billions of dollars worth of foreign goods already entering America — goods which could easily have been manufactured by Americans in America—it is clear that the last thing which the people of this country should have is a low tariff.

Moreover, some of the same objections which have been raised against the dole in the United States can be raised against too generous "international loans made to stimulate trade." We have handed Europe too much on a platter already!—Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel.

Two or three more summers like this and some enterprising real estate firm will be opening up Greenland as a summer resort.

In an effort to economize Brazil has taken 1,000 official mosquito killers from the official pay roll. Hereafter Brazilians will have to do like they do in New Jersey—swat your own.

With both sides so evenly matched this coming session of Congress may be like one of those 0 to 0 football games. And come to think of it, maybe the country will be just as well off if too much scoring isn't done.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

A scoutmaster was asking the boys of his troop to relate what good turn they had done during the day, and one red-headed, freckled-faced lad related his good deed in language like this: "I saw Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rumbo passing my house. I asked where they were going, and was told that they were going to catch the eight o'clock train. I knew that the way they were traveling, that they would never reach the depot in time to catch that train, and so I sicked my dog on them, and they made the train." That boy was a wise lad and he deserved a medal. He knew that he could not coax them into a faster speed, and he used the best method to get the answer. There are many people who will speed up when they are urged and coaxed, but if you will put in a few teeth, a little fire, if you will sick the dog on them, they will pick up and catch the train.

Have you ever seen people fooling around all day, doing nothing, and then when the day is about over, get into a big hurry to round out a day's work? I saw a man enter his field to plow a certain section, and along came a friend. The two stopped to talk and more than an hour passed in idleness. Soon it was the noon hour and the farmer went home to dinner, and fooled away two hours. Near the middle of the afternoon the man behind the plow saw that he would not be able to complete his day's task, and so he started in to slashing his mule and fretting himself because he had done nothing. I have seen official boards of churches, assume a task for the year. They would fool around for two thirds of the year, doing nothing to push the job, and then when the year was about over, they would get into an excited way. They would dash here and there and try to atone for a year that had been lost. I want to say to you that a stampede at sunset will not atone for a day that has been wasted. When you want a well rounded day's work, you must get at it early in the morning, stay by it in the heat of the noon day sun and then keep on at it until the sun goes down in the west. The man never wins in a race who does no running until the last hundred yards are to be made. Every day will come to the close with something done, if you will start at it early, stick to it with no waste, and then quit when the darkness has come.

I saw a man who was employed as a watchman at a large lumber mill. Tho owners of the plant had fixed punch clocks at certain places over the grounds, and the watchman was expected to be at that place and push in his key at the exact moment. If he should fail to be on hand at the exact moment, he would not be able to make his record. This man did not see the need of punctuality, and so he strolled around on his route at will. When the officials investigated their clocks, they carried no signs of the fellow as having been on duty. He lost his job. Another man was employed, and he went the rounds on the exact minute, and his company held him in high esteem. God has placed his churches as punch clocks for his people. He has made the requirement that you punch the clock each Sunday for Sunday school and preaching. God inspects the records that you are making. There are Methodists, there are Baptists, in this county who think that they can run church-going to their own will. They go when they feel like, and when all things are favorable, but that it not satisfaction for the Divine Father. When God inspects your church attendance record, it may be that he will say: "That man, that woman, cares nothing about me, and I have no place of honor in my service for that one." Friends, why not punch God's clock, the services of the sanctuary, at every time when the hour strikes? God bless the faithful few who never fail when we gather in the sanctuary for worship.

The other day I saw an old man attending the conference in Montgomery. He was a bit feeble and carried a stick in his hands. That walking cane seemed to be of much help to him in walking or in standing. It gave him support that made him feel safe. He would not let the cane get out of his hand. It occurred to me that human flesh is always weak. It is in need of support. Though the man be young, yet he is in danger of falling on the slippery paths of temptation. Though the young woman be beautiful and strong, yet she is in danger of falling. When the traveler has walked down the way of life, and the steps become feeble, the mind and heart do not act as once they did, then we are in need of support. I know nothing that is better to support us when we are young and when we are old, than the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. We should never allow this blessed support to be out of our hearts. On it we should lean, and in it we should trust even down to old age. God is our support and strength.

One cold, frosty morning I went to the window in my room that I might look out and see the beauties of the outside world. I drew near to the window pane with my lips, and while I breathed there settled on the window a kind of fog, a moisture, that completely hid out the things that were on the outside. The air that came from my lungs piled the moisture on the window and I could not see through it and behold the beauty of the outside world. How true that is to our vision of the world and of life. We allow the selfishness from within, to hide out the glory that is without. The vileness that is in our own hearts keeps us from seeing the outside world in purity. Our own wickedness will smoke the glass through which we should look, and our own fog will becloud the soul, so that nothing looks to be clear on the outside. Blessed is the man whose soul is clear, and who can look through a clear glass and behold the outside world.

With Germany full of troubles, Adolf Hitler says that never has he been in such high spirits before. This reminds us of how high the spirits of our free traders get during periods of depression in America, especially when some other nation increase its tariffs in a way they think will affect American trade.

CITIZEN OF LOMAX COMMENTS ON ARTICLE IN BIRMINGHAM POST—

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words in regard to an article that appeared in The Birmingham Post on last Saturday, November 21st?

The article was as follows: "Montgomery, Ala., Nov., 21.—Special. Of 5,475 prisoners placed in Kilby Prison during the fiscal year ending September 30, almost half, 2,588, are under 25 years of age, records show; 2,232 are Baptists, and 822 are Methodists; one Morman and four Jews. A total of 1,725 are serving for violation of the prohibition law, while several hundred others are in prison for offenses related to dry law violations.

It appears that more than half of the 5,475 are serving for violation of the prohibition law, and that 3,059 are church members. Is it a fact that the church is furnishing the state prison more prohibition criminals than the outside or underworld is furnishing. What encouragement has the church to offer the worldly people to come and join them when the records at Kilby Prison show that the church is furnishing more criminals than all other institutions combined, including the entire outside world?

If our preachers would take Christ's teachings and preach what Christ told His followers to preach, and not dispute with Christ as did the pharisees and scribes, when Christ told them that there is nothing from without a man that entering into him can defile him, do yet not perceive that whatsoever thing from without entereth into the man it cannot defile him.

Christ did not propose to remove a single temptation, but taught his followers that if they did not overcome and resist temptations that they were not worthy of the good things he had in store for them.

Christ never did send delegations to confer with the law making powers to have laws passed to make people be Christians. Is the church yet without understanding?

Let the church exclude its drunkards and bootleggers and be a fit subject to preach and teach temperance, and shut up about prohibition, and quit asking that bunch to make laws to make people good that Christ said woe unto. They had taken away the key of knowledge; ye entered not in yourselves, and these who were entering in ye hindered.

Let the church seek for that old time religion that comes by the grace of God and when she gets in possession of it she will then fail to furnish our state prison a majority of criminals. Just think! The Baptists and Methodists alone in the great State of Alabama are furnishing Kilby more criminals than all other institutions and worldliness combined. Preachers, what are you doing? Respectfully—A. A. Jackson.

BRITAIN MUST HAVE "PROTECTION"—

All the nations except Britain have taken pains to protect their workers against excessive foreign competition. The United States has kept 46,000,000 individuals at work, principally by means of a tariff that prevents cheap-labor foreign goods from entering the American market. But for this protective tariff the United States would be facing the problem that confronts Great Britain. The world's economy is so deranged that all countries are suffering loss of markets and American exports are reduced, along with all other national exports, but the United States enjoys at home the greatest market in the world, in which trade is entirely free of tariff restrictions. This protection enables the United States to weather the worst economic hurricane in history.

Britain's financial system is interlinked with enterprises in all parts of the world If the pound sterling can be maintained at its present gold valuation without too much sacrifice it should be so maintained; but national bankruptcy is too big a price to pay in attempting the impossible. The imposition of a protective tariff which will enable British industry to revive is the alternative that should be adopted.—Washington Post.

Mosquitoes are reported to be thicker than usual on the east coast this summer. Well with mosquitoes in the east and grasshoppers in the west we might as well spend the old vacation in the back yard at home.

The Man on the Corner

H. B. Oliver Is Up Again

Mr. H. B. Oliver, citizen, merchant, banker, of Verbena, is able to be out again after being sick for several weeks. For the past year Mr. Oliver has been engaged in looking after the affairs of the Bank of Verbena. When that institution was facing a crisis that threatned to seriously handicap the community of Verbena, Mr. Oliver stepped in and saved the day. It was a patriotic sacrifice on his part for the interest of his community.

Character Means Everything

When the bank's affairs were hanging in the balance, one old citizen of the Verbena community had several hundred dollars involved. Somebody said to him one day: Why don't you go and do something about your money? The old fellow replied: "Well, I aint so worried about it as that. Ben is over there lookin' after things, and he will see that everything comes out all right." The character of Ben Oliver, and the confidence of his neighbors in him has done a service to the people of his community that can not be valued in dollars and cents.

Sheepskin 100 Years Old

Marion Foshee was preparing an abstract of the title to the D. H. Hodgens place, near Jemison last week. As a starting point in the title to the land he found a document written on real sheepskin parchment one hundred years ago the first of last August. The document bears the signature of President Andrew Jackson, and conveys the title of the land from the United States Government to John Crumpton. Although worn with age, the paper is perfectly preserved.

Six Months Without Rain

Bluford Jones, of Mulberry is the first man I have struck who could remember the last rain he had prior to that which came last week. Mr. Jones said his last rain was May 19th, almost exactly six months prior to the rain of last week. That is more dry weather than we usually have at one spell in this part of the country.

How To Treat Automobile Salesmen

Bill Clack, alias "Frined Bill," of Route 7, got off a good one the other day. He was talking about buying an automobile. He said George Polk came to see him last spring about selling him a car. Bill was plowing. When George got down in the field and told him his business, Bill said: "Mr. Polk, my plan is when automobile salesmen come out to see me, I make them take my plow and plow for a half a day before will talk to them." I don't know whether George plowed a half a day or not; but Bill bought an automobile from him.

Where Is The War Going To Be?

Have you ever been in one of those peculiar places where something happened that was so funny you couldn't help but laugh, yet so serious you couldn't afford to laugh? I saw just such a thing last Friday night at the American Legion meeting. Bill Clack, a soldier who saw long service in the World War, asked the Legionaires how many of them would answer the call of their country for another war. Not a hand went up. One rusty old doughboy rose to his feet and said: "Bill, it depends on where the war is at." There was a powerful lot of meaning in that little instance.

Hard Times Are Over Now

Prosperity has been just around the corner for a long time. Monday it came out into full view where the whole world could see it. John Clackler and Bill Franklin caught a day's work buiding a new door at Spurgeon Calloway's Garage. John hated awfully bad to have to do it, because it knocked him out of a day's fishing.

One advantage the five dollar a day man has over the ten dollar a day man is that when they are out of jobs the five dollar man only loses half as much.

THE STATES AS BEGGARS—

"Sentinels of the Republic" is a Washington organization proclaiming battle against "further federal encroachment on the reserved rights of the States."

For this commendable purpose an excellent line of campaign for these shock troops would be against the "Gimme" attitude of the States.

The people of the States will do most to preserve their reserved rights by ceasing to expect Uncle Sam to do for them the things they ought to do for themselves.

The spread of federal bureaucracy is in direct proportion to the demand of the States for federal help. Why blame Washington?

The federal government has not encroached on the rights of the States. The States themselves have voluntarily traded their rights for handouts.

Beggars cannot be independent.

States' rights was a great battle cry up to the time of the Civil War. Since then States' rights have been hard put to it to get a word in edgewise in the general chorus of "Gimme."

The task of the Sentinels of the Republic is to save the States from themselves.—San Francisco Chronicle.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

AN APPRECIATION

The following item from a letter recently received by the manager of Thorsby Section of The Union-Banner speaks for itself:

"Ever since I have been a subscriber to The Union-Banner I have always taken a great interest in the Thorsby Section. The reason for this is, of course, quite obvious. I would naturally have my interests there. On the other hand, you have succeeded in making that section so attractive, I'm sure most folks feel the same way in regard to it."

This comes from one of our Thorsby boys, Walter Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, who for several years past, while serving in the U. S. Navy, as an aviator, has at different times sent in letters which The Union-Banner was glad to publish. He is now taking a special course in civil engineering at Tri States College at Angola, Ind.

Last summer during vacation days he visited home folks here, accompanied by his young and attractive wife, who was and is, while he is in college, a kindergarten teacher in a Detroit, Michigan, school.

At the close of the term, before leaving for his visit to Thorsby, Mr. Petersen had not received his report card, showing his scholarship for his latest term, when he got it, there was a showing of four A's and one B, for the five subjects he was carrying. Educators and students will understand that few do better.

Rushton Gibbons has bought from the L. & N. Railroad Company a triangular piece of land alongside the highway running from a point across the tracks and the highway just about opposite the R. R. station, and running northerly growing ever wider until it ends near the Villadsen cottages. He is starting improvements on it by erecting a filiing station at the southern end of it, adjacent to the highway, which, we understand, is to be under the management of his brother, Coy Gibbons. This land is a valuable piece of property and we believe has come into posession of a man who will eventually make on it attractive improvements for Thorsby.

Another important event in Thorsby is the enlargement of auto service facilities, under way at Nat Bentley's Thorsby Filling Station and garage. He is having a spur track put in on the railroad right of way, where he can receive gasoline in a tank car, and pipe it across the highway to a tank big enough to receive it, which will be underground on his own place.

It is expected that Thanksgiving Day will be pretty generally observed by the people of Thorsby and vicinity. The usual community Thanksgiving service will be held this year in the Congregational church, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. The program will be as follows: Song, invocation, Rev. J. E. Each; song; scripture reading; announcements; special music; sermon, Rev. J. W. Jones; some word regarding the offering, Rev. W. P. Lowery; song; benediction, Rev. E. W. Butler. It is hoped the offering will be used as a nucleus for some sort of community chest for help to the needy among our own people.

Notice—On next Sunday, the 5th Sunday, November 29th, at 7:15 p. m., there will be held at Thorsby Congregational church, the usual monthly song service.

The Ladies Guild bazaar will be held the Saturday after Thanksgiving Day, November 28; probably in the open building next to Bentley's garage. All ladies who have articles for the sales tables please take them to Mrs. Norton's home during next week, before Thursday if possible, so that the sales committee will know what to count on. The bazaar will be open from 10:00 a. m. until 4:00 p. m. A fish dinner will be served at 11 and 12 a. m. Coffee and sandwiches and cake will be served in the afternoon; Every one is invited to come and buy at reasonable prices. If weather is not pleasant, arrangements will be made to hold the bazaar elsewhere.

Mrs. Micksell, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martn Peterson for the past two weeks, left for her home Monday.

Cecil Each visited his home folks in Thorsby Sunday.

Mrs. Ethel Wright Loveland of Piedmont College, Demorest, Georgia, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Hall and Miss Doris Freeman, were week end visitors in Thorsby.

Word was reveived in Thorsby early Thursday afternoon that Mr. L. E. Moody had an attack of appendicitis, and an operation would be necessary. His wife who was visiting here, and her mother, Mrs. H. M. Gerald, went at once to Birmingham, where hospital attention was given Friday morning, the latest report said he was doing very well.

Remember the Ladies Guild Bazaar Saturday of this week from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A fish dinner will be served at 11, coffee, cake, and sandwiches, during the afternoon. Articles suitable for Christmas gifts will be on sale, everybody invited to come and help the ladies fill their treasury.

Don't forget Thorsby's usual contributions for the people at the Poor Farm for Thanksgiving Day, whatever you wish to contribute, may be left at Thorsby Institute, the public school, or G. F. Harper's store, before noon on Wednesday of this week where they will be called for and taken to the farm.

There will be service in the Scandinavian language at the Lutheran Church on Thanksgiving Day at 10:30 a. m., instead of 10:45 a. m.

On Sunday, November 29, first Sunday in advent, there will be a double service and holy communion. A collection will be taken for the Swedish National Sanitorium for tubercolosis at Denver, Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and Helen Louise spent Sunday with Mrs. Robert Bean.

Mrs. Robert Bean entertained for Thanksgiving dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and Helen Louise, Mrs. Earl Meade of Calera, and Miss Era Robinson.

Mrs. Bob Smith had for dinner guests Thanksgiving evening, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meade of Calera, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and Helen Louise, and Dr. Horace Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marcus spent the week end with Mrs. Marcus's parents at Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and boys, also Ruth; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, motored to Birmingham Sunday.

Mrs. Conrad Carlson and son, Verner, motored to Chicago Monday for a couple of weeks' visit.

Mrs. P. D. Killingsworth and Dan Prim of Ensley were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon and Mrs. Prim Sunday.

Misses Era Lee Roe, Odell Roe, Anna Faye Price, and Ida Lou Pate were dinner guests of Miss Edna Raybon Sunday.

Mrs. R. D. Gibbons of Prattville Junction went to Birmingham on business Monday.

Mrs. A. P. Villadsen will arrive Wednesday to spend several days with Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. Henry Robinson spent last week end in Thorsby with Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Miss Mary Sue Robinson returned Saturday from Lincoln, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson were week end visitors in Birmingham.

Mr. Roy Raybon is visiting in Birmingham for a few days.

Prof. C. M. Williams will be in Wednesday night to spend Thanksgiving with family.

Mrs. T. R. Burdette, son Jarrell, Mrs. C. M. Williams, Charlene, Mrs. H. L. Tomason and Miss Winnie Garrick motored to Birmingham Saturday. Jarrell went to attend the Howard-Southern football game.

Mrs. Relious Franklin, Peggy Mims, Mrs. C. M. Gray and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway spent the week end with Mrs. Claude Jones in Guenville, Ala.

Messrs. R. R. Franklin, C. M. Gray, and Spurgeon Calloway went down to Guenville Sunday, and spent the day. They visited Dr. L. V. Stablewhite there.

Thorsby Fruit and Truck Growers Association met in special session Saturday afternoon to contract for fertilizer for spring application, and to outline plans of operations for the coming year. A good representation of growers were present, and all appeared to be interested in working together for best results of the association, which will be thirty years old in February, 1932.

The organization is the oldest organization in Alabama, and one man states the oldest in the South. This record should prove that those who have managed the affairs of the organization have the interest of the community at heart, and are willing to give time and money to advance the general welfare of the town and community. The association is rated very highly, as established by a business man from Montgomery, who stated to the public that his business dealings with the association had been far above the average.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NEWS

Last Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. V.H. Sutlive entertained the Seniors of Thorsby Institute at a party. After many interesting games, delicious refreshments were served. All of the Seniors except four were present these were; Misses Anna Fae Price, Evie Lee Rowe, Odell Rowe, Ruby Connatser, Mary Ruth Nix, Olean Hybart, Ella Howard, Mildred Jefferies, Helen Diefenderfer, Camilla Mae McCallum. Pauline Poole, Grace Smith, and Wilma Goodgame. Messrs, Donald Long, Ralph Pate, Oliver Lyon, and T. A. McCallum. At 9:30 all seniors departed for their homes saying that they all had a grand time.

The Armistice Day program of Thorsby Institute consisted of a poem entitled, Aftermath, recited by S. E. Maddox and The recessional, recited by Nelle Tracy, a talk by Conway Thornburgh on the meaning of the Armistice, the salute to the flag, led by Oliver Lyon, a representative of the boy scouts. Other parts were given by Jack Higgins, Phares Raybon and Ralph Pate representing the scouts. A duet was sung by Miss Klingelhofer and Miss McKee.

Next Saturday night at 7:30 at the Thorsby Institute Auditorium the annual stunt night will take place. The four classes of the school prepare stunts of various kinds. Every one is invited to come. Admission 10 cents.

It has been customary for a good many years for the people of Thorsby to make donations of food of various kinds to the County Poor Farm. Provisions may be left at the Public School, Thorsby Institute, or Harper's Store. Don't forget to send something by Wednesday noon of this week.

Thorsby Institute's new basket ball court for the boys is about complete. The dry weather delayed the completion of the court.

A joint meeting of the Pushmatahas and Philomathics was held Friday afternoon in the auditorium of Thorsby Institute. A debate, Resolved that the several states should enact a legislation providing compulsory unemployment insurance, was given. The speakers for the Philomathics were Wilma Goodgame and Albert Mims. They had the affirmationve side of the debate. For the Pushmatahas Mary Frank Smith and Donald Long spoke on the negative side. The Pushmatahas won the debate.

Sunday night T. A. McCallum, vice president of the Christian Endeavor Society, was the leader of the meeting. Special music was rendered by Mrs. V. H. Sutlive and Miss Odie Lee Arthur. Thoughts on being thankful and helping others to have a reason for thanksgiving were brought. As it was consecration night the roll call was read and the Christian Endeavor pledge was repeated.

Concord-Billingsley

Our Christian Endeavor Society had a real enjoyable time at the social which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Little last Saturday night. Many games, contests, etc., were presented, which were greatly enjoyed and especially were the refreshments enjoyed by every one present. We were also glad to have with us Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Headley. We enjoyed their presence, and we tried to make it as enjoyable for them as possible.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society also had a social Saturday afternoon. Every one reported a nice time.

PLAY AT CONCORD SCHOOL

A play entitled "Always in Trouble," will be given at Concord Junior High School Friday night, November 27. Admission charge will be 10 and 20 cents. Everybody is invited to come, as the proceedings will be used for the benefit of the school.

MT. PLEASANT JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The chicken supper which was sponsored by the P.-T. A. last Saturday night netted the school $36.05 This amount will be added to the balance of the P.-T. A. funds brought over from last year and used to purchase some new shades and other equipment for the chool.

There was very little expenese involved in giving this supper as practically everything used was generously donated by the parents and teachers. Over 125 plates were sold at the building, there being a complete sell-out. This was perhaps due to the unsually large number of people present, and to the attractive charge for each plate.

Two string bands were there to entetain, and this they did in the most pleasing manner. One of the bands was from Verbena, and was composed of Messers, Frank Gulledge, Aubrey Robinson, Frank and George Williams. Mr. Aubrey Robinson, lately of New York, entertained the crowd with some clever tap-dancing. Everyone seemed to enjoy the program very much, and we take this opportunity in thanking the Verbena players for helping the school, and we cordially invite them to visit us again.

The other band was composed of home-talent; the players being Messrs, Lemmie Melton, Corbett Riggins, Hiram Littlejohn, and Kermit Lowery.

This group of entertainers rendered several selections of popular music which was delightfully received by the large number of listeners. We are deeply gratful to the large number of people from Clanton, Thorsby, Verbena, and other points, who came and helped us.

This week closes out the second school month. Examinations will be given on Tuesday and Wednesday, covering the past month's work. Attendance for the second month has been greatly increased over that of last month. Very little illness has been reported in the community.

At the next Chapel Exercises, a handsome gift will be presented to Curtis Traywick and Ilar Massey. These two Jr. III students were the winners in the contest of ticket sales for the chicken supper. Curtis led the boys with 17 sales to his credit, while Ilar copped the high honors for the girls, turning in 25 sales.

Miss Betty Baldwin, attractive and popular member of the Maplesville High School faculty, spent the week end with her sister, Miss Celia Baldwin at Thorsby.

The basket ball game between the Mt. Pleasant and Enterprise teams was called at the half, due to the sudden downpour of rain. The game was proving to be one of the liveliest and most intertsting games of the season with Enterprise clinging tenaciously to the slender mirgin of one point. The game was called with the count standing 6 to 5. Curtis Traywick, forward for the Mt. Pleasant team, led his mates with two beautiful shots from the field for 4 points, while his running teammate, Burnett, netted the other point through a foul shot.

L. C. Cagle for Enterprise, registered four of their points with 2 nifty crip shots. Guy Silas added the other two markers with a shot from the field. The strong wind which swept over the court made playing extremely difficult for both teams, each missing several free shots which normally are made good.

At the end of the second quarter, Cecil Traywick, star guard for the Mt. Pleasant team suffered the misfortune of losing his two front teeth in a scrimmage with several other players for the ball. The accident was unavoidable, and drew the sympathy from both teams. We are all glad to know, however, that he is doing nicely. The Enterprise team will reurn to Mt. Pleasant in the near future to play this game. We hope the large crowd will come again.

NATION'S FINANCE STANDS TEST WELL

Economic Policy Commission of Bankers Association Points Out How 22,000 Banks Protect Public Interest

OVER 22,000 banks all over the United States are "quietly and efficiently serving their communities, helping tide many business enterprises over their difficulties, helping many concerns to earn money, helping create the economic activities that mean payrolls and spending power in their zones of influence, and faithfully keeping guard over the working capital and savings funds of their depositors," the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association says in a recent survey, adding:

"It surely stands strikingly to the credit of the banking profession that, during a period of unparalleled international economic depression, this vast majority of bankers have so competently, so courageously and so successfully met their difficulties and obligations. The effects of the drought, the demoralization of agriculture, the stagnation of industry, the breakdown of trade, the inability of so many heretofore desirable customers to meet their obligations to the banks, the impairment of public confidence by mob-scares and false rumors resulting in unreasoning runs, the abnormal depreciation of quoted security values even in the most wisely conceived investment accounts, the utter collapse of real estate values—all these things have occurred on a nationwide and worldwide scale with unprecedented severity.

"The effects of every one of them have assailed the banks with destructive forces because they are of the very essence of a bank's economic substance. Yet, as we have shown, the great bulk of our banking deposits has been protected without harm, and our banks in a vast majority have continued to serve, support and strengthen their customers and their communities with unflagging and unconquered devotion."

WOULD ALTER OUR FINANCIAL HABITS

By ROME C. STEPHENSON

Former President American Bankers Association.

THE most constructive action that can be taken toward bringing about greater stability in our business life is the development of a more balanced attitude in the minds of all of our people in regard to the right relationship between saving and spending. There is more practical, workable economics in the sentence: Save during prosperity so as to be able to spend during depression: than in a whole library full of charts and tables and books on political economy.

R. C. STEPHENSON

I do not believe it is an impracticable dream to bring about an era of more intelligent saving and spending on the part of our people. It is not impossible to change the habits of the population. It has been done in many lines. The habits of our people have been improved and the health of the nation promoted in many ways by consistent programs of advertising and education that have brought about better hygienic understanding and practices.

The medical profession has virtually banished the scourge of some diseases by persistent, intelligent campaigns of preventive sanitary measures and inoculations, requiring new understandings, new habits among many millions of our people. Also a large part of this evolution of public health improvement has naturally developed through the intelligent advertising of many products that have to do with bodily care. I refer to the manufacturers and distributers of such things as more healthful shoes, more effective toothbrushes, food products with more wholesome values of nutrition and countless other practical ideas that have become commonplaces of our daily business life,—and that have become a part, too, of the very texture of the personal habits and health of great masses of our people.

If it has been good advertising and good business for so many of our national producers to spend millions of dollars thus to inculcate new habits of personal hygiene and personal care, is it not good business and good advertising for our banking interests to lay similar stress during the next period of prosperity upon better financial habits and customs of our people?

Bankers above all are interested in stable, wholesome business. They have much to gain by a state of sound financial health among the people, and most to lose by epidemics of economic maladies such as have swept the country during the past two years.

The man who has in better times been favored with too much credit rather than not enough is finding it is hard to pay his interest now with low prices for his products or labor.

FARM AND GARDEN QUERY BOX

Query—How soon can we begin winter pruning of fruit trees? Please give suggestions as to methods.

Ans.—Begin pruning any time after the leaves are off in the fall and continue until the work is completed. The earlier it is done the better, as it allows the spraying to be done at more favorable times and in good weather. Prune away dead or broken limbs. Remove limbs which crowd each other. Keep the tree well balanced. Cut back tall growth, always trimming to a fork. Never leave stubs. Keep the tree down to an easy picking height. Avoid cutting large limbs, but, if large limbs are cut, paint the wounds with any kind of common oil paint. Avoid using tar.

Query—Our calves look very rough and out of condition, but are fed plenty of corn and straw. What should we do for them?

Ans.—Some legume hay such as clover or alfalfa will help. Add a little linseed meal mixed with cotton seed meal or other concentrate instead of part of the corn. A handful of linseed meal for each calf every day will help their appearance and increase the returns from feeding. These changes are recommended for all dry dairy cattle, beef cattle, and young stock.

Query—Should potatoes and turnips be stored in a dry warm place for best keeping?

Ans.—No. They should be stored in a rather cold place, as near freezing as possible without being frosted. Damp cellars or pits are better for such crops than for sweet potatoes and onions. The latter need a dry place.

FARMING FACTS FOR 1932 BEING STUDIED

Auburn, Ala., Work designed to make farming more profitable in Alabama in 1932 has been launched by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. Following the southern agricultural outlook conference in Memphis which was attended by District Agents J. T. High, Emmett Sizemore, and R. G. Arnold a few agricultural leaders spent three days, November 23, 24, and 25, at a meeting in Auburn studying and analyzing the facts with the help of C. F. Sarle and James D. Pope, economists with the Federal Farm Board.

At this meeting facts about different crops and livestock produced and raised in Alabama were considered with a view to making specific recommendations to guide Alabama farmers in better farming in 1932.

The next step, explained Director L. N. Duncan, will be a state meeting attended by county agents and others for the purpose of launching the work from a state-wide viewpoint. Following this state meeting the county leaders will hold county meetings to be attended by farmers, bankers, merchants, and others; and the facts will be analyzed and prepared from the standpoint of the conditions and needs of their respective counties.

The information being used in these conferences and meetings cost the Federal government about $3,000,000 to collect and compile, Professor Duncan explained. The aim will not be acreage reduction but "more profitable farming." Each farmer is expected to take the information and use it so that it will be of maximum value to him.

Meanwhile, similar pork will be in progress in other states, the goal being to correct defects and improve the entire agricultural structure of the country. In Alabama the information will be used in conjunction with the general farming program which farmers have been using for several years, modifying it each year to meet new conditions and needs.

Lesson for November 29

PAUL'S LETTER TO PHILEMON

GOLDEN TEXT—There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.

LESSON TEXT—Philemon.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Treat a Servant.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Servant Becomes a Brother.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Slave Made a Brother.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ Transforming Social Relationships.

This letter is a private one. Philemon was a member of the church at Colosse. Onesimus, his slave, wronged him, and fled to Rome. At Rome he came under Paul's influence and was converted. Paul sent Onesimus back to Philemon with this letter—one of the most tactful, tender, and beautiful letters ever written, and the first anti-slavery petition ever penned.

I. His Salutation (vv. 1-3).

In salutation he refers to himself as a prisoner and links Philemon to himself as a fellow laborer in the gospel, having as his special aim to touch Philemon's heart. He makes mention of Apphia, Philemon's wife and Archippus, the son, who had already enlisted as a fellow soldier.

II. Philemon's Reputation (vv. 4-7)

Paul paid a fine tribute to Philemon's character, reminding him that he never prayed without bearing him up before God.

1. His faith and love toward the Lord and all saints (v. 5). It was Paul's hope and desire that Philemon's faith might bear fruit in Jesus Christ. With such an approach, the way was open to Philemon's heart.

2. His ministry to the saints (v. 7) Philemon was most generous in his ministry to the poor saints.

III. Paul's Request (vv. 8-16).

He requests Philemon to receive back Onesimus, the runaway slave as a brother in Christ. Note the incomparable delicacy and courtesy with which Paul approaches Philemon.

1. He beseeches instead of commands (vv. 8-10). Though conscious of his right to enjoin, he pleads as the prisoner of Jesus Christ for love's sake.

2. He makes his plea on the grounds of grace (vv. 11-14). He admits that Onesimus has been unprofitable, has forfeited all claim upon Philemon, and that on grounds of justice his plea might well be rejected and yet because Onesimus was begotten in his bonds (v. 10), was in a real sense a part of his own suffering nature (v. 12), he ventures to suggest that he should be accepted. Though Onesimus hitherto has been unprofitable to his master, he is now profitable to both Paul and Philemon.

3. Paul desired that Onesimus be received back, not as a slave, but as a brother in Christ (vv. 15, 16). Here is the real fugitive slave law. Paul never attacked slavery, but emphasized principles which destroyed it. Christianity changes the whole face of human society. The wise thing to do is to get men and women regenerated and thus transform society instead of seeking change by revolution. Social wrongs can permanently be removed by the creation of a brotherhood which can be realized only by faith in Jesus Christ. Faith in Jesus Christ brings the individual into connection with the source of life. In Paul's request for Onesimus you can hear the pleadings of Christ for sinners. All men have gone astray and have become unprofitable. Though possessing no merit, he has made us profitable. We have been begotten in his bonds. Through his passion, agony of heart, we shall be changed. We can see and hear him now pleading our cause before God's throne for love's sake.

IV. The Basis upon Which Onesimus Is to Be Received (vv. 17-21).

The debt of guilty Onesimus is to be put to the account of Paul, and the merit of Paul is to be put to the account of Onesimus. This is a fine illustration of the atonement of Christ. Whatever wrongs we have committed, debts incurred, all our shortcomings are debited to him. Jesus Christ, on behalf of all mankind, has said to God: "Put that to my account. I have written with my pierced hand. I will repay." Onesimus was taken back, not as a runaway slave, but as a beloved brother in Christ.

V. Paul Requests Lodging (vv. 22-25).

He expected a speedy release from imprisonment and purposed to sojourn with Philemon. In all probability this was realized. What a welcome he must have received! Jesus Christ is saying to everyone of his redeemed ones, "Prepare me a lodging."

Yesterday, Today

As for the past, let it sleep if it can. "Sleep on now and take your rest," is the gentle voice of Jesus as to the past. "Rise, let us be going: lo he that betrayeth me is at hand," is the next sentence. The past is past. Let that sleep if it can. But there is a future task right now to be done. Don't sleep over that.

Necessary

Before you can come into communion with him you must come into covenant with him.—Matthew Henry.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 23.—Miss Frieda Rauschenberg of Spruce Pine, Franklin County, will be Alabama's representative in the National 4-H Club Girls' Style Dress Revue Contest to e held at the tenth national boys and girls 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 27 to December 5, state club leader, Bess Fleming has reported to the National Committee on boys and girls club work.

Frieda will model a tailored wool dress of her own making in the national contest. To the high scoring individual in each of the four divisions of the national contest, the Chicago Mail Order Company will award a three-weeks educational tour to the shrines of American history in July, 1932. The national winner will also receive a solid gold medal of honor. Gold wrist watches will be awarded the second and third high scoring contestants in each of the four classes of the contest.

Thirty-five state style show winners have received prize trips from the Chicago Mail Order Company to compete for these national honors at the 4-H Club Congress. These state winners will model garments of their own making in one of the following classes: Cotton school dress, tailored wool dress, semi-tailored silk dress or informal party dress.

STATE OFFERS FARMERS FREE TEST ON FARM SEED

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 23.—The Alabama Department of Agriculture will test free of charge a limited number of samples of farm seed for Alabama farmers and seed dealers, according to Seth P. Storrs, commissioner, and L. N. Allen, seed analyst.

Extracts from the rules and regulations of the seed laboratory reads:

"Each individual farmer or other person shall be permitted free test of three samples per year, with not over two free samples to be tested in one month.

"Each individual seed dealer shall be permitted free test of ten samples per year, with not over three samples tested free in any one month."

Farmers and dealers interested in having their farm seed tested should write to Commissioner Storrs or Mr. Allen giving kind of seed to be tested and asking for information as to how to collect samples and ship to the seed laboratory.

Samples should be sent during December and January, Mr. Allen said.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Lee Gray was in town Tuesday. He wanted to express his thanks for all the blessings of this year, and all the kindnesses and favors shown, and gifts. He hopes that God will add a great blessing to all. He says that he is glad to have so many friends who have flowers to give while we live, and not wait until death comes. We want to see them now. I don't want any one shedding tears for me when I go to the other world, where there is no more sorrow or pain. The greatest flower that can be given is good words. So, many thanks.—Lee Gray.

AMERICA'S WORLD RESPONSIBILITIES

By H. J. HAAS
President American Bankers Association

WE are in a changing world, with many new financial problems for which we have no precedents, and many old problems which have so changed as to be unrecognizable. American bankers have been called into world affairs to blaze new trails of unknown finance. We may expect these calls to be more numerous in the future than they have in the past. We are the world's financial leader and we must accept the responsibility which goes with it.

H. J. HAAS

Let us look to the future with confidence. Every one has experienced a great sorrow some time, perhaps so great we felt we could never overcome it, but time is the great healer and eventually we have come out of it. As it is with individuals, so it is with nations. Our nation has had much sorrow in the 155 years of its existence. In that time we have passed through the major depressions of 1837-1857-1873 to 1879-1884-1893-1896-1907-1914-1921 and the present.

I venture to state that in each of these periods there were those who had doubts of the future just as we have them today, but what happened after each depression? Our country recovered, to be better and stronger than ever. Its people were introduced to modes of living they never dreamed of, until today, notwithstanding our depression, we live on the highest plane of any nation in the world. Should we not judge the future by past experience?

Surely our people are better prepared, financially and intellectually, to cope with even greater problems than they have been in the past, so why not look to the future confident that fundamental social and economic problems will be adjusted satisfactorily?

Confidence is not established by any one thing but by an accumulation of things. If we can get confidence started on its way, gathering a little here and there, it will accelerate its speed as it goes along. This is not the work of any one man to perform but is the cumulative effort of each and every one of us. What we are in the future is not the result of what we have done on any one day but the result of all that we have done for all time. The American Bankers Association is endeavoring to do its part. Individually our efforts may not count for much, but they are part of the whole plan and taken in the aggregate they amount to the sum total of all our efforts.

PUBLIC INJURED BY BANK GOSSIP

National Association Declares Community Interests Demand Protection Against Idle Rumors

BOTH in their advertising and in their direct contacts with customers and others, bankers should "consciously and persistently devote more time and thought to keeping people mindful of the fact that while the bank has many obligations toward its customers, equally is it true that the depositor also has certain obligations to the bank to enable it to properly maintain its position in the community," a recent statement of the American Bankers Association declares.

JACKASS SLAM CAUSES A FIGHT

Republicans Decide to Hold Fess in Chairmanship as New Battle Is Begun

Washington, Nov. 21—One Republican rumpus was settled today—Senator Fess, of Ohio, was agreed on definately for Republican national chairman—but another party row was simmering in the senate over Moses, of New Hampshire, as president pro tem.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, who urged a reorganization of the national committee with Postmaster General Brown as chairman at the meeting next month, rather than after the June convention, called on Senator Fess and reached an understanding.

Watson and Fess agreed that the Ohio senator would continue until the national nominating meeting but the Indiana senator insisted Fess make a "vigiorous" campaign meanwhile.

Democrats Don't Want Control

The threatening dispute over continuation of the fiery Senator Moses as president pro tem was taking definite form. There would be a chance that this row might upset Republican control of the senate except for the Democrats to assume the organization without an actual majority.

Speculation has gone so far at the capitol as to include reports that some Republican advisers of President Hoover were saying he would prefer to see the Democrats control the unmanageable senate. But there is every indication that the Democrats will see to it that the Republicans keep the senate control, satisfied with organization of the house.

Some of the western Republican independents and some of the Republican regulars are reported preparing an attempt to oust Senator Moses as president pro tem. Only a vote or two would be necessary to do the work.

Unwilling to vote for a Democrat as president pro tem, these Republicans are considering advancing the veteran, Wesley Jones, of Washington, as a third candidate.

Moses himself is indifferent.

The Moses row started when he referred to the western Republican independents who joined in a coalition with the Democrats as the "sons of the wild jackass."

Senator Pitman, of Nevada, the Democratic candidate for president pro tem, had lunch today with Senator Moses. Pittman said he didn't expect much support except from the Democrats.

"No gavel in the senate" was put forward jokingly by Pitman as his

League Evolves New Plan For Peace in Orient

This Proposal, However, Is Expected To Prove Unsatisfactory To China. "Real War" Looms.

Tokyo, Nov. 24—Real war might result if Chiang Kai Shek, president of China, went north to combine forces with Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria, it was said authoritatively here today.

Reports here indicated that the Chinese president planned to join forces with Manchuria for the purpose of marching into Manchuria.

In the event of his doing so, it was said such action might lead to a real war.

Reports in the official circle indicated Chaing Kai-Shek already was movng his troops norhward and had reached Honan.

A new proposal to deal with the Manchurian conflict was evolved yesterday in Paris.

It contained only a vague provision for the withdrawal of Japanese troops, and so was expected to prove unsatisfactory to China.

Dr. Alfred Sze, China's spokesman, telegraphed the proposal to his government after reaffirming to Aristide Briand, council chairman, China demands for prompt evacuation.

The Tokyo government instructed its Washington ampassador to reassure the United States that Japan had not violated the nine-power treaty, the Briand-Kellog Pact, or the covenant of the League of Nations.

The ambassador had informed Tokyo the United States was evidencing concern about Japanese military activity in the Ssitsihar region.

Tokyo showed renewed apprehension about reports of heavy Chinese troop concentration at Chinchow.

Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, Chinese commander who was driven out of Tsitsihar, turned up at Hailun. He was reported still to have 15,000 troops.

Dr. Vi-Kyuin Wellington Koo, who holds an honorary degree of doctors of laws from Yale University became China's foreign minister He declared his government would not approve any suggestion for Manchurian peace that did not provide for early evacuation of Japanese troops.

A Pieping dispatch to the London Daily Mail said Japanese troops were moving southward toward Chinchow with a view to crushing all political and military forces hostile to Japan.

Paris—A new proposal for a neutral commission of inquiry into the Manchurian conflict, with a vague provision for the withdrawal of Japanese troops, was telegraphed tonight to the Nanking government by Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations council.

Dr. Sze referred the plan to Nanking after a conversation with Aristide Briand, council chairman, in which he reaffirmed his demand for prompt evacuaton.

The new proposal is understood to deal with troop withdrawal on the basis of the council's unanimous resolution of September 30, which called for the retirement of the Japanese forces as security conditions justified.

The proposal also included a suggestion for some form of supervision by neutral observers of the evacuation movement and of the security of the Japanese nationals and their property.

In informed quarters tonight the impression was that if the United States gave notice of its willingness to participate in an international body to supervise evacuation and security, the council would incorporate such a plan in a resolution and the Chinese would accept it.

Such a settlement would provide a neutral commission of inquiry into China, as advocated by Japan, and a neutral commission of observers to make prompt evacuation possible, as demanded by China.

Nanking—Dr. ViKyuin Wellington Koo, former president of China, accepted the portfolio of foreign affairs today and immediately announced that any suggestion for Manchurian peace which did not provide for early evacuation by Japan would not be acceptable to the Chinese government.

Dr. Koo, a graduate of Columbia University, who has represented his nation on many important diplomatic missions and was awarded an honorary degree of doctors of law by Yale, succeeded to the place left vacant by the resgnation of C. T. Tang last September.

China, the new foreign minister said, is anxious to do its utmost to bring about a sttlement of the Manchurian conflict, but it will be useless to accept any terms that failed to give the nation real satisfaction.

Tsitsihar—Gen. Mah Chan-Shan Chinese commander who was driven out of Tsitsihar, has been definitely located at Hailun, where several civilian members of the former Tsitsihar government have joined him, possibly for the purpose of setting up a new Heilungkiang provincial government.

Chinese sources assert Gen. Mah still commands 15,000 troops, which are divided between Hailun and Paichuan. But it is regarded as unlikely that he will attempt to recapture Tsitsihar.

The Chinese general has spread his force out fanwise north of Tsitsihar and reports that he hopes to advance in case the Japanese withdraw.

EXHIBIT OF FINE PICTURES

All the famous schools of art represented in this great display of prints is an unusual opportunity for he people of Clanton and surrounding community.

An avenue of arts education is afforded in the exhibit of fine arts prints, which will be on display, Monday, November 30, through Friday, December 4, in the home economics room of the Chilton County High School. There will be a small admission fee of 10 cents, which will be used for the purchase of pictures for our school.

There are 150 large colored reproductions of the old and modern Masters. Among some of the most famous artists represented are: Titian, Gainsbourgh, Da Vinci, Terborch, Murillo VanDyck, Rapheal and many others. Some of the modern are: Ben Foster, Innes, Ernest Albert, Frank Duveneck, Gardner Symons, Bruce Crane Williams Wyatt, Henry Vincent, Robert Wesley Amick and Gustave Wiegand.

This is an opportunity not only for students to view the great masterpieces, but it is a chance to encourage them to appreciate the finer things of life. This display of pictures will bring to surface hidden qualities in our children. Let's make this display of pictures a success in our town this time. We can do it by all working together.

STAPP TO STAGE COUNTY-WIDE RAT CONTROL CAMPAIGN HERE

Early in December, Mr. Roy Moore of the United States Deparment of Agriculture will be in the County to Help Mr. Stapp and the Vocational teachers conduct a county-wide rat control campaign. The plan is to mix poisioned bait at one central point and on a specified date distribute it at the following points:

Clanton, Thorsby, Jemson, Cooper, Verbena, Isabella High School, Maplesville, Stanton. Mr. Moore advises that fifty cents worth of poisoned bait will be enough for the average farm. Farmers interested in the campaign are requested to get in touch with Mr. Stapp this week and make a deposit for their bait and give instructions as to their most convenient place to get it on the specified date.

Mr. Stapp states that the Jemison Town Council has already agreed to cooperate in the campaign, and that he hopes all of the Town councus will do likewise, as rats destroy annually, thousands of dollars worth of produce in the towns as well as in the country.

TO PARTIES INTERESTED

Notice is hereby given that the Bank of Verbena is voluntarily liquidating its affairs and all deposits will be paid on demand at the bank. No further deposits will be received. The undersigned has been appointed and qualified as liquidating agent.

MIDWAY YOUTH DIED IN WRECK

Brady Cooper, Jr., Instantly Killed Near Verbena Monday Night

Brady Cooper, Jr., age 19, of Midway, was killed instantly Monday night when the automobile in which he was riding with two companions turned over on a curve of a country road three miles west of Verbena.

Eugene Baldwin, of Mt. Creek, and John Barefield, of Marbury, Cooper's companions, were not seriously injured. They received only minor cuts and bruises.

The accident occured about 8:30 Monday night. The driver of the car failed to make the curve and the car plunged off an embankment. It was said that young Cooper, seeing that a wreck was inevitable, made an attempt to jump from the car. He was pinned beneath the car as it turned over against a bank. His head was crushed and he was killed instantly.

The Cooper youth is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brady Cooper, of Midway, one brother and two sisters. His father is the owner of the Midway Service Station on the highway a few miles north of Mt. Creek.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at Midway. Martin and Sons, funeral directors, of Clanton, were in charge of burial arrangements.

MRS. M. K. HAYNES DIED LAST WEEK

Death Takes Away Beloved And Well Known Lady Of Clanton

The death of Mrs. Mary Kate Haynes, age 79 years, occurred last Thursday at the home of her niece, Miss Kate Robbins, at Wetumpka. Death resulted from a short illness with pneumonia.

Mrs. Haynes was one of the oldest and most beloved citizens of Clanton. For several years past she had made her home here with her son, Samuel E. Welch. She had been visiting her niece in Wetumpka for several weeks. When she was stricken with pneumonia, she was preparing to return to the home of her son in Clanton.

Mrs. Haynes was a resident of Clanton for more than fifty years. She was a daughter of Mack and Sarah Wren. Her first husband was James A. Welch, who died in 1881 at the age of thirty years. Mr. and Mrs. Welch had one son, Samuel Elmer Welch, who is a well-known citizen of Clanton.

Her second marriage was to Mr. J. P. Haynes, who died several years ago.

The body of Mrs. Haynes was brought from Wetumpka to the home of her son in Clanton, where the funeral was conducted last Friday by Rev. Haskew, of the Methodist Church. Burial was at Clanton cemetery with Martin in charge.

Mrs. Haynes was for many years a faithful and devoted member of the Clanton Methodist Church. She was a good Christian woman who was universally loved by a wide circle of friends and neighbors.

POWER COMPANY WARNS AGAINST STOCK FRAUDS

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 30.—The Investment Department of Alabama Power Company has notified bankers, brokers and security dealers all over the State to the effect that two certificates of 50 shares each, No's. BK09300 and BK09955, respectively, of the $6.00 preferred stock of the company are in the hands of some unknown party who secured them by gross misrepresentation and fraud from their owner, Sam C. Bain, Helena Alabama.

The company also states that it has notified its transfer agent of this fraudulent transaction and has put a stop order on the transfer of the certificates. It is understood that Mr. Bain has sworn out warrants and every endeavor is being made to apprehend the party guilty of this gross deception and fraudulent practice. All employees of the company have been notified of this transaction and requested to warn all holders of the preferred stocks of the company against any such attempts to secure their stocks.

Mr. Lucien Duncan of Birmingham was a visitor here Sunday.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

A good lady was on her way to church last Sunday, and meeting a man with the morning paper in his hand she said: "Come and go to church with me." "I have got to go back to the house and help my wife cook dinner," replied the man. The woman knew that man was telling one. He was going home to read that daily. If all men in Clanton, who claim to be so good to their wives on Sunday would come to church, they would be better husbands during the week.

We made a good start for the new Conference year last Sunday. We had good crowds at all the services. Rev. E. C. Evans has been elected to teach the Mens Bible Class, and he is going to make it worth while to attend. We have many splendid teachers in our Sunday school. Come and bring the whole family.

Preaching at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. A warm welcome for all.

Indicted For Swindling Mountain Creek Farmer

Prattville Man Accused of Forging Endorsement to Check

Montgomery, Nov. 28.—An indictment charging forgery of an endorsement on a government seed loan check was returned by federal Grand Jury Saturday against Edward A. Northington, former vice president of the First National Bank of Prattville. Northington is now serving a four-year sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary in connection with failure of the bank.

The indictment charges Northington with forging the name of D. C. McCord, Mountain Creek farmer, to a government check for $78.77 and depositing it to the credit of the payee fourteen days prior to the failure of the bank. McCord said that he had never received "all or any part of the proceeds of the check."

Indictments were returned against 29 other persons by the Grand Jury which was discharged at noon by Judge C. B. Kennamer.

COTTON REPORT

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, announces the preliminary report on cotton ginned prior to November 14, by counties, in Alabama, for the crops of 1931 and 1930. The total for the State was made public Saturday, November 21.

The State, 1931, 1,314,841; 1930, 1,286,511; Chilton County, 1931, 18,893; 1930, 20,797.

Mr. H. T. Pipes is a scream as the Professor. Haven't you seen him in plays before? He is better in this than in any others.

WILL ACCEPT THE NEW JAIL HOUSE

Public is Invited to Attend Opening Occasion Next Tuesday

Acceptance of the new County Jail by the Commissioners of Chilton County has been made a special order of the Court for next Tuesday, December 8th, at ten o'clock, a.m. The public is invited to attend and go through the new building.

In an order relating to this matter Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds has the following to say:

"The Commissioners Court will accept the new jail at ten o'clock a.m., Tuesday, December 8th, 1931.

"We would like to have all parties who would be interested in seeing through the new building to meet with the Court at that time.

" We have spent the money of the people to build this new jail and we would be glad to have as many of the tax payers as possible to come and inspect the same."

The new Chilton County jail is perfection to the last minute in every detail of construction and arrangement. You will enjoy going through it and seeing everything.

If you ever expect to get in jail, this occasion next Tuesday is the best opportunity you will ever have. So we suggest that you accept the invitation of the Commissioners and come.

Rev. and Mrs. John R. Bean of Providence are visiting relatives in Birmngham ths week.

Something Is Fixing To Happen Soon

Considerable speculation was aroused here this week by the appearance around town and on the highways of posters, streamers and placards bearing the advice to "keep your eye on Chevrolet."

What this leading manufacturer plans in the way of follow-up to the preliminary announcement could not be learned from Mr. W. M. Polk of the Polk Brothers Motor Co., Inc., local Chevrolet dealers.

"Tell any of your readers interested," Mr. Wyatt, "to watch the next week's edition of your newspaper for any further details and to visit our showroom on Saturday of this week. I can't tell you any more just now.

"We have done a fine business during the past twelve months, and throughout the country the Chevrolet Six is leading every other make of car in registrations. Yet, good as that showing is, we expect to do better during the coming months. Just 'keep your eye on Chevrolet'," Mr. Polk concluded.

Fiftieth Annual Red Cross Roll Call

Mr. S. L. Gibson, of Verbena, Chilton County Chairman of the American Red Cross, calls attention of the public to the fact that the Fifteenth Annual Roll Call for membership in the Red Cross is now being made. All who can do so are urged to renew their memberships in the Red Cross. The present campaign will continue until the 15th of December, according to Mr. Gibson.

Mr. Gubson further points out that half of every dollar contributed to the Red Cross remains in Chilton County, to be used for local relief objects under supervision of the local Red Cross organization.

Mrs. J. Q. Wade has been designated as chairman of the Roll Call Committee for Clanton. Under her direction a systematic campaign will be conducted between now and December 15th, not only to renew the membership of those who have been members heretofore, but also to enlist new members of the Red Cross.

The following statement about the Red Cross, from Mr. Silas H. Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is impressive:

Every thoughtful citizen knows the inestimable value of the services of the American Red Cross, not only to our own citizens but to the world generally. It is the only agency so organized as effectively to relieve distress resulting from calamities which cannot be anticipated or averted but which may happen at any time or place. It has a long record of splendid achievement.

I am sure that all must realize that at this time, especially, the Red Cross must be liberally supported, in order that it may be prepared to carry on its splendid work.

I do not regard a membership in the Red Cross as a charitable gift. It is the discharge of a patriotic duty which one owes to the less fortunate.

Watch Out For Punch Board Schemers And Fake Bill Collectors

Information has come to us that certain country stores in Chilton County have recently fallen victims to schemes to defraud them out of money. One of the instances was a punch board scheme. The other was some fellows who posed as bill collectors.

It is said that a man entered a country store offering punch boards for sale. The store owner appeared uninterested, but was finally persuaded by the slick-tongued transient and bought the board. In a few minutes an automobile drove up to the place for gasoline. The two men in the car got interested in the punch board.

They punched several times and the store owner was winner of about fifteen dollars. The strangers moved their punching over to another section of the board, and it only took about three punches for them to get thirty-one dollars out of the store keeper. They promptly got in their car and drove away.

The instance of the bill collectors is reported about like this: A couple of strangers stopped at a country store not far from Clanton and told the proprietor they were bill collectors. Of course the storekeeper, like all store-keepers these days, had some accounts he would like very much to have collected. The strangers took a list of them and said if they didn't collect them in thirty days, they would pay the accounts themselves. This, of course, made the store-keeper feel like Sandy Claws or some other good Samaritan had paid him a visit.

But just as he was feeling good over his good luck, the strangers further unfolded their wonderful story by telling the store-keeper that it would cost him twelve dollars to get the collecting done. He scratched his head, made a few mental calculations, and decided that would be all right. It would be worth twelve dollars to get the cash on those accounts, and he couldn't fail to get them paid, because these good men had said they would pay the accounts themselves if the debtors didn't pay.

But there was still another paragraph in the story of the strangers. It would take some money for them to get their scheme to start working. It would be necessary for the store-keeper to pay them five of the twelve dollar commission in advance. The store-keeper scratched his head and calculated some more. He was so elated over the beautiful picture of getting all those old accounts turned into cash that he failed to guess that there might be a crook in the scheme. He took a chance. He gave the strangers the five dollars. They departed and the store-keeper has not seen or heard of them since.

There is a moral to this story. It never pays to bet on the other man's trick. There is no place in this world where you can get something for nothing. This brings to mind the story by Roe Fulkerson about the freckle face man with the polka dot tie at the old fashioned county fair.

Ford No. Twenty Million Coming Here

The twenty-millionth Ford car, symbolic of one man's contribution to world history and the development of American industry, will visit Clanton, enroute from Detroit on a Southern tour.

Assembled in the presence of Henry and Edsel Ford, the twenty-millionth Ford left the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant in Dearborn, Michigan, on April 14.

Following the brief ceremonies at the final assembly line, and with Henry Ford at the wheel, the car was driven to Mr. Ford's home several miles away, where its meeting with the first Ford produced in 1893 was recorded for future generations in motion pictures.

Now expected to arrive in Clanton at about 10:30 o'clock next Tuesday December 8th, the twenty-millionth Ford will be met at the city limits and escorted to Clanton Motors, where it will be placed on exhibition for 30 minutes before resuming its tour. Mr. T. J. Littlejohn invites everybody to come and witness the presentation of this car.

Its tour of the country completed, the Twenty-Millionth Ford will be returned to Grennfield Village for preservation near the first Ford, the "gasoline buggy" in which Henry Ford astounded his neighbors and demoralized horse traffic when he chugged noisily through Detroit's cobbled streets at the dizzy speed of nearly 20 miles an hour.

The first Ford, built in 1893 and one of the first three automobiles the world had ever seen, odd, indeed, by comparison with its 1931 descendant resembled a buggy mounted on bicycle wheels and its little two cylinder engine boasted four horsepower. Its gasoline tank held three gallons and its uncomfortable seat held two people. Mr. Ford was given a verbal permit by the mayor, thus becoming the world's first licensed chauffeur.

Such was the precursor of the long line of Fords that have since revolutionized the automobile industry, made the automobile a common-place within the reach of almost every family and tremendously aided the development of good roads systems everywhere.

You'll like Uncle Jimmie, the wealthy bachelor, in "That's One On Bill" at the High School auditorium Friday night, December 4.

LOW PRICES AT HILL STORE

When a fellow looks at the prices of flour these days, he is made to recollect the olden times when our daddies used to come to town and bring back a big wooden barrel of flour that cost only about three dollars and a half.

Mr. J. W. McEathern, of Hill Grocery Company, said this week that Hill's was bringing the price of flour down to match the low price of wheat. By reading his advertisement, you will find that you can now have biscuit at a mighty small cost per barrel.

What about Christmas? was asked of Mr. McEathern. He said it is a little early to begin pushing Christmas things forward, but you can rest assured that Hill's will be on the job when the time comes. "We already have a whole truck load of candy on hand for Christmas, and to this we will add many other special items in the next few days. Then too, our regular lines of popular foods will be here at low prices. Hill is going to do everything we can to make our customers have a happy Christmas."

G. O. P. Nominates Mr. Snell For House Speaker

Row Goes On With Tilson Still Claiming Floor Leadership

Washington, No. 30—Representative Snell, New York, emerged from the bitterest House Republican row in years Monday night with the party's nomination for the speakership but no assurance he had won the prize he actually was seeking.

With the Democrats in a position to organize the chamber, his goal was the floor leadership of the party, claimed by Representative Tilson, Connecticut, his principal opponent in Monday's contest for the speakership.

Tilson was chosen for the post when the party renominated the late Nicholas Longwarth as speaker last February. He claims this decision still stands, whether or not the party succeeds in electing Snell to the speakership when Congress convenes next Monday.

Snell contends that if the Democrats win on organization, he will become floor leader automatically by virtue of his nomination for the speakership.

Monday's party conference attempted to straighten out the snarl in which the question is entangled but after much debate deffered a final decision until after Congress convenes.

FOOT BALL GAME HERE FRIDAY P.M.

Fire Fighters will Play Against Team Picked from The Town

A foot ball game that promises to be one of the most thrilling sports events of the season is scheduled to come off on Friday afternoon of this week at the High School Field. Two strong and evenly matched teams will go against each other with all the power that can be mustered.

The city fire fighters compose one of the units. Their team will be made up of the following: Doodle Gore, Red Wagoner, Milton Smith, Rufus Brown, Earle Gore, Arthur Broadhead, J. E. Easterling, Wilbur Scarbrough, Shux Clackler, Courtland Retherford, Eddie Wyatt, Luther Culpepper, Webb Parrish and Sleepy Miller.

The oposing team is composed of a group of shock troops picked from the town, as follows: Bull Ray, George Johnston, Pete Sanford, Jim Wade, Joe Hester, Booty Grant, Hoyt Reynolds, Broadway Smith, Dooney Wagoner, and others.

The boys have practicing for the past two weeks, and they say they have concocted some plays and performances that will take the breath out of the spectators as well as the opposing eleven.

Proceeds of this event will be used to swell the treasury of the fireman's fund for buying much needed additional fire fighting equipment. The people of the town can well afford to help out in this worthy cause, and it is hoped that everybody will show their appreciation of the valiant fire fighters by turning out to the game. It is going to be a lot of fun.

OH, PROFESSOR! BY PILOT CLUB

Play will be Staged at Wade's Theatre Tuesday Night December 8th

The Clanton Pilot Club is staging "Oh! Professor" to obtain funds with which to assist in their program of helping to feed undernourished children at the Clanton Grammar School.

"Oh! Professor" is a 1931 Wayne P. Sewell play and offers to be one of the best of its kind. It is really better than "Here Comes Arabelle," "The Flapper Grandmother," "Cupid Up-To-Date," and "Miss Blue Bonnet." Clanton and Chilton County people recall with pleasure those plays of Wayne P. Sewell, and will enjoy "Oh! Professor." It will be a real treat as one of the best of Wayne P. Sewell's coaches is staging the play with a splendid cast, and choruses.

You will really miss something great if you should fail to see Mr. H. T. Pipes as the professor and Leon Mullins as Steve. Alma Robinson Huddleston is wonderful as Willimenhea. If you haven't seen Amy Callen's brother, Alec Callen, as a Chinaman, you have just lost that much of life.

Jane Pitts as Avonelle is really playing her part as Mrs. Bunboard's daughter and getting people into trouble. Just see Izora Alred as Mrs. Bunboard and chasing the Professor. That's not all, there are others equally as good.

SENIOR PLAY ON FRIDAY NIGHT 4

"That's One on Bill" Will Be Shown at County High School Friday Night

The Senior Class of C. C. H. S. will present a three act comedy, "That's One On Bill," at the High School auditorium Friday, December 4, at 7:30 p. m.

Herman Harris plays the role of Uncle Jimmie, who is very wealthy and has promised to leave part of his fortune to his nephew, Bill Hailey, if he will marry as instructed, and part to Battling Bennie Bozo if Bennie remains unmarried. Charlsie Pyron plays the part of Bill's sister, Lil, who seeks to have her brother marry Mab, Ethel Mae Jones, and plans to make him tired of his romantic desire for a motion picture bride. Lil gets her school friend, Patricia, to visit their home in guise of a motion picture star. Jane Roberts, as Patricia Pansey La Gloria, loses little time in ensnaring the hearts of all the boys in the neighborhood, and Bill even steals money from his Uncle Jimmie's trunks to make an impression on the "Movie Queen." Erle Ellis plays the part of Harry Dover, who is engaged to Lil. Leroy Martin as Ned Collins, who always knows a good joke, and Sallye Mahan, the maid, supply the comedy.

The proceeds of this play will go for an electric clock, which the Senior Class is leaving as a memorial to the school. Admission will be 25 and 35 cents.

80TH BIRTHDAY OF ELIJAH JONES, NOVEMBER 25TH

A huge gathering of children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Jones assembled at their home north of Clanton last Wednesday, November 25th in celebration of the 80th birthday of Mr. Jones.

The gathering included members of the families of Robert Jones, Rube Jones, F. A. Ellison, and J. M. Willis.

Those who came brought with them a basket of good things to eat. At noon time the dinner was spread on a long table in front of the Jones home, and everybody enjoyed themselves fully.

It was an occasion of much pleasure to the aged couple to have the visitors with them on this occasion.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

The University of Alabama male glee club, accompanied by Director Tom Garner, will begin its annual winter tour Tuesday, December 1, appearing at York. The remainder of the schedule is: December 2, Ellisville, Miss.; December 2, Laurel, Miss.; December 3, Thomasville; December 4, Uniontown; December 5, Judson College, Marion.

The Crimson-White, student newspaper at the University of Alabama, represented by Editor in Chief, Elwood Richardson, Birmingham, was elected to the vice-presidency of the National College Press Association at the annual convention held in Lexington, Kentucky, during the past week end.

Dr. C. H. Barnwell, dean of the college of arts and sciences; Dr John R. McLure, director of summer school; and Dr. Gladstone Yeuell, professor of secondary education; University of Alabama, will attend the annual meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary schools of the Southern states at Montgomery, December 1st to 4th.

An appropriation for aid in research has been granted the University of Alabama by the National Research Council. The grant was made to Dr. B. P. Kaufman, head of the department of botany, and it will be used in the continuation of Dr. Kaufman's work in heredity.

A study of the enrollment in the University of Alabama Summer School for the past six years reveals the fact that the registration in the 1931 summer school showed an increase of 87 per cent over the enrollment for the summer school of 1926, the first of the six summer schools investigated.

Helen really has a splendid voice and is mighty pretty in "Oh! Professor."

RESOLUTION

Silently, ruthlessly, death moves among us. It is with sadness that we report the death of one of our charter members, Brother D. H. Gentry.

Brother Gentry was faithful to the last, and always ready and willing to do his part in any Eastern Star duties.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Thorsby Chapter No. 154, order of the Eastern Star express their sorrow in the loss of their faithful member.

Be it further resolved that our chapter express our brotherly and sisterly love and sincere sympathy to our sister, Mrs. D. H. Gentry, in her bereavement.

Be it resolved, further, that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of the county papers, a copy be sent to Mrs. Gentry, and a copy placed on file in our chapter.—Chas. H. Peterson, Clara Vines, Lummie Wilson, Committee.

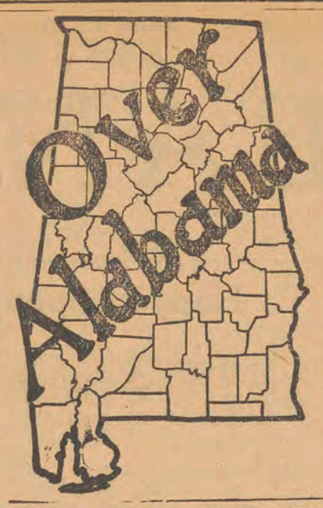
AN IDEAL GIFT FOR THE BOY

What glorious adventures boys between the ages of ten and twenty have reading The American Boy—Youth's Companion! As if by magic, this well-known magazine carries boys to distant parts of the world, introduces them to strange people, lets them experience queer customs and revel in the adventures of foreign lands.

In a single issue, a boy will battle the frozen Northland with sled and dog team, cross Indian-haunted plains in a prairie schooner, zoom over war-torn lands in an army plane or on dangerous routes with a U. S. mail pilot, hunt wild animals in Africa atop the swaying back or an elephant, go cruising in a battleship, fight Arab raiders with the Foreign Legion and participate in many other thrilling experiences that come to readers of The American Boy—Youth's Companion.



It is such experineces as these that sharpen a boy's wits, kindle his imagination, strengthen his character, develop his understanding of the world in which he lives and of the people that inhabit it. Here, indeed, is the ideal gift for that boy in whom you are interested—that son, nephew, cousin, neighbor, or, perhaps, the son of a business associate. An attractive gift card bearing your name will be sent to the boy if you request it with your order. Then every time the mailman brings the magazine to his door, the boy will think of you gratefully.

Subscription prices are only $2.00 for one year and $3.00 for three years. Mail your order direct to The American Boy—Youth's Companion, 550 W. Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. Service on your subscription will start with whichever issue you specify.

STATE NEWS PARAGRAPHED

A Resume Of The More Important Events Of Interest Condensed To An Epitomized Form

The Wilson Literary Society has been organized by students of Lamar County High School, Vernon.

Ernest and Euell White entered pleas of guilty in federal court at Opelika to a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Celebrating his 78th birthday with a hunting trip, L. D. Jones of Dadeville was instantly killed when his auto struck a parked truck.

Petitions urging improvement of the Birmingham-Gadsden highway were signed by many Gadsden merchants at a luncheon in Gadsden.

A verdict of death from drowning was returned at Wetumpka by a coroner's jury investigating discovery of the body of Homer Jones, 55, in Lake Jordan.

Eleven whisky stills were destroyed and 4,250 gallons of mash poured out by the dozen federal prohibition agents working in northern Alabama recently.

Thomas E. Knight, Sr., presiding judge of the fourth judicial circuit, has been appointed by Gov. B. M. Miller as an associate justice of the supreme court .

Dr. J. A. Collins, Jefferson county physician, pronounced Willie Peterson, negro, physically fit to stand trial December 7 for the murder of Miss Augusta Williams.

Gov. B. M. Miller refused to call the Alabama legislature in session for the purpose of considering legislation which would reduce the cotton acreage of Alabama in 1932 and 1933.

Judge Patrick McArthur Dannelly, 60, of Camden, Ala., died from injuries received when the auto in which he was riding crashed into the rear of a cattle truck on the Mobile Road.

The Alabama Federation of Labor called upon Governor Miller to keep unemployed "floaters" from other states out of Alabama as long as the present unemployment situation exists.

Standing erect, his outstretched hands clutching the underwater growth about him, the body of Homer Jones, 55, of the Lebanon community, was found in Jordan Lake, above Lock 18.

Twenty-four members of the male glee club of the University of Alabama, accompanied by Tom Garner, director, will inaugurate the glee club's winter tour Dec. 1 with a concert at York.

NEW SALEM NEWS

Will you allow me space to say a few words in regards to our B.Y.P.U. work that is being carried on at this place. It is progressing nicely. We have a little contest started in the advanced department which is proving very successful. The class is divided into two groups, the reds and blues. The side enlisting the most numbers will be given a social at the close of the contest.

The outstanding purpose of the move is to draw new members to our B. Y. P. U. and get them interested in the work. First you have to get them there before you can show them the real value of the work. Having on roll 27 in this particular class, 25 were present last Sunday night.

The reds have 13. We envite new members to come and join us regardless of color you might choose, because the worthwhile point in view is to accomplish the most good from this work. Also in connection with our B. Y. P. U. there will be preaching each and everyone has a cordial ing next Sunday and Sunday night. We envite you to come and be with invitation.—Grady Minor.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors in Clanton for the kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of our mother, Mrs. M. K. Haynes.—Samuel E. Welch and family.

TACKY PARTY THURSDAY NIGHT DECEMBER 3RD

The Home Makers Class of the Clanton Baptist Sunday School will have a tacky party next Thursday night, December 3, at the home of Mrs. Lee Smith.

Those who come dressed tacky will be admitted for ten cents. Otherwise the price of admission will be 25 cents. All members of the class are urged to come and bring their friends.

Refreshments will be served, and a prize will be given to the tackiest grown person and to the tackiest child.

OVER ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS for Wages Materials and Properties

DURING the last 10 years additions have been made to properties in the amount of $120,316,675.50, including power plants, transmission lines, substations, distribution systems and other facilities. This money has gone mainly into wages and materials—has furnished employment—to supply electric service in Alabama. Keeping pace with the growth of Alabama and its industries—to bring dependable electric service to hundreds of towns and villages and to thousands of farms.

Twelve million dollars represents the average yearly amount of additions and betterments for the 10 year period.

This Company has never curtailed its service to any customer nor failed to meet any power demand placed upon it. Its service is available to 66 of 67 counties of the State, and, under the orders of Alabama Public Service Commission power rates have become uniform throughout the territory. Thus the smallest community served is given equal opportunity to compete with the largest city for the location of new industries in so far as the rates for power are concerned.

NATION'S FINANCE STANDS TEST WELL

Economic Policy Commission of Bankers Association Points Out How 22,000 Banks Protect Public Interest

OVER 22,000 banks all over the United States are "quietly and efficiently serving their communities, helping tide many business enterprises over their difficulties, helping many concerns to earn money, helping create the economic activities that mean payrolls and spending power in their zones of influence, and faithfully keeping guard over the working capital and savings funds of their depositors," the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association says in a recent survey, adding:

"It surely stands strikingly to the credit of the banking profession that, during a period of unparalleled international economic depression, this vast majority of bankers have so competently, so courageously and so successfully met their difficulties and obligations. The effects of the drought, the demoralization of agriculture, the stagnation of industry, the breakdown of trade, the inability of so many heretofore desirable customers to meet their obligations to the banks, the impairment of public confidence by mob-scares and false rumors resulting in unreasoning runs, the abnormal depreciation of quoted security values even in the most wisely conceived investment accounts, the utter collapse of real estate values—all these things have occurred on a nationwide and worldwide scale with unprecedented severity.

"The effects of every one of them have assailed the banks with destructive forces because they are of the very essence of a bank's economic substance. Yet, as we have shown, the great bulk of our banking deposits has been protected without harm, and our banks in a vast majority have continued to serve, support and strengthen their customers and their communities with unflagging and unconquered devotion."

By ROME C. STEPHENSON

Former President American Bankers Association.

THE most constructive action that can be taken toward bringing about greater stability in our business life is the development of a more balanced attitude in the minds of all of our people in regard to the right relationship between saving and spending. There is more practical, workable economics in the sentence: Save during prosperity so as to be able to spend during depression: than in a whole library full of charts and tables and books on political economy.

R. C. STEPHENSON

I do not believe it is an impracticable dream to bring about an era of more intelligent saving and spending on the part of our people. It is not impossible to change the habits of the population. It has been done in many lines. The habits of our people have been improved and the health of the nation promoted in many ways by consistent programs of advertising and education that have brought about better hygienic understanding and practices.

The medical profession has virtually banished the scourge of some diseases by persistent, intelligent campaigns of preventive sanitary measures and inoculations, requiring new understandings, new habits among many millions of our people. Also a large part of this evolution of public health improvement has naturally developed through the intelligent advertising of many products that have to do with bodily care. I refer to the manufacturers and distributers of such things as more healthful shoes, more effective toothbrushes, food products with more wholesome values of nutrition and countless other practical ideas that have become commonplaces of our daily business life,—and that have become a part, too, of the very texture of the personal habits and health of great masses of our people.

If it has been good advertising and good business for so many of our national producers to spend millions of dollars thus to inculcate new habits of personal hygiene and personal care, is it not good business and good advertising for our banking interests to lay similar stress during the next period of prosperity upon better financial habits and customs of our people?

Bankers above all are interested in stable, wholesome business. They have much to gain by a state of sound financial health among the people, and most to lose by epidemics of economic maladies such as have swept the country during the past two years.

The twenty millionth Ford car, symbolic of one man's contribution to world history, and development of American industry, will visit

CLANTON

Enroute from Detroit on a transcontinental tour. During its visit here it will be displayed at

Clanton Motors
Tuesday, Dec. 8---10:30 A. M.

During which an official welcoming committee will greet the car on behalf of this community. Motion pictures of the event will be made

Contemplation of what production of 20,000,000 automobiles means may be easier if it is realized that an area as large as the District of Columbia would be required to park them, and, if placed bumper to bumper, they would girdle the earth at the equator nearly twice. Its tour of the country completed, the Twenty Millionth Ford will be returned to Greenfield Village at Dearbon for preservation near the first Ford car built in 1893

You are invited to see the Twenty Millionth Ford, and to participate in the welcoming ceremonies

BUILD COOPERATIVES, AND BUILD WELL—

In the September October issue of the Co-operative Marketing Journal, Robin Hood writes: "By edict of Congress, by decree of the courts, and by statements from the White House, the government stands as a hearty endorser of agricultural cooperation. Every farmers' organization sponsors it. Educational authorities favor it. Commercial, industrial and banking leaders time and again are reiterating their good words for it.

"Psychological and economic conditions were never more favorable for further expansion of the cooperative principle than they are now. Let us take full advantage of the opportunity, not only to build cooperative structures but to build well."

Even if the high authorities cited were not in favor of cooperatives, common sense on the part of the farmer himself should lead to their formation and development. The time is long past when the lone farmer could market his wares on his own hook and get a fair price. He must meet modern conditions with modern tools.

He must learn that he must coopertae in times of prosperity, as pell as in times of depression. In short, cooperation must become as much a commonplace in the life of the farm as the plow or the tractor.

There is one phase in Mr. Hood's remarks that will bear accent—"Build Well." A weak cooperative is as bad as no cooperative at all. Loyalty, real cooperation among individuals, and forceful development are needed to create a cooperative system that will weather the agricultural tides.

Maybe if Columbus had known what kind of a fix this country was going to get in eventually, he would have turned around and started back home before he sighted land.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

As the session of Congress approaches, it becomes more and more evident that the national legislators this winter will spend most of their time wrestling with problems of economy and of revenue. For as the fiscal year grows older it is clear that there will be a sizeable deficit at the end of the government's official twelve month period.

A few months ago it was the commonly accepted opinion that this new Congress because of its almost equal division would "run away with itself," so to speak. It was predicted that all sorts of unsound legislation, ranging from ideas of government operation, huge appropriations for unemployment relief, to the dole would be proposed, and possibly forced through Congress. But now there has been a change of public opinion, to an extent at least. It is not to be denied that bills calling for patneralistic legislation will be introduced, but those in touch with the situation are now more of the opinion that most of this legislation will die in its infancy.

There are several reasons. In the first place, President Hoover and the leaders of his administration in Congress will stand squarely opposed to unsound legislation of any sort, just as they have stood opposed to such legislation since Mr. Hoover's administration was inaugurated. And again the general public, which includes the voters, is coming to realize that we have been going through a serious depression and that we will not recover fully from it until economy takes the place of extravagance, in governmental expenditures as well as in private budgets. It is just as absurd to demand that the government embark in all sorts of wild extravagances during critical times as it would be to demand that the ordinary citizen throw away his money and incur new debts in an effort to restore normal times. Everyone who has studied the question knows that it cannot be done that way, and that the government will have to balance its budget in order to meet conditions as they are.

Then again, it is now considered likely that there will be tax revision during the coming session of Congress. It is now generally agreed that the depression is a major one and that the government cannot go on borrowing money and anticipating the future while rolling up huge deficits each quarter. The only remedy at hand, therefore, is an upward revision of taxes, or the imposition of new kinds of taxes. Now taxation is not a popular subject, either with legislators or the taxpayers themselves. Nobody likes to see taxes raised. And during a period when Congress is under the painful necessity of raising taxes to take care of present and past expenditures, it is not going to be a popular pasttime to try to create new ways of spending money and new deficits which in the future will have to be made up with higher taxation.

Therefore, because of the President's stand, because of the general realization of the real governmental financial condition, and because of the public's tax consciousness at this time, schemes for appropriating huge sums of money for more or less illusory ways of "curing the depression" are not going to be as popular as they bade fair to be a year ago. The average legislator keeps his ear to the ground and senses the change in public opinion about as quickly as anyone. And public opinion being what it is today, the aforesaid legislator is going to be a little more careful about the way he votes for legislation which will have a tendency to create new deficits.

Certainly there never was a time in the history of the country which called for more careful, conservative legislation on economic matters than the present. If we are to restore prosperity—and everyone believes that it will be restored sooner or later—we will have to get down to "brass tacks" nationally as well as individually. Nothing would restore confidence quicker in the United States than the return of Uncle Sam to a balanced budget.

THE AMERICAN LEGION FIGHTS FIRE—

Some time ago the California Branch of the American Legion adopted a resolution in support of fire prevention campaigns, and determined to present it to the meeting of the naional Legion at Detroit. This was done, with the result that the Legion, as a whole, has adopted fire prevention as one of its major activities. In its resolution it pointed out that the waste of both life and property by fire is largely preventable, and that it constitutes a menace to the community.

The resolution should produce good fruit—both in the work that the Legionaires will do, and in the example it affords. It is an example that should be followed by every other organization of prominence and influence.

The time is coming when we will regard the person whose carelessness causes a fire as much a danger to society as the person whose recklessness on the highway results in the death of others. There is no such thing as an "individual fire." Every blaze means interrupted work, loss of employment and taxes—unnecessary destruction. To fight fire should be a patriotic duty of every citizen.

Power—A report from the Graf Zeppelin on its recent Arctic flight said: "We made another discovery, too. On Taimyr Peninsula we 'picked up' a mountain range which heretofore has been unknown." The Graf Zeppelin is a mighty shop.—Sioux Falls Daily Argus-Leader.

The way everything is twisted all over the world leads to the suggestion that the League of Nations adopt the pretzel as its emblem.

THE CINDER PILE

(By The Sweeper)

It's a fact! Yes, sir, we are right back on the old job again after several weeks vacation during which time we have been getting our nerve up to the point where we could come out from behind our non-de-plume and let you folks know just who has been responsible for the spasms which have been appearing under this head in the past. If we have had anything to say in the past that was of interest to you, we are sincerely grateful for such interest and at the same time wish to say that we are hopeful of continuing to hold your interest in our humble efforts to discuss timely subjects, and heartily invite your criticisms.

While "The Man on the Corner" keeps an eye on the things which pass that way, and "The Man in the Moon" looks down upon the whole situation like the wise old guy that he is, we will try to call your attention to some of the things which we think are timely and to the point.

And right here at the beginning I want to ask what has become of my friend "Bill" from out on Route 7? Haven't heard anything from him in some time. Come on back Bill, you may be missing something.

Looks as though it is almost going to be a pleasure to get in jail in Chilton County before long. Our new jail is certainly beginning to look mighty fine—all dressed up in solid white. You know Clanton came very close to being the capital city of Alabama one time, but now we have a "White House" anyway, even though it is the jail. There has been considerable delay in the construction of the building owing to hold-up on material, and although the contract time his expired on the job, Superintendent Gilbert says he intends to eat Christmas dinner in the jail yard. Bet you Mr. Gillespie is going to be right proud of his new HOTEL.

We are indeed glad to note the manner in which the people are cooperating with Chief Hardy in eliminating the "jay walk" hazard. This is a dangerous practice and should not be indulged in by anyone. If you just must cross the street between corners, cross at the alley and at right-angle. This induces the danger to some extent, but it is safest to go to the corner at all times.

The writer attended the services at the local Baptist Church recently, at which time Dr. L. E. Barton was the speaker. Dr. Barton's remarks were directed toward an explanation of the importance of finances and their place and relation to the church program. This was in connection with the "Every Member Campaign" which is running this week. Naturally Dr. Barton's remarks were intended to rouse Baptists to their financial duty in the church, but any member of any other denomination who heard this able speaker would do well to take his message home and be benefitted thereby.

And while we are on the church subject we would like to say that doubtless every one concerned in Clanton and Lay Dam and Isabella communities will be pleased to know that Bishop Ainsworth deemed it wise to return Dr. D. W. Haskew to the pastorate of these communities for another year. We are indeed glad to have you return to us again, Dr. Haskew.

The tourist traffic going south through Clanton would certainly indicate that somebody down about Florida is going to have some business this winter, even if no one but the groceryman. Wonder where those people get the money they are spending for such trips these days. And while the tourists are headed for Florida, Clanton comes in for considerable attention. Just take a look at the cars parked along the curb on Seventh Street most anytime during the day and you will find a number of cars from other states. We are always glad to have visitors stop and look us over, and incidentally spend their money with our merchants.

Just a few glimpses of our business men—"Sweet William" explaining his big sale to some prospective customers—Cohen Stapp telling a farmer something, it has to be good if Cohen tells 'em.—J. D. Collins running down the sidewalk with a handful of real money.—Wonder if he has robbed a bank or sumpin'.—Lloyd Crowson makes a strike at the bowling alley and wins a game.—Hubert Farley in a hurry—bet somebody's radio is on the bum and they can't hear Amos n' Andy.—Wonder what's happened to the marathon pool game at Jone's Place?—Dief looking for somebody t otalk strawberries to.—John Page chinning with a farmer—bet he wants to collect a loan, or maybe the farmer wants to renew it.—Judge Reynolds headed for his pig sty,—but just too much stirring around to see it all, so will stop.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Back On The Job

Well, here I am, back in my old haunts again, folks, "lookin' 'em over" as usual. The past two weeks I have been down to Opelika, listening to the fellows from down about Phoenix City tell about their big liquor operations. And what a whale of a game they must have made of it. Imagine finding 5,244 quarts of liquor in one man's basement, and 6,600 bottles of home brew in another building. No pikers in that—they go into things in a big way. And now on my way to see what I can see.

We're Gonna Have It

Yes, sir, that's just right, we're gonna have it—the Fireman's Fund Football Frolic, next Friday afternoon at the High School's field. The Firemen will organize a team to tie up with a team picked from the football followers of the town. And what a game that ought to be. The Firemen's team will be composed of Courtland Retherford, Wilbur Scarbrough, "Sleepy" Miller, and others, and coached by none other than "Vic" Heard himself. "Vic" said he didn't see how he could get away to spend the time coaching this team for the paltry $75,000 offered him, whereupon Mr. M. B. (Bill) Arant came through and told 'em to let the deal go on if only $25,000 was needed to keep "Vic" on the job. So you see what a really big affair this is expected to be. "On with the game, and let the fun be unrestrained" seems to be the motto.

There'll Be No More Rain

Rambling around this morning, I just heard a guy bemoan the fact that he didn't believe there ever would be any more rain. He said that every sign he had ever noticed had failed. Now, just for comfort, I want to let that fellow in on a little secret. There will soon be rain and plenty of it. Want to know how I know? All right. I saw the road machines go out this morning, and that's the surest sign of a generous down-pour that I can think of at present.

No Freeze Yet

Why is it—time was when by this time, the last of November, there would be several freezes, with the ground all spewed up, water pipes bursted, and such. But not any more. This year, so far, there has been not enough cool weather to save meat. What if we go through without a freeze? To tell the truth, I'm about to come to the conclusion that the weather management has passed into the hands of the "Shoats Union" or something to that effect.

Getting Curious

They say "Curiosity killed a cat," but, just the same, I'd like to know what Polk Brothers, local Chevrolet dealers, have all hidden away to spring on an unsuspecting public in the near future. Their front is all covered with cards and posters bearing big question marks. Something big, Chevroletically speaking, I suppose. And yet one fellow thinks maybe all those question marks mean that you will have to guess what it is when the lid is removed and all are allowed to take a look at whatever they have tucked away. I don't believe that, though. My guess is that there will be plenty to see. New, 1932 Chevrolets, 'Nuf sed!

My Big Hunt

A man has just called me up and invited me to go deer hunting with him in South Alabama. Now, I don't know whether I'll kill a deer or not, and I don't know whether I'll get a shot at one or not, but opportunity beckons. It's what I'd call my big chance. I've always wanted to try my hand in such a hunt. So, here goes. I'LL TELL YOU ALL ABOUT IT NEXT WEEK!—Man in the Moon.

In the business and economic world just now our go-getters of a few years ago seem to have turned into come-quitters.

JUST FROM SHOULTS—

Cap shore is one sight. He has been chawing de rag for two weeks about dis here pression business. Looks to me lack de more he chaws de more he has to chaw.

Tother day when us waz restin he say Remus, I shore has had a hard time figgerin out dis pression questun. Bot I got it all hemmed up on one nut shell at last. I say what is it, Cap? He say I mean de cause of it.

He say de fust place war prices lack to ruint de folks. Den de folks done lost confidence in each other. Den dey went to buying cars and running into holes. He say dey will be a long time gittin out of some of dem holes. Den he say folks been livin too fast til now dey got to where dey can't hardly live at all.

Bout dat time Ole Miss come shufflin round de corner where us wuz settin at and she say what you good fer nuthin one-gallus rascals doin settin here wastin time for anyhow. Cap, he up and say we's figgerin on depression. Ole Miss say you better be figgerin on sumpin to eat.

Cap laugh and say Remus, as I wuz fixin to tell you, to put the whole thing in one nut shell, sin is de cause of de whole thing. I say Cap, give us a remedy. He say Remus, dey is jest one remidy. We has got to eat what we raise, and raise what we eat.

Cap shore is one sight. I don't never know what he will do next. Fust thing you know long about next spring, he is liable to git all bogged up in pollyticks.—Uncle Remus.

The way those Japs and Russians refrain from attacking one another, but take it out in shadow boxing, gives rise to the suspicion that they may have an agreement among themselves back in the bushes somewhere.

The trouble with China is lack of national spirit. And yet there are a lot of pacifists in America who would like to destroy the national spirit in this country.

"Of course no one quality makes a good citizen, and no one quality will save a nation. But there are certain great qualities for the lack of which no amount of intellectual brillance or of material prosperity of easiness of life can atone, and which show decadence and corruption in the nation, just as much if they are produced by selfishness, and ease-loving laziness among comparatively poor peoples as if they are produced by vicious or frivolous luxury in the rich. If the men of the nation are not anxious to work in many different ways, with all their strength, and able and ready to fight at need, and anxious to be fathers of families, and if the women do not recognize that the greatest thing for any woman is to be a good wife and mother, why, that nation has cause to be concerned about the future."—Theodore Roosevelt.

SOMETHING WORTH KNOWING—

During the last calendar year the people of America received more than $2,642,000,000 from life insurance policies—nearly half a billion more than in the preceding year.

The assets of the legal reserve life insurance companies passed the twenty-billion mark.

The institution of life insurance is sometimes criticized because of this apparent tremendous accumulation of wealth in the hands of the companies. What is not always understood is that this wealth is held for but one purpose: to preserve it for distribution to policyholders—which includes almost every family. It will be distributed in amounts, on the average, of less than $1,000 per individual.

These assets mean security for millions of people. Then mean savings and investments of workers. They assure that life insurance is safe beyond the shadow of a doubt.

In this time of depression many of us for the first time have found the true value of a life insurance policy. The worth is the same today as when it was purchased—stock market declines do not affect it. Its borrowing privileges are unimpaired—and use of such privileges have undoubtedly saved many families from misery when jobs have been lost or other forms of savings wiped out.

It is a common thing to think of life insurance as the protection for wives and children and relatives when we die. But it is much more than that. It is a rock which plays a great part in upholding the structure of civilization as we know it today.

A CHALLENGE—

The recent congress of the National Safety Council was opened with a written admonition from President Hoover that our 33,000 deaths due to automobiles "is a challenge to the efforts of the safety organizations and the cooperation of every motor vehicle operator."

It is good to hear that from a high source. There is no more tragic phase to our life today than the needless and wanton destruction of life on the public highways. There is no work of greater value than that of the safety organizations which are laboring to prevent carelessness and recklessness.

During the National Safety Council's meeting, Samuel Insull Junior was appointed chairman of a national advisory committee on safety in industry, homes and on the streets and highways. Mr. Insull said: "The general public still believes that accidents are mainly accidents of God, beyond human control. As we progress with our studies, however, we learn that each accident has many causes, and these are closely interwoven with the physical conditions under phich we live, with our subconscious reactions and habits."

Now they are talking about a world gold parley. Of course, Uncle Sam will be expected to furnish the gold and Europe the Parleying.

A Bargain—When Mr. Hoover suggested that Germany quit paying France and France quit paying America, the French generously accepted half of the proposition.—Ashland (Ky.) Daily Independent.

The facist government is offering prizes for the largest families. We presume first prize will go to the old woman who lived in a shoe.

This election business is a funny thing. A lot of people can not be induced to go to the polls and vote once, while a lot of others are perfectly willing to go and vote a dozen times if it can be arranged.

An Arctic expedition is planning to send us the polar weather every day by radio. That's our idea of nothing to get excited about.

It is announced that a number of high power radio stations have been erected in England at enormous expense for the purpose of carrying on international broadcasts. If Europe, which claims to be financially embarrassed and is constantly demanding that the United States pay the full cost of the World War on that account, would spend more money on legitimate domestic development and less on propaganda to induce other nations to sacrifice their own interests in behalf of the nations doing the broadcasting there would doubtless be a better prospect of peace and prosperity in the world.

The Dutch bought Manhattan Island from the Indians for a couple of pocketsful of beads, and if the present day New Yorkers get much more pessimistic than they are, they will begin to believe that the Dutch got the worst of the bargain.

A Friend Of The Banner

Jim Jones, of Verbena, came in last Saturday with a pocket full of subscribers to The Union-Banner. Jim is one of The Banner's good friends. He likes the paper so well he always encourages his neighbors to take it too. Mr. Jones is not only a friend to the paper, but he is one of the boys who grew up with me out in Beat 16. We were both reared on the same red hill; we played in the same black jack thicket; and went to school together where we sat on the same old hard bench many a day.

Mr. Little Henry Mahan, Jr.

I was delighted to have as a visitor last Saturday, Mr. Henry Mahan, who now lives at Griffin, Georgia. Henry is another of my old buddies with whom I used to run around. We used to go to see the girls together. In years gone by when Henry used to be into everything around Clanton (except the jail) he was commonly known as Mr. Little Henry Mahan, Jr. He is the inventor of that well-known expression, "I'll pay you Saddy," which has been in constant use around Clanton for a long time. Henry married a daughter of Mr. Richard Robinson, of Union Grove. They have two lovely little girls now. Henry is working with the Georgia Power Co. They came over here for a visit to relatives during Thanksgiving.

Mr. Jones Called My Hand

Mr. Bluford Jones says I made him say something last week that he did not say. I am sorry, Mr. Jones. It was about the rain. Mr. Jones did not say it had not rained any at his place in six months. He said it had been six months since there was a good season of rain. I was guilty of the fault of failing to express concisely what I meant and what Mr. Jones said. Anyway, Mr. Jones and I will not fall out about anything as scarce as rain has been this year.

The Baptist Every Member Campaign

I was one of those who went out last Sunday afternoon to see some folks about the every-member canvass of the Clanton Baptist Church. It was interesting, if not so very successful, so far as I was concerned. I did not get much pledged for the support of the Baptist program. The truth is I received one pledge for a definite amount to be paid every week. And that pledge was from an aged lady, a widow. On my list were men, women, children, boys, girls, a fairly accurate cross section of the membership of our church. I received a variety of lectures, comments, opinions, etc., from different ones, on a wide range of subjects from the wild men of Borneo to the close-fisted misers of our own church who are freezing on to their dollars until the eagle squalls. It is a very interesting adventure for me to get out among people and talk to them about anything.

More and Better Fire Fighting

I hear some of the fire fighters talking about some new equipment that has been added to the city's fire engine. Really, I believe those boys are just itching for another fire so they can try out the new contraption. I am not so hot on the football racket our firemen have gotten into for Friday. I am afraid some of them will get maimed or crippled. I don't want us to have to lose any of our fire fighters. They are too good to waste in a football racket. But since I come to think about it, the fellows who play against the firemen may be the ones who need sympathy.

Liable To Cause Heart Failure

A Clanton man was driving out of Wetumpka toward Spigener the other day. A hiker waved him down. He stopped, looked him over, and said to himself, I am as big as you are, so I will let you ride. Soon they drove into a swamp. Right about where the thickets on the side of the road were thickest, the stranger very cooly and deliberately thrust his hand under his coat and into his hip pocket and drew out—a package of cigaretts, offering one to his host. "No, thank you," said the driver of the car, after his breath had reluctantly come back, "and listen friend," he continued, "I want to tell you something. You should not be poking your hands into your back pockets like that when you are riding with strangers. It is likely to cause heart failure."

A Subscriber Since 1903

County Commissioner, Joe Cobb, of Jemison, came into the office Monday for a little chat with the Man on the Corner. Mr. Cobb has been a subscriber to this paper ever since "The Union" was started in 1903 by Mr. Wallace C. Edler. Mr. Cobb referred to his friendship for the founder of "The Union," and it happened that I had at that very minute on my desk a letter from Mr. Edler, who is now living in Seattle, Washington. Like Mr. Cobb, there are hundreds of people in Chilton County who were warm friends of Mr. Edler. Very often a subscriber will come in and say I have taken The Union ever since it was first started by Mr. Edler.

How Many Seed In A Pumpkin?

New Kind Of Invitation

Doubtless you have received many kinds of invitations to many kinds of functions. But the Commissioners of Chilton County have got up one which I bet you never heard of before. They are inviting you to get in jail. They say they want the people of the county to come to Clanton next Monday week to witness the opening of the new county prison house. What they really mean is to invite you to see the closing of the building. It has been open for many months during construction. When the job is finally finished now in a few days, the Commissioners will receive it and Sheriff Gillespie will formally close the big doors and swing the automatic locking bars that stand ready to cast deep dark shadows across the pathway of all criminals who get entangled with the law. Who do you reckon will be first?

Yale University is said to be threatened with a deficit. It may be necessary to cut down the number of cheer leaders and coaches.

Students of the College of New York want a peace department established in the school. How would this affect the football team?

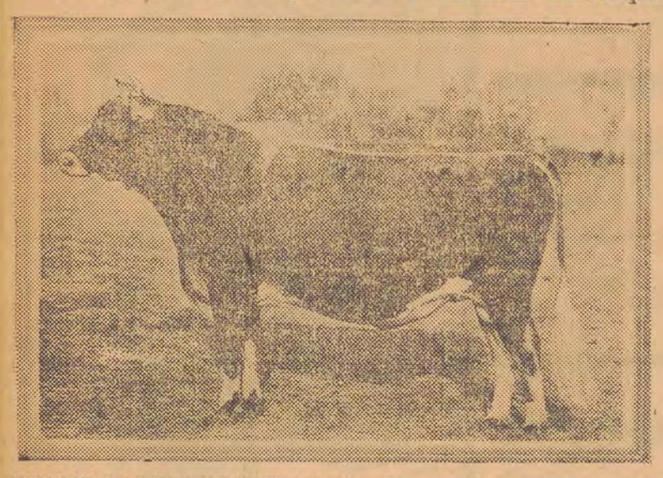
This is no era of constructive thought. The only way you can get a hearing from the public nowadays is to be against something.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

FARM WORKERS TO MEET IN AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 30.—A joint meeting of county agents and teachers of vocational agriculture in Alabama will be held at Auburn, December 21-23. The purpose of it will be to study the agricultural situation and outlook and make plans for farming on a more profitable basis in Alabama next year.



Preparatory to this meeting the state staffs of extension workers and vocational agricultural leaders spent three days in Auburn, November 23-25, studying and analyzing facts as related to agriculture and business in the United States and abroad. Two economists of the Federal Farm Board of Washington presented to the group the latest and best information available.

At the meeting in December these and other facts will be presented in such form as to be used by the county agents and vocational teachers in building county farming programs for 1932, which will be done by farmers, bankers, and merchants.

"This will be done," said Director L. N. Duncan of Auburn, "in connection with our profitable farming program. This program has been followed for several years and will be continued in 1932 with such modifications as are warranted by new facts and new conditions. Among other achievements this program has put Alabama agriculture on a better basis this year."

Prof. Duncan said also that the ultimate goal is for individual farmers to make full application of the facts in order to farm to better advantage and make more money thereby. Farmers will be expected to take the facts, study them, and then make their farming plans accordingly, he said.

Tennessee Jersey Bull Is Grand Champion

OXFORD LASSY'S DESIGN 323676

Oxford Lassy's Design, the grand champion Jersey bull at the 1931 National Dairy Exposition, St. Louis, Mo., is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farrell, Crieve Hall Farms, Nashville, Tenn., and is the first Tennessee bred bull of his breed to win this high award in the twenty-five years since the founding of the Exposition. He has an undefeated record in the ring this year and has been grand champion Jersey bull wherever shown. Other animals exhibited at the 931 "National" by Mr. and Mrs. Farrell won the junior championships for both Jersey males and females and nine first prize ribbons, including, for the third consecutive time, the first prize in the get of sire class. Design's Fern Oxford, the bull which triumphed three times in this class, is now head of the noted Crieve Hall Jersey herd and sired the grand champion and the two junior champions, all of which were bred at Crieve Hall Farms.

BETTER COTTON SOUGHT TO SAVE STATE MILLIONS

Better cotton is being sought to save Alabama millions of dollars annually.

Thad Holt, director, reports that for the past year the Alabama Industrial Development Board has been working with agricultural authorities on improvement of the cotton staple in the state, in order to recapture the estimated loss of from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually which Alabama's textile mills are forced to spend in other states for cotton suitable for their specialty operations.

ALABAMA EXHIBIT FOR CHICAGO SHOW

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 30.—At the handicraft exhibit in connection with the 13th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago, December 7-9, Alabama will be represented by an attractive exhibit prepared under the direction of Miss Dorothy Dean of Auburn.

In the exhibit were pineneedle articles from Clay County; baby clothes made by Mrs. Madge Arnold, Coosa County; rag rugs made by Mrs. M. C. Durham, Etowah County; feather fans made by Mrs. L. P. McLaurine and Mrs. Hugh Thompkins, Bullock County; needlework articles made by Mrs. L. C. Baker, Talladega County; leather gloves from Jefferson County; handmade dolls and animals made by Mrs. W. F. Davis, Shelby County.

Articles from Alabama will be displayed along with hooked rugs from the mountains of Tennessee, cactus candy from the plains of Arizona, genuine maple sugar from the forests of New England, and numerous other crafts from the homes of rural America.

This farm home industries display was authorized by the American Farm Bureau Federation to give encouragement to the development of handicraft art and money-earning projects among the rural women of America. It will serve as an exchange of ideas and it should assist in broadening the market for such products, Miss Dean said.

By their skill and ingenuity in making these articles Alabama women have made them popular for several years. They have offered enlarged opportunity for increasing the farm home income, as in other states.

The Federal Farm Board has announced that Southern bankers have joined in the plan for holding from the market 7,000,000 bales of cotton until July 31, 1932.

COTTON STATES WANT 50 PER CENT REDUCTION

Eighty official delegates from 10 cotton states met in a south-wide cotton conference at Jackson, Miss., November 23, and adopted a resolution calling for South-wide passage of uniform laws enbodying a 50 per cent reduction of cotton acreage for 1932 and 1933 in order to increase the present price of cotton and restore prosperity to the South.

States represented at the conference were Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas, while messages of cooperation were received from Arizona, Florida, and New Mexico.

Alabama's delegation unanimously approved the plan and upon returning to the state, along with the Texas delegation, placed the proposition before Gov. Miller and urged that he call the legislature to consider laws reducing cotton acreage. Gov. Miller did not answer either in the negative or the affirmative, but took the whole matter under consideration to report later.

It is reported that Alabama is the key state and that its failure to accept the plan is likely to block the whole South-wide movement. The laws will not be effective unless adopted in the states producing not less than 75 per cent of the cotton of the entire South. The acceptance of the plan would mean a reduction of only 25 per cent in Alabama compared with 50 per cent reduction in acreage in the states west of the Mississippi.

Texas, Arkansas, and Mississippi have passed laws limiting cotton acreage to 30 per cent of the tillable land of these states. This means a 50 per cent reduction in those states if other states will pass similar laws. Louisiana and South Carolina have voted the Long plan and declare that they will change the law in favor of the 50 per cent reduction plan.

INFERIOR CANNED GOODS LOST

During the last thirty days, the Division of Agricultural Chemistry, Department of Agriculture, withheld from sale 31,000 cans of canned food products and condemned 7,000 cans and had same destroyed, reports Dr. George H. Marsh, chief to Seth P. Storrs, commissioner.

The canned goods withheld from sale and those destroyed consisted of 98 different kinds of food products. These were found to be of inferior quality and fell short of the state law.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Nearly 50,000 school busses in the United States are now traveling 425,000 miles daily and carrying 2,000,000 children to and from 17,000 schools at a cost of $40,000,000 a year.

The second annual dairy short course at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, will be held January 18-23, as announced by Prof. A. D. Burke, head of the dairy department. Dairy analysis, market milk, butter, and ice cream will be studied during the short course.

In Minnesota a definite movement is on foot for uniting two or more contiguous counties under one name with one county administration of business and political affairs. In this way expenses will be reduced and other advantages attained, it is claimed.

In October this year food prices were 17 1-2 per cent lower than in October last year, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Washington, D. C. However, the October figure this year was 119.4 per cent of the average prices for 1913.

The threat of war in the Orient, between China and Japan, is reflected in the movement of cotton from the United States. A recent press dispatch from Mobile, Ala., says that thousands of bales of cotton intended for delivery at Shanghai and to several ports of Japan are still in warehouses. Meanwhile, additional cotton is accumulating at ports.

Lavender Lady Is Grand Champion Jersey Cow

LAVENDER LADY 737333

Lavender Lady, purebred Jersey cow, owned by Hugh W. Bonnell, Youngstown, Ohio, was grand champion Jersey cow and first prize winner in her class at the 1931 National Dairy Exposition, St. Louis, Mo. She is the first Jersey cow exhibited by an Ohio owner to take the grand championship ribbon at the "National," recognized for a quarter of a century as the major dairy cattle show of the United States. She is 8 years of age and has an official production record of 533.68 pounds of butterfat, 9,988 pounds of milk, the equivalent of 667 pounds of butter and 4,654 quarts of milk produced in a year. Bred on the Island of Jersey, place of origin of the Jersey breed, she was imported to the United States and sold to Mr. Bonnell in 1927.

DAIRYING

TREAT YOUR DAIRY COWS AS INDIVIDUALS

(By J. H. Bodwell)

From an economic standpoint hens must be treated as a flock, whereas cows in the dairy herd should be treated as individuals.

In one of the southern states a survey was made and results showed that the one non-profitable cow in the herd took the profit from seven profitable cows. It behooves us then to find the non-profitable cow and get rid of her in order that we may enjoy the profit of the other seven.

There is only one way to find out whether or not a cow is profitable, and that is by keeping records. If a set of scales is hung up in the milk room near the strainer, it takes very little extra time to jot down the amount of milk that each cow produces. From these records one may easily determine the cow that is not profitable, and even though the price of beef is very low, it is much better to sell her at a loss than to have a loss each day from the herd because of her presence.

From this record, also, one may determine how much feed should be given her. On the average a cow should be fed one pound of grain to from two and one-half to four pounds of milk, according to her lactation period, physical condition and per cent of butterfat. The herd should be fed dairy feed according to the roughage that is available.

If the roughage is timothy hay, it has been found through feeding experiments that a dairy ration containing 24 per cent protein is desirable. With a mixed hay, a ration containing 20 per cent protein produces good results. Where a dairyman has alfalfa or clover hay, a 16 1-2 ration is satisfactory. Many dairymen feed a ration for production, but fail to take into consideration the physical condition of the cow. A dairy cow can produce the maximum amount of milk she is capable of producing only when she is in good condition.

It has been found very desirable to feed a ration that might be termed a fitting ration, containing approximately 12 per cent protein. The fitting ration is fed to put flesh on the animal. The dairy feed is fed to put milk in the pail. If the cow is dry or has just freshened, she should get nothing but fitting ration. If she is in good condition and has been milking for a month, she should get nothing but the dairy feed. If she has been milking for quite some time, but is thin in flesh, she should get at least one-third fitting ration and two-thirds dairy feed and in this way the individual needs of the cow can be satisfied very easily.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

(©, 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 6

ROME AND BEYOND

GOLDEN TEXT—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 4:6-18

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Finishes His Work.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Finishes His Work.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Missionary Work Goes On.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Unto the Ends of the Earth.

I. Paul's View of Death (v. 6).

This he sets forth under two metaphors:

1. An offering (v. 6). "I am ready to be offered." This figure, meaning a drink offering, or libation, shows that Paul was looking forward to a violent death. The shedding of his blood was to be an offering poured out on the sacred altar as an act of worship. Death can only be an offering to God when the life has been wholly yielded to the doing of God's will.

2. A departure (v. 6). "The time of my departure is at hand." The same idea is expressed in Phil. 1:23. "Departure" is a nautical term which signifies the loosing of a ship from its moorings in order to enter upon its voyage. It is not the end of the voyage, but its beginning. It indicates that the vessel is outward bound. The anchor is being lifted, and the sails are being spread for the homeland. The same idea is expressed in Luke 9:31, where the theme of conversation on the Mount of Transfiguration is said to be the departure or exodus which Christ should accomplish at Jerusalem. What the exodus meant to Israel, and more, death means to the Christian.

II. Paul's Backward Glance at Life (v. 7).

God has a definite purpose for each life. Life should be so spent that at its close one may look back with a definite consciousness that the divine purpose has been accomplished. This backward look is presented in three figures:

1. "I have fought a good fight." The figure here is that of a soldier. The Christian life is a warfare. Conflicts, dangers, and temptations must be met.

2. "I have finished my course." The figure here is that of an athlete who sets out to win a race. The Christian life is a race to be run.

3. "I have kept the faith." The figure is that of a husbandman to whom had been entrusted a treasure. This treasure was the Christian faith. In a peculiar way Paul was made steward of the Christian faith. He was conscious of having been faithful to the trust committed to him.

III. Paul's Forward Look to the Future (v. 8)

This is a beautiful picture of the calm at the end of a period of faithful service. Knowing that death was awaiting him, there was no dark cloud.

1. He saw before him a life with God. Eternal fellowship with God is a prize greatly to be desired.

2. A prize was laid up for him—a crown of righteousness. This reward will be given at the coming of the Lord to all who love his appearing.

IV. Paul's Associates (vv. 9-12).

1. Demas, the deserter (v. 10). Demas has become immortalized as one who was religious, but because of its attractions went after the world. The love of the world caused him to turn his back upon principle, friendship, honor, and duty.

2. Luke, the faithful (v. 11). What a comfort it must have been to have with him this one faithful soul. Perhaps he was the best fitted of all to minister unto Paul. Luke was faithful in shipwreck, imprisonment, in journeying by land and sea.

3. Mark, the restored runaway (v. 11). Mark had gone back but was restored. This is a beautiful picture and most comforting. Though we have failed, we can redeem ourselves and become trustworthy. Everyone who has taken to heart his failure should be given another chance.

V. Personal Matters (vv. 13-18).

1. Bring the cloak, books, and parchments (v. 13). In the jail the cloak would be needed for his comfort. The books and parchments would be required for his study and writing.

2. Wronged by Alexander, the coppersmith (vv. 14, 15). We have no way of determining just when this deed was committed.

3. Defended by the Lord though forsaken by man (vv. 16-18). Paul in his last trying hours was like his Lord—left alone. He says, "All men forsook me. It was said of Christ that all forsook him and fled. Paul manifested a like spirit. "I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge."

The Spiritual Christian

Normally, the spiritual Christian will be occupied with effective service for his Lord. This is not a rule. We need only to know that we are yielded and ready to do whatever he may choose. To "rest in the Lord" is one of the essential victories in a spiritual life. "Come ye apart and rest awhile." We are just as spiritual when resting, playing, sleeping, or incapacitated, if it his will for us, as [illegible] when serving.—Christian Cynosure.

The choruses in "Oh! Professor" are fine and splendidly trained.

TREE PLANTING SEASON

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 30.—Forest planting over Alabama can be done from the middle of November until the middle of March, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Most native species can be planted at any time during this period. However, there are a few exceptions to this statement, since a greater percentage of survival and better growth occur when fleshy rooted species, such as Tulip Poplar and Red Gum, are planted in the spring just after the buds have started to swell and open.

Even though the plant is dormant and the work is done carefully, a transfer from one place to another causes an interruption in growth. Less injury and setback are given to the plant if the roots are completely embedded in a ball of earth. Such plants can be transplanted at any season of the year, provided drought conditions do not exist. However, due to excessive cost this type of planting is rarely used in timber production.

Positive Proof of FORD ECONOMY

City of Detroit purchases 137 new Ford cars
Hundreds now in use prove low cost of operation

THESE 137 new Ford cars represent one of the largest deliveries ever made to a municipality at one time.

21 radio-equipped Ford scout cars were traded in on this purchase. They had been operated day and night for two years in heavy traffic and all kinds of weather.

Their individual records ranged from 73,434 miles to 143,723 miles with a grand total of 2,283,097 miles. The operating cost of the 21 cars was 2.284 cents a mile — less than 2 1/3 cents. This cost included all fuel, oil, tires, repairs and every other item except depreciation and insurance.

Of 577 Ford cars in Detroit City service, the 300 in the Police Department traveled a total of 6,591,937 miles during the past fiscal year, at an average cost of 2.9 cents a mile.

Many claims have been made on operating costs, but here in the carefully kept motor car records of the City of Detroit is positive proof of Ford economy.

In the paragraphs above, it is seen that 21 Ford scout cars averaged less than 2 1/3 cents a mile and 300 Ford cars in all branches of Detroit police work averaged 2.9 cents a mile!

Day and night, twenty-four hours a day, these Ford cars are in operation. Few branches of transportation demand such grueling service. The records show that low fuel and oil consumption is but one of the Ford's many economies. Ford materials, simplicity of design and accuracy in manufacturing provide unusual strength, stamina and freedom from replacements and repairs.

The individual car buyer as well as the purchasing department of a city or a business cannot afford to ignore the proved economy of the Ford car.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

The song service at Congregational Church, last Sunday night was well attended and judging by the volume and spirit of the music it was hearily enjoyed by a lot of people. The leaders made their own selection from the book in general use in the church, most of which were familiar to nearly all the singers, although some new ones were interpersed because they were worthy of a place in the minds of anybody. The leaders were, Rev. J. E. Each, pastor of the church, who also read a portion of scripture, he then called on Rev. Fred P. Ensminger, State Superintendant of Congregational Mission work, who was present, to lead in prayer. Other leaders were, Miss Jenkins and Miss Klingelhoefer, Gerald Smith, and Mr. Butler, Rev J. W. Jones offered closing prayer.

Mr. Butler called attention to the numerous Gospel Hymns in the book that were written by P. P. Bliss, who in his day was a noted Evangilistic singer, whom the writer had seen and herd many times, although he was killed in the great Ashtabula, Ohio disaster when a heavily loaded passenger train crashd through a bridge and fell into the river far below, in 1869, sixty three years ago. We well remember when a boy we were attending a Sunday School where one of his song books was introduced which he had named, the singing Pilgrim, which was also the title of the first number. The first verse ran as follows.

A singing pilgrim glad and free,
As yonder bird that wings the air.
My purest earthly joy shall be,
To sing for Jesus everywhere.

Truly P. P. Bliss was a singing pilgrim and much of the seed he sowed in his little songs is bering fruit today. Who can measure the influence of such a life, even though cut short in early manhood, of which he was a fine speciman.

Next Sunday night December 6th at 7:15, Rev. Each will give another lecture, with pictures, subject, India. These lectures are given to stimulate interest in foreign missions, by showing accomplishments in that line. A collection will be taken to cover expense, all over that will be used for missions.

Mr. C. M. Williams, who is principal of the public school at Boaz, Alabama, came home for Thanksgiving and the week end with his family in Thorsby, they had as guests, their daughter, Mrs. Thomason and her husband, of Lay Dam, and Mrs. Williams's sister, Mrs. Tom Burdette, of Clanton, and her daughter.

Thorsby Telephone Central office will be moved sometime this week to the house owned by Carl C. Peterson, and recently vacated by Edward Howard and family, when they moved to their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Blood have shown themselves capable giving good service and we believe they will continue to do so in their new and more comfortable quarters.

The C. S. Howard family had as guests for Thanksgiving, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard, Miss Mabel Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howard and two children, Mrs. Anna Phalen and son, of Tuscaloosa, and Mr. Charles Swanson, of Thorsby.

The Congregational Ladies Aid Society will have their regular monthly social on Thursday afernoon of this week, at the home of Mrs. Nels Peterson, on Montgomery road.

They will also have a chicken supper and social at the home of Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald on Friday evening, of this week. Supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'colck. Price of tickets 25 cents. All are cordially invited.

Mrs. Anna Villadsen entertained the Carl Peterson family at dinner Thanksgiving day.

Brown Russell, Katherine Stalling, and Clinton Arthur, of Montgomery, former students at Thorsby Institute, came to Thorsby Saturday to attend the stunt night program at Helen Jenkins Hall in the evening.

Mr, and Mrs. Clarence Butler and children, of Montgomery, were visitors at the Butler home in Thorsby, last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Reeves and children, sister of Mrs. Evelyn Christ, of near Selma, spent the Thanksgiving holidays in Thorsby.

Mr. H. V. Thompson spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mrs. Gerald received a letter from her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Moody, of Birmingham, that Mr. Moody had so far recovered from his operation, as to be removed from the hospital to their home Sunday.

The Reinhardt family will move this week from Mrs. Villadsen's green bungalow, to the R. R. Franklin cottage, corner of Michigan and Summit avenues.

Mr. J. H. Cobb, of Columbus, Ohio spent the week end with his uncle and family, Mr. S. P. Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg spent Thanksgiving day, and the week end with their children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan and children in Wylam, Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lawrence, of Centerville, Alabama, spent Saturday with the Piper family. They have purchased the Leonard Hayes home property and expect to move in next week.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Laurell had as Thanksgiving dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. More and their children, John, Richard and Jeanne, Mrs. Love, of Birmingham, Christine Love, their granddaughter, living with them, and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell.

They also had as Sunday guests, Mr. G. O. Douglas and a lady friend from Birmingham. On their return home they took Mr. Laurell, to be ready for his work in Phillips High School Monday morning.

Miss Margurite Davison, a well known congregational field worker in Alabama, Tennesee, and West Florida, among the young people, left Monday night for a month vacation at her home in Boston, and another month of visiting and speaking among the churches of New England, regarding her work in the southeast.

Messrs, Turner Gamble and Frank Thompson with their wives and Mrs. Dudly Thompson, will move this week to the Townsend house on Montgomery road. It is reported that Mr. W. H. Raybon has arranged to cultivate and care for the farm connected with the place.

W. H. Raybon and wife, Roy, Dion, and Betty Jo Raybon, and Mrs. M. J. Primm spent one day last week with Hugh Primm near Calera, coming back by Wilton, stopping over to see Mr. and Mrs. S. Raybon, also stopping at Brierfield to see Mrs. Lucy Wood, postmistress there, former teacher of both Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon.

Hugh Primm came down to see his mother, Mrs. M. J. Primm, last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard had for 6 o'clock dinner gugests on Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard, son Lloyd, and daughter, Ella.

The O. E. S. spend the day social will be held Wednesday of this week with, Mrs. C. A. Peterson, visitors welcome.

Miss Bertha Lilltleton of Birmingham spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Emmett Billingsley.

Mrs. W. H. Goodgame had as her dinner guests Sunday, Miss Bertha Littleton, Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish.

Mrs. Walter Littleton is on the sick list. We hope she will son be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, Christine and Leonard, spent Thanksgiving day in Birmingham.

Miss Kate Rogers and Naemi Turnquist spent Thanksgiving in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Maddox, of Birmingham, spent Saturday in Thorsby.

Miss Edith Holley, of Tallassee, spent Thanksgiving holidays with Miss Willodean Bean.

Miss Loutishie Bean is visiting in Birmingham.

Saturday night, December 12, at 7:30, a musical program and Christmas play will be given at the Institute. Everyone is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

Miss Marguerite Davison took with her to a meeting of Congregational churches Sunday at Moutain Creek one of the Institute teachers, Miss McKee, and two of the students, Gerald and Carrie Smith. All spoke at the meeting.

A large audience enjoyed the stunts given by the foor classes of Thorsby Institute Saturday night. The decision was rendered by popular vote of the audience, not including students and teachers at the Institute. The Freshmen won first place with their toy shop and a dramatization of the story of John Smith and Pocahontas. Miss Klingelhoefer was in charge. The Juniors won second place with a group of six stunts. The last was a group of tumbling exercises by the Junior boys. These tumbling exercises were very good and appreciated by the audience. Mr. King was in charge. The Seniors gave an interesting dramatization, "The Truth About the Sleeping Beauty," and a comical representation of the story of William Tell. A special feature of the Senior class stunt was the dance of the mascots between the two main acts. The Sophomores gave an old fashioned spelling bee. The costuming was very good and added much to the stunt. Teachers in the audience had opportunity to secure some fine points in discipline and school administration from Charles Croker, the professor. Mr. Maddox was in charge.

The stunts were all very good. Stunt night is an annual affair and is one of the most enjoyable programs of the year.

Thanksgiving Day at Thorsby Institute was full of interest to all connected with the institution. Nearly everybody attended the union community service at the Congregational Church. Next came the dinner in the dining hall, with turkey and all the fixings. Guests were Rev. and Mrs. Frank E. Jenkins of LaGrange, Ga., Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton and Miss Marguerite Davison, who with the dormitory people were helping Dr. Jenkins to celebrate his 77 birthday anniversary.

After dinner about fifty young and older folks loaded into wagons and automobiles and went to the County Farm, to give greetings and a song service to the poor people out there. Returning they had a picnic supper on the Butler home grounds.

On December 12th, beginning at 12:30 p. m., the W. M. U. of the Baptist Church will have a parcel post sale at the city hall. Each package will be 25c, and we assure you that you will get your money's worth in each package you buy. A plate lunch will also be served at 10 cents. Everybody invited.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Willis, with Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davenport, spent Sunday in Haynes, Ala., with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davenport and Mrs. Ben Davenport spent Thursday in Selma with relatives.

The W. M. S. have been observing the week of prayer this week, meeting with Mrs. Sam Pate Monday afternoon, Mrs. Relious Franklin Tuesday afternoon and at the church Wednesday afternoon. These meeting were very much enjoyed by all who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Merchant and daughter spent Thursday with Mrs. Merchant's father, Mr. Tom Kemp, in Clanton.

Mr. James Thomas of Birmingham was a visitor in Thorsby Sunday.

Miss Jewell Lawson entertained a few of her friends at her home Saturday night in honor of her birthday. Those attending this affair were Misses Julia Pratt Johnson, Roma Stirling, Minnie Pearl and Florence Mims and Mabel Johnson; Mr. Leon Taylor, Ernest Robinson, Arnold Lawson, U. L. Mims and Norwood Johnson, Jr.

Mrs. T. W. Robinson spent Monday in Birminggham.

Mr. Henry Robinson will arrive Tuesday to visit his mother, Mrs. T. W. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Calera visited Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mead Sunday.

Dr. A. J. Lawley of Birmingham was a visitor Sunday at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mead and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Leary.

Mr. A. E. Reagan and Clyde Mead made a business trip to Birmingham Friday.

LOCAL TELEPHONE CENTRAL BEING MOVED TO NEW PLACE

Mr. A. L. Giles is being engaged tnis week in tne moving of the lines preparatory to moving the central office of the Peoples Telephone Company into the John Giles home on the east end of Third Avenue, North. When all of the lines are put in their new position, the switchboard will be disconnected and moved. This will take about a day, during which time no central service can be given. It is expected that this work will be done one day next week.

A large new lead covered cable will be installed between First Street and the Giles home, which will greatly help the connection between the switchboard and the mail lines.

Now, just a word to the phoneholders: It takes money to do this work, notwithstanding the fact that the Board of Directors are getting every bit of the value possible out of each cent spent. And comparatively few have as yet paid their central fees. Mr. Giles is working this year at a salary that is just as low as anyone could expect him to work. But he is going to run the office and give the best service that he possibly can with the equipment at hand. Not one cent of the money is going to be wasted—you may rest assured of that.

So, all phoneholders are urged to pay up your fees just as hastily as possible. The business can't run without some money, and it is hoped that you will come on and help us out by paying your fees.—Jesse Baker, President; T. E. Wyatt, Secretary-Treasurer.

YOUR BANK

"A ban... ...ady is a semi-public institution and there is a mutuality of obligation resting upon both the banker and his customers to maintain the effective functioning of that institution that is superior to the personal interests of either," it says.

Bankers might well consciously devote greater effort to building up the public viewpoint in their communities that due to their public obligations and burden of public interest, the banks are entitled to protection against ill-informed or malicious gossip and rumors, the statement says.

"As to banks in some states, bank slander laws afford this protection," it points out. "We recommend that this protection be availed of by definite action wherever practical both as a matter of immediate expediency and also to awaken public opinion as to the dangers of idle gossip about a community's banking institutions."

MAD DOG KILLED

There was a mad dog killed in Mr. E. L. Henley's yard, near Fairview, last Wednesday, November 18, about 12 o'clock. The dog's head was sent to Montgomery, and the report was that the dog sure had hydrophobia. We know not where the dog came from. The first we knew of it was here at Mr. Henry Scott's, in this community, and later heard that it came through the Mt. Pleasant community. The dog was a brindle colored bull dog.

Saxophone Not Jazz, Says Orchestra Leader

Real Southern Musicians Use Clarinets Instead

New York City.—Saxophones and jazz have been coupled for many years in public prints, spoken comment, law courts and pulpits. So says Tommy Christian, famous orchestra leader. "In fact it was a business executive who wanted to get volume out of a small orchestra combination who first suggested using the saxophone," says Mr. Christian.

"The original jazz bands were made up of cornets and clarinets. The clarinets give many more effects than saxophones and are great for hot tunes and cover three and one-half to four octaves, while a saxophone only reaches two and one-half, but can be sweet and melodious.

"People down South don't even like the sound of a saxophone except in serious music. They can listen all night to blues, played with a clarinet, fiddle, bass fiddle, cornet and guitar, and never feel blue, but give them saxophone music on a dance floor and they start feeling sorry for themselves.

"There's just something about a saxophone that does that. It is sweet and sad because it doesn't laugh like a clarinet. Doesn't make you want to get up and yell. It moans too low.

"Some pieces need a saxophone to tell their story though. 'I'll Be Blue Just Thinking of You, From Now On' is one of those. Its dancing qualities make it real saxophone music. It has sex appeal which is only put over musically with sax appeal."

CUSTOMERS BENEFIT SALE AT LEADER

Mr. M. Lande, of The Leader, popular dry goods and department store, of Clanton, is beginning this week another one of his Customers Benefit Sale, which is bound to be very popular at this time.

Everybody in the county has already gotten a circular telling about this wonderful merchandising event. Coming as it does just in advance of the Christmas holiday season, this sales event will attract many people who will want to take advantage of the many special bargains that are being offered.

Thesale will start promptly at eight o'clock Friday morning. There is something special in store for all who are on hand when the doors swing open.

Commenting upon this big special event, Mr. Lande said: "I want to say to my friends that I have no sale promoter putting on this sale. I am conducting it myself, and I am going to prove that it is a sale in every sense of the word, for the benefit of my customers. I am frank to say that the prices we are offering have never before been equaled. I ask you to come and see for yourself. This is the greatest price slashing event ever attempted in Clanton."

MARTIN - THOMPSON MARRIAGE AT THORSBY

Mr. Erchel Martin and Miss Sallye Thompson, popular young people of Thorsby, were married at 6:30 Tuesday evening at the home of Rev. J. W. Jones, in Thorsby. Rev. Jones pronounced the marriage ceremony in the presence of a few friends of the couple.

Mr. Martin is the son of J. R. Martin, of Thorsby. His bride is a daughter of the late Dudley Thompson, of Thorsby. After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Martin will be at home in Thorsby.

SMALL STILL CAPTURED TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Sheriff's deputies made a successful raid near the Bibb County line Tuesday afternoon in which they destroyed a small but snugly arranged stilling outfit and arrested two men who were operating the same. About eight gallons of rye whiskey was also destroyed, together with about eighty gallons of beer.

Other arrests for the past week reported from the Sheriff's office are one on a peace warrant; one for non-support, and one for violating the prohibition law.

Aid for War Veterans

More than 430,000 ex-service men and their families were aided through 3,008 Red Cross Chapters and the national organization during the year ending June 30, 1931. Dependent families were cared for, veterans' claims were filed, hospitalization obtained and many other services given. Part of each contribution during the American Red Cross annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, goes toward supporting this vital work for veterans of the World War and other wars in which the United States has engaged.

Hastings Would Deny Bankhead Seat In The United States Senate

Republican Chairman Of Sub-Committee Seeks To Nullify State Election

Washington, Dec. 1.—Another battle over a Senate seat—this time between Alabama's picturesque former senator, J. Thomas Heflin, and John H. Bankhead, the regular Democrat who defeated him for re-election—is impending.

Senate leaders were lining up their forces today on information that Chairman Hastings, of the elections sub-committe charged with hearing the contest, was preparing a report recommending that Bankhead be denied his seat.

Intimations were that Senator Hastings is inclined toward the view that the Alabama Democratic primary last year was called illegally by the state committee and that this invalidated the general election.

Hastings's report must be accepted by this sub-committee and the full committee before reaching the Senate. A majority of the sub-committee are reported to favor it. A meeting of the sub-committee will be held Thursday.

The report cites several hundred cases of alleged irregularities in the Alabama election a year ago which Bankhead won by nearly 50,000 votes.

Seat May Be Vacated

Denial of a seat to Bankhead would not necessarily mean that Heflin would be seated. More likely, in view of the disparity of votes, even in the committee's recount, the seat would be declared vacant.

In a statement yesterday Heflin predicted he would be given the contested seat as a result of the committee's disclosures.

Bankhead's attorneys have contended that nothing was found which warranted denying him his seat.

Hastings's committee has made a complete recount of the votes cast in the contested election, with the excepion of those two counties in which the ballots were destroyed.

This recount showed little material change in the figures announced following the election. The committee's agents totaled 134,000 votes for Bankhead and 89,038 for Heflin as compared with official figures of 144,586 and 96,811. Several thousand votes, however, were laid aside for consideration by the commitee.

If the case should reach the Senate floor it would be the first contest over the seat of a Democrat for many years.

Two Republicans Denied Seats

The only senators denied seats in the Senate in recent years, Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, were both Republicans.

Another Democratic senator's seat is now being contested before the same committee, however. George M. Pritchard, Republican candidate from North Carolina in the election a year ago, has contested the victory of Josiah Bailey, his Democratic opponent.

If Senator Hastings advances the theory that the election was null it would mean that he has been persuaded by arguments to that effect presented the sub-committee last summer by Horace Wilkinson of Birmingham, attorney for former Senator [illegible] Heflin. The Wilkinson theory was that the Democratic committee issued an illegal call for the party primary of August, 1930, in that the call embraced qualifications for voters.

In his arguments last July, Wilkinson did not question the right of the committee to fix qualifications for candidates but insisted that the State law gave the committe no authority to fixdifferent qualification, or, in an extreme case, any qualifications, for voters.

Heflin's Side Illogical

It would appear to be a far cry to assert that Heflin is entitled to the seat in the Senate which Jhn H. Bankhead was because the Democratic primary in which Heflin was not a candidate is viewed as illegal.

Nevertheless, the rumor was running strongly in Washington today that the Republican chairman of this contest sub-committee will urge the view that the general election was invalid because of a primary he regards as having been called illegally. If it be fact that Senator Hastings is to take this position an exceedingly warm fight may be the expectet as it will mark the first time in history that an effort has been made in the United States Senate to go to this extent into a party primary in any state. In order to be effective in the senatorial contest such a view first would have to be endorsed by the membership of the sub-committee. Then by the members of the elections and finally by the Senate full committee on privileges and itself.

Former Senator Heflin, in a statement Monday in which he mentioned the recount of ballots as a minor part of his contest referred to the Democratic primary, thus lending color to the rumors that Senator Hastings will attack the Alabama primary.

THE REPUBLICANS AND BANKHEAD

Senator Hastings, chairman of the Senate elections sub-committe, is preparing a report in which he will recommend to the Senate that John H. Bankhead be denied his seat. The Alabamian may be seated without protest when Congress convenes, but Senator Hastings will recommend that the Senate thereupon decide the contese against Bankhead.

It is not indicated by the Associated Press how all members of the sub-commitee stand, that is whether the report will be unanimously concurrred in, or whether they will disagree. But it has been plain from the beginning of the investigation that Hastings was eager for every scrap of evidence damaging Bankhead and to the Democratic party, favorable to Heflin and his Republican allies and sponsors. Hastings has acted the role of the narrow, cynical partisian from the beginning. He has been the tool of Republican party bosses, including, we suspect, President Hoover himself, who are quite ready to stretch their consciences to reward Tom Heflin, not because they especially esteem him, but because they need him at this critical hour. Heflin was useful to the Republican party in 1928 and again in 1930. He was useful to the Republican party in 1929 when he voted aganst the Borah resoluton and so became morally responsible for the final enactment of the infamous Smoot-Hawley tariff law.

The Republican party owes Heflin a debt which it would like to pay. The Republicans are sorely in need of man power in the United States Senate just now, and there are politicans in Washington who would go as far to remove Bankhead as some of their Republican predecessors were willing to go in 1876 to deprive Samuel J. Tilden of the Presidency which he had fairly and cleanly won.

It is hard to understand the diligence of some of these Republican Seantors in their efforts to put the Democracy of Alabama under a manufactured cloud on any other theory than that the man in the White House, alarmed at his unpromising political future, is resorting to the desperate expedient of encouraging his puppets in the Senate to go the limit to get another man.

But we are nevertheless confident that regardless of any report which Chairman Hastings may make on the Bankhead-Heflin contest, the Senate will act on the facts intelligently, honestly and patriotically, in which event Mr. Bankhead will be seated without difficulty.

There never was a more honest election in Alabama than the one in which the Democrats of this State defeated Tom Heflin. Heflin was beaten fairly and by a crushing majority. There were some irregularities, to be sure, but they were on both sides. There was some incorrect voting for both candidates—there always is some loose and incorrect voting. But the last time we had occasion to consult the score it appeared that a higher percentage of Heflin's votes had been thrown out than Bankhead's.

The Democrats of Alabama were especially discreet and careful in the election last year because they knew in advance what Heflin intended to do. Every informed politician in the State knew long before the election that Heflin was beaten and they knew also that in the event of his defeat he would squawk and charge fraud. Consequently they were especially diligent in guarding against crooked work in the ballot box, and so there was no corruption—and every well informed person in Alabama knows it is true.

There isn't a Senator in Congress with a cleaner commission than John Bankhead's, and it is a smelly outrage that cynical partisians like Hastings and other administration tools should lend their names to an unwarranted attack upon Alabama and one of its Senators in the manner under notice.

The only scandal in connection with the Alabama Senatorial election last year is not in the election itself, but in the partisian, malicious investigation conducted by Chairman Hastings and the agents that he sent into Alabama to smell their way about.—The Montgomery Advertiser.

Mrs. Jean Wyatt returned home Tuesday, after a brief visit to friends in Birmingham. She was accompanied back by Miss Lottie Scarbrough of the Magic City.

AFTER WEAKENING SICKNESS

If you are run-down, or suffer from a weakened condition,—take Cardui, a medicine used by women for over fifty years. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of others who have praised Cardui for the benefits they have felt after taking it.

"I had a spell of sickness which left me very run-down and weak," writes Mrs. D. L. Beckner, of Ellis-ton, Va. "I was not able to do my housework. I ached all over my body. My back and sides gave me a lot of trouble. A friend of mine told me to try Cardui. I took it for several months and I got strong and well."

WASHINGTON'S FAREWELL TO HIS OFFICERS

General Washington's last meeting with his officers took place in the back parlor of Black Sam Fraunces' Tavern, 148 years ago this December 4.

On this day, we are told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, George Washington called together for the last time the officers of the Revolutionary army, then stationed in New York City. These were the men with whom for eight years he had counseled and fought and starved in the war of Independence. It was not necessary to say farewell.

All realized the significance of the summons from their chief. And when, shortly after noon, General Washington entered the room they knew he had come to give them their last "orders." A month previously he had said goodbye to his soldiers and subalterns, had sent most of them back to their fall ploughing. But now he must take his leave of these, his veteran brother officers, who had shared with him in measure the heavy burden of command.

The tavern they were meeting in had associations of itself. In the days before men began to gather in knots on street corners and to stop their buggies at cross roads, to talk of "inalienable rights" and "taxation without representation," this tavern had had for a device on its sign the head of Queen Charlotte, and was known in New York as "Queen's Head Tavern."

But when Samuel Fraunces, steward, began to invite the murmurers in the streets into his back parlor to continue their talk of liberty, the name was changed to "Fraunces Tavern." Later when the Revolution broke out in earnest and "Black Sam" Fraunces was active on the Colonial side the place became more and more a resort for "Rebels."

This historic old house still stands at the corner of Broad and Pearl Streets, and is visited annually by thousands of tourists.

JUDGE REYNOLDS FAVORS LOWERING OF TAX VALUE

Probate Judge Would Lighten Burden Of Small Taxpayers In Same Proportion As State Has Favored The Big Corporations

Editor Union-Banner:

I ask permission to express a few thoughts on the financial situation as I see it. I have read every article that I could lay my hands on and yet none of them have expressed my idea of the true conditions of the time as I see it. The farmers have hit the bottom financially, and as is always the case, they are the first to feel a depression and are generally the last to feel the effects of prosperity. Many theories have been advanced and many legislative bodies have proposed remedies, but I do not believe that the efforts put forward nor the money spent has given the proper relief as it would, if the same efforts in money had been spent to furnish employment for the laboring people. It seems to me that the greatest need of the day is a job and a pay for the laboring people. If you furnish them employment they will furnish a market for the farmers' produce, because they always spend their salary. It is my opinion that good times will not return to this country until the laboring man has a job and the farmers have a market for their produce.

The United States government appointed a Federal Farm Board and appropriated five hundred million dollars to help the farmer market his farm produce, and now the Board admits that they have lost one hundred seventy-seven million dollars and if they have furnished a market for a single bale of cotton or one bushel of wheat, I have failed to see where it was. They admit they have been paying one man seventy-five thousand dollars per year and another fifty thousand dollars per year salary, and other salaries in proportion. This does not look like hard times to me. I do not believe the services of any man is worth seventy-five thousand dollars per year unless it be the President of the United States.

This same farm board advised the farmers this fall to plow up every third row of their cotton in order to help the price, speculators at that time had on hand over nine million bales of cotton, why were they not advised to destroy one-third of their holdings and not ask the poor farmers, who was already depressed, to destroy one-third of his crop to help raise the price on the cotton the farm board and the speculator had.

The United States government has been spending millions trying to teach the farmer how to increase his production and when he made a good crop the Federal Farm Board appointed by the same government advised him to destroy one-third of what he had made.

It strikes me that we need some real statesmen to run this government and not so many politicians who are always looking for votes. I hope the next Congress and Senate will try to help relieve the situation and forget about getting votes at the next election. I have one or two suggestions that I believe would help this country very much if carried out.

We must have a reduction in taxes. Over thirty years ago we sold cotton at less than five cents per pound, then we paid less than five million dollars in taxes in Alabama. Now we have five-cent cotton, but we are paying over fifty million dollars in taxes. The farmers just cannot exist and pay this enormous tax. It means for him to lose his home and property. I said in a speech in the courthouse here over thirty years ago that the time would come when anyone wanting to purchase property in Alabama that they would consider the tax on the property before they would buy any property in Alabama. This statement was challenged by a prominent attorney, but I have lived to see the time that people are considering the taxes of our state before purchasing property.

Alabama has peculiar tax laws; the taxpayer assesses his taxes to the Assessor, then we have a Tax Supervisor who has authority to raise said taxes, then the Commissioners Court in April have the right to pass on the amount of said taxes, then we have a law that the chairman of the State Commission can order the taxes raised if he is not satisfied with the amount, but the same law gives the chairman of the State Tax Commission the right to assess the large corporation taxes, like the Alabama Power Company, the railroad companies, telephone and telegraph companies, etc., and yet no provision was made for any court to review his acts. In other words, Mr. Butler, chairman of the State Tax Commission, has the power, and it is his duty to assess hundreds of millions of dollars of property in Alabama and no court is provided with power to review his work. This is too much power to give one man. Let's see what happened recently and see if I am correct. Mr. Butler accepted the valuation placed on the Alabama Power Company's property by the Public Service Commission, and admits that he took 45 per cent of the value of their property for taxation purposes, which reduced the Alabama Power Company's taxes in Alabama over one-half million dollars, and taking the Alabama Power Company's statement of the value of their own property, he assessed their property for taxation purposes only thirty-one per cent. Now, I ask the taxpayers of this county if you think the above transaction was just and right? Your Commissioners Court was notified early in the fall by Mr. Butler not to reduce anybody's taxes, and yet, Mr. Butler reduced one of the largest corporations taxes in Alabama, namely, the Alabama Power Company, who admits that they made over ten million dollars last year, and also admits that they are making 6 per cent on their investment. I ask you taxpayers of this county, what per cent are you making on your investment?

The Commissioners Court of this and Coosa Counties have instituted legal proceedings to have the Alabama Power Company's property assessed like all other taxpayers' property is assessed in Chilton and Coosa Counties.

The question of raising taxes and putting more burdens on the people of the State is being discussed by many leading men of our State, but it is my opinion that the State of Alabama owes as much money as it can pay in the next fifty years and it seems to me that the thing to be done is to practice economy and reduce expenses and not be spending millions of dollars in legislative halls trying to raise more money. Suppose the efforts that have been made in the last few years to raise more taxes had been made in trying to save taxes, this country would not be tax-ridden.

Consider the financial condition of the State of Alabama. A state warrant cannot be cashed in Alabama, neither will any bank take them for security. I cannot understand how any state, county or city government can be bankrupt unless some accident or misfortune overtakes them, because they have a fixed income; and it seems to me that anyone whose duty it is to manage the financial affairs of a state, county or city could estimate each year just how much money they would have to spend, and stay within their income.

The State of Alabama is busted and the majority of the counties in Alabama are busted, and many of the cities of Alabama are busted; the school business in Alabama is busted; but none of them seem to be figuring how to practice economy and reduce expenses, but it is clear to my mind that the people of the State will not vote for any more taxes until the strictest economy in all government affairs is practiced.

On November the 23rd, 1931, Rev. L. B. Headley bought a Model T Ford for $12.00; the taxes on the same cost him 70c, the tag, $11.75; making the total for tag and taxes $12.45, and under the law he might have been subject to a penalty of $1.68 and citation fee of $1.50, which would have made the tag and taxes cost him $15.63 and then he has to pay 5c per gallon tax on every gallon of gas he buys, and yet large corporation taxes in Alabama are assessed at less than 50 per cent of what the law requires them to be assessed at.

I hope the Commissioners Court will be able to furnish employment for the people out of work in this county this winter like we did last winter. However, the court will be somewhat handicapped unless we can save the thirty or forty thousand dollars taxes which the State is trying to take off of the Alabama Power Company's taxes.

We have just twenty-five thousand dollars out on interest to pay on bonds which will be due in 1947, and we have put thirty-five thousand dollars in a new jail, and have relieved all road hands from road duty this year, which amounts to about twenty thousand dollars worth of work in this county; so you see the Commissioners have saved about eighty thousand dollars this year, but we still have our twenty thousand dollars in the treasury.

I have nothing to do in an official way with fixing the amount of taxes that any taxpayer pays, but I hope the Commissioners Court of this county, elected by the voters of this county, will be able, and will materially reduce the people's taxes of this county in accordance with the depressed times.

The business of educating the boys and girls of the United States is the biggest business in the world, and we must continue to carry it on, but expenses of the schools must reduce, economy must be practiced, overhead expense must be cut down. It is being charged that out of every $5.00 taxes paid for school purposes that the child gets only $1.00 out of the $5.00 paid for real education.

It seems to me that the wise thing for those managing the schools to do would be to live inside their income. It seems that many schools in Alabama will have to close right away. To my mind this is the saddest and most serious financial trouble we have run up against. It seems to me that we had better stop road building and other improvements in Alabama before we close the schools.

It has been reported that the schools of Alabama were liable to close most any time, but I have learned recently that the teachers of Chilton County have proposed to teach the terms of the schools out, provided the County Board would give them warrants payable when the State pays the County Board what was due them from the State.

This seems to me a patriotic move on the part of the teachers of this county, and I feel like every parent and every person interested in schools should appreciate this sacrifice and effort on the part of the teachers to continue our schools this term. Just think what it would mean to thousands of children in this county to lose this year's schooling.

I believe people in the county will use all these warrants given to the teachers to help them financially to carry on the schools, and I trust that our school authorities will do all in their power to permit the schools to run.—L. H. Reynolds.

Baptists Have Made Drive In The South

Lay Leaders Launch Campaign To Raise Forty Million Dollars Soon

Atlanta, Ga., Nov 29.—Thousands of lay leaders from the 25,000 churches in the Southern Baptist Convention Sunday began an intensive eight-day house-to-house canvass of members to raise $40,000,000 for church work during the coming year.

No definite figures are available as yet from any of the 18 states affiliated with the convention, but workers reported they were meeting with hearty response from the members, and leaders predicted the "every member canvass" would reach its goal.

Some churches had already conducted their campaigns, many had obtained more than their quota, but for the most part laymen, working under plans drawn by the various associations and directed by state officers, conducted a personal drive among members.

P. W. James, director of the Nashville association, said a preliminary check indicated Tennessee would raise more than its quota.

J. W. Katz, Louisiana promotional secretary, reported from Shreveport that 60,000 pledge cards had been called for by Louisiana members, 33 per cent more than last year.

Dr. C. A. Jones, of Columbia, said everyone of the 38 associations in South Carolina had been organized and there was reason to be "optimistic as to the results."

Dr. Fred Brown, promotional director for the canvass, said in Knoxville that no movement in the history of the denomination had met with such unanimous support of all members. He said the spirit shown by the church members was all the greater because of the economic situation all over the land. I am confident that our goal is going to be reached."

Figures Unavailable

State secretaries reported no definite figures on the drive would be available for at least two days.

The $40,000,000 every member campaign was authorized at the annual convention last May in Birmingham after J. H. Anderson, Knoxville, Tenn., financier and church worker, reported he had found a large number of members did not contribute to the church's program.

The various churches will retain approximately $31,000,000 of the budget and $9,000,000 will go to other church work, including missions, hospitals and educational institutions.

Southern Baptists Urged To Respond

A movement seeking the financial and spiritual support of each of the 4,000,000 constituent of the Southern Baptist Convention was started with the launching of the every member canvass in 24,000 churches in the 18 states covered by the convention.

"Southern Baptists face one of the high days in their history," Dr. F. F. Brown, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, who was drafted five months ago to lead the movement, said.

"We have reached the 'zero hour,' and the hour when every Baptist in the South should get into action and prove his love and loyalty for his church and the institutions through which it is doing its work," said Dr. Brown. "The week will determine very largely the success or failure of the work in the churches in 1932."

Despite prevailing economic conditions, Dr. Brown expressed confidence the $40,000,000 goal set by the convention in session at Birmingham last June will be reached. This amount is necessary, he said, to carry on the work of the church at home and in foreign fields.

SHOULTS SCHOOL

The Thanksgiving program given at Shoults School last Thursday, November 26 was enjoyed by all. The school children, led by Prof. P. L. Williams, gave an interesting program followed by a unique Thanksgiving address by Rev. Paul Oden. Among the many thoughtful sayings he said, "The hog eats acrons and never looks up to see from where they come. The man or woman who never stops to thank God for his food and shelter, a country that offers us freedom and justice, and the right to love, grow, and achieve, ceases to be a man or woman and becomes like the brute."

After which a delicious dinner was served by the parents and pupils of the community. The following people were present: Mrs. Daisy Jarrett, Mrs. Mollie and Lily Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oden, Mrs. Alice Oden, Mr. Silas Oden, Mr. Crit Oden, Mrs. S. C. Sewell, Mr. Jen Nichols, Mrs. Gus Wallace, Mrs. John Moore, Mr. Ben Bearden, and Mrs. Byrd Lawrence.

After dinner the young people met on the campus and played a game of base ball. Among the visitors was the charming daughter of Carson Snead, who lives in Centerville.

Our school is progressing nicely and is backed by a good school spirit. Our only hope is that all the schools of the county will get to go on a full term.

MRS. ALABAMA JANE GRANT

Mrs. Alabama Jane Grant, age 79 years, wife of Uncle Bob Grant, of Coopers, died Monday at the family home. Burial was at Chestnut Creek Tuesday with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton.

Mrs. Grant was the last memeber of the Elijah Devaughn family, from which is descended a long line of prominent citizens of Chilton County. She is survived by her husband and a family of nine sons and daughters.

The burial of Mrs. Grant was on her 79th birthday, and was attended by a great host of her friends, relatives, and acquaintances.

NEW JAIL READY FOR CUSTOMERS

Over 800 People Visited The Building Tuesday. Keys Given To Sheriff

Reconstruction of the Chilton County jail has been finished. The building was officially accepted and paid for in cash by the Commissioners Court Tuesday. The new building was open to the public all day Tuesday, and by invitation of the Commissioners Court, a great many people visited the jail and went through it from one end to the other.

The contract for the general building was done by Moore and Woolley, builders, of Birmingham. Mr. W. E. Gilbert was superintendent of construction. Everything was under the supervision of Mr. Gilbert, except the cell work, which was done by the Southern Prison Company, with Mr. E. W. Price supervising.

The heating and plumbing in the building was done by Mr. J. E. Gore, of Clanton, under supervision of Mr. Gilbert.

It was stated Tuesday that Moore and Woolley had 23 days to spare on the time of their contract, and that the Southern Prison Company went 106 days over their time.

The building is one of the finest and best of its kind in the State. It is perfection to the last degree in every appointment. The designing was done by architect Frank Lockwood, of Montgomery. The builders carried out the plans of Mr. Lockwood perfectly, and the result is a structure that is a perfect specimen of workmanship.

The building is steam heated throughout, with hot water available at all times. The heating is done by the large furnace that is installed in a cellar room on the outside and adjoining the main building. There is a drinking fount and toilet in every cell in the building. There are 8 shower baths. The building can take care of 40 prisoners at one time.

The locking device for opening and closing the cell doors is a combination affair which is beyond our explanation. The jailer can automatically open or close any one or all of the cells from the corridor of the building, merely by pushing a small lever with his hand.

While it is going to be a nice place to stay, it is at the same time most certain that a man, when locked up in this jail, will stay there until he comes out with permission of the sheriff. The cells are built of specially constructed steel that cannot be cut or sawed; and the cells do not touch the walls of the building. A high steel fence around the building will prevent anyone on the outside coming within several feet of the building. There will be no such a thing in the future as parties on the outside communicating with persons confined in the jail. The old practice of the prisoner lowering a string out of the window and pulling up a can of tobacco from the outside is no more.

There is nothing whatever in the building that a prisoner can tear up or demolish. The cots are made of solid steel fasened to the steel walls of the cells. They cannot be shaken or moved.

For the purpose of preventing a mob entering the jail, two high pressure water nozzles with three-inch jets are constructed both at the bottom and top of the stairway.

From the outside, the appearance of the building is beautiful. It is painted snow white, and has the appearance of a building built of the best white marble.

BAKER SAYS HELP PEOPLES PHONE CO.

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to say a few words to the patrons of the Peoples Telephone Company. This is a serious crisis through which we are passing, and money is hard to get hold of, but let me urge you not to set down on the telephone business. We must keep the business going. The board and myself are doing all we can, and so is the operator, Mr. Giles; but we can't do it all.

Everybody wants the phone business to keep going, but it takes some money to run anything. We have made the fee just as low as anyone could ask for. When the Peoples Telephone Company stops, then the people will realize what a hardship it is to do entirely without it. It will cost you more to get a doctor in time than a whole year's fee will be. So, come on and pay your fee as early as you can and help out with the matter.—Jesse Baker, president.

POWER COMPANY HAS 25TH BIRTHDAY ON DECEMBER 4

President Thomas W. Martin Sends Congratulations to Capt. W. P. Lay

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 4.—Today on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Alabama Power Company, the President, Thomas W. Martin, and other officers of the Company extended their congratulations and best wishes to Capt. W. P. Lay, the founder of the Company.

"I wish," said Mr. Martin, "in behalf of your friends and associates in the Company to extend you congratulations and best wishes and to express to you again our deep appreciation as citizens of Alabama of the vision and courage that you had in organizing the Company and sucesfully financing its undertakings. All Alabama should be proud of you for the contribution you have made to its growth and development.

"I feel deeply grateful," Capt. Lay said in response to this message, "for the privilege I had of organizing the Company and of bringing about its development, for as we look about in Alabama today, we can see that electric service is carried by my old company into the homes, industries and farms of all sections of the State, changing houses of drudgery into homes of comfort and leisure and taking labor from the backs of men and transferring it the electric motor. I am proud of the part I have taken in thus being of service to my native State."—Powergrams.

Bob Jones Revival Begins Here Jan. 3

Preaching By Rev. Elmer C. Miller, Evangelist, Of Indiana

Information has been received that the Bob Jones revival will begin in Clanton on Sunday night, January 3rd. The preaching will be done by Rev. Elmer C. Miller, evangelist, of South Bend, Indiana. The place of holding the meeting has not been definitely settled. In all probability it will be at the courthouse.

This meeting in Clanton will be one of many being held over the State of Alabama at the same time. It has been planned by Rev. Bob Jones to have one of these revival meetings going on in every county in Alabama at the same time.

Rev. Miller is recommended as an evangelist of great and unusual ability. We have seen testimonials of his work in many states and cities of this country, and all of them give him the highest praise as a powerful man of God.

The Daily Register, of Point Pleasant, West Virginia, has this to say of Rev. Miller:

"He possesses to a high degree the characteristics essential to a great evangelist. He is a devoted Christian, a fine organizer, has a profound knowledge of human nature and a great preacher. The wide scope of his intellectual powers and versatility are amazing. At one time he is a fire brand, burning the consequences of sin into the souls of men and women; at other times he is as refreshing as an April shower, bringing messages of wonderful tenderness and love. At times he reaches great heights of oratorical power, lifting his listeners to the highest realms of thought and spirit. Back of the preacher is a winning personality, a genial nature, a likeable man."

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Hughes Kennedy (Leona Pipes) entertained at a birthday party at her home in Birmingham last Saturday night in honor of the birthday of her father, Mr. H. T. Pipes, and Mr. Renfroe Mullins, of Clanton.

Accompanying Mr. Pipes and Mr. Mullins on this delightful occasion were the following Clanton friends: C. Fenn Jones, J. Lee Smith, P. T. Hinkle, Dr. J. P. Hayes and Frank J. Callen.

Last year Mr. Pipes and Mr. Mullins celebrated their birthday together at the home of Mr. Mullins in Clanton.

ALBERT RUCKER CAUGHT IN ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI

Albert Rucker, negro, of Clanton, was taken up by officers in St. Louis a few days ago. The negro was wanted by authorities here for skipping his bond. He was under indictment for violating the prohibition law in two charges.

Marion Gore, who was on his bond, left here Tuesday to bring the negro back to Clanton.

GRAVELING ROADS WILL BE STARTED AGAIN BY COUNTY

Work Will Be Given Only To Those Who Are Out Of Work And In Needy Circumstances

At a regular meeting of the Commissioners Court which convened on Monday, December 7, 1931, the question again arose and was discussed relative to the financial and distressed condition of some citizens of our County.

It will be recalled that during last year the Commissioners Court exempted all parties subject to road duty from road duty, and also employed teams, trucks and road hands to do graveling at the places needed on our roads. This movement, we feel, met with much success, both in a beneficial way to the roads of the County, as well as a material assistance to the needy of our County. The Court feels that to again repeat this movement will result in a great benefit to both the County and citizens.

The Commissioners Court, therefore, feels in full accord and sympathy with the depressed condition of many people, and being anxious and willing to assist wherever possible, to lessen the burdens of the taxpayers, when the same can be done without jeopardizing the functions and duties of the County, the Court, therefore, again passed an order relieving all persons subject to road duty from the payment of road tax or performance of road duty for the coming year of 1932.

The Court was also of the opinion that within the next month or two will be the most trying times to families who are needy and that a little financial assistance would be of more benefit now than probably at any other time. Therefore, the Court ordered that beginning immediately, the work of graveling the roads of our County, under the supervision of the Commissioners of their respective districts and also under the supervision of the road overseers, be begun, and it was also ordered that the sum of $5.00 per day be paid for each truck and driver with a dump body with a capacity of carrying not less than one yard of gravel per load; and that $2.50 per day be paid for each two-horse team and wagon and driver; and that $1.00 per day be paid for each laborer engaged in shoveling gravel or otherwise working on the roads, as the Commissioners and Overseers may direct. It was further ordered that all persons with trucks or teams or day laborers of their respective districts communicate with the Overseers or Commissioners of their respective district, who will make arrangements for this work.

The Court realizes that numerous persons last year made application and did work, who were already employed or who were not in needy or necessitious circumstances, and, as stated the purpose of this work is to help those in necessitious circumstances without jeopardizing the best interest of the County,

Therefore, the Court urgently requests that no persons make application who are already employed or who do not need this work, and only those apply who are in needy or necessitious circumstances, and the Court respectfully urges the Overseers to use their best discretion in this matter in order that only the needy may be employed. It was further ordered by the Court that all Overseers be prohibited from using their teams or trucks during this work and the Court will not pay any Overseer for his team or truck.

As the people of the County have already been informed, our taxes and revenue have been materially decreased on account of the reduction of the Alabama Power Company taxes by the State Tax Commission. However, we feel that the people of the County, who pay the taxes, are certainly first entitled to the return of any work or funds that the County can legally and properly expend and by paying a living wage we can benefit the distressed conditions and at the same time the County will get the benefit of this labor. We also respectfully request that all hands and parties receiving funds from the County, and which is necessary to spend for the necessities of life spend this money with the merchants and other businesses of our County, and we trust that the citizens will enter into this work with hearty cooperation and that the same will again result in the benefit of the County and in some degree in the prosperity of the citizens of our County.

Judge of Probate.

Meeting Next Monday In Interest Of Ditching Swamp Lands Near Clanton

A committee composed of L. H. Reynolds, Chairman, A. P. Vinson, J. M. Mims representing the county, W. L. Popwell and H. S. Shaw representing the town, Dr. Parrish and Dudley Collins representing the citizens, was appointed to investigate draining the swamps near Clanton.

The committee will meet at the Probate Office Monday, December 14th, at 10 o'clock a. m., and we invite all land owners that will be interested in having the swamps ditched and all parties who will be interested in work, such as ditching, claring cutting wood, etc., to meet said committee at time and place as stated.

This the 8th day of December, 1931.

L. H. REYNOLDS, Chairman.

UNEMPLOYMENT AID IS SOUGHT BY KIWANIANS

Local Situation Is Discussed At Recent Meeting With Action Looming Here

The last meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, held at the local Methodist church, brought forth the question of an unemployment condition that is existing, or will possibly exist in Clanton and Chilton County during the coming few months.

This matter was placed before the club by Judge L. H. Reynolds, who had Mayor J. Lee Smith present, who also discussed the question with members of the club. This meeting proved very interesting and JJ Mell Martin, president of the club, appointed a committee composed of Dan W. Haskew, Sam J. Ezell and Billy Smith, to appear before the Commissioners Court of Chilton County last Tuesday afternoon.

At the meeting of the Commissioners, this committee presented proposals and plans for the aiding of the unemployed of the County. This proposal was not in the form of work of charity, but was to devise means whereby those heads of families, who are unemployed and were needy, would be given work of some kind during the coming few months. Other plans for the aiding of the unemployed in the County this winter will probably be taken up and discussed by the Kiwanis Club at a later meeting.

Shall The County's Schools Be Stopped?

Teachers Will Decide The Question At Meeting Wednesday

Last week the County Board of Education arrived at the place where they had to find an answer to the question: Shall the schools of Chilton County stop at the end of the half term, or can a way be found to continue the schools for a full term?

In the hope of finding a satisfactory answer to this very important question the School Board called a meeting for last Thursday night, to which a group of leading citizens, business and professional men from all over the county were invited.

The gathering assembled at the Clanton Baptist church, where the ladies served them a delightful dinner.

County Superintendent, Lawrence, addressed the gathering, outlining in detail the financial crisis that has caused the present plight of the schools. Summarizing the situation, the conclusion was drawn that the failure of the State to pay to the county the school funds supposed to come for this year is the reason why the schools have not the money with which to proceed to a full term.

Prof. W. T. Bean, representing the teachers of the county, stated that he was authorized by the teachers association to say that the teachers would continue to carry out their contracts for the full year upon their faith that the State will pay its school funds to the county.

After a lengthy discussion of the situation from every angle, the meeting passed a resolution favoring the proposal of the teachers, and the County School Board assented to the proposition of entertaining this offer on the part of the teachers.

Accordingly, a meeting of all the teachers of the county was called for Wednesday afternoon of this week. The purpose of the meeting of the teachers is to place the matter before the entire body of teachers and have a definite understanding between them and the county board on the matter.

The meeting is being held at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon as this paper is being printed. What the outcome will be, we are not able to say here. But the indications are that the teachers will agree with the county board that they will continue to teach their schools out to a full term on the promise of the board that they will be paid if and when the state pays its obligations to the county.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER

Attention is called to the fact that the present session of the County Board of Registrars is nearing the close, and any persons in the county who are entitled to register and become qualified voters are urged to take note of the fact and come to see the Registrars at once.

The closing days for registration are December 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, at the courthouse. Any person in any beat in the county who is entitled to register may do so at the courthouse any of these days.

DRAINING SWAMP PROPOSED AGAIN

Matter Considered By County And City Officials Monday

The question of clearing, ditching, and draining the swamps around Clanton has come up for consideration again. This is a matter so important to this community that it will not stay down.

The commissioners court of Chilton County, in conjunction with the Mayor and Council of Clanton, and a number of interested citizens opened the matter again Tuesday, and took steps looking to accomplishment of some kind of a plan. A committee from the Kiwanis Club of Clanton was in on the proposition. After considerable discussion of the question a committee was appointed to further pursue the formation of plans. The committee is composed of A. P. Vinson and J. M. Mims, representing the county; H. S. Shaw and W. L. Popwell, representing the town; Dudley Collins and Dr. W. L. Parrish, representing the citizens who have property in the swamps. This committee chose Judge Reynolds as chairman.

The committee authorized the chairman to call a meeting for Monday December 14, to which is invited all persons who have property in the swamp area, and all who would be interested in securing employment in the the work of clearing and ditching the swamps. Meanwhile the committee will get together and seek to work out some definite plan of procedure.

This question is of great moment. The swamps ought to be drained. There are lots of folks who need the work. It will make a dandy combination from every standpoint. We hope it works.

Another interesting item of news from Commissioners Court Tuesday was the action of that body in calling off the road working by individuals for the year 1932. Similar action was taken for the year 1931, and it met the hearty approval of everybody, especially those who would have been subject to road duty.

The Commissioners accepted the new jail at noon Tuesday, paid the contractors in cash for the job, and delivered the keys to Sheriff Gillespie. The contract price for the job was $31,116. The amount paid by the court Tuesday was $30,056, being a reduction of $1,060 from the contract. The latter amount is the penalty against the Southern Prison Company for running over their contract time in finishing their part of the job.

The matter of stopping the big road machines was taken up by the court Tuesday. While nothing definite was done, it is most likely that the court will soon order the machines stopped. The court further plans to institute another graveling program for the county roads during this winter, whereby many unemployed people may get work. This plan was put into operation last winter, and worked out with great satisfaction to the county officials and much good to those who needed the work.

MRS. ALICE FRANKLIN

Mrs. Alice Franklin, age 69, died last Thursday at her home west of Thorsby. Burial was at Pleasant Grove west of Jemison Friday with Martin in charge. Mrs. Franklin was the widow of the late James Franklin, who died a few months ago. She was a daughter of Wilson Davenport.

THANKS EXPRESSED BY ORPHANS HOME

A letter from Rev. J. O. Colley, superintendent of the orphanage at Troy, wishes his appreciation broadcast to everyone who had a part in the car of produce recently made up by the Chilton-Unity Associations. He said: "I think I have written you already but as I looked over the freight and saw what a quantity, I just felt like I must write you again." He stated further that he wished he might send a personal letter to everyone who had a part, but that is impossible.

The committee wishes also to thank the people for their fine spirit of cooperation in the making up of this car for "our children." Thanking you, we are, very sincerely.—J. W. Jones, Homer Carroll, G. F. Harris, W. I. Mullins, Committee.

Miss Maye Dennis of Clanton is spending this week with Miss Lorene Pyron of Deatsville. They will be in Elmore Wednesday on business. Miss Dennis is planning to return to her home the latter part of the week.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

FARM STORAGE OF COTTON NOT SAFE

Auburn, Ala. Dec. 9.—Unless the Alabama cotton growers are not careful they are certain to incur heavy losses on cotton stored on farms this winter. In travelling over the state Prof L. N. Duncan of Auburn has observed much cotton on farm premises, a great deal of it having no protection against the weather, he said. Where this occurs, cotton is certain to deteriorate and the net result will be a reduced value to the owners.

In studying weather damage to bales of cotton the U. S. Department of Agriculture found that it ran as high as 273 pounds per 500-lb. bale, placed flat on the ground with no protection. On edge the loss was 109 pounds; bales on edge turned weekly lost 64.5 pounds; bales placed on end and not turned lost 117 pounds; while bales placed on timbers off the ground and turned once a week lost 19.5 pounds. Bales stored in a well constructed warehouse lost only 4 pounds.

Consequently, a farmer who wishes to hold his cotton on his farm should store it under a good shed, placing the bales off the ground, Mr. Duncan added. Cotton well stored this way will lose very little, although it is held at the owner's risk, because such cotton is not subject to insurance.

For insurance and loans cotton must be stored in a bonded warehouse and the better the type of warehouse the lower the insurance rate and the safer is the loan risk. On the other hand, farmers can store cotton in their barns or similar places with practically no cost to them, rather than the risk and inability to get loans on it. In either case it should be kept dry and off the ground.

LOSS FROM MOTH DAMAGE HERE SET AT $3,000

Clanton homemakers are paying tribute to the moth to the tune of $3,000 a year.

This is the estimate of the Rex Research Foundation, Chicago, which calculates this as the dollars-and-cents loss from damage sustained by local families from moth-ruined upholstery, fabrics, furs and clothing every twelve months. The figure is based on a total national annual loss of $250,000,000 or roughly, ten dollars per family.

"A thief with a taste for treasures" is the way the Foundation characterizes the moth. A moth prefers to breakfast on the finest woolens, lunch on costly furs and dine on the most prized upholstery. There are four stages in the life cycle of a moth but the second stage or larvae stage, which lasts from fifteen to twenty weeks, is when the most damage is done. If every housewife were to make a regular practice of spraying for moths, many of the heartaches that now follow the loss of treasured household articles would be eliminated, the Foundation believes.

For complete protection against moths the Foundation recommends three steps:

All clothing, furs and fabrics to be stored should be well shaken out and thoroughly brushed. Special care should be taken to brush beneath the coat lapels and in the pockets, folds and creases. As moths seem to prefer soiled garments and fabrics, washing or dry cleaning helps to discourage infectation. The next step is to air these articles in the sunshine for a day. Strong light destroys all forms of moth life. Finally, to make moth annihilation complete, the garments as well as the walls, cracks and shelves of closets and interior of trunks, drawers and other containers are sprayed with an effective moth spray. A good spray not only kills any moths which have been left after cleaning, shaking, brushing and airing, but keeps away or kills any new moths that venture near. Spraying thoroughly into closets and containers every two weeks gives complete and continued protection.

Lesson for December 13

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

GOLDEN TEXT—And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last: I am he that liveth, and was dead, and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.

LESSON TEXT—Revelation 1:1-20.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Heavenly Home.

JUNIOR TOPIC—John's Vision of Heaven.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—John Sees the Ever-living Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Glorified Saviour.

We should be glad that the lesson committee has given us another lesson from the Book of Revelation, which contains Christ's last message to man.

I. The Preface (1:1-3).

1. The title of the book (v. 1). The Revelation (unveiling) of Jesus Christ. The revelation of Jesus Christ refers to his personal appearing in glory to judge the world and to establish his kingdom. The word "apocalypse," translated "revelation," signifies according to New Testament usage the unveiling of a person (II Thess. 1:6-10; I Pet. 1:7). The theme of the book is Christ's second coming, his personal, visible appearance in glory (vv. 1, 7, 10).

2. To whom made known (vv. 1, 2). To his servant John—"To show unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass."

3. A benediction to those who read, hear, and keep the sayings of the book (v. 3). It must be possible to understand these sayings, or the promise is meaningless.

II. The Salutation (vv. 4-8).

1. To whom (v. 4). The seven churches then existing in Asia Minor. Seven, the number of completeness, suggests a symbolism of the Church throughout her course.

2. From whom (v. 4).

a. From him which was, and is, and is to come.

b. From the seven spirits which are before the throne—the Holy Spirit in his seven-fold plenitude as set forth in Isaiah 11:2, also in the Gospel of John.

c. From Jesus Christ (vv. 5-7). While presenting Christ as the gracious Redeemer, John's prophetic eye caught the vision of the Coming One in glory, exclaiming, "Behold he cometh" (v. 7), the Alpha and Omega (v. 8).

III. The Vision of Glory (vv. 9-18).

1. The seven golden lamp stands (v. 12). These candlesticks are the churches (v. 20), thus presented because they are the light holders in this world's darkness.

2. The Son of man in the midst of the candlesticks (vv. 13-18). Christ in the midst of the churches indicates that they give forth light only when Christ is the central figure.

a. "Clothed with a garment down to the foot" (v. 13). This is a royal as well as a priestly robe (Isa. 22:21), and signifies his right to judge and to rule, as well as to offer sacrifice.

b. His head and hair white as wool (v. 14, cf. Dan. 7:19, 20). This has a twofold significance—purity and eternity.

c. Eyes as a flame of fire (v. 14). This suggests his infallible knowledge.

d. Feet like burnished brass (v. 15). This indicates that he comes as Judge and King, with irresistible power.

e. His voice as the sound of many waters (v. 15). His voice of judgment will be outside of man's control. All excuses will be swept aside by his resistless word.

f. Seven stars in his right hand (v. 16). According to verse twenty, stars mean the messengers of the churches, perhaps pastors or representatives sent forth to comfort John in his lonely exile. The minister lies in the right hand of Jesus Christ, hears his message, and speaks it out.

g. Out of his mouth was a sharp two-edged sword (v. 16). Observe that this is a mouth sword. "The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him" (John 12:48). "The word of God is sharper than any two-edged sword" (Heb. 4:12). The two edges indicate its double action, condemning the evil and approving the good and excellent.

h. His countenance was as the sun shining in his strength (v. 16). The effect of sunshine is healthful and joyous to some things, while it is death dealing to others. The sunshine of God's love cheers some while it hardens others. The manifestation of the glorified king will be hailed with delight by those who love him, and will create dismay in those who do not love him.

MILLER REFUSES COTTON SESSION

Gov. B. M. Miller has declined to call a special session of the Alabama legislature to consider laws enabling Alabama to join in a South-wide movement to reduce cotton acreage 50 per cent in 1932 and 1933.

"This plan to restrict the planting of cotton to 30 per cent of the tillable soil is unconstitutional, impracticable and unenforceable," Gov. Miller said.

Agricultural forces of the state urged that Alabama join the movement. The plan would have reduced the Alabama cotton acreage only 25 per cent of its 1931 acreage. After the Governor declined to call a special session the farm leaders of the State made the following proposal to other states:

"If other states will let cotton legislation stand the agricultural forces of Alabama will undertake to secure the reduction alotted to this state by a voluntary legal contract. We have the organization to accomplish this and is the only way in which we can cooperate with other states."

FARMERS ARE BASIS OF STATE PROSPERITY

Alabama farmers are the basis of prosperity in the state and the way to boost trade is by helping growers.

This is the belief of the Alabama Industrial Development Board, Birmingham, which says:

"The industrial prosperity of Alabama is largely dependent upon an increase in the purchasing power of the Alabama farmer."

Mr. Reno Nativi of Birmingham spent last week in Clanton.

PROTECT BUILDINGS FROM FOREST FIRES

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 7.—Woods and grass fires should be guarded against by landowners having buildings located in or adjacent to extensive grass or woodland areas, states the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Used building should be kept clear of combustible materials for at least twenty-five feet around them. Beyond this distance grass should be kept mowed short for another one hundred and fifty feet. Dead wood, stumps and other combustible debris should be removed from these spaces. In the case of unused buildings, in addition to the foregoing, a firebreak eight or ten feet wide should be plowed on the outside edge of the cleared and mowed space.

The practice of removing the combustible material for only a few feet from a building and then setting fire to the inflamable grass and leaves often results in much damage. Fire may be inadvertently communicated to the very building it is desired to protect. If the fire is permitted to get into fields and woods it often destroys the buildings, fences and crops of neighbors besides doing tremendous damage to the fields and timberlands through which it burns.

Edith Thompson spent the week end in Montgomery with Miss Miraim Tucker. While there she attended the Tuscaloosa-Lanier football game.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds spent the week end in Atlanta with Mr. Reuben Reynolds.

Mr. Thomas A. Gragg left for Mobile Thursday and sailed on the shipping board steamer, West Maximus, for Liverpool, England.

CLANTON CASH STORE
Puts on Another Drastic
PRICE CUTTING SALE

We understand that Jesse Baker, a member of the firm, and manager of the dry goods department, desires to quit the business, and their intentions are to sell out to someone the first of the year. But before doing this they are turning their stock over to Mr. Clarkson, the famous sales manager, with authority to make prices far below cost on most all merchandise, thus giving our customers the benefit of buying this high-class stock of goods at lower prices than cheap goods can be bought. We prefer to do this rather than give the benefit all to one person.

This stock consists of dry goods, clothing, and the famous all-leather Red Goose Shoes. You will buy strictly $5.00 dress shoes in this sale for $2.95. Everything else in proportion.

This will be your last chance to buy high-class merchandise at these prices. DON'T MISS IT!

UNION GROVE

The B. Y. P. U. of Union Grove Baptist Church will have a tacky party Thursday night, December 10, at the home of Mrs. T. J. Dorminey.

Those who come dressed tacky will be admitted for ten cents; otherwise the admission will be 25 cents. The parents of the community have a special invitation and all the B. Y. P. U. members, too.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. at this place are just fine. The social given at the home of Mr. P. M. Martin Friday night was a real success. It was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Misses Delene Collum and Dorothy Littlefield dined with Miss Nellie Barnett Sunday.

Mr. Harlem Daniel visited his parents at Lomax Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Bonnie Hilson spent Sunday with Miss Pearl Chandler.

Mrs. Leona Dorminey and daughter, Miss Jessie Dorminey, spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Misses Edna and Amy Robinson spent Sunday with Misses Artelle and Onzelle Thrash.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Martin are the proud parents of a fine baby boy, weighing 9 pounds.

Misses Amye Porter and Rubye Williams visited Misses Homasine and Lafoil Dorminey a while Sunday afternoon.

Several from this place attended the singing at Mineral Springs and Oak Grove Sunday afternoon.

Miss Winnie Kate Robinson is spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. A. Vernon Northcutt, at Gorgas, Ala.

Next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching dates. There will be preaching by the pastor, Rev. J. Robert Bean. Everybody come. The United Singing Society will meet at this place Sunday afternoon.

CHRISTIAN HARMONY SINGING

There will be singing in the Christian Harmony books at Shiloh, two and one-half miles south of Calera, the third Sunday in this month, beginning at two o'clock. Everybody is invited to come and bring your book.—R. A. Barnett.

And when the little boy overheard his teacher say that there had been a collision, he asked her the meaning of 'collision'.

"A collision," she said, "is when two things come together unexpectedly. Now, can you give me an example of collision."

"Sure," said the little boy, 'twins.'

Well Rastus, so you want me to defend you. Have you any money?

No suh, I haint got no money, but I got a 1922 model Fo'd cah.

Well, you can raise some money on that. Now, let's see — just what do they accuse you of stealing?

A 1922 Fo'd cah.

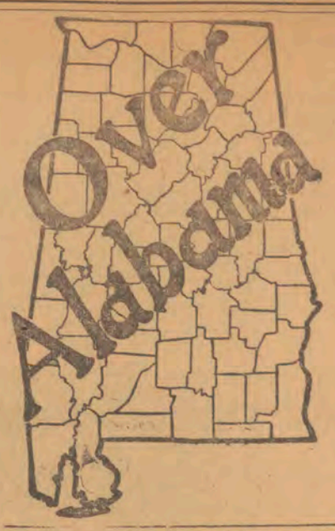
MAGAZINE IS PAL OF BOYS

Those boyhood years between the ages of ten and twenty are the impressionable years — the formative years when the fundamental character of a boy is molded into the pattern it will maintain throughout the remainder of his life.

That is why so much importance is placed on the factors that govern the lives of abolescent boys—their companions, their environment, their reading and the food they eat, etc. At this age is determined whether the boy will develop into a cheerful or surly man, selfish or generous, intelligent or dull, ambitious or indolent.

School teachers, librarians, or Scout leaders and others engaged in boy activities have found that the American Boy—Youth's Companion magazine is one of the most favorable influences a boy between ten and twenty can have. Its stories and articles are a force for good—wholesome, alive, inspiring.

The million or so boys who read this magazine every month consider it their closest friend. In it they find the keenest entertainment, adventure, mystery, Athletics, aviation, humor, everything that delights a live-wire american boy. Its sports articles by famous coaches and athletes help boys win places on their school teams. Its professional articles and biographical aid them in selecting their life's work. It's keenly analytical editorials guide them in their daily problems.



That boy or young man in whom you are interested would have a world of pleasure reading The American Boy — Youth's Companion. Make a subscription to this magazine your gift to him. Subscription prices are only $2.00 for one year, or $3.00 for three years. Mail your order direct to The American Boy —Youth's Companion, 550 W. Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

A congressman's wife, waking him in the middle of the night, told him there were robbers in the house.

"Impossible," said the congressman. "There may be robbers in the Senate, but not in the house."

Wife—Dear, tomorrow is our tenth wedding anniversary. Shall I kill a turkey?

Hubby—No, let him live. He did not have anything to do with it.

Mr. W. F. DeShazo of Isabella was in Clanton Monday attending Commissioners Court.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. A. J. GRANT

On November 30th the death angel visited the home of Mr. R. T. Grant and took away the beautiful spirit of our dear grandmother, Mrs. A. J. Grant.

Grandmother had been ill for several months, and oh, how she did suffer; but she was brave, and said she was ready to meet her God.

She was always kind and good, and was loved by all who knew her; and we know she is so happy with loved ones who have gone before.

We must let her life be a shining light that will lead us safely over there, where we'll meet her never to part any more. It is so lonesome here without her and she will be missed by everyone. No more we'll hear her sweet voice and see her sweet smiles, but we know her smiles are much brighter up there, where she will suffer no more pain and troubles, for she is sweetly singing around the throne of God.

All was done to relieve her pain and keep her with us that loving hands could do, but Jesus whispered "come home," and we'll give you rest. Grandmother was 79 years old December the first, and was the mother of ten children, one deceased. She was a member of the Baptist church. She was laid to rest at Chestnut Creek, Rev. Ezell conducting the funeral services, with Martin in charge.

She's living in that city up yonder,
Where the streets are all made of gold;
We pray some day to meet her,
In that land where we'll never grow old.

OCTOBER BUSINESS GAIN EXCEPTIONAL

Atlanta, Dec. 1.—Retain trade in the Sixth Reserve District increased during October over the gain usually recorded for the month, the current report of the federal reserve bank here shows.

The increase was given at 33.7 per cent as compared with 26.8 per cent last year and 23.6 for 1929. Price comparisons were not taken into account, however.

"There were further increases in October over September in the volume of trade at both retail and wholesale," the report said. "And in volume of bank debits at reporting cities of the district, but all these measures of business activities continue lower than at his time last year.

Deposits, both demand and time, declined, but outstanding Federal reserve bank creditss at the Atlanta bank reached the highest level of any date in three years on Oct. 21, because of increases in discounts and in holdings of purchased bills. On Nov 11 it was only slightly lower than on Oct. 21.

The November estimate of the cotton crop increased. The total crop estimate for the district was 3.9 per cent smaller than in 1930. Consmption of cotton in three states having figures available was 11.1 per cent higher for three months of the cotton season from August through October than at the same time in 1930.

The sixth Federal Reserve District is made up of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, and parts of Tennessee, Mississippi and Lousiana.

Twenty-Millionth Ford Car Visited Clanton on Tuesday of This Week

Prominent Citizens of Clanton Meet Noted Vehicle and Welcome Manager Atlanta Agency

The twenty-millionth Fard car, now on a county-wide tour, visited Clanton Tuesday morning. Arriving a short while before eleven o'clock, the epochal vehicle was escorted from the city limits to the place of Clanton Motors, where it and its driver were efficienly welcomed by Mr. T. J. Littlejohn, manager of the local Ford agency.

Prominent citizens of Clanton, who met the twenty-millionth Ford at the city limits and escorted it to the show place were: Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, Mayor J. Lee Smith, John C. Page, of the First National Bank, Billy Smith, editor of the Chilton County News, and W. M. Wyatt, editor of The Union-Banner. With the party of greeting was Miss Ruth Sessions, who was official sponsor of Clanton Motors. The escorting party rode in a Lincoln sedan as guests of Mr. R. J. Burke, manager of the Atlanta Lincoln agency.

In spite of the extremely bad weather of the day, a large crowd of interesed Ford enthusiasts were on hand to greet the twenty-millionth Ford car and its party of Ford representatives.

Accompanying the twenty-millionth Ford was a caravan of nineteen deluxe model Fords, two especially equipped broadcasting cars and a big Lincoln sedan. When the party had arrived and everything was placed in order as properly as clock-work, the visiting representatives of Ford with the local citizens composing the welcoming committee, assembled in the large show room of Clanon Motors. After a brief welcoming ceremony, the names of the local welcoming committee were inscribed in the official log of the touring party.

Short talks were made by C. D. Hilton, personal representative of Mr. Ford, and Mr. E. D. Bottom, assistant manager of the Atlanta Ford branch.

The party then went outside and gathered beside the twenty-millionth Ford, where the official Ford photographer made pictures of the scenes in which Miss Ruth Sessions, lovely sponsor for Clanton Motors, presented to the official representative of Mr. Ford a lovely bouquet of chrysanthemums. Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, on behalf of Chilton County, presented to the Ford representaive, a watermelon bearing the inscription: "In commemoration of the visit of the twenty-millionth Ford to Clanton, Alabama, December 8th, 1931."

By way of explanation, we should say that the watefmelon, made of wood, was mounted on a pedestal. It was a perfect reproduction, made in the shops of Perry Body Shop. It will go to the Ford museum at Detroit and be preserved with other trophies gathered by the twenty-millionth Ford from all over the United States.

The names of the official Ford representatives who accompanied the twenty-millionth Ford to our city were: Mr. C. D. Hilton, personal representative of Mr. Henry Ford; Mr. E. D. Bottom, assistant manager of the Atlanta Ford branch; Mr. R. J. Burke, manager of he Atlanta Lincoln agency; Mr. L. E. Kendrick, zone manager for Ford Motor Co.; Mr. Michael Omalave, official photographer for Ford Motor Co.

The pictures which were made of the occasion Tuesday will be a part of a pictorial story of the country-wide tour of the twenty-millionth Ford, and will be shown in motion pictures all over the United States. Perhaps some day we shall be able to see these pictures shown in Clanton. In a few days Clanton Motors will have a supply of the pictures to give to their friends as souvenirs.

When the twenty-millionth Ford completes its tour of the country, it will be preserved with other famous automobiles in Greenfield Village, Henry Ford's reproduction near Dearborn, Michigan of an early American village.

Leaving Clanton, the car was scheduled to spend the night at Gadsden. The famous car was assembled in the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn Michigan on April 14th of this year, in the presence of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

Contemplation of what the production of twenty million automobiles means may be easier if it is recalled that a total of only twenty-seven million motor vehicles — passenger automobiles, trucks, and commercial cars and busses of all kinds—were registered in the entire country.

Or to put it another way, allowing less than the usual space between them, an area as large as the District of Columbia would be required to park twenty-million Fords. If placed bumper to bumper, they would stretch approximately 48,296 miles —within 1,508 miles of enough to twice girdle the earth at the equator.

THANKS FROM PILOT CLUB

The members of the Pilot Club of Clanton wish to publicly express their thanks to all who contributed in any way to the success of their play, "Oh, Professor!" which was put on at the Wadesonian Theatre Tuesday night. The club especially thanks those who served in the cast, and Mr. Wade for the use of the theatre.

TOWN IS WITHOUT TAXES OR DEBTS

Frankton, Ind. — This Madison County town of 1,000 populaton is absolutely taxless and without a cent of bonded indebtedness. Officials have announced that no taxes will be collected next year.

Municipal ownership of water and electric utilities is responsible, according to Orla F. Cooper, town clerk and treeasurer.

The town buys electric current from a privately owned company, but operates the distribution system. It has 300 light current patrons and five power consumers. Charges are on a monthly basis, eight cents for the first 40 kilowatt hours and 4 cents for all over the first 40.

The municipal waterworks has 150 patrons. No meters are used and customers pay $4 a year and up, depending on whether the water is used for baths or sprinkling.

Consumption for the town includes current for 66 street lights and there are 38 fire hydrants.

Cooper reported that $15,000 has been spent to improve the light system from the company's earnings. Until this year, the town tax rate ranged from 25 to 35 cents, but now it is down to zero.

Here's Miss Europe

Mlle. Jeanne Juilla of France, selected as the most beautiful woman of that country, has received the added honor of being chosen "Miss Europe." She will be seen in international beauty contests in America this year.

TWENTY MILLIONTH FORD VISITS CLANTON

Henry Ford and his son, Edsel Ford (left) with the Twenty Millionth Ford car and the first Ford. The latter was produced in 1893, and the Twenty Millionth Ford now on a nation-wide tour, was driven off the assembly line by Henry Ford on April 14 last. It visited Clanton last Tuesday, stopping at Clanton Motors. For story see front page.

LAY DAM

(By Elery Hanson)

We are sorry to report the death of Mr. Herbert Loy, Jr., one-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Thomason, on November 3rd. Their many friends, not only in this camp, but over the entire system, extend to Mr. and Mrs. Thomason their heartfelt sympathy.

We had a pleasant surprise the other day when W. E. Mitchell drove out to our camp for a short visit. He was on his way from Atlanta to Montevallo. It has been several years since W. E. has been to our camp. We are sorry that he could not stay longer, for to know him is to think of him as a friend.

The Lay Dam Boy Scouts have been given permission to have a Court of Honor separate from the troop in Clanton. The following men have been elected to serve on the Court: Messrs. S. R. Powers, R. A. Hudson, W. A. Marcus, A. V. Martin, and E. L. Hanson. On October 31st the first Court of Honor was held in the Scout den. Owen Deal and Searcy Martin passed their tests and were promoted to First Class Scouts.

The squirrels over in Coosa County must have some kind of a mutual agreement with George Wilkinson. Yesterday George and several men from camp started hunting. Soon after crossing the river, he started out in a different direction from that taken by the others. There is nothing strange about this, but when they found him he was sitting by a large camp fire roasting hickory nuts. I have a sneaking idea he didn't even look for any squirrels. But why did he go to all the trouble of taking his gun with him? Britt Deal says that maybe he was afraid that the squirrels would take all of the hickory nuts from him.

Anyone who has any information on a three pound box of Norris candy, sent from Atlanta, Ga., please wire at his expense.

A few nights ago we heard a certain young lady scream, and as she had just received a telegram from some place in Georgia, we thought sure she had received bad news. A short time after that, we saw Jim Lecroy acting as a chaffeur for Miss Ethel Mize, one of our school teachers. After seeing the healthy smile she was wearing, I know it must have been good news.

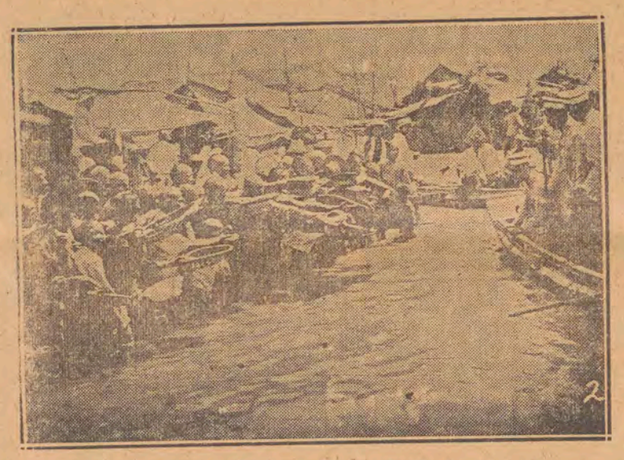
The Spring Trotteur

The spring trotteur is a one-piece frock, preferably done in tweeds. The dress in the picture is of green and white mixture, with touches of white pique at the neckline and cuffs.

REPAIRING BROKEN TOYS

The school children in Miss Bess Thomas's room at the Clanton Grammar School announce that they are gathering up broken toys and repairing them, and will give them to poor children at Christmas time. It is further stated that anyone who has a broken toy is requested to bring or send same to the school. It will be repaired and given to some worthy child at Christmas.

This is a noble spirit on the part of the school children. The idea if carried out will bring a measure of joy and happiness to some children whose Christmas might otherwise be nothing but an empty stocking.



RANDALL-FARLEY

Cordial interest centers in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Esther Louise Farley, well known in Clanton, and Mr. Robert Taylor Randall. The marriage was solemnized Saturday at the home of Dr. S. J. Ezell, officiating minister. Her sister, Miss Maxine Farley, and Mr. Herman Jones, a friend of the groom, were the only witnesses.

The bride was becomingly attired in traveling costume and immediately after the wedding the couple left for Nashville, Tennessee.

Mr. Randall is a Nashville-known business man in his city, where he and his bride will make their home.

MRS. STAPP'S FATHER ILL

Mrs. Cohen E. Stapp received a messagge last Thursday from her home at Fernbank, stating that her father, Dr. Seay, was thought to be dying. She and Mr. Stapp left at once to go to see him.

Later messages from Mr. Stapp the first of this week state that Dr. Seay continues in a very serious condition.

MARRIAGE OF MISS KATHRYN HAYES AND MR. JAMES WADE

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Hayes and Mr. James Wade was an event of more than usual interest Tuesday, owing to the wide acquaintance and popularity of the young couple.

The wedding ceremony was a quiet affair at the Methodist Parsonage at six o'clock Tuesday evening. The only attendants were three friends, Mr. Hubert Johnson, of Brundidge, Miss Helen Helms, of Brundidge, and Miss Jean Warren, of Womans College, Montgomery. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. D. W. Haskew.

Immediately after the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Wade left in their car for a ten-day trip through Florida. Their plans may be made to extend their honeymoon to Cuba. They will return by way of Biloxi, for a visit with Alex Hayes. Upon their return to Clanton they will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade.

The bride is the lovely daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes, of Clanton. She is one of the most popular of Clanton's young ladies. While a student at Womans College in Montgomery she formed the acquaintance of many admiring friends throughout Alabama.

Mr. Wade is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade, of Clanton. He is owner and manager of the Clanton Ice Company, in which capacity he ranks among the leading young business men of the city.

The many friends of Jim and Kahtryn join in extending very best wishes for a life of happiness together.

Concord-Billingsley

We had a real good singing Sunday afternoon. It was well attended and a large part of them were singers; some from several places. We were indeed glad of their presence and cooperation, and extend to every one a cordial invitation to attend our singing on every first Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Not only are the singers invited, but all lovers of singing also.

Our Sunday school and Christian Endeavor is moving on nicely just now. But as it is drawing near the close of another year we hope that each and every one of our members will make a new resolution and try to do more in all departments of the church during this coming year than we have during the past year.

We would not forget to speak in regard to our Junior Christian Endeavor. We have a real smart bunch of Juniors, and they surely do seem interested in their work.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hicks and children of Billingsley visited Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams and family Sunday.

Mr. Ernest Klinner and Misses Annie Klinner and Gertie Mae Owens of Sardis community were visitors at the Shaw home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bessie Williams was the guest of Miss Allie Williams Sunday afternoon.

Messrs. Clarence and Charlie Williams spent some time during the past week at the home of their uncle, Mr. C. P. Deramus, of Maplesville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Cowart spent the day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw, Sunday.

Messrs. Olin and Hudson Williams spent Thursday night of the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hicks of Billingsley.

Miss Jettie Williams visited Miss Bowena Surles Sunday afternoon.

CARD OF THANKS

Just a few words of thanks to all of my friends who so faithfully helped me in the sickness and death of my dear, loving wife.

May God bless you all, and may you all ever feel that I am your real friend; and I will ever pray that God will bless you for what you have done for me and my good wife in this great time of trouble.

May God bless all who gave those beautiful flowers as a token of their love to my dear wife, and all those who so faithfully helped in the burial work. May God bless those who so beautifully rendered those quartets. And, may God bless Rev. Ezell for the good, tender, sympathetic talk he made to us all. I also thank Brother Martin for the kind, faithful way he so beautifully did his part. May God bless you all.—R. T. Grant.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

There is going to be a Christmas festival at Isabella School Thursday night, December 24th. There will be all kinds of games, contests, side shows, fortune telling, cake walk, fish pond, and many other interesting things. So this will be a good place to go on Christmas eve if you are looking for lots of fun and a good time. Come on boys and let's see who can get this cake and catch the biggest fish. The fun starts at Seven o'clock; so, be there on time. Proceeds will go to pay for an electric clock the Senior Class has installed.—Morris Keen. 3t

NEW SALEM SOCIAL CLUB

New Salem Social Club will meet December 17th at New Salem Church. Let every member be present on this day, as it is our last meeting in the year of 1931.

We have small crowds, and are working slow, but still covering ground. The few who attend these meetings would be glad to have larger crowds.

The best thing we hope for are those which are most largely within our own power. We may not be able to foretell whether during the year the crops will have favorable weather. We may not know whether the particular business interests in which we are engaged will prosper or languish, but we do know that whatever industry or energy, discretion or wisdom, we put into them will bear abundant results. We cannot tell certainly whether uninterrupted health and peace will reign in our households, but we know that it will depend largely upon our obedience to the laws of the body and our faithful and loving care of and influence over those near and dear to us.

We do not know the details of our social life, what friend we may lose or gain, yet we know that faithfulness, loyalty and unselfishness on our part will insure to us pure and happy social relations. — Neacie Mims.

During the past week the Sheriff's office has made 1 arrest for grand larceny, 1 for assault and battery, and 3 for violating the prohibition law.

D. Y. JOHNSTON DIED SUDDENLY TUESDAY NIGHT

D. Y. Johnston, age 52 years, prominent business man of Clanton, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home about 10 o'clock Tuesday night. Mr. Johnston was in his usual state of health Tuesday, attending to his business. He ate his supper Tuesday night and went to bed. After a little while his wife was attracted by his heavy breathing. When she got to him he was practically dead. A doctor was quickly summoned and pronounced it a heart attack.

Mr. Johnston is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lee (Batson) Johnston; three sons, Tom, George, and Ralph; two daughters, Margaret and Janie. He was a son of Drew Johnston, of Coosa County.

Mr. Johnston came to Clanton from Rockford several years ago. For a long time he was engaged in the livery business. In recent years his business was trading horses and mules.

Burial arrangements are in charge of Martin and Sons. The funeral will be at Clanton Baptist Church today (Thursday) at 2 o'clock p. m., conducted by Rev. Ezell. Burial will be in Clanton cemetery, with the W. O. W. taking a part.

The Union-Banner has received a subscription from Wm. Jones at Fort George G. Mead, Maryland. We do not know Mr. Jones personally. We presume, however, that he is a Chilton County man who is enlisted in the army. We are glad to send him the paper and hope that its visit to him each week will help to keep strong the ties of friendship and love for the folks back home.

WILLIAM NEWTON CULP

William Newton Culp, age 62, died at his home east of Coopers last Thursday. Burial was at the Moore graveyard Friday with Martin in charge. Mr. Culp is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Culp.

FIREMEN LOSE TO TOWN, 33-13

The football team made up from the force of the Clanton Fire Department lost to the team made up of former football players in Clanton known as the Town Team, 33 to 13, last Friday afternoon on the local field. For the first quarter it looked like a real battle, but the excess weight of the town team soon began to tell, and the lighter Firemen's team was snowed under.

The game was expected to be a fun frolic, and came up to this expectation in a big way. All who attended were well satisfied with the show, as laughs came thick and fast throughout the fray, as the two untrained teams, many members of which had never played football before, scrambled around on the slick field.

The show was staged for the purpose of raising money with which to purchase slickers and hats for the fire force, and $40.00 was realized, including $5.00 donated by Judge L. H. Reynolds. Judge Reynolds said he attended a college game at Montgomery not long ago at a cost of $5.00, and that he saw a better game Friday than he did at Montgomery, so he was willing to give the boys the same amount it cost him to see the college game.

The Firemen wish to thank the fellows who came out to form the town team and make the game possible. They also thank all who attended the game, especially Judge Reynolds for his contribution.

The lineups were as follows:

Firemen—Milton Smith, left end; Earl Gore, left tackle; Eddie Wyatt, left guard; Courtland Retherford, center; Wilbur Searbrough, right guard; Arthur Broadhead, right tackle; Rufus Brown, right end; "Doodle" Gore, quarterback; Albert Davis, left halfback; J. E. Easterling, right halfback; "Red" Wagoner, fullback. Substitutes, "Sleepy" Miller, "Goat" Gore, Luther Culpepper, and "Shux" Clackler.

Coan's Astounding Upset

The winning trail ended for Ray Conger as a stocky youth from the University of Pennsylvania, Carl Coan, above, not only vanquished the hitherto unbeaten national champion but turned in the fastest mile race that has been run ince Lloyd Hahn slipped over the boards in 4:12.2. It was the annual games of the New York A. C. at Madison Square garden that furnished the stage for this astounding upset of the Penn star. Coan's time, was 4:13 flat.

Mr. and Mrs. Edd Coggins of Indian Grave spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Traywick.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

To all parties who have been taking the privilege of gathering nuts from the premises of the deceased, J. B. Campbell, please let them alone. We are not paying tax on a free nut farm. Furthermore, anything that isn't worth asking for isn't worth taking.—The Heirs.

What notables would have said for publication:

Caesar: I sot, I sliced, I bunkered.

John Paul Jones: I have not yet begun to putt.

Perry: We have found the balls and they are ours.

Jackson: Don't shoot until they are on the green.

Sherman: Golf is hell.

LOCAL TELEPHONE CENTRAL BEING MOVED TO NEW PLACE

Mr. A. L. Giles is being engaged tnis week in tne moving of the lines preparatory to moving of the central office of the Peoples Telephone Company into the John Giles home on the east end of Third Avenue, North. When all of the lines are put in their new position, the switchboard will be disconnected and moved. This will take about a day, during which time no central service can be given. It is expected that this work will be done one day next week.

A large new lead covered cable will be installed between First Street and the Giles home, which will greatly help the connection between the switchboard and the mail lines.

Now, just a word to the phoneholders: It takes money to do this work, notwithstanding the fact that the Board of Directors are getting every bit of the value possible out of each cent spent. And comparatively few have as yet paid their central fees. Mr. Giles is working this year at a salary that is just as low as anyone could expect him to work. But he is going to run the office and give the best service that he possibly can with the equipment at hand. Not one cent of the money is going to be wasted—you may rest assured of that.

So, all phoneholders are urged to pay up your fees just as hastily as possible. The business can't run without some money, and it is hoped that you will come on and help us out by paying your fees.—Jesse Baker, President; T. E. Wyatt, Secretary-Treasurer.

Ben—Why do you park that ancient car in front of the house,

Frank—If I left it in the alley somebody might dump ashes in it.

Wets Open Battle On Prohi Law As Session is Begun

At Least 100 Measures On Question Will Swamp Congress' Houses

Washington. — The prohibition fight was renewed with a flourish in the Seventy-Second Congress as bills poured into both Senate and House for repeal of the eighteenth amendment or modification of the Volstead act.

Members leading the anti-prohibition movement presented bills even before Congress formally convened, while others disclosed their intention to introduce measures during the week.

Fully 100 bills affecting prohibition will be before both houses.

The wets launched their fight earlier than usual as a result of the decision of both Democrats and Republicans in the House to modify rules. Under the proposed changes the wet leaders claim they are assured of a direct vote on the prohibition issue.

One of the first measures offered is the referendum resolution sponsored by the Woman's Organizatian for Prohibition Reform. Representative Boyland (D) of New York planned to introduce the measure.

The resolution calls for direct repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but its preamble is framed to show that the resubmission to the states is intended as a referendum on the liquor question.

Under its terms, each state could hold a constitutional convention to which delegates would be elected on the liquor issue, assuring a popular vote.

The preamble declares "The only legal way in which the people of the United States may be directly consulted, to determine whether they desire to retain or repeal the said eighteenth amendment, is by resubmission of the amendment to popularly elected state conventions."

A similar measure calling for resubmission and legalization of beer was to be proposed in the Senate by Senator Bingham (R) of Connecticut.

Because of the wide variety of proposals for modification of national prohibition, Representative Linthicum (D) of Maryland, chairman of the "wet bloc" in the House, planned to hold a meeting this week to agree upon a program.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive officer of the board of strategy of the major dry organizations, in a forecast of congressional attitude, declared no wet measure would pass either house.

The drys, he declared, will defeat all proposals to cripple enforcement by cutting down necessary appropriations.—William S. Neal in Birmingham News.

NEW SALEM NEWS

Please allow me a few words concerning preaching service Sunday and B. Y. P. U. in connection with preaching Sunday night, as there was a good representation out to listen to the services. There were several new members who joined our B. Y. P. U. Sunday night, which we were especially glad to have, we are also glad to have visitors. We extend to you a cordial invitation to come and be with us every time possible. We at least hope to have each and every one obtain some good by the programs rendered, and we are proud to know that our B. Y. P. U. is still growing, and bringing in new members. By the help of each member it will be a great success.

After a nice program rendered by the B. Y. P. U. Sunday night, a wonderful sermon was delivered to the people by Rev. Z. Y. Appleton, by which we are sure that each and every one was benefitted. We invite you back with us again. We need the cooperation of more church workers.—Grady Minor.

BANK ROBBED OF $20,000 AT WEDOWEE TUESDAY

Wedowee, Ala., Dec. 8.—Yeggmen drilled their way into the vault of the Bank of Wedowee early today and escaped with currency and silver estimated by bank officials at $20,000.

The robbery took place at 3 o'clock a.m., but was not discovered until Dr. J. G. Swann, president and cashier, opened the bank for the day.

Mr. T. J. Still, vice president, said several residents reported hearing a noise in the vicinity of the bank at 3 o'clock a. m., but failed to investigate. He said the yeggmen were believed to have escaped in an automobile.

Entrance to the bank was gained through a rear window, Still said. An electric or acetylene torch was used in drilling the vault door.

The bank officials said the loss was fully covered by insurance and that the institution was carrying on business today as usual.

John E. Robinson went to Birmingham Friday to meet the Veterans Bureau.

OPENING OF THE FIRST CONGRESS

The convening of the Seventy-second Congrass on December 8 in the National Capitol brings forth some interesting facts from the United States Geo. Washington Bicentennial Commission about the meeting in Federal Hall, New York City, of the first United States Congress.

Congress was to open on March 4, 1789; but on that day, however, only twenty-one members of Congress were present, eight Senators and thirteen Representatives, not a quorum for either house.

Day after day, week after week, the members present met in Federal Hall, which had been done over for their accommodation. But it was not until the first day of April that any business could be transacted because quorum was lacking On that day, thirty members of the House having answered to their names, the body was organized and General Frederick Muhlenberg was chosen speaker.

The Senate did not get together until April 6, when a quorum was finally mustered. A temporary presiding officer, whose sole duty it was to open and count the electoral votes, was elected. George Washington had the vote of every elector, which was generally known, and was therefore President. The second votes of the electors were widely scattered. John Adams had the next yargest number and was therefore vice-president, although he did not get a majority of the whole number of electors appointed. It was two weeks before Washington could be appraised of his election and reach the seat of the government.

It is difficult to realize that in this day, when Senators and Representatives arrive by airplane, train and motor, what an achievement a journey was in the days of the first United States Congress. It took a day and a half to make the trip from Philadelphia to New York. The fastest traveling might bring the Representative from Charleston in ten or twelve days, weather and roads permitting. Thorugh certain sections of the country it was necessary to proceed for days at the time, with mud up to to hubs of the chariot wheels. Members from the far South came by steamer.

REV. G. W. STEWART HERE

Rev. G. W. Stewart of Pleasant Grove was in Clanton last Friday. Rev. Stewart recently came to this county to take up the work of the Chilton County Circuit of the Methodist Protestant Church. He lives on the place of Rev. F. A. Gibson, near Pleasant Grove, west of Clanton.

TAX BATTLE WAITED

Hearing On Power Assessment Expected Dec. 17

Montgomery, Dec. 1.—Hearing on the petition of Coosa and Chilton counties for a writ of mandamus forcing S. R. Butler, state tax commissioner to assess the property of the Alabama Power Co. in those counties at 60 per cent of their current value, has been tenatively set for Dec. 17 in Montgomery Circuit Court.

Judge Walter C. Jones said "while Dec. 17 has not been officially designated as the date for the hearing by the court, it has been agreed upon by attorneys for Coosa and Chilton counties and myself and very probably will be set this week."

Chilton and Coosa counties recently petitioned for a mandamus against Butler in the Montgomery Circuit Court, but postponed hearing by mutual agreement until the state tax commission ruled on their request for higher property assessments against property of the Alabama Power Co., in their counties.

CHALLENGE TO YOUNG PEOPLE

During the past forty years, tens of thousands of young men and women, of many nationalities and denominations have sought free training for Christian service at home or abroad, offered by the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. More than 2,000 students enrolled in its day and evening schools last year. While for certain special courses, a high school background is required, and college training desireable, yet grammar school training will admit to its general courses. English is taught to any deficient in its use.

The Bible ranks first in all Institute courses, but instruction is furnished in such subjects as Sunday School administration, Daily Vacation Bible School, Gospel Music, Public Speaking, Home Economics, Hygiene, and Manual Training. In special courses are offered Theology, Homiletics, Church History, Apologetics, Hebrew, Yiddish, Greek, and medical subjects for foreign mission work.

There are three terms a year—Fall, Winter, and Summer—but students may enter at any time. An illustrated catalogue will be mailed on request. Address, 153 Institute Place, Chicago Avenue Station, Chicago, Ill.

Mr. W. E. Gilbert, superintendent of constriction for Moore and Wooley, builders of the new jail here went back home in Birmingham Tuesday, after finishing his work.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Miss Bonnie Honeycutt has returned to her new home in Atlanta after spending several months with her grand parents.

Little Mary Margaret Mims has been on the sick list the past few days.

The Congressional Ladies Aid dinner and social at the home of Mrs Gerald last Friday evening, lasting from five to 10 o'clock, was a pronounced success in every respect. There were upwards of 80 people who joined in the pleasures of the evening. The dinner was good in every detail. The arrangements ample to accommodate everybody, and to listen to the conversations, one would be convinced that there were no "wall flowers." One surprise which early attendants got was a radio broadcast from Tokio, Japan. Not "a transcription for radio purposes," but United Press dispatch, "hot from the bat." The speaker was an agent of the great news gathering organization, who are not permitted to express any opinions regarding the matter they transmit, but whose sole business it is to forward the news as they get it, and let the public form their own opinion.

The dispatches came in remarkably clear, and those who were listening in were thrilled by the wonder of it.

Various games were provided for entertainment, and everybody seemed to be enjoying themselves and their company.

Rev. Each's stereopticon lecture on India, at the Congregational Church last Sunday night was greeted by a full house, even to the gallery. Many scenes of interest were shown in remarkably clear pictures.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Timberlake, of Columbus, Ohio, are the guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard. They spent Monday in Montgomery shopping.

Mr. Hugh Primm of Calera has moved with his wife and baby to the small house on the W. H. Townsend place.

Roy Raybon and family spent the week end with friends in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen had as dinner guests last Sunday Rev. and Mrs. Each, with son, William, and daughters, Juanita, Lucille, and Marie; also their son Nels, with his wife and their son, Norman.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Townsend, of Birmingham, were visitors to friends in and about Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. A. N. Laurell, with his mother and her grand daughter, Christain Love, spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. I. S. Gerald and Dave Ackers, of Birmingham were visitors at the Gerald home in Thorsby Saturday and Sunday, and also did a little hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Moody of Birmingham are spending the week with relatives in Thorsby.

Mother Sutlive is improving. She went for a ride Sunday.

Orville Freeman, who has been ill several days with bronchial trouble, was reported better Tuesday.

Coy Gibbons's little son, who has been very ill with diptheria for several days, has relieved the anxiety of his father and mother, and others, by "coming through," and is improving fast.

Misses Odie Lee Arthur and Mary Ella Gerald spent Saturday in Birmingham.

Mr. E. N. Dyrhovd has been on the sick list for the past week.

When Miss Christine Bosworth returned to her home last Saturday night she found a full grown surprise party awaiting her, of which she had previously known nothing. The surprisers, Misses Mary Sue Robinson, Elizabeth Whatley, Ella Howard, Edith Johnson, Edith Foss, Edna Lee Wilder, Lois Thompson, Mary Ruth Nix, Ruby and Cora Connatser, Willodean Bean, Winnie Belle Reinhardt, and Messrs. Henry Robinson, Lloyd Howard, Reese Mims, Penny Davis, Aaron Vinson, Marcel Wilder, Briggs Hodgens, Kendall Franklin, Ralph Pate, Conway Thornburg, Brady Billingsley, Oliver Lyon, and Dr. Horace Franklin.

H. R. Maddox and Clyde King were visitors in Birmingham Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, with Walter Parnell and Christine Bosworth, visited Miss Naemi Turnquist in Selma Sunday.

Another visitor on Saturday was Rev. W. R. Kedzie, D. D., one of the secretaries of the Congregational Educational Society.

Martin-Thompson Marriage

Mr. Erchel Martin and Miss Sallye Thompson were married Tuesday evening, December 1st, at 6:00 o'clock, at the home of Rev. J. W. Jones. The ceremony was read by Rev. Jones in the presence of Miss Myradine Martin, sister of the groom, Miss Lois Thompson, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. J. W. Jones. The bride was charming in her wedding gown of blue satin, with accessories of brown.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin, with Peggy Mims, Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, Mrs. C. M. Gray, and Mrs. J. M. Mims, spent Monday in Montgomery shopping.

Mrs. Davenport Franklin, widow of the late James Franklin, died at her home in Pleasant Grove community, where she was born 72 years ago, and had spent all her lifetime. She left four children, Phillip and Monroe, Mrs. Eddie Childress, and Nora. Mrs. Franklin died Thursday, December 3rd. Burial was in Pleasant Grove cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Honeycutt, who had long been her pastor.

Miss Ruth Peterson of Birmingham visited home folks in Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. Erchel Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Martin of Thorsby. Mrs. Martin is the attractive daughter of Mrs. Dudley Thompson of Thorsby.

Following the ceremony Mrs. J. R. Martin entertained relatives of the bride and groom with a wedding dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Martin will make their home in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade and little Helen Louise spent Sunday in Birmingham, and Dr. A. J. Lawley returned to Thorsby with them to see Mrs. Leary, who is confined to her room, sick.

Miss Era Robinson spent Sunday in Birmingham.

Mr. Anderson Marcus, who has been confined to bed for several weeks, had dinner with his son, Clarence Marcus, and wife, Sunday. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Self of Birmingham spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson.

Miss Onita Klingelhoefer spent the week end in Birmingham. On Sunday she attended the new community Congregational Church there, of which Dr. Mordecai is pastor. She was invited to speak to one of the women's Sunday school classes about Thorsby Institute. The women expressed a desire to visit and to help the Institute. This church has about 500 members and an even larger attendance.

Monday night Miss Fairbank, Miss McKee and Miss Klingelhoefer of the Institute faculty, and Miss Jennie Robinson attended the Shakespearean play "Hamlet" given at the Temple Theatre in Birmingham by the Thurston Players. They enjoyed it very much.

Next Saturday night at the Institute the Christmas program of the Helen Keller Literary Society will take place. There will be a candle lighting service with the beautiful Christmas carols sung; also a Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang," will be given. Admission will be ten cents.

On Saturday Principle Fogle of Pleasant Hill Academy, Tennessee, visited the Institute. He was formerly county superintendent of schools in Maryland. He reported that in Maryland football was banished from the public schools several years ago and soccer was substituted.

The second term of the Institute closes Friday of this week. The new term begins Monday. School closes for the holidays on the 17th, reopening on the 30th.

The Institute appreciates very much the various canned fruits, canned vegetables, and other vegetables not canned, that have been donated at various times since school opened. Such gifts are most welcome, especially at a time when the school needs every bit of help it can get.

The Christian Endeavor met last Sunday evening at 6:30 p. m. The leader was Miss Odie Lee Arthur of the Missionary Committee. The topic was "India." Much interesting information was given on the subject. Several first hand bits of information were read from letters from Dr. and Mrs. Edward Fairbank, missionaires in India, by Miss Fairbank, who is a cousin of Dr. Fairbank.

The programs were printed and given to each person as he entered. This made the meeting quiet and reverent. The topic was followed by pictures on India by Rev. Each, the pastor.

The topic for next Sunday will be "Making Christmas Christian," led by Evie Iee Rowe. All young people who do not attend young people's meetings at the other churches are invited to worship with us.

"Are You Listening?"

On Saturday, December 12th, beginning at 12:30 p. m., the Baptist W. M. U. will have a parcel post sale at the City Hall, Thorsby.

Each package will be 25 cents, and the ladies assure you there will be full value for your money in each package you buy.

A plate lunch will also be served for 10 cents. Everybody invited.

HOW TO FIGURE THE PRICE OF EGGS EXPLAINED NOW

"There's a big question mark in many hen houses these days," says C. S. Johnson, head of the Poultry Department of the Purina Mills. "And that question mark is the reason a lot of folks don't make money with poultry. They don't know what it costs to do business.

"Suppose you were asked right off what it costs you to produce a dozen aggs," Mr. Johnson asks. "Could you answer with a definite figure at the tip of your tongue? Chances are you couldn't. You would have to do a lot of figuring in all probability—just like a lot of poultrymen would have to do. Not altogether your fault either. It might not have occured to you that your poultry is a mighty important part of your business and you should know what profits you are making or what losses you are incurring.

"If you are one of those who says it's too hard to keep records on chickens, I must agree with you," Mr. Johnson declares, "because it isn't a hard job. You count your eggs every day, anyway. And you know how much feed you are using and what it costs. By dividing the total cost of all feed for a week or a month by the number of dozens of eggs laid during the same period, you will have the answer to what you are paying for a dozen eggs. The difference between that figure and what you get for the eggs will let you in on what you are making. It will remove that question mark from your hen house—from your business."

"The easiest time to keep records is when hens are laying lots of eggs," Mr. Johnson thinks. "Slack up on the interest in records, and egg production will slacken every time. Keep up your interest in your records and if production starts to slump, you know exactly the day it starts and you are on top of it. Right then you start looking for the cause of the egg slump and a way to get production back to the peak."

In connection with keeping records, it should be mentioned that Purina Egg Record Cards are so simple and handy they all but keep themselves. These egg record cards may he had for the asking at J. L. Ruffin's.

ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The Home Economics Club girls with the F. F. A. boys, gave a banquet last Friday night, December 4, for their fathers and mothers. The banquet was given in the home economics department, and was carried out very successfully.

Mr. Sargent, an honorary member of the F. F. A. was the principal speaker of the evening and his address was very helpful. He reviewed the work at Isabella High School, and pointed out the remarkable growth which the F. F. A. organization has enjoyed. Others on the program were Delos Culp, Marvin Durbin, Luther Mims, Myrtle Durbin, Pauline Durbin, and Elizabeth Mims. Lorene Lecroy served as toast mistress very acceptably.

Mr. Ralph Grant sang a solo and rendered several misucal numbers during the evening, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

STANTON JR. HIGH PLAYS MT. PLEASANT, FRIDAY

On next Friday afternoon the Stanton boys' basket ball team will meet the Mt. Pleasant team on the latter's court.

We are expecting two games, one between the Mt. Pleasant girls' team and the Stanton girls, the other, between the boys.

Stanton presents a strong Jr. High team, and this game should prove highly interesting to everyone present. The first game will be called at 2:30.

The Mt. Pleasant girls won their first game of the season last Friday night when they defeated the Stanton girls by the low, close score of 2 to 1.

The Mt. Pleasant boys lost 20 to 19. The game was forced into an extra quarter, being tied 17 to 17 at the end of the regulation time.

Everyone interested be sure and see these two teams on the Mt. Pleasant court next Friday evening, December 11.—R. B. Johnson, Prin.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Durwood Mullins on Thanksgiving Day. They have named her Mary Elizabeth. Mrs. Mullins and the baby returned home from a hospital in Birmingham last Sunday.

Why the Voters of Alabama should Vote for the Mobile Amendment Tuesday, January 5th, 1932:

It applies only to the City of Mobile, and does not affect any other city or community.

It will not raise taxes at Mobile or anywhere else, but permits the transfer of a 3½ mill tax from payment of an old debt to the payment of present day obligations and interest thereon.

It will save the City of Mobile the loss, expense and embarrassment of a possible receivership, with coincident receivership fees which our citizens would have to pay in the long run.

It will enable the City of Mobile to pay its just debts, incurred for public improvements by which its citizens and property owners have greatly profited; investments made upon the demand and with the approval of the people.

The Mobile Clearing House and all of the banks, familiar with the City of Mobile's present necessities, are in favor of this amendment; which is unanimously endorsed by the Board of City Commissioners of Mobile.

The City of Mobile is required to pay the expense of this election.

Vote for the Mobile Amendment January 5, and Permit Mobile to Continue to be an Honest Debt-Paying City.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

The Columbia State relates a typical hard times story which, it says, comes from an operator of gasoline filling stations in Columbia.

The impoverished citizen drove up to the pump for gas. He complained bitterly of what depression had done to him:

"I'm out of a job," he is reported to have said. "I've sent the children for their grandparents to take care of and my wife has gone back to her people. Why, you know, if times get much worse I'll have to give up the car!"

There is a considerable food for thought in this little anecdote. A noted American statesman is quoted as having said recently that we may be on the road to the poor house as a nation, but that if so, we will make the trip to the infirmary in automobiles.

Returning to France a few weeks ago Robert Masson, general director of that nation's largest private banking institution declared that his visit to America convinced him that conditions in America were not quite so bad fundamentally as some people like to make out. He is quoted by the New York Times as saying:

"And everywhere I heard complaints about the depression. But I wonder whether some of your people are not more prone to compare their present situation with the very abnormal prosperity of 1929 and whether their misfortunes are not made up to a great extent of relativity."

Now there is no denying the fact that there is a great deal of suffering and unemployment in the United States. We are facing what may be a long and hard winter and we will have to make the best of it. But in every community the people are preparing for this, and in the meantime it is just as well to remember that most of us are still very much better off than were our fathers even in the days of what they considered prosperity. For there were no automobiles then, no radios, and electric lights. Houses were poorly lighted and poorly heated. Traveling was difficult, the roads were poor, entertainment was limited except in the larger cities, and there were no telephones for easy communication.

The conditions under which we live in the days of adversity in 1932, were undreamed of in those days, even by the wealthy, just as they are undreamed of today by the majority of the countries in Europe and the Orient. For this reason, even though we are unable to get a new car this year, and must do with last year's radio, even if we can't afford to put in an oil or gas heater, and will have to continue to shovel coal into the old furnace this winter, or into the old living room stove, let us remember to be thankful that we are greatly better off than our forefathers, and let us show the appreciation for this by helping someone who is not so fortunate in this year 1931.

Sooner or later things will be better again. In the meantime the best we can do is to tighten our belts, remember how much better off we are than our ancestors of a hundred years ago, and show a little of the Pilgrim spirit under difficulties a thousand times less onerous than those succesfully ceped with by the Pilgrims. That is the spirit which will carry us through. Congress cannot do it for us. The American banker recently well stated editorially:

"Our forefathers, who built the country, were accustomed to rely on themselves. The Pilgrims utilized their own energy and initiative to get them through that first winter. A little more of these same three qualities will get us through the coming winter better than a thousand panaceas."

INJUSTICES IN TAXATION CITED BY CHILTON OFFICIAL—

Writing in the Clanton Union-Banner Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds of that county presents some views on state taxation matters which should be of interest. It will be recalled that it was in Chilton and Coosa counties that the state tax commission made reduction of nearly $3,000,000 in the tax assessments of the Alabama Power Company. Judge Reynolds is a Republican office holder in a Democratic state and there are no doubt those who will charge partisanship in any criticism he might make of Democratic officials. Nevertheless Democrats with responsibility for the administration of state affairs cannot fail to be impressed by the following words of Judge Reynolds:

Alabama has peculiar tax laws; the tax payer assesses his taxes to the tax assessor; then we have a tax supervisor who has authority to raise said taxes; then the commissioners court in April have the right to pass on the amount of said taxes; then we have a law that the chairman of the state commission can order the taxes raised if he is not satisfied with the amount, but the same law gives the chairman of the state tax commission the right to assess the large corporation taxes, like the Alabama Power Company, the railroad companies, telephone and telegraph companies, etc., and yet no provision made for any court to review his acts. In other words, Mr. Butler, chairman of the state tax commission, has the power and it is his duty to assess hundreds of millions of property in Alabama and no court is provided with power to review his work. This is too much power to give one man.

Judge Reynolds then reviews the reductions made by Mr. Butler in his county to a 45 instead of 60 per cent valuation and adds: "Your commissioners court was notified early in the fall by Mr. Butler not to reduce anybody's taxes, and yet Mr. Butler reduced one of the largest corporation's taxes in Alabama, namely, the Alabama Power Company, which admits that it made over $10,000,000 last year, and also admits that they are making 6 per cent on their investment. I ask you taxpayers of this county, what per cent are you making on your investment?" As an instance of injustice in taxation Judge Reynolds cites the following:

On November 23, 1931, Rev. L. B. Headley, bought a model T Ford for $12. The taxes on the same cost him 70 cents, the tag $11.75, making a total for the tag and taxes $12.45 and under the law he might have been subject to a penalty of $1.68 and a citation fee of $1.50 which would make the tag and taxes cost him $15.63 and then he has to pay 5 cents per gallon tax on every gallon of gas he buys, and yet large corporation taxes in Alabama are assessed at less than 50 per cent of what the law requires them to be assessed at.

Taxes are hard to pay at any time and especially in times like the present, but in most cases the protests of citizens are not directed so much at the amounts they must pay as they are to the injustices and inequalities in tax assessments. If every taxpayer felt that the tax burden was equally and justly distributed and that the large taxpayer paid his full share in proportion to his resources and the protection he gets from the state there would be much less dissatisfaction with taxes, because then every man would feel that he was in the same position as others and that what applies to himself applies with equal measure to all other individuals and corporations—Montgomery Journal.

THE CINDER PILE

(By Guy H. de Shazo)

Thanksto the boys in the shop, we have a subject with which to begin this outburst. After much thought and consideration, we had gone to considerable pains to tell how we had decided to drop the non de plume under which we have been conducting this column and use our own name instead, only to find when the paper was out that the "boys" had failed to make the change in the heading. We have looked after that personally this week and wish to take this time to apologize for the aparent eronious statement last week.

Friend Bill Comes To Life

Since our inquiry last week as to what had become of Friend Bill, we have had a very nice communication from him in which he blames the county road crew for keeping him at home. He does not, however, mean to cast any reflections on the road men, but says they worked the road by his place just before the rain and now he is somewhat in the mud. All of which goes to bear out a previous statement made in these columns that a sure sign of rain is to witness the road workers in action. Bill also claims that Mr. Tiffin has promised to furnish the dog provided Bill will provide the squirrels. He also says that Mr. Tiffin might let "Mid-Nite rest as he is such a "nut" that the squirrels all follow him around without the aid of a dog. We knew you was a nut Bill, but we did not know you were that "nutty."

Big doings in Clanton this week, what with the advent of the new Chevrolet, the visit of the twenty-millionth Ford, Commissioner's Court in session, the public inspection and acceptance of the new jail by the commissioners, and last but not lesat, the presentation of "Oh, Professor!" Tuesday night at The Wadesonian. Plenty to keep us busy trying to see it all and get something out of so much activity to write about.

Clanton Made Movies

Yes, sir, believe it or not, Clanton has its own movie stars now. A movie was made of the crowds and presentation ceremonies during the visit of the twenty-millionth Ford Tuesday, with Judge L. H. Reynolds and Miss Ruth Sessions playing leading roles when a beautiful boquet of flowers was presented the driver of the car by Miss Sessions and a watermelon bearing a copper tablet commemorating the occasion was presented by Judge Reynolds in behalf of the local Ford dealers and the citizens of Chilton County. The watermelon being fashioned of wood and a product of a local cabinet shop will be preserved for posterity along with the Ford in the unique museum of Mr. Ford in Dearborn.

Getting around to politics and national affairs, looks as though the Heflin-Bankhead contest has struck a snag of considerable proportions with the seating of Mr. Bankhead at the opening of the upper house of our national congress this week. After you have given a fellow a thing it is kinda hard to take it away from him. Maybe with congress in session we will be able to gather up some cinders of real interest to discuss from week to week. And as Henry Vance would say: Mr. Operator, "Heah's yo' Copy."

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Back Again—I was badly misunderstood last week in regard to my deer hunt. I said I was going deer hunting, not that I was going to kill a deer. Well, I did all I said I would do—I hunted a deer (or, rather, let a deer hunt me) and I didn't kill one. From the number of people who have stopped me and asked where all the venison was you'd think I had contracted to kill all the deer in the country. But I just wouldn't do that, you know, even if I could. I'm back again, after a stop on the way for a day's quail hunt. The deer hunt was near the junction of Pigeon Creek and Sepulga River in Conecuh County, where I had gone after spending last Monday night with Mr. Sullivan, a friend I met while at Opelika week before last. Mr. Sullivan lives at Red Level, in Covington County. On the return home I stopped over to spend Tuesday night with Mr. Beall, another good friend I found at Opelika. Mr. Beall lives near Luverne, in Crenshaw County, and, by the way, there's plenty of "patteridges" in that region. Along with me on this trip was my better half and our little 3-year-old "boss."

More About Advertising—I have heard lots of advertising slogans, mottos, etc., but one of the best little advertising boosters I ever heard of showed up not long ago, when Sir Thomas Lipton's estate was under probation. The saying is old that "It Pays to Advertise." Sir Thomas's motto ran as follows: "The man who on his trade relies, must either bust or advertise." Any way you take it, you don't have to accept any old adages as regards the worth of advertising—just look about you and see who is the most prosperous merchant—99 out of 100 will be found to be good advertisers.

His Shirt—The phone rang and a voice on the other end of the line wanted to know where his shirt was—somebody wanted to take it to the laundry. In a very matter-of-fact way the fellwo informed his caller that he had his shirt on. The joke lay in the stress he put on IT, when he said "I have it on." Well, a guy IS lucky to have a shirt worth sending to the laundry nowadays any way.

"Jack" and Connie"—Clanton's delegates to the big league baseball show, "Jack" Hayes and "Connie" Connatser, will be seen in new pastures the coming year. As announced not long ago, Conatser has gone up to the Cleveland Indians, and stands a mighty good chance to stick. "Connie" has made a game fight for his place in the sun, and we are glad to see him reach the top of the ladder in his calling. And, here's another interesting bit of news, just in case you haven't heard it already. "Jack" Hayes goes from the Washington Senators to the Chicago White Sox this year, and we all have high hopes of seeing him get more regular play this coming year than heretofore. More power to "Jack" and "Connie."

That Football Game—If you missed that Firemen's Fund Football Frolic last Friday afternoon at the high school ground you missed plenty. Football, foolishness and fun were the order of the day, and, believe you me, there was plenty of all. From the moment "Smoky Joe" Wagoner kicked off to begin the game to the last moment, when the same old "Smoky" made his touchdown. the game was just one big bunch of fun to the fairly good crowd which attended. And what a touchcdown that one was, with old "Smoky" hustling over the last marker with the ball in one hand and his pants in the other; Jack Hayes, of the opponents' team, was running interference for him, all the time patting "Smoky" on the head, and just as old "Joe" hobbled over the goal line, Jack raked his hair over in his face. Maybe that crowd didn't howl. And that was only one of the many, many funny happenings of the game, but they were too numerous to attempt to tell about them all. I am sorry to see so many of the fellows on crutches and what-not this week, yet, what's a few broken legs, twisted toes and ankles and such, between friends? "And a big time was had by all," to quote an old saying, grown smooth with use.

I've Been In Jail—Yes, sir, for a fact, I've been in jail. Oh, no, not like you might have an idea I ought to be. I just went along, like a lot of other curious people, just to see what our nice, new jail looks like inside. Now the new "Jug" looks safe enough, any way you look at it; there are plenty of bars and walls to keep anyone IN, while those four big water pipes look like they might do a fairly good job of keeping anyone unfit for jail duty OUT. What with all the pretty doo-dads. spin-wheels, and what-nots in the control boxes, it all looks about as complicated as the combination on the bank vaults, not that I am so very well acquainted with bank vaults—I seldom have any occasion to even look in a bank, let alone enter one. And now that I've been in to look the new jail over, my main object, so far as that jail is concerned, is to keep out of it.

Here's A Good One—Yep, I like this one. I was listening in on a bunch of business men a few nights ago, while they were sort of kidding each other. One of them told another that he had heard it rumored that he was losing his mind, and wanted to know if there was any ground for such rumor—the other fellow denied it—he said he lost it some time ago. And, then another group piped up and said that if there was anything he HADN'T lost during the last two years it must be his mind, and he knew he was in a good way of losing it, too. Well, maybe the going has been a bit tough, lately.

Glimpses—My old friend Brock Wells pulls into town on his way hunting, I suppose—he's all decked out in khaki. A bunch of fellows on their way to look the new jail over—I see several in the bunch who were well acquainted with the old one. There's a car that tried derailing a freight train—nope, the old iron horse wouldn't budge. Tom Littlejohn totin' a wooden watermelon around—looks good enough to eat, too—fact is, there's some guy smelling of it. A dog tries to get into a garbage can—there's a good chance for a Boy Scout to earn the right to turn his pin right-side-up—he could turn the can over so the dog could get whatever he wants from it. "Doodle" Miller scoots by in a new Ford—some class to "Doodle." Cleve Littlefield telling his latest deer-hunting story—wish I had time to listen. "Shux" Clackler togged to play football. "Bull" Ray's nose tells me he has seen football service—he's young, though—give him time and he'll learn to keep that old beezer out of tight spots. A trio of youngsters hobble by—they, also, have seen football service. That's all for this time.—Man in the Moon.

Cheer up. Six months from now the primary campaigns will be on in full blast.

Nothing has given our own free traders so much joy in a long time as the announcement that Great Britain is going to adopt a protective tariff.

Somebody stole an ice truck from in front of a house in Baltimore the other day. Maybe the thief had a lot of frozen assets he wanted to find a place for.

Owing to a price war, milk is selling at six cents a quart in Buffalo. We don't see how the cows can afford to produce it for that.

The Japanese are shipping gold to the United States and it is a good guess they are not seeking to buy lollipops with it.

Theodore Dreiser, who went to Kentucky to get publicity for the miners seems to have aroused a lot of it for himself.

The big ice companies of the country have had a good year in spite of their frozen assets.

It is said that Philip Snowden, former British labor leader, may become the Viscount of Icknornshaw. Well, that's better than if it were Bernardshaw.

All of this overproduction in cotton down South may indicate that the boll weevil is laying down on the job.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

The Chilton County jail is complete, and on Tuesday the Commissioners received it from the contractors. It is a thing of beauty from every standpoint. It has solid walls, cemented floors, iron cells and safety locks. $35,000.00 of Chilton County's good money went into the construction of that jail. We call ourselves civilized, and yet we have just spent that amount of money to make safe our homes, and to maintain our ideals. Why should Chilton County have a jail? Shame on us that we must go to such a tremendous expense to hold under guard the law breaking element of our county. If people would do right, we would have no use for jails. When you speak of your jail, do not speak of it in words of pride. If it had cost a million dollars, it would have been no credit to a civilized people. The disgrace of it all is that we had to have a thirty-five thousand dollar jail in Chilton County.

We are not criticizing the judgment of anyone, but it does seem to a right living citizen that too much money is being spent to make comfortable those who break our laws. The home that is built for the law breakers in Chilton County far surpasses the cost and beauty of any other home in the county. The State prison at Kilby is a veritable palace. The county and State are forced to provide quarters for those who regard not God and man. Prisons and jails must be made secure to hold those who endanger civilization and life. The Bible says: "The way of a transgressor is hard," and that is as true as life. When a man takes the law of his county and State in his own hnds, he makes choice of the hard way, and it should be made hard for him. We do not believe in "cruelty to animals," but we do believe in giving to the law breaker the dues coming to him. Even, if our jail is costly and beautiful, here is one who has no desire to engage a room there. My advice to the rest of you people in Chilton County is "live so that you will never have to darken the door of your beautiful and costly home."

I am not altogether pleased with the color of our jail. The finishing touch on the outside is white. That color signifies purity. If we were to judge the jail building from its outside color, we would conclude that it was a church hospital, where only the saints went for treatment. It would have been more suitable and more in harmony with the workings of jail life if the finishing touch of that structure had been black. Those who never enter that jail, and yet must behold it, the color of white is more suitable to the eye. The jail may be white on the outside, but don't forget that it is dark on the inside. When the prisoner enters those gates and doors, he does not see the white. He looks within and there is darkness and night. How can any man get his consent to cimmit a crime that will take him from the liberty of the hills and confine him in the darkness of the jail?

I observed that the county jail just completed has doors and gates through which people can enter with ease. The High Sheriff has the key, and he can open the doors, and the prisoner can walk in. When that Sheriff has closed the doors and gates behind him, the prisoner has no way of escape. On the inside there are iron cells, windows that are barred and on the outside the gate is locked. The jail is easy to get into, but it is hard to get out of. That should teach every lawbreaker a lesson. It is easy to get into the bad, but it is hard to get out of the bad. If those who run rum, those who cheat, cut and slash, those who fuss, fume and fight, those who lay aside justice, honor and home, could only be made to know how hard it is to get out of trouble, once they are in, I verily believe that they would think a thousand times before breaking the law. Just remember that any man who walks into a jail, must travel over a hard road to get out. Remember, also, that there is a peculiar odor about a jail, once you are in there, that oder will be on your character as long as you live.

There stands our jail. When we look at the beautiful churches in Clanton, they speak to us of right living, happy homes, Christian joy, love, life and Heaven; but not so with that building that is surrounded with wire. It is a monument erected right in the center of our city and county that speaks to us of night brawls, rum running corruption, shop lifting, wreckless driving, profane language, blade flash, gun fire, blood shed, greed for gain, low ideals and a thousand other things. We have built to the wickedness of Chilton County a monument that will forever speak of what an awful thing that it is for men to break the law. Some skilled hand should take the chisel and from a block of marble carve the devil, showing him with his satanic grin, his tongue of fire, and with his scythe piercing the heart of the innocent. This production of art should be erected just above the jail door, showing every one who enters there that he is going into the castle that belongs to the devil, and that there are many bleeding spirits caused by the violation of law. Chilton County Jail, you are built of brick, cement and iron, and you will stand there for years to come, but you will never speak a good word for the people who reside under your roof. You are the castle of tears, the recepticle of heart aches, the center of darkness, the perfume of filth, the palace of anxious waiting. You are our costly monument, erected to our low ideals and our low living.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

The Best and Best Looking

The best building and the best looking building in Chilton County is the new county jail. It was finished, signed sealed, delivered and paid for Tuesday. In spite of the almost impossible weather, 800 folks visited the building and went through it. Everyone agreed that it is a mighty nice place, but I did not hear anybody make application for a room. The building was first erected in 1886. That is why it is commonly referred to as "86." The designation still holds good, although the building has undergone two reconstructions since its original erection. Over the front door still stands the big stone figures 1886. It is an odd commentary upon Chilton County that the finest building in the county is the jail.

The New Chevrolet

Much interest among automobile drivers was aroused last Saturday when Polk Brothers placed on exhibition the new 1932 Chevrolet. Their show rooms were visited by hundreds of people, and the new car was given a grand hooray of approval.

Twenty Millionth Ford

Ford also shared interest with Chevrolet this week. The visit of the twenty-millionth unit of this popular automobile visited Clanton Tuesday. And if you think Ford is not popular, you ought to have seen the crowd that stood in the rain outside Clanton Motors Tuesday to witness the presentation of the epochal car. There were in the party several official high-ups representing the Ford Motor Company. Mr. Tom Littlejohn, of Clanton Motors, had arranged a grand reception for them and the car. It went over big.

The Wooden Watermelon

The twenty-millionth Ford, on its tour of the United States, is gathering up trophies to be placed in the Ford Museum near Dearborn, Michigan. At Clanton they got a wooden watermelon. The thing was made by the Perry Body Shop. If somebody don't tip Uncle Henry off, I would not be surprised to hear that he tries to cut it about next July. So far as looks goes, it is a perfect specimen of that well-known Tom Watson variety. It bears a copper plate inscription with these words: "In commemoration of the visit of the twenty-millionth Ford to Clanton, Alabama, December 8th, 1931, Clanton Motors."

Miss Ruth Session, Sponsor

The official sponsor for Clanton Motors in greeting the Ford party Tuesday was Miss Ruth Sessions. She performed the part with characteristic loveliness, presenting the personal representative of Mr. Ford with a gorgeous bouquet of chrysanthemums. Motion pictures of Miss Sessions were made as she placed the flowers in the hands of Mr. Hilton.

What About The Weather?

Just as I expected. It is here at last. Plenty of rain and what I would say is nasty weather. No use to grumble, though. We have had so much lovely weather this fall, we may expect plenty of the other kind now for a while. It will make us appreciate the return of balmy days next spring. And we need the rain. We are bad behind with our rainfull this year.

Tom McKee Here Tuesday

My old friend, Tom McKee, was in Clanton Tuesday. He was acting just like a ray of sunshine trying to spread cheerfulness on a bad rainy day. Strange to say, Tom got to talking about politics. He said "we" Democrats are going to lick "you" Republicans for sure next year. I told him I have been waiting for him to carry out some of his political threats for the last fifteen years. Confidentially, now, but don't tell Tom. I wouldn't be a bit surprised to see the Democrats do it next year. This Hoover business seems to be rather hard political stock.

Gilbert Left Tuesday

W. E. Gilbert, boss of the construction work on the jail, left for his home in Birminggham Tuesday. It looked as if he was not disappointed that he will miss his Christmas dinner in jail. Mr. Gilbert made many friends while he was in Clanton. He is a jolly, likeable fellow. The job he did on buiding the jail will stand as testimony that he is a workman that needeth not to be ashamed of his work.

Continuing The Schools

It looks like the schools of Chilton County will be able to run for their full terms, by the grace and goodness of the teachers. A meeting is being held today, at which the teachers are considering the proposition of carrying on their work with faith that the State of Alabama will some day turn loose the money to pay them. This is a noble attitude on the part of the teachers. It is a pity that everybody can't have the same realization on the crisis of our schools as the teachers have. It is an awful thing to think about closing our schools now.

People of New York City have been complaining for several days that the city water tastes fishy. But there are a lot of things about Manhattan that are fishier than the water.

SALE FOR PARTITION

The State of Alabama, Chilton County:

By virtue of an order of Hon. L. H. Reynolds, Judge of Probate of Chilton County, Alabama, made on the 23rd day of November, 1931, I, Grady Reynolds, the Commissioner named in said order, will sell to the highest bidder for cash, at public sale, at Clanton, Alabama, between the hours of 11 o'clock a. m., and 4 o'clock p. m., on the 28th day of December, 1931, for the purpose of distribution among W. POULTRY

DAMP LITTER IN POULTRY HOUSES

(By Prof. H. D. Munroe)

Damp litter in poultry houses is a common complaint this winter. In crowded hen houses, this condition is often due to the lack of fresh air and proper ventilation. Enough fresh air must be admitted to the hen house so that moisture will not collect on the walls and ceiling.

It does not take much water to cause damp litter. Leaky roofs are a common cause of this condition. Just a few small leaks in the roof will cause a lot of trouble with damp litter.

The most common cause of damp litter in poultry houses is the water that falls from the beak and wattles of a hen when she drinks. When hens are laying the most eggs we have the most trouble with damp litter. When hens are laying well, they drink the most water and at that time spill the most.

Many cases of damp litter in hen houses will be stopped by putting a tub, half-barrel, or pan under the drinking fountain to catch the water that falls from the beak and wattles when hens drink. Many times open drinking dishes which allow the birds to walk in them are the cause of damp litter.

COMMITTEE ASKS THAT IDLE BE FED AT HOME

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 7.—Alabama's employment relief committee is appealing to communities throughout the state to see that their own people are cared for at home and not added to the burden of other communities in this state or other states.

This appeal comes as a result of the committee having received reports that the number of dependable transients is increasing.

"In a time of unemployment such as we are encountering now, families are apt to pack themselves into a car and seek employment elsewhere," the committee said in a prepared statement. "It is laudable that men seek work in order to provide for their families, but before leaving the community where they have residence it is essential that they secure information through a reliable source as to work opportunities in the section to which they are going. This may be done through local chambers of commerce or through social agencies, such as the Red Cross, Family Welfare Societies and the County Child Welfare Superintendents.

INCREASED FARM PRICES REPORTED

Index of farm prices showed an upward trend during November, reports the Department of Agriculture.

After an almost uninterrupted decline for more than year, the index in the last month rose to 71 as compared with 68 on October 15.

The rise was occasioned by substantial improvement in grain and poutlry products prices and smaller improvement in cotton and cotton seed.

Tending to offset the gains in other commodities, fruits and vegetables and meat animals declined through the month.

FRIGIDAIRE CORPORATION GIVES VALUABLE PRIZES

Prizes of $3,500 in cash and ten electric refrigerators valued at more than $2,500 are posted in the nation-wide Christmas contest now being conducted by Frigidaire Corporation.

First prize will be $1,000 in cash, there will be fifty prizes of $50 in cash and the ten awards of Frigidaire household electric refrigerators. Details of the contest will be broadcast every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday over a coast-to-coast network of 50 stations on the NBC-WJZ chain in connection with a musical program. The program will begin at 5:15 p. m., eastern standard time on Fridays and at 5:54 p. m., eastern standard time on the other days of the week. The contest will close at midnight, December 24th.

The contest involves the coining of a nine word sentence, using the letters of the word "Christmas" to begin each of the words. Contest blanks, it was anonunced, are available at Frigidaire showrooms everywhere.

Mr. J. E. Woolley of Birmingham was here on business this week. Mr. Woolley is a member of the firm of Moore & Woolley, contractors, who built the new Chilton County jail.

HONEY IS WHOLESOME AND DELICIOUS FOOD

Auburn, Ala. Dec. 9.—Alabama bee keepers produce much honey, a wholesome form of sugar, and one which children usually love especially. Both strained honey and honeycomb may be used instead of maple syrup or jam, but children prefer the un-extracted honey just as the bees made it. Waffles and pancakes seem more delicious when crunched honeycomb which oozes goodness is spread on them.

Besides this use, honey in cookies and cakes gives them a flavor quite unlike that given by sugar. Try honey in the next baking of hermits, using this recipe: Mix one and one-third cups of strained honey with one-third cup of melted fat, and add two eggs, half a cup of milk, half a teaspoon of salt, and one cup of chopped raisin. Then sift three and a half cups of flour along with one and one-half teaspoons of cinnamon, half a teaspoon of cloves, and three teaspoons of baking powder. Mix all the ingredients beat them well, and drop from a tablespoon onto a greased pan. Bake the hermits in a quick oven, 400-450 degrees Fahrenheit, until they are brown.

Cakes made from honey keep fresh for a long time. For a change try substituting honey for sugar, cup for cup, in your favoriate recipe, leaving out one-fourth cup of the liquid. Honey cake should be made in thin loaves. Orange icing is especially good on cakes made with honey.

Honey gives all kinds of deserts a distinctive taste. It may be used as a substitute for maple syrup or sugar, for cookies, confectionary, sauces, and with some fruits, as well as on pancakes, waffles, and other hot breads, according to the New York state college of economics.

NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

A big insurance company has reported that automobile fatilities for the first ten months of this year averaged 90 a day. The increase over last year was 3.7 per cent.

Macon County demonstration club women won first prize on the number of containers of jellies, jams and conserves at the International Canning contest conducted recently at Aurora, Ill. The prize was $100.00.

From the high point of 1929 to the low point of 1931, the stocks of 50 representative industrial companies (manufacturing automobiles and other machienery, chemicals, foods, fabrics, and all sorts of necessities) declined from an average of 67.8 or a 73.18 per cent decline.

A survey in Mississippi revealed that farmers in counties having county agents have more food and feed and are in better condition than those in counties where no county agents are employed. This fact brought the conclusion that counties which cannot afford county agents now are counties which haven't had them.

The decline in the general level of farm prices which had been practically continuous for more than two years was checked during the period from October 15 to November 15, being reported at 71 per cent of the 1910-14 November 15 average, accordingg to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Washington. The index at 71 per cent of the November 15 represented a 3 point rise over the October 15 figure.

Large shipments of merchandise affected by the British tariff arrived by airplane in British ports from the continent the day before the tariff became effective. The planes brought hundreds of bales of woolens, cases of typewritter parts, razor blades, pocket knives, cutlery, thousands of pairs of fabric gloves and hundreds of packages of paper labels.

BOX SUPPER AT VERMONT

There will be a box supper and pie supper at Vermont school house, Saturday night, December 12th. We will also have special music. The proceeds will go for the purpose of buying desks. Everybody is invited to come and help us.—Teachers.

REFUGE NEWS

Health of this community is fine, and I think that is something to be thankful for.

Our Sunday school is also good, although there are some who were not present Sunday. Why they were not there we do not know, but don't forget God knows the heart, and we should attend Sunday school every time it is possible.

Our B. Y. P. U. is progressing nicely, and we invite all who will and can to join our B. Y. P. U.

We also have prayer service every Sunday night.

Don't forget Sunday school will not be later than 10 o'clock Sunday, for Rev. M. Lockhart will preach here at 11 o'clock. His message will be on "Giving." He will explain more about the Every Member Canvass cards. We hope to see a large crowd out Sunday; and don't forget to be on time—Sunday school at ten and preaching at eleven. Don't let a little cold weather keep you at home for that is just as good as Satan would have.—Mrs. G. S. Easterling.

W. S. Clark and E. H. Freeman of Mt. Creek were visitors to Clanton Monday.

CENTRAL SINGERS MET AT COOPERS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Chestnut Creek at Coopers was the meeting place of the Central Singing Society last Sunday afternoon. There were plenty of listeners, but not as large a class as usual. It was more of a community singing than it was a cooperative singing, since only people from that community and a very few more made up the singing.

There are eight churches composing the Central Singing Society, and just at present I am unable to think of anyone there Sunday from more than four of these places. Besides Coopers, there were singers from Maple Springs, Poplar Springs and Friendship. Of course there were singers from other communities, all of whose help and presence we duly appreciate, but it looked as though Providence, Concord, Refuge and Walnut Creek had temporarily dissolved partnership with the society, as I am unable to recall anyone at the singing from either of these places.

Walnut Creek is the meeting place next Sunday afternoon. The weather will likely be a little disagreeable, but the singing will only be better if those present have to sacrifice a little in order to be there. Everyone who can, meet with us at Walnut Creek next Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.—T. E. Wyatt, Secretary.

MITCHELL DAM

(By E. E. McGraw)

With a few days work and several gallons of aluminum paint, outside men have worked wonders on the upper deck of Mitchell Dam. Literally overnight the transformer banks and switch gear gracing the powerhouse roof have been changed from a faded battleship gray to specters of brilliance. This work, together with painting of the gantry crane, constitutes the major outside activities for the past few weeks.

The foundation for the new settling tank has been completed and work is well under way for its housing.

Due to passing of summer and the advent of cooler weather, Mitchell Dam has been host to very few visitors during the past month.

The Educational Program is going ahead under full sail, what with class meetings each week and frequent discussions between classes it seems that we should soon really begin to "know our company."

The Union-Banner Is $1.50 A Year

Farmers should rid themselves of any false hope of outside aid from legislation. The only recourse left for the producer on a reduced price level is to produce his goods at reduced costs, and nearly every farmer can likely put into force a few economies in production. Farmers must produce as largely as possible the materials they use, and get away from cash purchases until prices come down proportionately on the things they buy. The cheapest way in the farming business is to raise your own feed and not let the other man get your dollars.

SHAREHOLDER'S MEETING

December Desserts

MANY December days are holidays, and holidays mean good dinners, and good dinners mean desserts. But too many rich desserts are apt to have the effect of unduly prolonging some of the youngsters' holidays—in bed. In order to avoid this undesirable contingency, we are suggesting below a whole series of fruit desserts because natural fruit sugars are not only delicious but they are easier to digest than the other kinds. The natural fruit sugars of plant-ripened pineapples, especially, have been pronounced by scientists to be of a type all ready for human assimilation.

That is one reason why Hawaii, where the best pineapple is grown, plays such a prominent part in this series of holiday desserts. Another is that this pineapple's acid content turns alkaline in the body (ask any doctor or dietitian if that isn't the right thing for it to do), and still another is that it contains a powerful enzyme, called bromelin, which helps to digest the proteins of the heavy holiday dinner which has presumably gone before. So here goes for safe, sane and healthful holiday sweets:

Puddings, Hot and Cold

Baked Pineapple Pudding: Cream two-thirds cup butter, add slowly two and one-half cups confectioner's sugar, and continue creaming. Add four well beaten eggs and the drained contents of two 8-ounce cans of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. (Save the syrup to use in sauces and holiday drinks.) Add one cup of evaporated milk, or fresh cream, and pour into a greased baking dish. Bake until set—about one half hour—in a slow oven, 300° to 325°. This serves eight.

Pineapple Snow Pudding: Soften two teaspoons gelatin in two tablespoons cold water, and dissolve in the syrup drained from one 8-ounce can of pineapple tidbits and heated to boiling. Add four tablespoons sugar, and stir until dissolved. Add four tablespoons lemon juice, chill, and when thick as syrup, fold in four stiffly-beaten egg whites. Chill again, pile lightly in glasses, garnish with tidbits and pour over a thin creamy custard sauce. This serves six.

With Rice and Ice

Fruit Rice Dessert: Boil three-fourths cup rice, drain and cool. Add one-half cup sugar and one teaspoon chopped preserved ginger to the contents of two 8-ounce cans of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, cook until thick, and then cool and add to rice. Add two diced bananas, and chill thoroughly. Serve with cream flavored, if desired, with a little nutmeg. This serves eight.

Pineapple Ice-Box Dessert: Cream one-half cup butter, add one and one-fourth cups confectioner's sugar, and cream again. Add three slightly-beaten egg yolks. Add one-half cup chopped toasted almonds, the drained contents of an 8-ounce can of crushed pineapple and eight chopped maraschino cherries. Fold in three stiffly-beaten egg whites, and flavor with one-half teaspoon almond flavoring. Line a mold with lady fingers, fill with the mixture and set in a refrigerator for eight hours or overnight. This serves six.

Birdnests and Gingerbread

Pineapple Birdnests: Drain thoroughly the slices from a No. 2 can of Hawaiian pineapple, and dip each, slice in condensed milk so that both sides are well covered. Then coat heavily with moist cocoanut from a can. Lay on a greased pan, and brown in a moderate oven. This serves eight.

Pineapple Gingerbread: Melt together two tablespoons butter and one-half cup brown sugar, add the drained contents of a No. 2 can of crushed pineapple, and pour into a buttered cake pan. Pour over it the batter, made as follows:

Beat one egg, and add one-fourth cup sugar, one-half cup molasses and one-fourth cup melted butter. Sift together one and one-fourth cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger and one-half teaspoon salt, and add alternately with one-third cup hot water.

Bake about half an hour in a moderate oven, 350°, turn out upside down, and serve with plenty of whipped cream. This serves eight.

Be sure to save the pineapple syrup from any recipe in which it is not used as an invaluable ingredient for your holiday punches and sauces. Set it aside in the ice-box until it is needed. You'll find it an inspiration as well as a help.

ELEVEN ARRESTS AT SCHOOL HOUSE

Charged With Disturbing Public Assembly At Mineral Springs

Eleven young men and boys were arrested at one time by the Sheriff's force at Mineral Springs Schoolhouse Monday night. The charge against the offenders was for disturbing a public assembly. Three of the boys are juvenile cases.

The people of the community are said to have been engaged in practicing for a Christmas play to be presented for the benefit of the church. It is reported that the group of boys who were arrested had made the threat that they were determined to break up the play if they had to turn the schoolhouse over with all the folks in it.

Monday night the Sheriff's force concealed themselves under the schoolhouse to witness the racket. The boys are said to have put on a grand stampede outside the building while those inside were practicing their parts in the play. The disturbers had a big fire built in the yard in front of the building. They would go around the house making great noise by their jeering and singing. At the proper time the deputies emerged from their hiding place, herded the disturbers into a car and brought the whole lot of them to jail. They made bond and were released.

The total number of arrests reported for the past week at the Sheriff's office Tuesday were 11 for disturbing public assembly; 1 for violating the prohibition law; 3 for desertion; 1 for making liquor; 1 for assault.

The new jail was a week old Tuesday, and there were 15 prisoners on the inside looking out. The distinction of being the first prisoner to be locked up in the new jail was shared mutually by four boys last Wednesday. They were Percy Payton, Hosea Payton, Clint Reynolds, and Basil Lowery. They were brought here from Montgomery where they had been placed by the Sheriff some weeks ago pending the completion of the new jail here.

AB ATCHISON KILLED LAST SATURDAY

Ab Atchison, well-known farmer, who lived on the Sam Edwards place near Thorsby the past year, was killed instantly in an accident near Selma last Saturday afternoon.

It is said that Mr. Atchison had gone down below Selma to see about renting a place for next year. The report says that he caught a ride on a truck loaded with logs; that the log chain broke, and when the logs rolled off the truck the man was caughgt underneath one of them and was horribly mashed. Another report says the accident was caused by a wheel coming off the truck.

Mr. Atchison was a brother-in-law of the late D. H. Gentry, of Thorsby. He is survived by his wife and eight children.

The funeral was held at Mulberry Church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery and Rev. J. W. Jones.

Greenville Methodist Choir Coming Here

Will Sing At Methodist Church On Sunday Morning, Dec. 27

There is a rare treat for all music lovers in Clanton on the fourth Sunday morning. At this time the choir of the Greenville Methodist Church will be at the local Methodist Church at the 11:00 o'clock hour, and will render a Christmas cantata. Dr. Haskew has given over the entire hour for music and song. The choir of the Greenville church is widely known for its efficiency and musical culture, and the coming of this talent on this special occasion will mean one of the greatest treats in the history of the town. Mrs. R. A. Beeland is director, and will be accompanied with about twenty-five voices. All seats should be occupied in the large auditorium of the church on this day. The same program given in Clanton will be rendered at the Methodist Church in Greenville on December 20th. Through the interest of Mrs. Julian Reynolds the choir has been induced to be in Clanton on December 27th. We hope to carry the entire program in the next week's issue of this paper.

TOWN COUNCIL REDUCES WATER RATES

At a meeting of the Town Council Tuesday night an order was passed to reduce the water rate charges in the Town of Clanton.

The old rate was as follows: $1.90 for the first 1,000 gallons, and 6 cents for each 100 gallons over 1,000.

The new rate will be $1.50 for the first 1,500 gallons, and 5 cents for each 100 gallons over 1,500. The old allowance of 10 per cent discount will be maintained on bills paid by the 10th of the month.

The new rate will go into effect on water used during the month of January, 1932, and for each month thereafter.

HOOVER OUTLINE RELIEF PROGRAM

President Would Restore Old Jobs Instead Of Making New Ones

Washington.—Every shoulder is wanted at the wheel by President Hoover in enacting, on a non-partisan basis, his entire domestic program for economic recovery.

He called in newspaper men Friday night, read them an incisive summary of everything he has proposed, told them he cared little about details but stuck out for principles, and addressed through them an urgent plea to Congress and to the whole people to join in action.

"A definite program for turning the tide of deflation," is Mr. Hoover's estimate of his plans. He lumped together into a dozen short definitions the recommendations he made in his message to Congress, others he has expounded in months past. Some are in effect today.

"The broad purpose of this program is to restore the old job instead of creating a new job, to help the worker at the desk as well as the bench, to restore their buying power for the farmers' products—in fact, turn the processes of liquidation and deflation and start the country forward all along the line."

In his left hand he held the paper he read. Often lifting his eyes and departing from his text, he spoke straight at the correspondents who jammed the space around three sides of his desk.

Thus he told them America could, by his program, solve its own difficulties to a large extent, regardless of what happened abroad.

The program he summed up included: Reduction of federal expenditures and temporary tax increase; united local unemployment relief; continued part-time employment; strengthened federal land banks; credit assistance to home owners; partial return of deposits in closed banks; enlargement of federal reserve discount limits; the emergency reconstruction finance corporation; aid to railroads; new banking law safeguard to depositors; credit safeguards to banks themselves, and "maintenance of individuals initiative and individual and community responsibility."

The president said his emergency relief commission would stand by through the winter but that almost every locality in the country had reported it could take care of its own indigent and unemployed. The appeal for local relief funds, he said, has met with a response unparalleled since the war.

The expenditure of more than $60,000,000 a month by the government on construction projects will go on, as its bit toward employment. Part-time work, said the president, is giving aid to millions otherwise without resources.

Upon the reconstruction corporation Mr. Hoover said he relied to give new confidence to agriculture, industry and labor against paralyzing influences and shocks, and also to reopen credit channels which will assure normal working of the commercial fabric.

"This program," he concluded, "will affect favorably every man, woman and child—not a special class or any group. To reestablish normal functioning is the need of the hour."

Mr. Albert McGee, of El Reno, Oklahoma, and Mr. Stanley Walker, of McAllen, Texas, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hance Alred last week. Mr. McGee is an uncle of Mrs. Alred, and Mr. Walker is her cousin.

SCHOOLS OF COUNTY WILL RUN FULL LENGTH TERM

Teachers Agree To Finish Present Term And Wait For Their Pay Until The State Pays Its School Money Into County School Treasury

The schools of Chilton County will be carried on to the full completion of the regular terms this year. For this good news we owe our thanks to the loyalty, patriotism, and sacrifice of the teachers of the county, who have virtually said they will see that the children of the county have their schools, whether they get paid for teaching or not.

The decision was reached at the meeting of the teachers last Wednesday afternoon. Or rather it might be more truly said that the agreement was ratified at that time. It has been apparent for more than a week that the teachers would sacrifice themselves rather than see the schools of the county closed.

At the meeting Wednesday, the following agreement between the teachers and the school board was signed by practically every teacher in the county:

Chilton County Board of Education:

We, the teachers of Chilton County, do hereby petition your Board not to close the schools of this county, as has been suggested, at Mid-Term, but that we be allowed to teach out the school term as contracted, said term of elementary schools to close on April 8th and high school on May 6th.

We understand in making this request that the county does not have the money at present to pay the teachers and we further understand and agree that the payment of our salaries for the 1931-1932 school year is to be paid in full or in part depending on the amount of school funds received from the state at any time as payment to Chilton County for the 1931-1932 school term, plus the usual county three mill tax and the district tax where used for paying salaries, less usual and necessary administrative operating expenses.

We, and each of us, without recourse, do not hold the County Board responsible for the payment of our salaries, if we are permitted to teach the school term out further than such funds above enumerated, will pay.

It is further understood by us, and each of us, that should these funds not be sufficient to pay our entire salaries then we, and each of us, authorize the Board of Education to apportion the funds according to our monthly salaries and length of time taught.

There were three teachers who said they could not carry out the agreement as above, and did not sign it. A few other teachers did not say anything, and did not sign the agreement.

However, a big majority of the teachers signed the agreement, which guarantees that our schools will go on to the finish of the regular term, in spite of the grave financial crisis of the present.

In response to the fine spirit of sacrifice, and the unselfish devotion of the teachers to the schools, the County Board of Education has adopted the following resolution of appreciation:

"We, the members of the Chilton County Board of Education and Superintendent hereby express to the teachers and truck drivers of Chilton County our appreciation for the sacrificial spirit they have manifested in the interest of the children of Chilton County in agreeing to carry the schools on. We feel that it was an unselfish and volunteer action on their part and we call upon the citizens of the county to give these teachers their full cooperation in every way possible in serving the interest of the children and building such a system of schools in the County as will serve the best interests of said County.

We further pledge them our support and cooperation in every way possible and assure them that we will do everything in our power to secure funds with which to pay them for their services and to serve them in any other way as it is possible to do so."

It was stated Monday at the office of County Superintendent Lawrence, that the schools of the county will vacate for Christmas holidays on December 23, and return to work on January the 4th.

NEGRO MINSTREL LAY DAM SCHOOL

Put On By School And Boy Scouts Next Monday Night

"The Great Chicken Stealing," is the title of a negro minstrel program that will be presented at Lay Dam School next Monday night, by a cast composed of the school students and Boy Scouts of Lay Dam The program begins at 7:30 o'clock, and includes songs, jokes, and dancing.

"The Great Chicken Stealing," is a case in the court of Coon Township, Ebenezer County, Arkansas, in which Matilda Jones (Nell Marcus) is prosecuting James Bones (Julius Martin) for stealing chickens.

The following characters are to take part in the prosecution of the famous case:

Jeremiah Wiseman, Judge, J. C. Connell; Julius Johnsing, attorney for plaintiff, Owen Deal; Abraham Smith, attorney for defendant, Thomas Marcus; William Brown, clerk of the court, Irby Wood; William Tubbs, sheriff, Gene Wilkinson; James Bones, defendant, Julius Martin; Matilda Jones, plaintiff, Nell Marcus.

Witnesses for the plaintiff are John Jones, husband of plaintiff, Marcus; James Oppleseed, hired man, Britt Deal, Jr.; witnesses for defendant are Martha Jones, defendant's wife, Margaret Wilkerson; Rev. Sideburns, negro minister, Bobbie Powers.

The jurors in the case are Cersey Martin, foreman, Horace Vinson, Woodrow Blalock, Stuart Woodson, Cecil Martin, Tommie Wilkerson, Guy McKee.

Charge for admission will be 10 and 25 cents. This is sure to be a very interesting program, well worth the price and more too. Everybody is invited to attend.

DR. M. R. SEAY DIED LAST WEEK

Father Of Mrs. C. E. Stapp Passed Away Thursday At Columbus, Miss.

Dr. M. R. Seay, for half a century a practicing physician in Lamar County, Alabama, died last Thursday in a hospital at Columbus, Miss., after an illness of several days. He was 79 years old.

Dr. Seay was a graduate of the University of Alabama and the old Mobile Medical College. In his early years he taught school. For the last 50 years he has been engaged in the practice of medicine, during which time he was very active. He was considered one of the most useful citizens in his native county of Lamar.

He is survived by his second wife, Mrs. Fanny Jones Seay, age 69 years, and eight children, Mrs. L. F. Jackson and A. T. Seay, of Birmingham; Mrs. A. L. Wilbanks and Mrs. Sterling Thrower, of Columbus, Miss., Dr. E. M. Seay and Mrs. J. T. Maddox, of Fernbank, Ala.; Mrs. P. T. Hodo, of Amory, Miss.; Mrs. C. E. Stapp, of Clanton.

The funeral was held last Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sterling Thrower, at Columbus. Services were conducted by Dr. Ward, of the First Methodist Church of Columbus.

Burial was at the old family graveyard three miles from the Seay Home, near Fernbank. Very beautiful and impressive Masonic rites were conducted by Judge Alex Smith, of Fayette County.

Mr. and Mrs. Stapp were called to the bedside of her father a week before his death. They remained constantly with him until his death, and returned to their home in Clanton Saturday following the burial.

The many friends of Mrs. Stapp throughout Chilton County extend sympathy in the great loss which she has sustained.

CITY WILL INSTALL TRAFFIC LIGHTS

An automatic traffic signal light will be installed at the intersection of Second Avenue and the Highway, it was announced at the City Clerk's office Wednesday morning.

Strict observance of the signal will be required of automobiles and pedestrains at the street intersection.

One of the principal objects of the City Council in putting in this light is to further protect school children who pass this street intersection daily.

The new signal system will be installed before Christmas, it was stated.

FISH HATCHERY GOES TO PERRY

Commission Announces Purchase Of Land Near Marion

Washington, Dec. 14.—Purchase of 570 acres of land in Perry County near Marion as the site for a fish hatchery that ultimately will be one of the largest in the United States, was announced today by Henry O'Malley, commissioner of fisheries.

As soon as the title has been approved by the Department of Justice, the formal transfer will take place and construction of buildings and other work will be started.

Selection of the Perry County site was made after inspectors for the bureau had visited properties in various sections of Alabama. The site chosen was part of the Lovelace farm and the property was acquired at a price of $12,750.

Establishment of a fish hatchery in Alabama was authorized by Congress two years ago under a five-year development program for the bureau and $50,000 was appropriated for the purpose by Congress last winter.

The Perry County site borders the Cahaba River and contains three springs and borings have determined that artesian water may now be obtained in unlimited quantities. There are three small lakes on the property, covering about three acres, and investigation has disclosed that 375 acres are suitable for fish ponds.

The variety of water available makes it possible to have tanks for the propagation of all species of fresh water fish.

From the area acquired by the Federal Government for this fish hatchery it is apparent that it is expected to develop the Alabama hatchery into one of the largest, if not the largest, in the country. If this is to be done, an additional appropriation will be sought later.

Work on the buildings and ponds will be started during the winter. The Alabama Power Company has agreed to run electric lines into the property and telephone lines also will be constructed.

The site is directly on the Birmingham-Mobile Highway close to the juncture of that road with the Montgomery-Mobile Highway. Ponds will be constructed on the east side of the road and the buildings will be erected on high ground west of the highway. An aquarium where the public may see the various fish will be among the buildings to be constructed.

HILL'S CHRISTMAS SPECIALS

Mr. J. W. McEathern, manager of Hill Grocery Company in Clanton, calls special attention to the offerings of his store for Christmas buyers.

In addition to the extra bargains in regular standard items of food products Mr. McEathern points out that Hill's will offer a fine assortment of Candy, Fruits, Nuts, etcc.

"You are invited to visit Hill's," said Mr. McEathern, "and make your selection for Christmas."

WILL PREACH AT COLLINS CHAPEL SUNDAY AT 11 A. M.

Rev. J. Robert Bean of Beat 16 will fill Rev. Appleton's pulpit at Collins Chapel next Sunday at the 11 o'clock hour. According to the swapping arrangement made some weeks ago, Rev. Appleton will also preach for Rev. Bean at Friendship at 11 o'clock the fourth Sunday in January. The public in both these communities will please take notice of this special announcement. It is hoped that good crowds will greet both preachers at their special services.

DRAINAGE PLANS MADE MONDAY

Project Is Placed In Charge Of A Number Of Committees

The second meeting held Monday in the the interest of clearing and ditching the swamps around Clanton was attended by about one hundred interested property owners.

The swamp area was outlined in different sections and committees were appointed to look after the work projected in each of the different sections.

Judge L. H. Reynolds, J. J. Johnson and Dr. W. L. Parrish were given the section of swamp from Dake's old Mill up to the Lay Dam Road.

Sam Johnson, Will Wyatt and J. N. Dennis are to have charge of the swamp from the Parrish Bridge up the south prong of the creek to the Montgomery Highway.

Butler Lowe, J. D. Collins, W. S. Willis, and Henry Burnett were designated to look after the north prong swamp from the Lay Dam Road to Henry Burnett's place, including the prong that extends north by the cotton mill.

Buford Lawrence and Henry Burnett agreed to look after the swamp from Henry Burnett's to Buford Lawrence's place.

P. D. Wilson and G. C. Headley are the committee to look after the south prong swamp from the Montgomery Highway to the Kincheon Road.

At the meeting Monday John Thompson, H. S. Shaw and W. L. Popwell were appointed as a committee to see what can be done about selling the timber that can be cut from the swamps. In regard to this matter a resolution was passed asking that the people of Clanton consider the use of wood cut from the swamps for heating purposes instead of buying coal.

The different committees will begin to work on their respective sections of the swamp area, to see what plan can be worked out with the landowners to begin clearing and ditching the lowlands.

Judge Reynolds, Dr. Parrish and Mr. Johnnie Johnson are in the position where they must make the first move. They have charge of the lower end of the swamp area. It is there that the ditching will have to begin first. A statement from Judge Reynolds Tuesday indicated that he is in hearty accord with the proposition and intends to do everything in his power to get the ball started to rolling just as quickly as something definite can be worked out with the landowners concerned in the lower area between Dakes Mill and the Lay Dam Road.

REV. HOLLAND HERE

Rev. James Shelby Holland of East Tallassee was in Clanton last Saturday afternoon. He filled his regular appointment at Liberty Hill Saturday morning and Sunday morning. Rev. Holland reports everything running smoothly in his part of the country. He did not say so, but we feel safe in saying, however, that his people down in Tallapoosa and Elmore know that there is a kind of depression or something on.

Fiddlers Convention On New Years Night

American Legion Will Sponsor Big Event At The Courthouse

Plans are in the making for the biggest fiddlers convention of all time to be pulled off at the courthouse in Clanton on Thursday night, December 31st. The occasion will be under auspices of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion.

A committee headed by J. E. Gore, has the arrangements in charge. Every fiddler in Central Alabama is invited to come and take part in the contest. A long list of prizes will be put up to reward the musicians who take part, and every fiddler from the best to the worst will get some kind of a prize.

The Legion cordially invites the public to attend. Every effort will be made to assure a good program of wholesome enjoyment.

Don't fail to see "Beads On A String," at Jemison, December 19, 7:30 p. m. Admission 10c and 20c.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION GIVEN NEW CHEVROLET

That national sales of new 1932 Chevrolets during their initial week-end showing, exceeded last year's figures is indicated by hundreds of wires received by H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager, from dealers reporting on the reception of the new cars in their localities.

Attendance in all parts of the country exceeded that at any previous national showing of new Chevrolet models, and the general tenor of the messages was that dealers expect better business next year than in 1931, Mr. Klingler stated.

While no official tabulation of sales to date will be completed before the latter part of the month, the voluntary reports of dealers and zone officials show that in a great majority of cities and districts orders on hand are well beyond the corresponding period last year, and that in a number of instances dealers made deliveries of display models off their sales floors over Saturday and Sunday.

Indicative of the general interest engendered by the modern, low-priced car were the reports of a number of dealers, who commented on the many well-to-do people who visited their displays.

A typical commentary on the improvements in the new line came from Chattanooga, Tenn., where the dealer wired: "Please convey to President W. S. Knudsen my appreciation for his fulfillment of his personal promise to give us an automobile with ample power to negotiate Lookout Mountain with ease."

The 33 dealers in the Detroit, Mich., area, where company headquarters are located, reported attendance in excess of 250,000 the first two days, and 400 car sales, one dealer remaining open all night Saturday to accommodate a consistent flow of spectators.

From Seattle came the message: "Practically impossible to keep pace with requests for demonstrations. Free wheeling and syncro-mesh getting most attention, with new bodies running close second. All dealers and zone managers confident of record business."

One Buffalo dealer reported 50 orders in the first 48 hours, and a second dealer in the same city reported three times the crowd last year. Pittsburgh had 125,000 visitors the first day, and Hartford, Conn., dealer had ten times the crowd of last year and expects more business.

Typical of many messages was one from Mason City, Iowa: "Public more enthused over 1932 models than they were in 1929 when the first Chevrolet Six came out." One dealer in Washington, D. C., wired: "Largest Saturday crowd in our ten years with Chevrolet. Twenty-two orders on hand and present indications point to our greatest year."

Mr. and Mrs. Forney Huett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hand, Mrs. Effie Huett and Mrs. Jean Wyatt attended preaching at Dargin in Shelby county Sunday night.

Alfonso Sanders was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

J. H. JACKSON WRITES MORE ABOUT BIBLE PROPHECIES

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please permit me to say a few words on the prophecy of Daniel and John the Revelator? Suppose we accept Bro. Mims's interpretation of the 9th chapter of Daniel as being correct. Evidently it is; at lease the 700 years which the great struggle between the Jews and Gentiles occupied as to who should possess and control the Kingdom. We find that the Kingdom fell into the hands of the Gentiles. How long are the Gentiles to possess and control this Kingdom? Daniel in the 12th Chapter and 7th verse says that it shall be for a time, times and a half. This time, times and a half times represent three and one-half years for the Gentile age or 1,260 days, counting 360 days for a year, which is correct in prophecy.

Now we find in Revelations 12:1 a woman clothed with the sun and the moon under her feet, which represents the true church or servants of God. We see this woman flee into the wilderness where she has a place prepared of God that He should feed her there one thousand two hundred and three-score days or three and a half years. Also read the 14th verse in the 13th chapter; and the 5th verse says "And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies, and power was given unto him to continue forty and two months, or three and one half years, or 1,260 days." Also read Revelations 11:2, which says "But the court which is without the temple leave out and measure it not, for it is given unto the Gentiles, and the Holy City shall they tread under foot for 42 months, or 1,260 days."

The third verse says: "And I will give power unto my two witnesses and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and three-score days, clothed in sock-cloth; this also is 3 and one-half years.

Now we see this three and one-half years or 1,260 days represent the Gentile age. Now, John did not say just what this time was based on, but evidently it was based as a day for a year in the Gentile age. Read Ezekiel 4:6, where God gave him a day for a year. So we see, if this 1,260 days represent 1,260 years, it will expire the latter part of October, 1932, counting from A.D. 700. A.D. 700 and 1,260, we have 1,960 Hebrew years. This 1,960 years multiplied by 360 days, we get 705,600 days; this time expires the latter part of October, 1932. These figures also harmonize with the 28 generations, counting 70 years for a generation and 360 days for a year. It also gives 705,600 days, counting these generations from David which means from Christ.

Well, it is very unpleasant to interpret prophecy when it is against us. We know that we have trod the Holy City under foot and have killed his two witnesses. Their dead bodies are lying in that great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt where also our Lord was crucified. People who have wisdom can see these two dead bodies. But at the end of the Gentile age life from God is going to enter their dead bodies. So, when this prophecy is fulfilled we will have a new heaven and a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness. We will have altogether a new order of things.

If I have the right interpretation of these scroptures, 1932 will be the last year of the Gentile age. Of course, this could count from the latter part of Christ's life, but I think it will figure from his birth. Study these scriptures, and if I have not consistently interpreted them, throw this letter in the scrap basket. Respectfully,—J. H. Jackson.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Miss Mary Mitchell Montgomery, was named honorary cadet colonel at the University of Alabama during the annual military ball Monday night. She is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Christmas activities at the University were inaugurated on Thursday, December 10, with co-ed activities. The Christmas tree on the lawn of Tutwiler Hall was lighted, the switch being pulled by Dr. Geo. H. Denny. A Christmas dinner honoring Dr. and Mrs. Denny, the deans and their wives took place in Tutwiler Hall after which a reception was held in Doster Hall. This was fololwed by a glee club program, a speech by Dr. Denny, and an "all-girl" dance.

The memory of Jimmie Moore of Anniston, late star end of the Alabama Crimson Tide, will be perpetuated t oposterity with the establishment of a fund which will be known as the Jimmie Moore Scholarship Fund. This drive, sponsored by the Spirit Committee and the Crimson-White, took place Monday and Tuesday.

Watches will be given graduating members of the 1931 Alabama Crimson Tide by the Birmingham Alumni Association, according to announcement from Hill Ferguson, University alumnus.

"The Oracle," published by the students of Sidney Lanier High School, Montgomery, has been awarded the silver loving cup for the best Alabama high school annual issued during the school term ending May, 1931. PURINA'S HIP-POCKET POULTRY MANUAL

A hip-pocket volume crammed with vital facts about baby chicks, their care, feeding, and management, has just appeared from the press and is ready for distribution. It is the Purina Hip-Pocket Poultry Manual, offering the busy owner of poultry little helps and hints which mean so much.

In addition to the many pages devoted to baby chicks a simple, concise, and well-organized plan of poultry-keeping is given, treating all phases of the work from the care of newly-hatched chicks through feeding, watering, disease prevention and control, to that climax of all poultry raising, egg production and the maintaining of it over a long period without detriment to the hens.

APPEAL FROM CITIZENS OF MOBILE ON ELECTION

Editor Union-Banner:

In the interest of three thousand taxpayers of Mobile, I am asking that this letter be published in the "Letters to the Editor" or "Voice of the People" column of your valuable paper.

On January fifth the entire State of Alabama will vote on a tax amendment affecting only taxpayers in the city of Mibile. Adoption of this amendment will mean that Mobile taxpayers will be burdened with a three and one-half mill tax, in addition to the millage already allowed the city government for operating purposes, for the rest of their lives.

The Mobile County Civic Association, The Property Owners' Protective Association and the Mobile Realty Board, organizations speaking for approximately 3,000 taxpayers, have gone on record as opposing this tax.

Mobile's city commission is the only local body supporting the constitutional amendment. The commission has flooded the state with propaganda stating that Mobile citizens favor adoption of the amendment. We, however, firmly believe that the Mobile vote will be overwhelmingly against the amendment.

We are faced with an unusual situation that may set a precedent for Alabama. Here is a proposed tax affecting only one city, to be adopted by a vote of the entire state. The membership of the three organizations named above contend that is a violation of the principle of local self-government and that, if the tax is adopted, it will pave the way for other localities to be tax inflicted in the same way.

Propaganda being distributed by the Mobile City Commission says that adoption of the tax is necessary to save the city from "a possible receivership." Our organizations have an opinion from T. M. Stevens, one of the state's ablest lawyers, that it is impossible for the city to be forced into a receivership.

While circulars pointing out the danger of this "possible receivership" are still being distributed, R. V. Taylor, one of the city commissioners has admitted that the city is not threatened with a receivership.

The amendment to be voted on provides for continuation of a three and one-half mills tax with which Mobile taxpayers have been burdened for fifty years. The purpose for which the tax was originally levied, retirement of an old debt, has been fulfilled and Mobilians are desirous of relief. The city commission wants the tax continued for use in the general fund.

The three organizations opposing the tax amendment are of the opinion that the city government, by instatution of a rigid economy and efficiency program, can do without the tax continuance.

Voters of the State will be doing Mobile property owners and taxpayers a great favor by casting their ballots against adoption of the amendment. We earnestly solicit their support in the name of fair dealing and for the sake of local self-government.—Yours truly, Peyton Norville, President Property Owners' Protective Association, Mobile, Alabama.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

ALABAMA IS FOURTH IN COTTON GROWING

Alabama this year occupies fourth place in cotton production, being exceeded by Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi, reports F. W. Gist, state and Federal agricultural statistician.

"The final estimate of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for 1931 gives Alabama 1,430,000 bales of cotton of 500 pounds of gross weight each. This compares with 1,473,000 last year, 1,342,000 in 1929, 1,109,000 in 1928 and 1,498,000 in 1926," Mr. Gist said.

"The yield per acre was estimated this year at 200 pounds of lint compared with 187 pounds last year, 174 in 1929, 196 in 1926, 209 in 1914 and 204 in 1911. The yield of this year is therefore the highest since 1914.

"The acreage picked this year was 3,420,000 compared with 3,770,000 picked in 1930. Seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the acreage planted and growing on the first of July this year was abandoned.

"Excellent yields were obtained this year from all sections of the state with the exception of the western part of the Black Belt and the southeastern section. The southeastern and north central sections of the state gave considerable less than the state average, while the eastern portion of the Black Belt and the Piedmont area gave only slightly less than the state average. The entire northern part of the state, above the Black Belt, gave considerably more than the state average of yield per acre.

"1,365,000 running bales, or a little bit more than 96 per cent of the crop were ginned prior to the first of December."

TWO THINGS NECESSARY

Clarence Poe, writing in the Progressive Farmer, says there are two things absolutely necessary to the future welfare of the American farmer. He outlines as first the importance of organization which will enable farm families in every community to come together, say, twice a month, work together, learn to know and trust one another, and develop a higher degree of acquaintance, neighborliness, fellowship and comradeship.

The other essential thing, says this writer, is the ecultivation of the highest quality of character in our boys and girls, young men and women. The writer continues:

"To this end I know nothing more important than the maintenance and strengthening of the country church and Sunday school. Once a man acquired the habit of regular contact with these agencies of the higher life, he comes to think of them as furnishing the salf of human existance. When he must miss the weekly meeting of men and women at the church it is as if he were missing salt in his food. Even if one learned nothing from the preacher, the church service would nevertheless be worth while simply because it brings together boys and girls, men and women, under wholesome and ennobling influences, and constantly reminds us of those standards of conduct and character which the church still holds up as a beacon light to humanity. Though the creed of no denomination may exactly suit us, some church should have our influence and support."—Covington News.

PROTECTION FOR COTTON IS URGED

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, urges that Alabama farmers save money by protecting cotton now lying in yards from weather damage. In making this plea Commissioner Storrs called attention to the following facts:

"Experiments by the U. S. Division of Cotton Marketing show that bales of cotton placed flat on the ground with no covering and without further attention may sustain weather damage to the extent of 273 pounds per 500-pound bale. The average loss for bales placed on edge on the ground without further attention, was 109 pounds. Bales on edge and turned once a week lost 64.5 pounds.

"Bales placed on end on the ground and not turned lost 117 pounds. Bales placed on timbers off the ground and turned once a week lost 19.5 pounds, and bales placed on timbers and covered with tarpaulin, without further attention lost 10 pounds. Bales stored in properly constructed warehouses lost only 4 pounds.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Recently the price of milk in New York City was reduced two cents a quart, and it was estimated that the reduction cost New York State dairymen two million dollars per month.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company has announced salary reductions of 10 per cent, effective January 1, on all officers and employees, excepting those under contract or group wage agreements.

The adjusted index number for Alabama bank debits showed no change in October but remained at 72 which was the September index. This index which is corrected for seasonal variations and based on the 1923-1925 monthly average as 100 now stands 28 per cent below the levels of October last year, said the Auburn Economic Review.

The feeding value of a hundred pounds of cottonseed meal is equivalent to 170 pounds of cotton seed, according to experiments conducted at several experiment stations and reported by F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman at Auburn. These figures, said Mr. Burns, enable farmers to determine the exchange value between seed and meal.

STATION WAPI TO BROADCAST WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

A world wide weekly cotton review began as a regular market feature of Station WAPI with the 12:30 broadcast last Saturday. This is the most complete resume of market conditions throughout the world that it is possible to obtain. It is a compilation of telegrams received throughout the American cotton belt and cablegrams from federal government representatives abroad. All data is of the close of Friday.

The United States Department of Agriculture, cooperating with the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, University of Alabama and the Alabama College is responsible for this unusual and expensive up-to-the-minute dissemination of world wide news on cotton.

Market men throughout this section of the country and persons interested in the trend of cotton activities over the world are offered this feature each Saturday at 12:30 o'clock.

NO "ABOUTS" IN RADIO

"This is station Z.X.Z. signing off at exactly 10:00 o'clock, or this is Statian Z.X.Z. switching you to the network of the Federal Broadcasting System at 8:45 and five seconds."

Have you ever, and that is a foolish question because everyone has, asked someone what the time was? And in answer they have replied "about" six fifteen or "about" something else. Yes, ninty nine per cent of the people of Amerca run on a pretty nearly timely schedule.

They get up in the morning around a certain time. Usually ten or fifteen minutes earlier or later. Breakfast is taken leisurely today and on the fly tomorrow. Oftimes the "about" eight o'clock awakener will over sleep "about" twenty minutes and as a result cram "about" half his toast into his mouth, which forces him to chew and digest the food to the tune of an interuban car.

As a result of this twenty minute loss in the daily schedule he arrives at the office "about" the same number of minutes late. His routine work for the day, or if he is an executive, his appointments will also be "about" on time, but not quite.

It is within the realm of possibility that said Mr. Business Man might have missed landing a deal of "about" somany thousands of dollars because he was running "about" a quarter of an hour or so behind schedule. Then too, he may be forced to give up a golf game or a social contact with a very important client who couldn't wait "about" that extra few minutes, ar he (the client) had to fill certain engagements in "about" this time or that time.

"I will meet you "about" so and so time." These are the easiest words of all to say and they most assuredly do not leave one feeling that he is definitely tied to an engagement at a specified moment. Yet if the annual cost and loss of these relief giving words were counted it would make an appalling total.

Which brings us back to the radio station, and the start of this narative. In the studios of station WAPI the one unforgivable sin is to become careless in watching the split second. Programs usually run in fifteen minute intervals. Each change in a feature must be made on the second, or a radio faux pas has been committed. Announcers and technicians must live by the clock and become second hand conscious.

There are no "abouts" in radio broadcasting. A signal example of this is the handling of network programs over National Broadcasting Company. The announcer's voice in the studio of WAPI must deliver the message in a stipulated length of time. In fact the speed of delivery must be judged to a fine point so that the switch to the network can be made with only a second or so interval.

"Abouts" don't go in radio. Yet "about" this time or "baout" that time will always be an American characteristic, for which they will pay and pay, and don't fool yourself about this fact.

For the fourth time this year the Federal Treasury recently borrowed more than one billion dollars. A combination of securities totaling $1,300,000,000 was offered. Most of the loan went for payment of debts, leaving a small part for government operations.

President Hoover recently made seven changes in the tariff structure, raising two duties and lowering five. The levy on McKay sewed shoes was increased from 20 to 30 per cent and that on fresh green peas was raised from 3 to 3.9 cents per pound. The decreases were: Crude feldspar, from $1 to 50 cents per ton; turned shoes, 20 to 10 per cent ad valorem; fresh green peppers, 3 to 2.5 cents a pound; and egg plants, 3 to 1.5 cents per pound. The duty on window glass was reduced 25 per cent.

COTTON REPORT

There were 19,321 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1931 prior to December 1st, as compared with 22,086 bales ginned to December 1st, 1930.

These figures were given for publication by R. J. Jones, cotton census enumerator for Chilton County.

ONE CAN DANCE TO MUSIC PLAYED ON THE FOLLOWING DAY

Here's one for Mr. Ripley's "Believe it or not." On Tuesday evening, December 15th, at 7 o'clock, radio listeners on the West Coast dined and danced to the music of an orchestra playing at 3 o'clock the next morning. The orchestra was Jack Hylton's, playing from London, and the occasion, the first transatlantic broadcast of this sort in the history of radio, sponsored by the Lucky Strike Dance Hour.

On that evening, Tuesday, listeners heard the music of Jack Hylton's Orchestra, but, it wasn't Tuesday night where Hylton was playing. For Tuesday evening, 7 p. m., in Los Angeles is Wednesday morning, 3 a. m., in London.

The program from England was transmitted by shortwaves to New York, and rebroadcast from New York through station WEAF over a nationwide NBC network. Jack Pettis and his orchestra, playing from New York, shared the program with Hylton and gave radio listeners a rare opportunity to compare American and European dance rhythms. Walter Winchell, famous newspaper columnist and gossip, introduced both orchestras and contributed his usual light, flippant chatter to the varied program.

Winchell points out that he can now say "I spoke to Hylton tomorrow," without fear of contradiction, or being accused of bad grammar.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD PASTURES IS TOLD

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 14.—J. C. Lowery, of the college of agriculture at Auburn, and the county agents are directing attention of farmers to the fact that there are good pasture lands in Alabama and that more good pastures are needed. He warned against attempts to make pastures by starting with gulleyed or worn out land. If such land is used, the first step is to enrich it.

"Moist bottom lands are best for successful permanent pastures," said Mr. Lowery. "In Alabama there are thousands of acres of river and creek bottoms now doing practically nothing except to produce bushes and briars. With a little treatment and attention this land will make excellent pastures."

Pasture work should be done in the winter because it is the best time to do it; and it is also the time when other work is not pressing. Start by clearing the undergrowth, leaving enough larger trees for shade. Land should be put in shape for mowing to control weeds and briars.

Breaking land is not necessary for most pasture plants. A firm seed bed is needed. In most instances sowing seed on unbroken ground in late winter or early spring without covering is the most successful method of planting.

Plowing is needed only where land has become badly caked or where there is such a dense growth of undesirable weeds and grasses that the pasture plant seed cannot come in contact with the soil. Plowing should be done several months before seeding time so that the soil will be well settled.

The most practical pasture plants for the greater part of Alabama are Bermuda grass, lespedeza, carpet grass, dallas grass, and, in some sections, redtop and white clover.

Many farmers will find it wise to set kudzu in late winter and early spring. Kudzu is a perennial legume and is fine for setting on worn and waste lands. It is valuable for supplementing the permanent pasture.

We met Sunday morning at the usual hour for Sunday school. Only a small crowd was present, but we had a real good lesson.

On account of rain we didn't have Christian Endeavor Sunday night. The topic which was to be discussed was "Making Christmas Christian." Many interesting talks were planned on this subject. As it is drawing near Christmas time may we apply this subject to our own individual lives and make this Christmas a Christian Christmas and look upon that day as a holy day when our loving Saviour was born, and may we realize the meaning and great purpose of the day, Christmas.

Miss Bessie Williams is spending a few days with her auntie, Mrs. Ethel McLane, of Adams this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams and children were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams and family Sunday.

Mrs. C. A. Surles and family spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Sheppard of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Williams of near Billingsley spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. Fonza Williams.

Little J. B. and Elain Tindol spent Sunday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Williams.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Our newly appointed pastor, Rev. G. W. Stewart, will be with us. For some cause or other he wasn't with us on last preaching day, but will be here Sunday if nothing prevents. Let's everybody come and bring some one with us.

We have a nice line of perfume sets for Christmas at Upchurch's.

DAIRYMEN AVERAGE OVER 300 PER COW

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 14.—By making their dairy herds produce an average exceeding 300 pounds of butterfat per cow last year, five Alabama dairymen have demonstrated that natural conditions in Alabama are favorable to dairying. These dairymen are Van Antwerp Realty Corporation of Mobile, King Brothers of Marion Junction, C. C. Lloyd, Stevenson, A. L. Christopher, Athens, and J. C. Beene, Huntsville.

In reporting on what they did C. M. Ling, who is in charge of official testing for the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, said that the average production for all Alabama cows last year was about 100 pounds of butterfat per cow, or less than one-third of the average of each of these herds.

In recognition of their achievement these dairymen have been awarded diplomas by the National Dairy Association, making them members of the Honorary Guild of Gopatis. Their names will be placed on the national herd honorary roll.

The Van Antwerp herd headed the list. The production average of 78 purebred Jerseys in this herd was 372 pounds of butterfat. The King Brothers' herd of 15 was second with an average of 333 pounds; Lloyd's herd of 31 averaged 320; Christopher's herd of 11 Jerseys averaged 301.

In announcing these herd winnings Mr. Ling said that the highest producing cow in the dairy herd improvement associations in Alabama was a registered Jersey, 4 years old, owned by Alabama College, Montevallo. She produced 8,591 pounds of milk, and 473 pounds of butterfat.

Members of these testing associations, added Mr. Ling, are eradicating unprofitable cows. They are also learning how to make profitable cows more profitable.

CITRUS BAN LIFTED

Alabama citrus fruit, for the first time in many years, may be shipped into Florida.

B. P. Livingston, chief of the plant industry division of the Alabama Department of Agriculture, has received word from J. H. Montgomery, Gainsville, Fla., that Florida plant board has repealed its rules prohibiting shipment of citrus fruit into Florida from gulf states.

EVERY CITIZEN WILL PROFIT THROUGH FORESTRY PROGRESS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 14.—Everybody in the community profits from the growing of timber, whether all or only a few of the citizens are owners of the woodlands, says the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. This is due to the well-known fact that any business or commercial enterprise benefits not only those who operate the concern but also those who participate in other lines of business that are affected by the undertaking.

The price that the lumberman receives for his product is by no means net profit. On the contrary, in many cases he is paying interest on his investment to the financial concerns of the community and in all cases taxes to the local county treasury. He also contributes to insurance interests, and buys large quantities of supplies from local merchants and farmers.

The working men of the community are paid from one dollar to a dollar and a half per thousand board feet for cutting the timber in the woods, a dollar and a half to three dollars for skidding the logs and from four dollars and a half to six dollars for sawmilling the logs into lumber. If the material is planed before being shipped or if it is remanufacured into mill work, furniture or other finished products, local labor obtains several additional dollars per thousand feet.

In brief, working men in the woods and mills, together with the local merchants and other classes that render service to industry in general, receive for themselves by far the greater part of the price obtained by the lumberman. The returns to the latter, in fact, are often quite meagre, and during hard times many a lumberman continues to operate at a loss merely to furnish employment for the people dependent upon his enterprise. In such cases he can hope to break even only in the event of an early return of extensive buying on the part of the public.

Jack Hunter, salesman for Roberts & Sons of Birmingham, was in Clanton last Saturday. Mr. Hunter's home is in Dothan.

Mr. Dovard Clackler and Robert Ahed were visitors to Montgomery Sunday.

MANY WOMEN
Have Been Helped Like This

"About four years ago, I suffered a great deal with pains in my back and side," writes Mrs. D. A. Bush, of Roxton, Texas. "I did not feel like doing my housework, or anything else. I would get nervous, and my back would hurt worse. One of my neighbors asked me what I was doing for myself. I told her 'most everything. Then she asked me if I had ever taken Cardui. I told her 'no' but I would try it. Before I had finished one bottle I could tell the difference in my feelings, but I kept on taking Cardui until I felt strong and well again."

DARDEN, OF COOSA, TO OPPOSE WHITE

Champion of County's Tax Fight Wants Utilities Board Post

State Senator John A. Darden, of Goodwater, who has led the protest by the counties of Coosa and Chilton aginst the State Tax Commission assessment, of the properties of the Alabama Power Company in the two counties, announced here yesterday, that he will be a candidate in the primary election next May, for President of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

"I expect to make the race," Senator Darden said, "on the principal issue of abolishment of room charges for electric service, also the abolishing of demand and service charges of public utilities in Alabma," Mr. Darden will oppose in his race Hugh H. White who it is understood, will be a candidate to succeed himself, as president of the Commission.

Rev. Ruddick was born in Ireland in the year 1854. He died at Stanton, July 25, 1931. He served as Clerk of the Unity Baptist Association from 1888 to 1919; and Moderator from 1920 to 1922.

Fess Urges Support Of President Hoover

Chairman Stresses "Brilliant Leadership" of President; Chicago Is Awarded Party's Convention For 1932—Detroit Drops Out.

Washington, Dec. 15.—Chicago it is!

The Republican convention will be held there in June, by virtue of a national committee decision Tuesday afternoon.

The vote was little more than a formality. Detroit, after figuring briefly as a potential contender, had withdrawn an hour or more before.

Atlantic City was the only contestant. One ballot decided.

Cheers and handclapping greeted the choice. Spokesmen for Chicago had guaranteed $150,000 for expenses.

The vote was Chicago 86, Atlantic City 14.

At the morning session, Chairman Fess urged the committee to wage a militant campaign throughout the country on behalf of President Hoover. His renomination is taken as assured.

To get ready, a special committee was appointed to determine the allocation of seats at the convention. It decided tentatively to increase the rolls by 65, some states gaining and some losing as compared with representation at the Kansas City convention in 1928. Under the plan, there would be 1,154 delegates.

On motion of Hilles, of New York, the committee left to a sub-committee the determination of a date for the convention.

The sub-committee was instructed to report back to the full committee Tuesday.

The committee on call decided to recommend June 14 as the day on which the 1922 convention will meet in Chicago.

Fess Lauds Hoover

Addressing the opening session of the meeting assembled to prepare for the presidential campaign, Fess described as "stupendous" President Hoover's efforts to help the business situation.

Representative Ruth Pratt, of New York, spoke for the women members.

Earle S. Kinsley, of Vermont, brought up the prohibition issue at Monday's meeting of the Republican executive committee.

"I told the committee," he said Tuesday, "that the time has arrived when we should do something about prohibition. I told them that I believed sentiment was changing and we should meet it. In my judgment the recent congressional election showed a wet trend and I say that as a man who has always been a dry and who represents a dry state. I believe the delegates at the national convention will have very decided views and will want to express themselves. Up in my end of the country Massachusetts and Rhode Island are wet and there is no getting away from it."

When a man ceases to worry about his bills, he is in a bad way and then you have to do the worrying.

CHRISTMAS PAROLES ARE GRANTED TO 735 ALABAMA PRISONERS

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 15.—Santa Claus made a pre-Christmas call at Alabama State Prisons Tuesday with paroles for 735 convicts, who promised to engage in gainful employment until July 15, 1932, when the leaves from prison expire.

The convicts to whom paroles were granted were county prisoners and in addition nearly 300 others will be given Christmas paroles, good until January 15, the majority will leave prisons this week.

Governor B. M. Miller said no employment was available for all the 6,000 odd prisoners in the state penitentiaries and convict camps and there was danger of spread of diseases.

These 735 prisoners paroled Tuesday all were serving sentences of twelve months or less, while those to be given thirty-day Christmas paroles largely will be long term prisoners, many of them sent up for life.

MR. ZACK EILAND ILL

The report comes to The Union-Banner from Mt. Creek of the serious illness of Mr. Zac A. Eiland of that place. Mr. Eiland, who is near 75 years old, is suffering with something like influenza. Doctors have not much hope of his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Eiland of Montgomery were in Clanton Wednesday with relatives.

MRS. WEBB SERIOUSLY ILL

Mrs. Sidney J. M. Webb, of Isabella, was brought back home from a Birmnigham hospital last week, in a serious condition.

She was carried to the hospital for a surgical operation. The operation revealed the fact that she is suffering from a bad internal cancer, which could not be removed.

Her condition is pronounced very serious by attending physicians, and it is thought that she will not live but a few weeks.

LASHING OF COVICT ON DAY OF RELEASE PROBED IN ALABAMA

Montgomery, Dec. 14. — Investigation of the lashing of James C. Kirby, 31-year old convict, a few hours before his release from Atmore state prison farm, Monday was announced by Governor Miller.

Kirby was given 21 lashes at Atmore farm for refusal to work on December 7 at 6:30 a.m., and that afternoon he paid the remainder of his $25 fine and court costs and was released.

After leaving the prisen Kirby entered the Atmore General Hospital for reatment, where he told attaches he had been unable to work, due to being gassed while serving in the World War.

James C. Connor, state commander of the American Legion, from his home at Huntsville, said he would go to Atmore this week to investigate the whipping of Kirby.

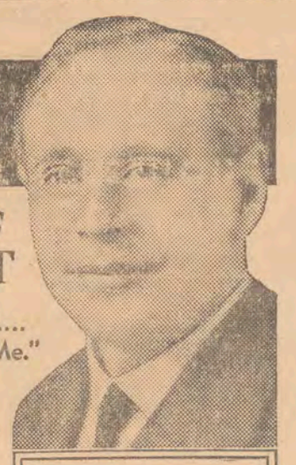
CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.



However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

"I was suffering from a bad Cold.... Dr. Miles' Aspir-Mint relieved Me."

These two sentences are from a letter sent to us by Gypsy Simon Smith.

Mr. Smith spends his public life in the germ-laden atmosphere of crowds in hall, church or tabernacle. He goes from an overheated meeting place into the frigid outer air spirtually uplifted, but physically exhausted.

His profession demands that he do the very things that he should not do if he wants to avoid catching Cold. He is in position to speak with authority on the subject.

If you have a Cold, or if you suffer from Headache, Neuralgia, Neuritis, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Toothache, Backache, Muscular Pains, Periodic Pains, Dr. Miles' Aspir-Mint will bring you relief.

COMMITTEE DECLARES SOUTH CAN WITHHOLD 11,000,000 BALES COTTON

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 15.—Probability of a total of 11,000,000 bales of cotton being taken from the market was discussed by the southern cotton executive committee in session here Tuesday, if states growing 75 per cent of the annual crop enact acreage limitation legislation for 1932 and 1933.

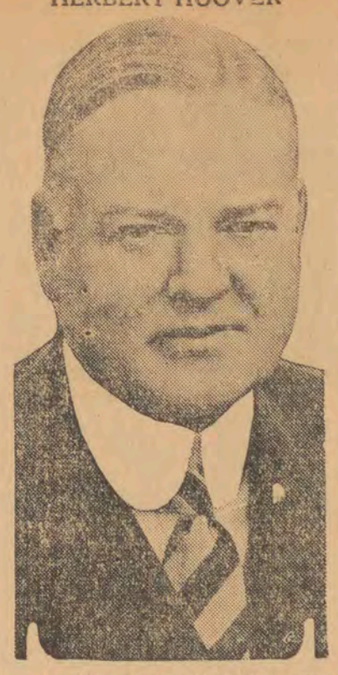
The new total was brought out in discussions while Representative R. J. Goode, of Wilcox County, Alabama, was discussing means of obtaining the necessary legislation.

This total was divided as follows: 7,000,000 bales already removed until July 1, 1932; 3,500,000 by southern bankers, and 3,500,000 by cooperatives and the Federal Farm Board, and 4,000,000 which President Hoover will seek to provide means for removing indefinitely.

The conference during the forenoon session discussed probability of inducing the governors of Alabama and Georgia, and probably Tennessee and Oklahoma to join five states which already have enacted either prohibitive or limitation legislation.

Power Company Returns Cash Deposits

Customers Who Have Established Credit In Two Years' Prompt Payment Of Bills Share In Refunding Of Company Under New Policy.



Approximately $175,000 has been distributed over the state by the Alabama Power Company in returning deposits to its old customers who had established their credit. The last of the checks were mailed by Lamar Aldridge, treasurer, Tuesday.

When the company decided to refund these deposits, Mr. Aldridge said, the checking and bookkeeping was rushed through so that the checks would reach the company's customers during the holiday season.

Refunds were made to those customers of two years' standing who had made all payments promptly during that period. This will become an established policy of the company, it was announced. Eight per cent interest was added to the deposit when the checks were made out.

The Alabama Power Company on January 1 will mail $500,000 to holders of its preferred stock January 1.

HERBERT HOOVER

An important political event of this week was the declaration by National Republican Chairman, Fess, that the Republican party must place its hopes in 1932 upon the re-election of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States. Jouett Shouse, vice chairman of the National Democratic Committee, stated that nothing could suit the Democrats better than to have Hoover as their political target next year.

STAPP WARNS PEOPLE ABOUT DAMAGING COTTON

Mr. C. E. Stapp, county agent, is sending out the following word to farmers who are holding their cotton: It is very noticeable that there is a large amount of cotton piled out around farm homes in the county taking weather damage.

It is nothing unusual for cotton to sustain damage equivalent to 20 to 100 pounds per bale under such conditions. It is bad enough to have such damage when cotton is a good price. As scarce as money is now, every farmer should take all pains to protect his cotton from this damage.

School Pay May Come on Dec 25

$2,400,000 In Warrants Cannot Be Met Before Then, Says Blan State Treasurer

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 15—S. H. Blan, state treasurer, said Tuesday that outstanding public school warrants totaling more than $2,400,000 could not be met before December 25th.

Two funds are outstanding at the treasurer's office, the equalization fund for last year and the general education fund for the current fiscal year.

Thirty-three counties hold warrants totaling $900,000 for the equalization fund, while the $4,254,000 general education fund is payable when needed by the 67 counties sharing on a population basis.

Department of Education officials said that more than $1,500,000 in warrants had been issued against the general education fund, but Treasurer Blan said the state could not meet these warrants before Christmas Day due to the condition of the treasury.

Must Be Expended

These warrants must be expended in meeting the salaries of teachers, office personnel and bus drivers state officials said.

"We have just paid the schools their $846,000 attendance fund and $405,000 rural high school fund," Mr. Blan said, "and we find ourselves unable to meet the equalization fund or warrants drawn against the general education fund before Christmas Day. These funds will be met as soon as the treasury's condition warrants, but I do not believe we can pay them before December 25th or any immediate date."

Department of Education finance experts said that the majority of schools operated on a three-way basis, running the first three months or more on their aportionment from the general education fund, the next two months on local taxes collected since the opening of school, and the final months on state funds from the three special educational trust fund branches — equalization, attendance and rural high school.

Apportionment Fixed

Schools not sharing in the equalization fund, the officials said, fix their apportionment from the general education fund to operate the schools as long as possible and complete the term with local taxes and the attendance and rural high school fund.

Apprtionments of the $4,254,000 general education fund aginst which counties may draw requisitions as their needs demand, include:

Dallas, $95,431; Etowah, $98,659; Huston, $72,731; Jefferson, $547,758; Lauderdale, $78,312; Lee, $58,861; Madison, $99,649; Mobile, $153,406; Montgomery, $153,930; Tuscaloosa, $101,242.

All apportionments from the general education fund are based upon the number of children between the ages 7 and 21, according to the last federal census.

The equalization fund, made up of an annual appropriation of $900,000, is distributed to the counties whose incomes from local taxes do not meet the minimum cost of running their schools for a seven-month term.

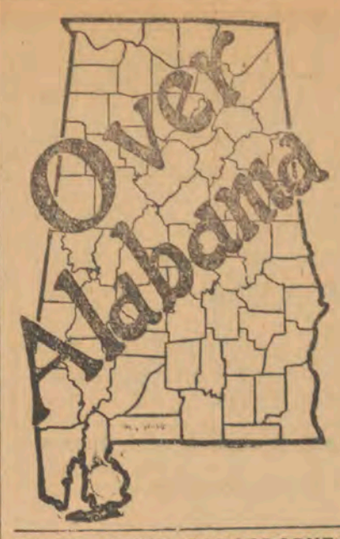
BANKER SAYS COUNTRY IS READY TO GO FORWARD

Forces Which Caused Slump Reach End Of Rope, Business Men Are Told By Col. Leonard Ayres; Increased Confidence Is Revealed.

Cleveland, Dec., 15.—A 1932 policy of "balanced budgets" was recommended to the nation Tuesday by Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company.

Speaking before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, Col. Ayres said the government, private organizations and individuals should "coax up income and pare down outgo until there is at least a little margin on the credit side."

Nearly 2,000 business men who heard the speech were told that the two main forces which caused the economic slump apparently have reached the end of their ropes.



Forces Described

These forces, the economist said, were the collapse of wholesale prices and the contraction of credit under pressure of the banks. The price level, Col. Ayres said, has given sufficient evidence of having reached its bottom, and even if it continues there, will not be a bar to prosperity.

"Business can operate successfully at the new and lower prices when once it has adjusted its operations to them," he said.

Col. Ayres expressed belief that the credit crisis has been receding since the first of November. Since then, he said, public confidence in money and credits has been increasing again, and hoarding has slowed to small proportions.

Despite numerous bank failures, caused by two years of economic strain, the economist found that the American dollar, the Federal Reserve and the banking system "have weathered the storm triumphantly."

New Members for the C Club

A club for boys who have earned letters in sports has been organized in our athletic department. With Coach Walker as club advisor, Robert Sumner has been elected president; Jesse Frank Foshee, vice president; Jerrell Burdette, secretray-treasurer. Charter members are those who have earned two letters. They are Robert Sumner, Jesse Frank Foshee, Theodore Littlejohn, M. D. Foshee, Raymond Taylor, Warren Riggins, Herman Harris, Jerrell Burdette and Ottis Miller. New members are boys who have earned one letter. They are Clyde Popwell, Newburn Jones, Tom Tiffin, James Arnold, James Tiffin. These boys have just received their initiations and are now full fledged members.

Basketball Practice

A great deal of interest is being shown in basketball practice. We have quite a bit of new material, which is to be developed. Littlejohn is the only regular back this year. Others who have had some experience are Arnold Baker, and Cooper. The outlook seems very bright. Practice will begin in earnest after the holidays.

Campus Improvements

The High School P.-T. A. has spent a neat sum of money for improving our campus. This various assortment of shrubbery and other plants meets a long felt need for improving the general looks of everything around the high school. The actual work of planting and setting out the plants was done by the boys of the agricultural and occupational classes.

The P.-T. A. and the High School feel deeply indebted to the Town of Clanton for furnishing the truck to bring the shrubbery from Prattville.

TREE PLANTING AT CHILTON COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

Study Club Plants Memory Tree On High School Campus Honoring Mrs. Grover C. Harris

On last Monday morning at 10:15 the members of the Study Club of Clanton assembled on the campus of the local high school and in the presence of the entire student-body and faculty held a beautiful memorial service and tree planting commemorating the life of a former member of the club, Mrs. Grover C. Harris.

This fitting and appropriate service was ably and efficiently carried out as follows, with Mrs. J. E. Gowan acting as chairman:

Song, "America," by School.

Devotional, Dr. D. W. Haskew.

Presentation of memory tree, Mrs. Omar Reynolds, president of club.

Acceptance for school, Prof. L. C. Warr, principal.

In presenting the tree to the school, Mrs. Reynolds reviewed briefly the history of the Study Club in Alabama, and its connection in an educational way with schools and civic organizations of the State. She then paid a beautiful tribute to Alabama's birthday, and showed the relation of the exercises being carried out to the spirit of the occasion. The speaker next in a most pleasing manner commemorated the life and civic activities of Mrs. Harris, in whose memory the tree was planted.

Prof. L. C. Warr, in behalf of the school, accepted the tree. He stated that Clanton and the high school should be proud of such an organization as the local Study Club, and should be proud indeed of the type of work and noble ideals being promoted by it. He pointed out to the club members that he and the members of his faculty were endeavoring at all times to cultivate in the lives of the boys and girls the same beauty and usefulness exemplified in the noble character of Mrs. Harris. He expressed deep appreciation of the school for the beautiful Southern spruce and the interest manifested in this fitting manner by the Study Club.

The members of the Study Club are as follows:

Mesdames L. F. Gerald, J. E. Gowan, J. P. Hayes, Grady Heflin, J. A. Hester, Burton Higgins, W. E. Huddleston, N. S. Johnson, Macy Jones, T. C. McSwain, Watts Moore, Renfroe Mullins, Omar Reynolds, Norman Roberts, L. C. Ross, J. Lee Smith, J. M. VanDerveer, L. C. Warr, Horsley White, P. D. Wilson, and Misses Emma Sue Morris, and Madolyn Orr.

RAILROAD TRAINS on the HIGHWAY!

CAN YOU IMAGINE SUCH A CONDITION?

A fast freight or passenger train comes thundering down the highway and it is all you can do to swerve your car out of its path.

With a swish it is gone, leaving you with bitter thoughts toward railroads and a government which permits such things.

A ridiculous picture? Yes,—and impossible, because railroad trains, unlike trucks and busses, must have rails to run on and an army of workers to keep them in good condition, and railroads must pay all the maintenance costs of their roadways.

Yet these other means of transportation use the highways for commercial purposes and YOU—along with the railroads—help support them by paying taxes for the maintenance of public highways.

The railroads are public carriers and operate with every consideration for your comfort and safety, but they are also business enterprises and are entitled to earn a fair profit for those who own them. You are probably one of the owners, at least indirectly, because railroad securities are held by insurance companies, financial and charitable institutions and very often form the nucleus of trust funds.

The railroads are not earning a reasonable profit. The law permits them to earn a fair return on the value of their property, and the Interstate Commerce Commission has fixed this at 5¾%. The actual rate of return of class one railroads for the first nine months of 1931 was 2.08%.

The number of passengers carried in 1930 was less than in 1902, although the population of the United States has increased 50%. The present volume of freight traffic is approximately the same as it was fifteen years ago.

The railroads are struggling with an economic condition that may prove ruinous to them and to those institutions whose interests are bound up in their welfare.

The Railroads Must Earn To Spend

What can be done to relieve this situation? Legislative measures must be passed that will deal fairly with the railroads. They are the backbone of the Nation's transportation system and must be brought from unfair taxation and regulation, back to a sound financial basis. You can cooperate by helping them procure legislative relief. A quicker help is to ship by train and travel on the steam railroads.

LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE R.R.

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Mr. N. Laurell and Mrs. W. F. Love, husband and daughter of Mrs. N. Laurell of Thorsby, spent the week end in Thorsby. The visitors were both from Birmingham.

Mr. H. V. Thompson spent Sunday and Monday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hall, Mrs. Russell Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Meade, with their little daughter, Helen Louise, were visitors in Birmingham Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. de Fee, Miss Elizabeth de Fee and little Mary de Fee Blue, all of Union Springs, Ala., were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mixson.

Mrs. Coral Mixson, mother of J. C. Mixson, left Wednesday for Florida, after spending two weeks with her son's family in Thorsby.

Albert Atchison, aged 45, a tenant farmer on Sam Edwards's place, about five miles west of Thorsby, was instantly killed Saturday, December 12th, at Plantersville by being accidentally thrown from a truck loaded with logs, on which he was riding with a Mr. Roebuck, who was a friend of the family, in company with another man whose name we did not get, but whom it is reported escaped with slight injury, as did the driver.

As the truck approached Plantersville on the Maplesville highway, Mr. Roebuck saw two cars rapidly approaching, one of them on a street intersecting the highway. In attempting to avoid collision with either, he struck an obstruction which threw men and logs off the truck. Mr. Atchison was found to be dead when they reached him.

Mr. Atchison left home Saturday morning to look for a farm he could get for next year. He leaves a widow and eight children, ranging from a daughter, 22 years old, married, down to the youngest, three years old. Mr. Atchison was well and favorably known to many in Chilton County.

Mrs. Atchison is a sister of Mrs. D. H. Gentry of Thorsby. The funeral was held Sunday at Mulberry and burial at that place. Rev. W. P. Lowery of Thorsby, assisted by Rev. J. W. Jones pastor of Thorsby Baptist Church, officiated. Many friends from Thorsby and vicinity attended the funeral. Brislin Bros., of Selma, undertakers, in charge.

The Christmas exercises of the Helen Keller Literary Society at Thorsby Institute last Saturday night was in two parts, the first representing the interior of a cathedral at night, with lighted tapers in each window, also candelabra and other lights in the choir loft. Otherwise the house was in total darkness. Christmas carols were effectively sung, some without accompaniment, by ten of the Institute girls, under direction of Miss Thoroman. They were Misses Lois Thompson, Kathryn Lenoir, Edna Lee Wilder, Myradine Martin, Ruth Primm, Elwyn Robinsin, Odell Rowe, Verlon Goodgame, Juanita Each and Wilma Goodgame.

Part two of the program was a Christmas play, time, medival France, and the scene, the interior of a woodcutter's hut. The title of the play was "Why the Chimes Ring." There was a legend at that period among the common people that the chimes only rang when some one had done something worthy to represent the spirit of the Christ, and though many with rich gifts there was but one, the Big Brother, who came last to the altar and gave all he had, a penny. This caused the chimes to ring, also because he had stopped at home to help a poor old woman, instead of doing what all others did spending their time and money unworthily because in selfish indulgence and personal pleasures.

Mrs. C. M. Williams is on the sick list. We found Miss Edna Raybon trying to help about the house.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Maddox and children made a short visit to Thorsby Sunday afternoon.

Miss Loutishia Bean returned home from Birmingham Sunday.

Little Miss Peggy Mims Franklin celebrated her fourth birthday anniversary Tuesday, December 8th. Games were played and later refreshments were served to the following children: Annie Ruth and Marguerite Pate, Imogene Lowery, Mary Virginia Bice, Louise Hall, Annette Merchant, Elizabeth Collins, Calvin Pate, Billy Childress.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin, Peggy Mims, Mrs. C. M. Gray, Dorothy Franklin, Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, Robert and Florence Robinson spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray spent Sunday in Prattville.

Mrs. S. E. Norton spent Monday in Birmingham.

Arthur P. Villadsen has moved with his family from Lincoln to Tuscaloosa, as more centrally located in a district comprising eight Alabama counties, over which he has recently been appointed as supervisor of upkeep of state highways.

Thorsby Institute closes for the holidays on December 17, and reopens on December 30th. Mr. King plans to spend the holidays in Florida. Misses Leech, Jenkins and Klingelhoefer plan to take a trip to Florida by car with Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins of La Grange, Georgia. The addresses of the other teachers of the Institute will be: Miss McKee, Lineville, Alabama; Miss Arthur, Midland City, Alabama; Miss Thoroman, 5001 Linden Ave., Norwood, Ohio, Mr. Sutlive, Blakely, Georgia, Mr. Maddox, Jemison R. F. D.; Miss Fairbank, Thorsby.

Rev. and Mrs. Each were dinner guests Sunday at the dining hall. Rev. and Mrs. Jones had been invited also, but were unable to come because of a funeral at which Rev. Jones officiated.

The Christian Endeavor Society was led by Evie Lee Rowe. The subject was "Making Christmas Christian." Christmas songs were sung and various Christmas thoughts of service were given.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Timberlake, after a visit of ten days with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, left for Mobile, New Orleans, and the Pacific Coast, Monday.

Mrs. Nels Petersen and Norman were visitors in Clanton last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Roe and children of Birmingham were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Petersen last Sunday.

Miss Naemi Turnquist of Selma spent the week end at home.

Miss Elizabeth Whitley returned to her home in Birmingham after spending several days with her cousin, Miss Mary Sue Robinson.

Mr. T. W. Robinson spent Monday in Birmingham.

Mr. T. W. Robinson and Mr. T. L. Robinson left Tuesday for South Alabama on a fishing trip.

VALLEY FORGE

One hundred and fifty-four years ago today, on December 19, 1777, George Washington led his ragged Revolutionary Army into winter quarters at Valley Forge, to set an everlasting example of devotion to country. Over and over the story has been told of those months of cold and starvation, of sickness and suffering, which Washington's soldiers cheerfully endured, in loyalty to him. As soon as American school-children are able to learn anything, they learn of Valley Forge, and never afterward forget it. As long as America itself endures, Valley Forge, with its classic example of patriotism will fire new generations of America to unselfish loyalty to their nation.

This year, as the Country prepares to celebrate in 1932 the 200th anniversary of the birth of Geo. Washington, the story of Valley Forge will seem to us more real and poignant than ever, as we recall every incident in the Revolution in which Washington himself had a part, for the light each throws on his life and his character.

Nothing in the course of our struggle for Independence, we are told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, so tried the courage and the patience of George Washington as Valley Forge, for in addition to the sufferings of his soldiers he had nearly everything else to weigh down his spirits. These alone would have been enough to try him to the utmost. Three thousand of his army perished in that single winter, from cold and exposure, from under-nourishment and disease.

The living must often have envied their dead brothers in arms. Some of them were nearly naked. All went without food at times, and at times when food was available, it often consisted of rotting fish and meat. The wonder is that Washington's death-roll was limited to these unknown 3,000. At one of the darkest moments at Valley Forge, Washington said, in one of his repeated appeals to Congress for aid, that his men were at last left but three choices; they could "starve, dissolve, or disperse in order to obtain subsistance in the best manner they can."

REV. HARRY B. CALENTINE

News has reached us of the death on Tuesday, December 8th, of Rev. Harry B. Calentine, who served as pastor of Clanton Foursquare Church during 1930.

Rev. Calentine was reared near Athens, Ohio. About 10 years ago he went to Los Angeles, where he lived about eight years. While there he graduated from the Bible school connected with Aimee Semple Mcpherson's Lighthouse of Foursquare Evangelism, and was an ordained minister of this faith at the time of his death. He came to Clanton as pastor of the local Foursquare Church during the first part of 1930, and made many friends during his stay here. About the first of 1931 he went back to Athens, later going to Dover, Ohio, where he had a church at the time of his death.

Information given us was that he became ill December 2nd. Doctors failing to determine his ailment, an operation was decided upon, but nothing could be done.

Rev. Calentine was about 41 years of age, and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bertha Calentine, and two sons, Philip and Clifton.

DEATH OF MRS. ALICE CALLOWAY DECEMBER 12

Mrs. Alice Calloway, age 71 years, died at her home in South Clanton last Saturday following an illness of several days. In May of this year the aged lady suffered a stroke of paralysis from which she fairly recovered. The illness which culminated in her death was caused by another stroke of paralysis which came about six weeks ago.

Mrs. Calloway was the widow of the late Newton J. Calloway, who died ten years ago. Before her first marriage to Mr. Robert White, she was Miss Alice Lenior. She had two children by her first marriage, Mrs. Fhank Higgins, of Clanton, and Mrs. Bud Alred, who died some years ago.

Her marriage to Mr. N. J. Calloway was in 1890. To them there was one child, Mrs. Grady Harris, of Clanton.

Burial was at Samaria cemetery Sunday at eleven o'clock, with Spigener in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones, of Thorsby, pastor of Samaria church. Mrs. Calloway was a devoted Christian woman, who was loved by everybody who knew her. She was one of the sweetest women ever known. Kindness to everybody was her dominant motive in life, and this beautiful characteristic made for her a warm friend of every acquaintance.

The deceased was the step-mother of E. B. Calloway, of Walker County; Mrs. D. S. Robinson, deceased; L. A. Calloway, of Clanton; Mrs. H. B. Glenn, of Clanton; Dr. John Calloway, of Birmingham, deceased; Luther Calloway, deceased; and Mrs. Katie Bryant, of Coopers.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Some interesting figures are disclosed in the annual report of the United States Shipping Board and they show that, despite the general depression which has hit carriers as well as other lines of business, the American Merchant Marine has made some progress during the past year. The report discloses also that the Shipping Board is still gradually going out of business. During the fiscal year which closed several weeks ago the Board disposed of seventy-three vessels all of which went to private American shipping interests, and it now has but 138 ships in service although it still holds title to nearly 400 vessels. But during the past fifteen years the Board has disposed of 2,156 ships of the government's marine which was developed during the World War. Many of these ships are now in the private American service although some of them, of course, have been dismantled. Moreover, the Board's budget is steadily diminishing, and during the past fiscal year it was only about two-thirds of the budget of 1928.

One of the most constructive steps in the development and maintenance of the American merchant marine was the Jones-White act which provides for the lending of money at low rates of interest for the building of new ships to enter the American service. During the fiscal year recently closed, advances made for the construction of new ships amounted to nearly twenty-nine million dolalrs, a nice gain over the fiscal year of 1929-30. During the year nineteen ships of 166,000 tons were completed and deliveredand contracts were let for sixteen more.

The letting of mail contracts to American lines since the passage of the act have called for the construction of 69 additional vessels for the American merchant marine, and the improvement of 52 others at an estimated total cost of over $300,000,000. This, too, has helped in the stimulation of ship building and accounts for the fact that our ship building industry has been weathering the depression in a better way than many other industries.

It is a cause for gratification that the government, through the agency of the U. S. Shipping Board is getting out of the shipping business as rapidly as possible. At the end of the last fiscal year, according to the Board's report, 77 per cent of the ships in the American merchant marine approximating 76 per cent of the total tonnage, were privately owned and operated. The experience which the government had during and immediately after the World War abundantly demonstrated the fact that the shipping business is one which can be better handled by private capital, with government aid, than by the government itself. Private ownership and operation is not only more efficient but cheaper for the taxpayers and the shippers.

As the policy of naval limitation becomes more effective the necessity for a good and active merchant marine becomes more acute. For the merchant marine is a second line of defense in case of trouble and, even with ironclads abolished everywhere, in case of war the nation with a good merchant marine, which could be quickly armed, would have a decided advantage on the high seas. To have a good merchant marine the building and operating of ships is not enough. Our people must patronize them. Along this line the Washington Post well said recently:

"The United States now has the second largest merchant fleet in the world. In spite of competition intensified by hard times, the merchant marine has held its place in world shipping remarkably well. The board makes a number of recommendations for improvement of the service, but all of its advice leads directly back to the fact that if American shipping interests and travelers gave American ships a fair share of their patronage the merchant marine would immediately come into its own. At present the greater part of this business is handled in foreign bottoms. Apparently the people of the United States have not yet come to a realization of the importance of the merchant marine in the development of foreign trade and as a reserve naval force. It is within the power of business men and travelers to create the greatest merchant fleet in the world under the American flag."

THE NOBLE SPIRIT OF OUR SCHOOL TEACHERS—

Chilton County's schools will run on to the finish of the present regular term. In this one sentence is embodied the biggest and best piece of news that has occurred in a long time.

How it was made possible and those school teachers who made it possible constitute an example of public beneficence that commands the highest admiration of every citizen of Chilton County.

At a meeting last Wednesday the teachers said with practically one accord that rather than see the schools close, they would agree to teach them out to the finish if they never get a penny for their work. They backed up their words by putting their names to a written agreement to that effect.

This action of our teachers is laudable in many ways. It proves that their hearts are set first upon the welfare, education, and advancement of the boys and girls, and not on the salary they get for teaching in the schools.

It proves that our teachers are willing to sacrifice for the boys and girls under their tutelage. Even though a teacher may not be the best teacher in the world, when he or she is willing to stay by the interests of the children, to the exclusion of his or her own personal interest, as has been done in this instance, it marks that teacher as one in whose hands the job of teaching and training our children can be safely trusted. Anything is safe in the hands of anybody who will sacrifice for it.

Now, you who read this, stop and think if you have ever had a chance to sacrifice for the schools of our county. If you did have that opportunity, did you do it?

The teachers were the only ones who could make the sacrifice they have made. They have done it. If you ever come to the place where you have an opportunity to sacrifice for our schools, you will be the only one who can make that sacrifice. No one else can do it for you. Personal sacrifice for any cause is a privilege, a duty, which you cannot shift to anybody else.

Our teachers have set an example that will stand always to challenge us for the best that in us lies for the support of our schools, yea for the very vital future of our boys and girls. May we be men and women unselfish, big and patriotic enough to go down on the dotted line with the same measure of sacrifice as our teachers have shown when the hour comes to us.

Many, many thanks, and all praise to our noble teachers for saving our schools in this crisis that was otherwise insurmountable.

American free traders are going to be seriously disappointed if our foreign trade doesn't collapse after the British traiff goes into effect.

Our moral support this winter is going to be given to the Senator who doesn't have a new plan to "save the farmer," providing we can find one.

A New York firm advertises "nude bathing suits." Well, what kind have they been wearing for two or three years, anyhow?

The Democrats are gloating over the fact that they won the San Antonio district away from the Republicans with seven Democratic candidates in the field against one Republican candidate. We don't see anything to brag about there. It's hard enough for a Republican in Texas to beat one Democrat, let alone seven or eight.

FAMILY RECORD OF INTEREST—

Mr. P. M. Jones, of Corinth, who has been a subscriber to The Union-Banner ever since the publishers of the paper can remember, was a visitor to the editorial office a few days ago.

While here Mr. Jones mentioned the family reunion of Mr. Elijah Jones which was held the day before Thanksgiving. "Lige is a relative of mine," said Mr. Jones, "and I enjoyed reading about his birthday dinner in The Union-Banner. Some of these days I am going to send you something about my family for you to print."

This week we received from Mr. Jones some facts about him and his family, which we are sure will be of interest to his many friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Jones will be 80 years old next March. His wife was 80 last July. They were married 58 years ago. They have nine living children, 41 grandchildren, and 33 great-grandchildren.

Old people, and young ones too, enjoy reading facts about the well-known families of our county. In his note sent to us this week Mr. Jones concludes by saying, "If anyone in Chilton County has a larger family than I have, let us hear from them through The Union-Banner."

Sure, send us a story about your family. Everything that goes in The Union-Banner is a permanent record of history that will be preserved for all time in the future. Copies of the paper are kept in our own office, also at the courthouse of the county, at the State Capitol in Montgomery, and in various libraries.

Put your family history in The Union-Banner. We will gladly print it for you. It will make interesting reading for everybody, and it will put your family record in history for the future.

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Just Imagine—From time to time I have had quite a bit to say about the manner in which our fine highway is being and has been MISUSED by trucks and busses. It is a shame to see great holes being knocked in the smooth surface of this nice, smooth road, and yet it seems that hardly anyone is taking any notice of it. Of course, in going from town to town, when people run over one of these big cracks or holes they have some comment to make about how bad the road is faring under the excess loads hauled over it, and some are far-seeing enough to see where it is leading to, but nobody seems to realize just how soon the road will really break down under the strain. Just what is breaking these holes is easy to see. Automobiles and fair-size truck loads will not break the road down—it was built for such use. But it was never meant to haul such enormous loads as are carried over it daily. The road is already breaking up, and a little tar poured here and there in the cracks will not keep it from going to pieces. Imagine what you would think if you should meet a locomotive steaming down the middle of the highway—of course it would tear the road to pieces in one trip. But remember this—those excess bus and truck loads will tear it up just as surely—a little time is the only difference.

Something Else Bad—Last Sunday afternoon while out with the missus and wee ones, I noticed something else which should not be. In several places, I noticed where young pine timber, not over six or eight inches through at the stump, was being cut down and hauled away—I suppose to make paper from. That is a bad practice. I know of no way to stop such criminal practice, unless I can in some way get an appeal to the owners of such young timber and get them to realize just how bad it really is. Such practice is a good parallel for the story of the man who killed his goose which was laying the golden eggs. Would that we had a law prohibiting the cutting of timber smaller than a size which would yield a profit, and then only when another was set out to take the place of the tree cut. Sooner or later such action will have to be taken, or we will have treeless wastes, with all their attendant troubles, such as floods in some sections, drouths in others, wind-storms caused because there is no timber to break the force of such. I think it is high time for owners of such young timber to look more than an inch in front of their noses, and protect it.

Back To Nature—Noticing a big crowd in front of the Clanton Cash Store a few days ago, I stopped in to see what was going on. What a sight! Signs and price cards were everywhere. I meandered around for a while, and noting some very low prices I asked the why and wherefore of it all. "Jess" Baker took it upon himself to enlighten me. "I've got to take a big loss," he explained, "and I had rather give it to the people who have been trading with me since I have been in business than to give it to somebody who never did anything for me. That's why I've marked everything down so. I want to sell out, get out, and stay out! Back to nature for me, so that when these cold, bad days come around, I won't have anything to worry about but how well stocked the old wood box is." "Jess" talks like he means it this time, for sure. He has a bunch of good values to back up what he says, too.

Uncle John Gore—Uncle John Gore has moved again; that is, he has moved his store. I think Uncle John is the originator of that trade racket that runs something like this: "Buy one and I'll give you one and give you a good chance to steal one"—speaking of apples and oranges. One day last week Uncle John pulled my ear over close and whispered: "Tell everybody I'm right on the job again this Christmas with my fruit store, and I'll be lookin' for 'em to see me." Uncle John would be lost without a fruit store to look after.

This Cotton Business—I keep on hearing distant rumblings of the big guns of the South in regard to this cotton holding business every once in a while. Now they are back at it again. So far nothing has come of the rumbling. But you never can tell—these governors and statesmen MIGHT do something really worth while some time. Some things never happen but once—everything that does happen must happen the first time. So, let's hope for the best—they can't do any less than they already have.

Glimpses—Now for a few more glimpses. Mr. Spigener is to sell somebody's car—what a crowd the sale is drawing. The fire siren sounds—everybody and his brother out in the street to see which way the engine heads out. And that makes me think—why can't people stick to the sidewalks in a time like this—I want to have a word to say about that next week. "Shux" Clackler in his new Ford—"Shux" is getting to be quite a ladies man of late. Night marshal Foshee warns boys to stop carrying sling-shots—they are dangerius. Clarkson in his clown clothes struts in front of Clanton Cash Store—funny guy, that. 'Nuf sed.—Man in the Moon.

SCHOOL CRISIS APPROACHING—

Recently the Tuscaloosa County Board of Education has met every few days in an effort to discover some way around a financial impasse. By January 8 schools will have continued as far as estimated county and district funds available for the year will permit. The state treasury still owes this county about $10,500 on last year; and not one cent of 1931-1932 money has come from the State. On next Wednesday the boards of education of the entire Sixth Congressional District will hold a conference in the offices of the local county superintendent to see if any joint effort at relief is possible. Meanwhile, the American Legion of Alabama and the organization of school boards have each authorized separate committees to start any possible action in Montgomery leading towards a solution of the misunderstanding concerning reported diversion of school moneys. State Treasurer Blan has remained silent, though repeatedly requested by State Superintendent of Education A. F. Harman to make a clear statement on school funds.

Governor Miller makes no definite promises concerning dates of payments from Montgomery. He told a group of club women some days ago that the state's contribution to educational funds is only about 38 per cent of the total and that school boards should use the other 62 per cent and not talk about cutting the terms. This statement of the Governor's does not take into account factors which make impossible his suggestion to the boards in most counties and cities. The state fund, though only 38 per cent of the total educational expenditure, is 75 per cent of the school money in some counties and a small per cent in certain rich cities. Moreover, this state fund is peculiarly the salary fund, the means of continuation of schools. Only 4 per cent of the per capita State fund can be legally spent for any purpose except salaries of teachers. All transportation of pupils, cost of buildings, and equipment, janitorial service, supplies, fuel, etc., is paid for outside of the state fund. All the money that the boards owe and all the money that the state owes on last year is now resting on county and city local funds on a basis for credit. It should be noted that a very large part of the 62 per cent mentioned by the Governor is located in Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile, and other centers having great wealth and having also special and additional school taxes not available at all outside their limits.

The state fund is by law the chief school operating fund. People were promised years ago in plainly written laws that they might purchase buildings and equipment with the local funds. All over Alabama they have done so. At the same time the state fund was plainly designated as the main salary fund. It is idle now to advise boards to use for operation funds long tied up in warrants for buildings and equipment.

The whole school situation is muddled. Any attempt to place blame or responsibility is useless; but it is evident even to him who reads as he runs that once more the schools, the most intimate and precious department of state business, are being used for the well-known "political football." The administration seems to wish the schools to bear the burden of putting over a whole tax scheme which failed to meet the approval of the legislators.

Such an issue should not be allowed to stand in the way of the continuation of the 1931-1932 school term. Arrangements should be made forthwith to pay to each county the state funds due. Teachers and truck drivers should not be asked to carry the state's responsibility; and the idea of shutting the doors of the schoolhouses in the faces of 600,000 school children should be unthinkable. Alabama can pay what she owes. The necessary tax moneys will move rapidly to the state treasury this month and next. The authorities at Montgomery should move at once to prevent the very real catastrophe which cannot be averted from the county angle.—Tuscaloosa News.

RAILROAD TRAINS ON THE HIGHWAYS

Can you imagine such a hing as railroad trains running on the public highways?

A fast freight or passenger train comes thundering down the road, and it is all you can do to swerve your car out of its path.

With a swish it is gone, leaving you with bitter thoughts toward railroads and a government which permits such a thing.

A ridiculous picture, you say. Yes; and impossible, because railroad trains, unlike trucks and buses, must have rails to run on and an army of workers to keep them in good condition. And railroads must pay all the cost of maintaining their roadways.

Yet these other means of transportation use the highways for commercial purposes, and you, along with the railroads, help support them by paying taxes for the maintenance of public highways.

Some of the machines that are running on our highways present almost as ridiculous and dangerous picture as a big freight train turned loose on the roads. They are the greatest menace to the safe travel of automobile passengers.

These commercial operations have taken away a large amount of freight and passenger traffic that ought to be kept on the railroads. It ought to be kept on the railroads, because it is business that should not be allowed on the highways to endanger the safety of the public.

Regulation of commercial carriers on the public highways is a question that is coming to the serious attention of legislative agencies in the near future. Meanwhile the people and business enterprises can help the situation if they will ship by trains and travel on the railroads.

"Economy has taught me one lesson. By depriving myself of tobacco, movies, ice cream and few other luxuries for the last 10 years I accumulated $1,564.32."

"That's great. What are you going to do with the money?"

"I won't have to decide that question; the bank failed."

Maybe by the time the League gets ready to investigate Manchuria there wont be anything left to investigate.

If you will look at the quotations on the financial page you will see that quite a generous portion of those German securities floated in this country by our international bankers have already been cancelled.

"I'm glad you're so impressed, dear, by all these explanations I have been giving you about banking and the monetary system," remarked the young husband.

"Yes, darling, it seems wonderful that anybody could know as much as you do about money without having any."

A good slogan for the Young Crusaders would be "Every day in every way we are getting wetter and wetter."

They have no unemployment in China. Everybody belongs to the army—or at least, to some army.

More About Draining Swamps

It is gratifying to note that our county and town officials, with a large group of other citizens and property owners are again at the question of getting the swamps around Clanton cleared off and ditched. Much interest was shown at the meeting Monday, and the outline of an active working organization was formed. This is the most important project affecting the future of Clanton. It will have to be solved one of these days. The quicker we get down to business with it, the better.

Use Wood From The Swamps

There is enough wood in the swamps within two miles of Clanton to run every fireplace, stove, and furnace here for two or three years. The meeting Monday sounded a very appropriate note when they passed a resolution calling upon the people of this community, who have to buy fuel, to buy this wood from the landowners, and use it for heating purposes instead of coal. This would help in many ways. It would make an outlet for getting the wood off the land, which is necessary. It would make work for somebody to cut the wood and haul it. Then it would keep many dollars in circulation at home. That is a good idea, I think.

The Mosquitoes Should Be Banished

As has ever been the case, one of the biggest aggravations that comes from the swamps is the pesky mosquito. They infest this whole community by the millions. The surrounding swamps make Clanton the champion mosquito breeding place of the world, I reckon. That is certainly a distinction which we would be better off without. Besides, it is no fun to live among mosquitoes, regardless of what people in other parts of the world may think about our unenviable distinction.

Where The Sewers Empty

If you will take the trouble to visit in the immediate vicinity where the city sewers empty in the creek, it will make a lasting impression on you in many ways. Of course our sewers have got to empty into something, but the lazy, almost stagnant creek as it is now, is not a fit means of carrying the waste away. It does not carry it away. It remains there to pollute the air with a vociferous smell, and breed mosquitoes by the millions. It is a wonder we have not already had an epidemic of some dreaded disease from the filth of our sewers being left to putrify within our city limits.

Many Airplanes Come Here

Clanton is being watched daily from the air. Many airplanes come here, I suppose from the army flying school at Montgomery. They come here from the direction of Montgomery, apparently soar around a while to see that everything looks all right, and depart in the direction from whence they came.

Plenty Of Apples And Oranges

There is certainly every indication that folks about here will have plenty of apples and oranges for Christmas. Oranges are being hauled here by truck from the the Lakeland section of Florida. Apples are brought in by the same method from the Lookout Mountain section of Alabama and Georgia. The fruit is selling at panic prices. They no longer price such stuff by the dozen. It is being sold in bulk, so much a peck or bushel.

John Gore In A New Store

Uncle John Gore, one of the leading retailers of fruits in Clanton, has sold his business on the railroad corner, and will be open in a few days with a new and bigger and better stock at the old Hugh Jones place. "I will have everything ready by next week," said Mr. Gore, "and I want all my friends and customers to come to see me when they get ready to buy their fruits, nuts, and candy for Christmas."

Jesse Baker Is Selling Goods

Jesse Baker, manager of the dry goods department of the Clanton Cash Store, is putting on one of the greatest sales of all his experience. It is a great sale because the prices he is offering are so exceptionally low. I took particular notice of his offerings in shoes. When a standard brand of high grade shoe that usually sells for five or six dollars is offered for less than three dollars, I know that is something to consider.

Pot Calls Kettle Black

It has always been generally said that the pot has no right to call the kettle black. In other words, it is generally agreed that after a certain amount of service, the pot is usually as black as the kettle, or as white as the case may be. The other day the columnist happened to be sitting in an office in the Capitol talking to Percy Pitts, member of the Legislature from Chilton and Frank Embry, a former member of the Legislature from St. Clair. And while the conversation was proceeding in a non-argumentative channel, who should breezily barge in but George Miller, member of the Legislature from Sumter.

"Howdy Percy, how's my country cousin?" asked the gentleman from Livingston way down in Sumter, of the gentleman from Clanton, way up in Chilton.

"Now that's a pretty howdy do, a man from your neck of the woods calling me a country cousin," said Mr. Pitts, addressing Mr. Miller. "Since when has a man from Sumter been given the right to call a man from Chilton a country cousin? Why you guys down there are so far away you have to get a short wave radio to hear what is going on in Alabama."

And so the set ended in a draw. If it had been a contract bridge game it would have been broadcast to the world. George merely jeered the last remark of the gentleman from Chilton and let it go at that. But you could see in George's face utter disgust that a man should insinuate that Sumter County is so far away from anywhere that a regular radio set would not catch a signal, even.

Frank Embry butted into the conversation to let the two men kniw if they really wanted some reputation for being urban residents, they should move to Pell City, which he calls the metropolis of the nation. He was in turn blasted down by both contestants who asked him whether Pell City was in Alabama or Georgia. Frank scowled at such utter ignorance of geography and proceeded to tell them where Pell City is located and how the aviators find it. One crashed there once. It was a kidding match that was good while it lasted. Bue we were afraid to 'butt in' for fear of some slighting remarks about Montgomery. — Atticus Mullin, in "The Passing Throng," Montgomery Advertiser.

Everybody seemed to enjoy the late autumn excepting the coal man.

Fruits for Xmas

I have sold out my business on the railroad corner and opened up a new fruit store at the place where Hugh Jones used to be.

I have a bigger and better stock of Fruits, Candy, Nuts, etc. Just what you want for Christmas, and the prices are in line with the panic. Come to see me before you buy your Christmas things.

WALNUT CREEK NEWS

The members of Walnut Creek Church and Sunday school made up about thirty dollars worth of produce and carried to Bro. C. D. Messer on Monday, December 7. 1931. Bro. Messer has been ill for several months, and was a former pastor of this church; so the people took that means of showing their loyalty and appreciation. Bro. Messer was very grateful for this remembrance, but could not express his appreciation because he has been unable to speak for quite a while. The children expressed their appreciation for this token of love.

Our Sunday school is moving on nicely with a fairly good attendance and a good interest.

Our Christian Endeavor society is doing splendidly now. We have several taking an active part now, who have not been attending heretofore. The contest between the gentlemen and the ladies will close next Sunday night, when each side will put on a program. The men's topic will be "Christmas Messages in Literature," and the ladies' topic will be "Should we learn from the experience of others, why, and how?" We invite all who will to be present. The service will begin at 5:30 p. m. so that there will be ample time for both programs.

On Christmas Day we are going to have services at the church beginning at 10 o'clock. There will be preaching at 11 o'clock and dinner at the noon hour. Everybody is invited to come and participate in the services and bring dinner and celebrate Christ's birthday with the true spirit.

CHRISTIAN HARMONY SINGING

There will be singing in the Christian Harmony books at Shiloh, two and one-half miles south of Calera, the third Sunday in this month, beginning at two o'clock. Everybody is invited to come and bring your book.—R. A. Barnett.

A small but Important Item on the Family Budget..

Frequently people who come to the telephone office to order a telephone, tell us they have found that there is no economy in trying to get along without the service. Its many advantages, they say, far outweigh the small cost.

Doing without telephone service, they explain, hampered the social activities of the whole family and restricted their opportunities to enjoy life.

Trying to do without a telephone had resulted in their gaining a more appreciative understanding of the true value of the service. So they arranged the family budget to include telephone service.

The advantages of a telephone in the home are so numerous and the cost so very small that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

Lesson for December 20

THE SUPREME GIFT OF LOVE (CHRISTMAS LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—I John 4:7-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Gift of Love.

JUNIOR TOPIC— The Greatest Love in the World.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Jesus Came to Earth.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gift of the Saviour.

The committee's selection of this Scripture passage for a Christmas lesson is most fitting. The birth of Christ—the entrance of the Son of God upon the condition of humanity—was the supreme expression of God's love (John 3:16). The meaning of Christmas rightly apprehended will put love in the heart of a man for his fellows.

I. The Origin of Love (vv. 7, 8).

Love is of God for God in the essence of his being is love. God does not merely love, he is the fountainhead of all love. Love of country, love of humanity, filial and parental love—every particle of love everywhere, has been derived from God. His love is infinite, eternal and unchangeable. Since love is of God, every one who loves is born of God and knoweth God. The Christian by his life of love interprets God to the world.

II. God's Manifestation of Love (vv. 9, 10).

God's method of making known his love is through the incarnation, the sending of his only begotten Son into the world to be the propitiation for our sins (John 3:16). The coming of Jesus Christ into the world and his taking upon himself human nature makes eternal life possible for those who receive him. If one would know God's love, let him look at Jesus Christ. Those who gaze upon him with reverent contemplation cannot doubt God's love.

III. The Supreme Motive of Love (v. 11).

God's love is the grand incentive for bringing his children to love. Since the Heavenly Father loves, his children should show their resemblance to him. In the proportion that we apprehend God's love, in that measure we will love his children.

IV. Love, the Proof That God Dwells With Us (vv. 12-16).

1. No man hath seen God at any time (v. 12). But there is abundant proof of his being. The unmistakable evidence of his being is love in the heart of man. Love is not native to the human heart, for the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked (Jer. 17:9). Out of the heart proceeds murder (Mt. 15:19). Love in the heart is proof that God dwells therein.

2. Love proves that God's Spirit is within us (v. 13). The fruit of the Spirit is love (Gal. 5:22).

3. Love testifies that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world (v. 14). The indwelling Spirit shows us Christ and makes us believe in him as God's Son, the Saviour.

4. Love makes fellowship with God possible (vv. 15, 16). Since God is love, he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him. Those who deny the deity and saviourhood of Christ have no fellowship with God, and those who have fellowship with God will confess Jesus Christ as his divine Son.

V. Love's Relation to the Judgment (vv. 17, 18).

It casts out fear. A judgment day is coming, for God hath appointed a day in which he shall judge the world in righteousness by that Man whom he hath ordained (Acts 17:31). It will be a terrible thing for those unprepared to meet God at that time. But for those who are indwelt by the Living God there will be a joyful meeting. The way to get rid of the fear of meeting God in the judgment is to be living now in fellowship with him.

VI. God's Love the Ground of All Love (v. 19).

The reason we love is that our lives have come into touch with the great Fountainhead of love. The incoming of God's being and nature becomes the animating and controlling principle of our lives.

VII. The Child of God Possesses Dual Love (v. 20).

The proof that one loves the unseen God is that he loves the person who bears the likeness and image of God and has become a member of the same family through the redemption in Christ Jesus. Love to God and man is united in the heart of the Christian.

VIII. The Solemn Command From God (v. 21).

God commands that those who love him should love their brethren. Obedience to this command will do away with all war and strife.

Successful Living

The art of successful living consists not in making our own way, but in being true men and women, and then surrendering ourselves to whatever drift of act or purpose comes our way, absolutely assured that it is the pull of the Almighty.—Charles H. Parkhurst.

Spiritual Happiness

"It is indeed true that we never find the heights of spiritual happiness until we touch the fountain of sacrifice."

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL NEWS

A Christmas program is being prepared for Wednesday, December 23, at 1:30 o'clock.

Miss Lera Bean, primary instructor, conducted chapel last Friday morning. Miss Gertie Lee Lowery, member of the Jr. II Class, played the guitar. The exercise was very interesting.

The chapel of last week was conducted by Superintendent Lawrence. He made a brief, yet forceful talk on attendance, value of study, and the present school condition. The Liberty Hill quartet, composed of Zackie and Hershel Lowery, Hiram Littlejohn and Earl Williams, also entertained the schcool on this program by singing several peppy sacred songs. They will be with us again next Wednesday morning in the presentation of our Christmas program.

Mr. Popwell's Sunday school class will present a program next Sunday morning.

A birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Powell last Saturday night in honor of their daughter, Merlene.

School will dismiss on Wednesday, December 23, for the Christmas holidays; resuming work on January 4, 1932.

Mr. J. P. Culp, members of our Junior III Class, was absent from school last Friday. He was with his father, who made a business trip to Birmingham.

The Junior team of Mt. Pleasant will play the Maplesville team soon. These players are between 10 and 12 years. This game will be a "corker." Watch for anonuncement of date, and see it.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Melton and family last Sunday afternoon.

We were pleased to see a large number from Clanton out to see the ball game last Friday.

The Mt. Pleasant girls basketball team hopes the Stanton girls can return their game some time soon after Christmas.

The outlook for a full term is somewhat brighter now than a week ago. The student-body and parents are all glad to hear this interesting bit of news.

The New Salem B. Y. P. U. is going to put on a program at Collins Chapel December 20, at 6 o'clock.

Miss Zella Mae Belle was a visitor here Friday.

TThere was a large number to attend Sunday school at Mt. Pleasant last Sunday. Preaching services were held, Reverend Daniels delivering a forceful sermon.

Mr. J. C. White, principal of Jackson Chapel School, was among the many visitors last Friday afternoon to witness the ball game.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Melton visited the Mt. Pleasant school Friday afternoon.

Mr. Wiley Bean attended the preaching service at Mt. Pleasant last Sunday.

The Sunday school is progressing nicely. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Miss Mittice Duncan and Miss Jessie Lee Price, primary teacher from Jacksons Chapel, were among those present at the ball game last Friday afternoon.

The P.-T. A. plans to have window shades in the building soon after the holidays. Plans are also in order to sod the grounds and set out shrubbery. The recent dry weather has prevented this work from being accomplished.

Everyone remember that the Concord Jr. High School team plays here next Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

A BIG FIRE

I heard the siren give a most distressing cry,
I saw the men and fire truck as they went hurrying by,
There were the regular men and faithful fire chief,
And together they soon gave to the anxious ones relief.

But there is going to be a fire, the city boys can't put out,
When all good people will be caught away,
Then the wicked will scream and shout, for the fire will not go out,
As it is the coming of the judgment day.

Are you ready to meet Jesus in the air?
Or, will you be left to scream and shout?
While the wicked are left everywhere,
In that flame that the city boys can't put out.

Before that heavenly siren shall sound,
Throw all inflamable sin without,
For there will be screams and shouts the world around,
When men and demons fail to put that fire out.

—Mrs. Kate Anderson.

SHAREHOLDER'S MEETING

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the First National Bank of Clanton will be held in the director's room of the bank at 8 o'clock p.m., on Tuesday, January 19, 1932, for the purpose of electing directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before them.

MOUNT PLEASANT JUNIOR HIGH DEFEATS STANTON

On last Friday afternoon the Mt. Pleasant Jr. High School basketball team avenged their loss of last week by sending the Stanton team down in a 14 to 8 defeat.

The game got away with a dull, slow, and uninteresting movement, but as it entered the second quarter the boys began to speed up, turning it into an exceedingly swift game, but entirely too rough.

Burnette, for Mt. Pleasant, and Royster, captain of the Stanton team, were barred from the game during the last half, through excessive fouling; yet both players turned in a nice performance before their expulsion.

The visitors were unable to pass the ball successfully through the tight defense thrown up by the Mt. Pleasant boys, for they succeeded in netting only two field goals, one by Royster, the other by Houston.

Houston, who towers well over six feet, played a nice game as center for Stanton, as he succeeded in placing the tip-off over Littlejohn most of the game, but it proved to no avail, as his team-mates failed to back him up.

Curtis Traywick, the diminutive little forward for the home team was the big gun in the offensive play against the Stanton quintet. He registered every point against them with the exception of one, which was a foul shot made good by his younger brother, Cecil.

Burnett, their team-mate, was sadly off form in shooting, but turned in a nifty performance in defensive pley, and pass work.

Parker, for Mt. Pleasant, and L. D. Harrison for Stanton, displayed at times some fancy work at guard position; both breaking up passes which doubtless might have proved costly to either team.

This game places the teams in a tie, which probably will be played off on some indepedent court after January.

The Stanton girls were due to play, but failed to make their appearance on the court.

Concord Jr. High team will be at Mt. Pleasant next Friday afternoon. We expect to see a large crowd present, as this is the first time these teams have met, and this too, will probably be the last game before the Christmas holidays.

Locals

Jake Wallace and Hill Foshee, of Maplesville, were visitors to Clanton Monday.

SUPPLY PLENTY OF WATER FOR COWS

This is the time of year when many feeders are likely to overlook the importance of supplying a plentiful quantity of drinkable water for their dairy cows. Many cows, during the winter months, obtain but one good drink a day, and often this is so cold that they do not consume sufficient water to maintain efficient milk production.

In the first place, water forms almost 87 per cent of the contents of milk. Practically a third of the water which the cow consumes is used in milk production. Water is also important from the standpoint of maintaining the body temperature, assisting in elimination of waste from the body, and helping in assimilation of the nutrients in the feed.

Extremely cold water has a tendency to temporarily interfere with the bacterial action which goes on in the rumen or paunch of the dairy cow. Roughages and coarse feeds are broken up by the bacterial action in this portion of the digestive tract. When extremely cold water is poured upon the contents of the rumen, this bacterial action stops temporarily and the energy of the cow must be utilized in building up the body temperature to such a state that digestion may again go on. It is cheaper for the feeder to see that water is properly heated or that the chill is removed, in order that the animal may maintain maximum water consumption and thereby help in the efficient digestion and assimiliation of the feed.

Although water is probably the cheapest ingredient that most feeders have in their ration, during the winter months it is probably as much abused as any one other ingredient in the ration of the farm animal. More precaution in watering will maintain more efficient production, and will require fewer veterinary bills.

NOTTICE OF ELECTION

I, W. H. Gillespie, Sheriff of Chilton County, Alabama, do hereby give notice that on Tuesday, the 5th day of January, 1932, an election will be held at the several voting places in Chilton County, for a vote by the qualified electors of Chilton County, Alabama, in the manner and form and places as required by law, upon the following Amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, namely:

"The City of Mobile shall be and it is hereby authorized and empowered, without an election, to annually levy and collect a tax on the property situated therein, to pay the expenses of the City Government, at such rate as may from time to time be fixed by the governing authorities of said city, but unless and until an amendment to the Constitution of Alabama shall be adopted, permitting said City after an election or elections to levy and collect taxes amounting in the aggregate to more than one and one-tenth (1.1) per centum of the value of the property situated therein, as assessed for State taxation during the preceding year, the total of the ad valorem taxes levied in any one tax year by said municipality for all purposes (including any tax levied to pay the debt existing on the 6th day of December, 1875, with interest thereon, or any renewal of such debt) shall not exceed in the aggregate one and one-tenth (1.1) per centum of the value of such property as assessed for State taxation during the preceding year."

This the 3rd day of December, 1931.

W. H. GILLESPIE, Sheriff.

THOMAS JR. SCHOOL NEWS

We are glad to say that we will have our regular school term. We are sure the pupils will take more interest in school work, knowing there is a chance to complete their grades.

The girls have organized a ball team. They expect to play some games in the near future.

The game the boys played with Union Grove on our court last Friday afternoon was very interesting. The scores were 12 and 2, in favor of Thomas Jr. George Wilson, on the Thomas Jr. team made 8 of the 12 points, shooting one goal from behind the back-stop. Raymond Cooper on this team did some real work as center, and shooting two points. Jerrell Wells also did some splendid playing, adding two points to the score. G. C. Wilson did some real team work as right forward. S. Thornton also showed his ability as standing guard. The Union Grove boys did some good playing.

We are expecting to have a fiddlers convention and also put on a play after Christmas. Look for the dates later.

DIEF WILL OPEN CAFE NEXT WEEK

Will Open Business in the Building Formerly Occupied by Postoffice

We learn with much interest that Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, owner of Dief's Service Station in Clanton, will soon add another business enterprise to his operations. He will open Dief's Cafe some time next week, where he announces he will run one of the nicest and best appointed cafes in Alabama. "It will not be the biggest," said Dief, "but you can bet your bottom dollar it will be nice and clean, and will be operated in the most approved and acceptable fashion."

The location of the cafe will be in the old postoffice building just across the street from Dief's Service Station. It is planned to have the new place ready for opening just before Christmas.

The present furnishings which are already installed in the building are being altered and renovated under personal supervision of Mr. Diefenderfer, and he is determined that everything shall be spic and span and right up to the minute in convenience and service to the public.

We predict that Dief's Cafe will become as popular and servicable to the public as his old standby, Dief's Service Station.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Only two more Sundays in the year 1931. Some have been to church every Sunday. Some have been about half of the Sundays. Some have been not a time. What about your record? Add two more Sundays of attendance to your record.

The pastor preaches next Sunday, morning and night. At 11 a. m., the subject is "What must a Christian do?" At seven o'clock Sunday night the subject is "What should a Christian do?" These two subjects link up with each other and you should hear both.

Our Sunday school is getting off to a good record in the new conference year. Help us to improve over the record of the year just gone. Young and old, meet with us each Sunday at 9:45 a. m.

Preaching next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Isabella church.

Our church stands for loyalty, consecration, service, liberality and experience. We need you in our worship, and you need us. Always welcome.

HIGH SCHOOL FUND FOR 1930-1931 RELEASED

The State Department of Education was notified Monday by the Treasurer's office that the high school fund for the school year 1930-1931 was ready for distribution to the several counties. This fund, amounting to $405,000 is a part of the total money represented by school warrants issued to schools last spring, and is an obligation of the past school year. It is not "new money," that is, it is not drawn against the current school year.

The fund is a part of the educational trust fund established in 1927 along with the attendance, the equalization, and several other funds of lesser amounts. It is intended to encourage attendancce in the rural high schools. Its distribution will bring no relief to the city schools, since by regulations of the State Board of Education it is restricted to the rural high schoos.

The amounts to be received by the several counties range from $28,151.20 assigned to Jefferson County to $2,410.93, allotted to Bullock County.

The release of this money last Monday was in keeping with the promise made by President Moseley of the Alabama Educational Association by Governor Miller some three weeks ago, when Mr. Moseley called on the chief executive to ascertain the possibility of the schools of the State receiving relief from their present financial plight. At the same time Gov. Miller stated that the equalization fund of 1930-1931. amounting to $900,000 would in all probability be available about January 1st.

SANTA CLAUS VISITS PREACHER PREMATURELY

Although a week or so ahead of schedule time, old Santa Claus really visited Rev, J. Robert Bean while he was in Union Grove community last week end. Rev. Bean arrived in the community some time Saturday, and someone carried him over to the home of Mrs. Hattie Dorminey in the evening. There a program of singing, reading, etc., had been arranged in program style, supervised by Mrs. Carrie Shaw, daughter of Mrs. Dorminey. Following the program, Rev. Bean was escorted to a long table covered with packages. Two young ladies, one on either side of the preacher, took scissors and opened the packages in the presence of all; and the gifts were varied and choicy. They consisted of such things as canned and drief fruits, shelled corn, towels, aprons; and a nice gold initial ring for Rev. Bean.

Very elated over what had happened, Rev. Bean came through Clanton Monday morning strowing the news to everyone he saw. He said that the only regret about it was that his little wife was not present at the occasion. Mrs. Bean usually goes with her husband on his appointments, but she declined going to Union Grove this time on account of the bad weather. However, we imagine if anything else like this happens, she will be a witness to it.

SINGING LAST SUNDAY WAS BETTER ATTENDED

At the Central Singing Society, which met at Walnut Creek last Sunday afternoon six of the eight churches were represented. Maybe there were some there from Refuge and Chestnut Creek, but if so we failed to see them. Somebody said that we could use the same write-up that we used last week, only change a few names in it; but the turn-out was better last Sunday even though the weather was mighty showery.

Two members of the committee were present: Prof. W. M. Devaughn and Mr. Willie L. Mims. Prof. O. L. Devaughn presided, and the following names were placed on the program by the committee: S. L. Baker, R. E. Powell, E. M. Wilson, Archie Devaughn, W. L. Mims, T. E. Wyatt, Chester Wyatt, I. D. Huett, W. M. Devaughn, Dr. J. B. Williams, and S. V. Miller.

The society meets next Sunday afternoon with the class at Refuge. Let everyone make a specical effort to attend.

VOLUME XXXVII.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1931 NUMBER 35

TAX VALUATIONS OFF 30 MILLIONS

Public Utilities Only Class Of Property Showing Any Increase

While the assessed value of property in Alabama for the new tax year, shows a decrease as compared with that for 1930, in every property class except public utilities, the percentage of decrease as a whole is only 2.476 per cent, it is shown in a tabulation released yesterday by Tax Commissioner S. R. Butler of taxable values of property in the State for the tax year 1931, as assessed by the State Tax Commission, together with the assessed values for 1930.

For 1931, the total of assessments is shown as $1,209,763,336, and that for 1930, as $1,240,478,389, the decrease for 1931 compared with the previous year, being $30,715,053.

Real estate assessments for 1931, total $771,343,053, or $15,609,251 less than for 1930, when the total was $786,952,304, the percentage of decrease being 1.983.

Personal property assessments for the new tax year amount to $171,090,280, or $14,770,922 less than for 1930, when the total was $185,861,202; the percentage of decrease being 7.947.

For motor vehicles the assessments for 1931 total $21,888,577, compared with $28,228,537 for the previous year, a decrease of $6,339,960; the percentage of decrease showing 22.459.

Public utility assesments for 1931 show a total of $242,288,555, compared with $236,505,831, an increase of $5,782,724, or 2.445 per cent.

Ten per cent penalties for 1931 totaled $3,152,871, compared with $2,930,515 for the previous year, an increase of $222,356, or 7.587 per cent.

The grand total of assessments for the 1931 tax year, therefore, is $1,209,763,336, compared with $1,240,478,389 for the 1930 tax year; a decrease for 1931 of $30,715,053, or 2.476 per cent.

As to the assessment total shown for motor vehicles, attention is called to the fact that these assessments include only those made up to November 15 in each tax year.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION MAY BE GIVEN CHICAGO

Washington, Dec. 16.—Chicago and Atlantic City will fight it out next month again for the Democratic national convention with the odds favoring the mid-western city.

The Democrats will convene here January 9 to select their city, the day after the Jackson Day banquet for which considerable plans are being made by the party leaders.

The Chicago representatives are just as confident of capturing the Democratic convention as they were of winning the Republican meeting.

It would be the first time in years that both parties have met at the same place to select their presidential candidates but it seems likely. Democrats probably will hold their meeting two weeks after the Republican convention on June 28.

GREEN CUCUMBERS

Bob Connell of Refuge community brought in to The Union-Banner Saturday a green cucumber which he had just gathered from his field. Mr. Connell said that it grew from a stray vine in his cotton patch. The vine was nearly all dead but the cucumber was still green just like they usually are in early summer.

FRIENDSHIP

Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night are regular preaching times at Friendship. Rev. J. Robert Bean, the pastor, will preach at all three services. Night services will be held at 6:30 and the day service at 11 o'clock. The people of the community are urged to attend all services.

POWER COMPANY IS SANTA CLAUS AGAIN

It looks like the recent statement of Aticus Mullins that the Alabama Power Company is Santa Claus, is about to prove correct. Last week just as a lot of us were broke and wondering where the Christmas change was coming form, here comes a check from the power company refunding our meter deposits with a nice chunk of interest added. We had not expected such a thing. Mighty glad to know that somebody in the power company office figured out that a little lift would come in so nice just at this time.

LITTLE GIRLS WRITE TO SANTA

The Union-Banner is in receipt of the following letter from Clanton Route 6: December 22. Dear Santa:—We received your letter and were glad to get it. We hope you will bring us kids a fine Christmas, for we have been as good as we could be. Sattie Nell is six years old and wants you to please bring her a doll. Ruthie is three years old and wants old Santa to please bring her a sucker and a little doll.

Mr. Santa Claus, we hope there are no hard times up at the North Pole where you live. We will hang up our hats and stockings for you.—Sattie Nell and Ruthie Gray.

REVIVAL BEGINS JANUARY THIRD

Dr. E. C. Miller, Of Indiana, Will Preach At The Courthouse

Plans are rapidly going forward for the Bob Jones revival that is to begin on Sunday night, January 3rd. Many cottage prayer meetings are being held in different sections of Clanton and Chilton County and committees are being appointed to take charge of the work of the revival campaign. A choir will be organized from he local talent, and oood music will be furnished from the first service. Dr. E. C. Miller, of South Bend, Ind., will arrive in the city on January 2, and will be in readiness for the campaign which is to begin the following day. All the local churches will have their morning services, but will unite in a big union service at night.

The place of the meeting will be at the courthouse. Should the auditorium of the courthouse be taxed chairs will be furnished and seating provided. It is expected that the meeting will be county-wide and that during the period there will be many visitors from every section of the county. The money question is not to be emphasized, but a strong appeal will be made for men and women to give themselves to God. The is a meeting for the people, and it is hoped that it will result in much good.

PREACHING SERVICES AT THE POOR HOUSE

County Commissioner J. M. Mims, who has charge of looking after the County Poor Farm, stated Monday that he has made arrangements at the Poor Farm whereby the inmates can have the privilege of attending preaching services at the home. A place of assembly and seating facilities have been provided not only for the inmates, but visitors who may wish to attend the services.

Rev. J. Robert Bean will preach there next Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, according to Mr. Mims. The public is invited to attend this and all other services at the home. Singers are especially invited.

Announcement of future services at the home will be made from time to time, Mr. Mims stated.

Court Refuse Ouster For Sam Latham

Bar Association Ordered to File Complete Record In Case

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 16.—The Missippi Supreme Court has refused to disbar Sam Latham, former Jackson attorney, and ordered the State Bar Association to file further depositions so that a complete record of the entire case will be on file.

Latham is alleged to be the instigator of the $80,000 scandal which resulted in the disbarment of Carl Marshall, prominent coast attorney. Since that time Latham has moved to Illinois and failed to appear for hearing this week end. The supreme court refused disbarment, but set hearing of arguments for the second Wednesday in January.

Christmas Greetings

Another year is beckoning us with its hopes and opportunities for service. The Union-Banner, from publisher to devil, pauses here to think of our pleasant relations with you in the past year, and to remember with kind thoughts all of our friends, among whom we hope we can count every person who chances to read these words.

Every person everywhere who finds any degree of interest in The Union-Banner, and who has contributed in any way to the success and pleasure of those who make the paper is greeted with the heartiest good wishes by each and every one of the "force."

You may be a subscriber in China, a fellow-publisher in Alaska, one of Uncle Sam's brave musketeers in a far-away army post, a gob afloat the high seas, a busy business man in Clanton whom we see every day, or one of our hundreds of subscribers in every nook and corner of Chilton County. That does not matter. It is Christmas time, and we hope a time of gladness, light hearts, and good cheer for all of you and for every one of your loved ones.

It is our one absorbing hope that you and yours may come to the end of this year with a happy Christmas season; and that you will find your full measure of joy and success all through 1932.

THE UNION-BANNER.

Will Santa Claus Visit The Boys In The New Chilton County Jail House?

From Behind Bars They Look For Light That Lightens Hearts

The Union-Banner has received the following from the white prisoners in the Chilton County jail, which we are very glad to publish:

"The white prisoners in the Chilton County jail wish for every reader of The Union-Banner a very merry Christmas. While we are behind the bars of the new jail, we are not murderers, nor condemned without hope.

"We know there are loved ones and friends whose kindly interest will penetrate the steel that surrounds us and bring us a measure of the Christmas cheer that will envelope the world.

"Those who may chance to remember us with any kind of a gift for Christmas will have the deepest gratitude of our hearts. Anything like fruits, cake, candy, or smoking tobacco will be greatly appreciated.

"If anyone wishes to give us anything for Christmas, we believe our Sheriff will be glad to let you come in and bring it to us."

The message concludes by saying, "We are not ashamed to publish our names," and is signed by the following: J. C. Ingram, C. A. Robinson, A. B. Lowery, J. W. Boswell, Hosey Payton, H. C. Reynolds, E. H. Adams, T. B. Buchanan, N. B. Posey, E. N. Wyatt.

Christmas Message From Chilton County Probate Judge, L. H. Reynolds

Appeal Is Made In Behalf Of Poor People For Christmas

Editor Union-Banner:

For one whole year we have been fighting, grabbing, struggling, scolding, working until our brain is like a whirl wind and we are all discouraged on account of this awful deppression, but we must not forget our duty to the suffering around us.

Fellow citizens, here in Clanton and surrounding country, we have a condition that is to my mind awful. We have many people who will suffer for the want of food unless there is immediate relief. May I ask you who will bring this relief? I can see no chance of help except from the people who have a little above a living. Will we help? Or will we content ourselves to sit down by a warm fire at night, plenty to eat and many women and children near our homes do not have even a fire and have to go to bed hungry.

Can we enjoy Christmas as we should unless we do our duty in this matter? I know some who are suffering that have not done all they could to help themselves, but if some men have been trifling and have failed to provide for their wives and children, what about the innocent women and children who are suffering?

Now we cannot escape our duty and Clanton has always been equal to the occasion in the past, and I believe we will do our duty this time.

We need funds to help a few distressed people, and I am ready and willing to do my part to help relieve the distress and suffering around us.

Christmas is a time when we all forget our troubles. Competitors look at each other and smile with the best of wishes. We are happy because we are thinking of making others happy.

I wish you people who are able to help, could be in my office a few days and hear the appeals made to me for help. Can you imagine a mother of a half-dozen children, begging for help, saying that they are hungry and have nothing to eat in their homes? You people know that I have no funds to help anyone with. My income has been reduced just like the rest of yours have, but a little from all of us will not hurt, and will make a merry Christmas for many who are in distress.

There are many projects we might start to give emplyment to some that are out of work. We might put up a wood yard and give the unemployed a job cutting wood, and get our people here in Clanton to burn wood instead of coal and keep this money at home.

The County Commissioners are doing all they can to help the unemployed, but there are some suffering who will not get help, such as women and children, and they need immediate help.

With best wishes for a merry Christmas and a happy new year to everybody. I am,

Yours truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

MRS. YEAGER MAKING PICTURES HERE

Mrs. Yeager, of the Yeager Studio, Montevallo, was in Clanton Monday making pictures of the Senior Class of the Chilton County High School. The pictures of individual members of the class will be placed in the clock which the class is presenting as a gift to the school.

Bliss is only momentary and soon forgotten. Satisfaction lasts a long time and endures.

MERCHANTS CHRISTMAS PAGE

We call your attention to the page advertisement in this issue of The Union-Banner in which the merchants, business, and professional men of Clanton express their Christmas Greetings to the people of Chilton County.

We hope you will read this Christmas message and ponder it well. It is a true expression of the feelings of Clanton people toward those who come here to do business.

The page was gotten up by Mr. Tom Ogletree, who wishes to extend his thanks to the business men whose cooperation made it possible.

POWER BATTLE FACING DELAY

Court Squabble Holds Up The Chilton, Coosa Tax Plea

Montgomery, Dec. 18.—Coosa and Chilton Counties' fight in Montgomery Circuit Court for higher ad valorem tax assessments against property of the Alabama Power Co., was suspended until after January 4, 1932, because of a technical legal squabble Thursday before Judge Walter B. Jones.

The attorney general's office filed demurrers at the hearing Thursday on Chilton and Coosa Counties' petition for a writ of mandamus forcing S. R. Butler, state tax commissioner, to assess all power company property in those counties at 60 per cent of its valuation instead of 45 per cent according to the report of the public service commission on power company property for rate making purposes.

Grady Reynolds and Felix Smith, attorneys for the petitioners then attempted to amend their original request for mandamus and asked the court to force Butler to assess power company property at 60 per cent of its current value, eliminating the valuation of the public service commission for rate making purposes.

Judge A. A. Evans, assistant attorney general and Fritz Thompson, of the power company's legal department, objected to the amended petition claiming that it was not germaine to the original issue.

After several hours of arguing by opposing counsels, Judge Jones granted each side five days to file briefs on the question and announced he would decide the matter by January 4.

E. C. EVANS WILL PREACH

Rev. E. C. Evans will preach at the Methodist Church in Clanton Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock. The Epworth League choir will present a Christmas anthem under the direction of Mrs. Percy M. Pitts.

This is the first time Rev. Evans has preached in Clanton since he was licensed in November, and it is expected that a large crowd will hear him.

A man who is desperate is dangerous. One who has comfort and security is usually a safe bet in business.

Christmas Parole To Two Chilton Men

Over 1,000 Paroles Granted By Governor As Christmas Presents

Eighty-seven Christmas paroles to as many convicts were issued Friday by Governor Miller—71 of the paroles being of temporary duration and the remainder permanent.

Of the 71 temporary paroles 35 were for "trusties," 33 negroes and 2 white men, employed at the capitol, who were given from Christmas Eve until the following Monday morning, with the understanding that each morning they will report to perform their assigned duties, after which they may go for the remainder of the day.

Among the permanent paroles was that of William Virgil Brown of Chilton County. A temporary parole to expire January 15 was granted to Sam Reed also of Chilton County.

VISITING CHOIR ON NEXT SUNDAY

Special Program Will Be Rendered At Methodist Church

Much interest is being expressed over the coming of the Greenville choir next Sunday. The choir is one of the best in the State, and their presentation of Christmas music at the Methodist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock will be one of the most attractive religious gatherings ever taking place in Clanton. The choir has requested that no collection be taken, other than the regular incidental collection. This is a free-will contribution on the part of the choir to the people of Chilton county, and it is expected that large crowd will make use of the opportunity to hear this splendid Christmas music. The only cost in connection with the program will be the entertainent of the choir at one of the local hotels. The program follows:

PROTECTION FOR COTTON IS URGED BY COMMISSIONER

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, urges that Alabama farmers save money by protectting cotton now lying in yards from weather damage. Cotton is greatly damaged, says Mr. Storrs, by being left uncovered out in the weather.

LOWNDES COUNTY OFFICIALS HERE

A delegation of Lowndes County officials, composed of the county commissioners and road supervisor, came to Clanton last Friday for a friendly visit with county officials of Chilton County. The main object of their visit was to take some dots on the manner in which Chilton County's road business was carried on.

They spent several hours with Judge Reynolds and some of our County Commissioners, discussing various details about the road business. In the afternoon Judge Reynolds carried the visitors to see Lay Dam and to inspect the road out that way.

The visiting gentlemen were J. O. Lee, L. E. Walker, W. D. Farrior, J. M. Black, Jr., and C. M. Graves, county commissioners of Lowndes County; Lee Moorer, county road supervisor.

David Vines of Selma is spending the Christmas holidays with his family in Clanton.

GIVES INTERESTING FACTS OF BILLINGSLEY FAMILY

Our good friend, Mr. Ethan B. Popwell of Thorsby, was in Clanton Tuesday and handed to The Union-Banner a few notes on the life of a man who used to be well and favorably known in Autauga county and in the southern part of Chilton county. This man was Rev. Columbus C. Billingsley, father of Uncle Jack Billingsley, who lives near Billingsley in Autauga county, and grandfather of our William J. Billingsley of Clanton.

About thirty years ago Mr. Popwell who was a close friend of C. C. Billingsley, received from him a sketch of his life. Mr. Billingsley was at that time very old and feeble and collected his thoughts and wrote with great difficulty; however, the figures given are authentic. Rev. Billingsley wrote as follows:

"I write out a short history of my life for the benefit of my brethern and friends. I was born in Stafford county, Virginia, on December 25, 1816. I came to Autauga county in August, 1832. I professed religion and joined the church, and served as class leader and local preacher for 21 years. I became convinced that the faith and practice of the church was not sound and I quit them. I united with the Missionary Baptist church, being convinced that if they are not the church of Jesus Christ that He has no church on earth.

"Here I stand and challenge a verification of the above. I trust that in the eternal purposes of His grace through Jesus Christ to meet my brethern and friends in glory.

"When I came to Autauga county in August, 1832, there was not a single Missionary Baptist church to be found. I later witnessed the separation at old Cedron. The Hardshells held the church and property and excluded the Missionaries. I also witnessed the seperation at old Kingston. There the Missionaries held the church and property and excluded the Hardshells.

"When I came to Alabama the town of Montgomery did not have a single framed house in it. All houses were built of logs. Then Sam Dale was running the river house from was running the river from Montgomery to Mobile.

"I am presenting this sketch to Ethan B. Powell and his father, and their wives and children.—Columbus C. Billingsley, Billingsley, Ale."

SCOUT EXECUTIVE HERE

Mr. John J. Sigwald, of Opelika, district executive of the Boy Scout work in central Alabama area, was in Clanton last week in the interest of the work here.

Mr. Sigwald was at Lay Dam Friday night with a meeting of the Lay Dam court of honor and the scout troop.

He held a meeting at Clanton Saturday morning, directing the examination of a number of scouts before the court of honor.

Miss Mary Lou Tiffin was the guest of friends in Birmingham Saturday.

HIP POCKET POULTRY MANUAL

Persons interested in poultry raising should not fail to go to Jeff Ruffin's Purina Store in Clanton and get a copy of the Purina Hip Pocket Poultry Manual. Get this little book, read it, keep it, and refer to it for the solution of your poultry problems.

No person can successfully raise poultry without a liberal amount of the knowledge and information that is contained in this little book. It is the handiest thing we have seen.

Mr. Ruffin has a supply of the books on hand, and he will be glad to give one to anybody who is interested in poultry raising.

TAXES ARE PAID BY ALABAMA POWER FIRM

Checks totaling $1,150,000 for payments of state, county and municipal taxes were being mailed Saturday by the Alabama Power Company.

Chilton and Coosa Counties were not to receive payments at this time, officials of the company said, due to litigation pertaining to the amounts of taxes due in those areas.

Disbursement of the taxes was speeded in every way possible, officials said, in order that Alabama school teachers might receive their salaries before Christmas.

Jefferson County and its municipalities will receive approximately $45,258.19.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Dec. 21.—Bernie Cummins and his New Yorkers have agreed to furnish the rhythem for the mid-term dances which will be staged at the University of Alabama Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, January 25, 26, and 27, according to an announcement made by Dan McCall, Mobile, president of the Cotillion Club.

Dr. Paul W. Terry, head of the psychology department at the University of Alabama has returned from Chicago, where he represented the University at the annual session of the American Association of University Professors.

Dame Rachael Crowdy, head of the Social Question and Opium Traffic Section of the League of Nations will deliver a lecture at the University of Alabama February 26. Her subject will be "My Experience in War and Peace."

Dr. Edmund G. Howe, professor of political science, University of Alabama, who represented Alpha of Alabama chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the National meeting of the fraternity in Providence, R. I., was the principal speaker at Alpha's fall initiation dinner, Monday evening.

Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, professor of rural education, University of Texas, visited the University of Alabama Thursday as the guest of Dean Agnes Ellen Harris.

The University of Alabama will be represented at the annual meeting of the Southern Conference to be held this year at New Orleans, by Dr. J. J. Doster, dean of the College of Education; Head Football Coach Frank Thomas; and H. G. Crisp, director of Athletics. Dr. Doster is a member if the Executive Committee of the Conference, representing Alabama and Mississippi.

GOODE ASKS ADVICE OF ALABAMA LEGISLATORS

Represenative R. J. Goode, Alabama member of the Southern States Cotton Committee, is this week asking members of the Alabama legislature whether or not they faver Gov. Miller calling an extra session to consider the passage of legislation restricting cotton production in 1932 and 1933.

"It is my calm and thoughted opinion that we will never be called upon to render a greater service to the State, the South and the Nation than the opportunity now afforded to assist in working out a solution to relieve the dire extremity to which Alabama and the entire South has been reduced" writes Mr. Goode.

"Won't you please wire or write me that you are willing to join us in requesting the Governor to call the legislature in extra session to do the best we can to relieve the greatest calamity which has befallen the South since Reconstruction.

"I"ll never believe anything but that there are enough brains and patriotism among the members of the Alabama legislature to do something that will help if they are given the opportunity."

Mr. Goode enclosed a copy of a statement outlining in detail the present cotton situation and how legislation throughout the South would save the cotton states from disaster.

PEOPLES TELEPHONE CENTRAL IS MOVED INTO NEW PLACE

For the past several days Mr. A. L. Giles has been engaged in the moving of the central office of the Peoples Telephone Company. At this writing the switchboard board has been placed into new quarters and connection of all lines has been made. There is still lots of work to be done on the lines inside Clanton, and Mr. Giles is going to get to that just as soon as he can. Some of the country lines have been gone over during the past few weeks and put in good shape. Other communities are planning to work their lines as soon as the holidays are over. Any lines who need Mr. Giles' help in rebuilding work can get him by the asking, provided he is not engaged in work on the system in Clanton.

The Board of Directors is going to set a dead line for the payment of fees soon. If you haven't paid, do so at your earliest convenience.

THE SEVEN MISTAKES OF MAN

"There are seven mistakes of life that many of us make," said a famous writer, and then he gave the following list:

1. The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others down.
2. The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.
3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.
4. Refusing to set aside trival preferences, in order that important things may be accomplished.
5. Neglecting development and refinement of the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading.
6. Attempting to compel other persons to believe and live as we do.
7. The failure to establish the habit of saving money. — Alabama Baptist.

Mrs. Clara Jackson of Evergreen is the guest of Mrs. Mary Mullins.

HOLCOMBE AND MASSEY BUY FOX STORE IN CLANTON

Mr. C. R. Holcombe, of Thorsby, and Mr. B. Frank Massey, of Clanton, have bought out the W. W. Fox Variety Store, in Clanton, and will continue to operate the business at the same location under the firm name of Holcombe & Massey.

In addition to the variety and hardware business, the new owners will make a speciality of second hand furniture and musical instruments. Mr. Holcombe, formerly of Birmingham, is an experienced man in the furniture and musical instrument business.

Mr. Frank Massey is well known in Clanton business circles. For the past year he has been working for Mr. Fox.

The new owners of the business are good hustlers, and they expect to make their place of business one of the best bargain centers in this part of Alabama. They invite their friends to call to see them when in Clanton.

The store will handle a variety of different items, making a specialty of hundreds of handy little things about the home that are not ordinarily found in a store.

THOMAS JUNIOR HIGH THANKS COUNTY BOARD

To the Honorable Superintendent and Board of Education, Chilton County:

We, the teachers and truck driver of Thomas Junior School, take this medium of expressing our appreciation for your cooperation in providing a full term school for the children of Chilton County, and especially for the children of Thomas Jr.

Although the future is not altogether bright, we are planning to make whatever sacrifice is required of us, trusting in an all-wise providence for ultimate success.—G. C. Weldon, principal; Marjorie Henley, Zebie Vinson, Nell Stublefield, Clara Boockholdt, teachers; W. H. Wilson, G. G. Gray, bus drivers.

Concord-Billingsley

On the account of rain we were deprieved of having any services Sunday morning, but we had real good services Sunday night.

The Christian Endaver program was very good and our new pastor, Rev. G. W. Stuart, delivered a wonderful message after the program. He brought clear to our minds some of the things that God has promised to those who place their trust in him.

It is rapidly approaching the new year. May we start out with new interests and deterinations to do more. May the church cooperate together and also with the pastor and we feel that we can do something that is really worth while if we will only do this.

Mr. Craton Deramus, of Maplesville is visiting at the home of his uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Williams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Cowart spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw.

Mrs. Emma Williams and daughter, Eula Bell, visited Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Williams Sunday.

Rev. G. W. Stuart, our pastor, has been visiting here during the past week end and has been into several homes. We were glad to have him visit us.

Mr. Clarence Williams attended preaching services at Adams Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Weldon, of Shilo community, were visitors here Sunday.

Messrs. Olin and Hudson Williams attended the surprise party given at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Limbrick, near Pleasant Hill, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Williams spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Little.

Mr. Porter Williams was a visitor at the home of his uncle, Mr. J. P. Williams Sunday night.

We wish every one a very merry Christmas and a bright prosperous, and happy new year.

VISITING IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Rev. S. J. Ezell and family left Monday morning for a Christmas visit with old home folks in South Carolina. In the abscence of the pastor there will be no preaching services at the Clanton Baptist Church next Sunday morning and Sunday night.

Mrs. Irene Rasberry and Miss Eloise Rasberry visited relatives in Birmingham last week.

REED MULLINS AND BILL LANIER OPEN GAS STATION

The new Standard service station on the Jim Jones property will be open for business this week. Reed Mullins and Bill Lanier will operate the place.

A new building and up to date equipment will make this among the best looking places in Clanton. It is located alongside the paved highway, and will be handy to motorists.

Complete automobile service will be the slogan of the new place. A garage for automobile repairing will be operated under a separate management in the building to the rear of the filling station.

"We hope to get our share of the gasoline and automobile service business in Clanton," said Mr. Mullins, "and we will appreciate the patronage of the public."

MT. PLEASANT SCHOOL NEWS

A beautiful Christmas program has been arranged for Wednesday afternoon. The Liberty Hill quartet will present a highly entertaining program featuring a negro musical comedy act.

Mt. Pleasant Jr. High team won a double-header ball game last Friday evening. They defeated the Clanton High School varsity team 22 to 15, and then sent Concord Jr. High down to a 19 to 9 drubbing.

The faculty and student body regrets losing their beloved pupil and schoolmate, Merlene Powell, who is moving away to another community. She was a member of the Jr. II Class and star guard on the girls' basket ball team.

Miss Ertice Riggins was the guest of Miss Gertie Lee Lowery Monday night.

Miss Ilar Massey spent Sunday with Miss Eunice Holley.

The Mt. Pleasant girls play the Thomas Jr. High girls on January 11. Both teams have been organized this year, and this game should create much interest. The boys' teams from these schools will play on that date also. The game will be at Thomas Jr. High.

Misses Lera Bean, Gertie Lee Lowery and Dorothy Jones were in town shopping Tuesday.

Miss Virginia Littlejohn was the guest of Miss Callie Cooper Sunday night.

The Mt. Pleasant basket ball team plays the C. C. H. S. Tuesday afternoon.

On Wednesday afternoon, December 23, the teachers of Mt. Pleasant gave an interesting Christmas program. They had a Christmas tree loaded from top to bottom with presents. The spirit of the Christ child was greatly displayed.

Miss Ethie Melton and Miss Sellie Rollins were the guests of Miss Eula Deason last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Evelyn Jones spent the week end with Miss Nellie Rollins.

Miss Lucille Price is planning to spend the Christmas holidays with her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Franklin, and her grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Franklin, of Mulberry community.

The Sunday school classes have worked together in planning a Christmas program Thursday afternoon. This program is given for the benefit of all those in this community. A large crowd is expected. The program begins at 2:00 o'clock.

Miss Mable Gillespie plans to spend part of her Christmas holidays visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Waites, of the Jacksons Chapel community.

Miss Bessie Eiland spent the day with Miss Jessie Lee Price Sunday.

We are glad to have a new member join our Jr. I Class. George Burnette, who transfers from the Jemison High School.

A large number of people from Lomax, Clanton and Liberty Hill were present last Friday to witness the games.

A reception will be given after the holidays in honor of the Jr. III Class.

Our principal, Mr. R. B. Johnson, and Mr. J. H. Culp went hunting last Saturday in search of the wily denizens of the forests. Thus far we haven't had a report as to their luck.

Our attendance has been unusually good, even though the weather has been inclement at times. Enrollment now is over 200.

The Junior III Class will organize after the holidays.

COMMITTEE ASKS THAT IDLE BE FED AT HOME

Montgomery, Dec. 21.—Alabama's Employment Relief Committee is appealing to communities throughout the state to see that their own people are cared for at home and not added to the burden of other communities in this state or other states. This appeal comes as a result of the committee having received reports that the number of dependent transients is increasing.

"In a time of unemployment such as we are encountering now, families are apt to pack themselves into a car and seek employment elsewhere," the committee said in a prepared statement. "It is laudable that men seek work in order to provide for their families, but before leaving the community where they have residence it is essential that they secure information through a reliable source as to work opportunities in the section to which they are going. This may be done through local chambers of commerce or through social agencies such as the Red Cross, Family Welfare societies and the County Child Welfare Superintendents.

Ab Retherford of Mineral Springs was in Clanton Tuesday. He said there was not a word of truth in the report of arrests at Mineral Springs School, as published in last week's paper.

IRISH POTATOES

Indications are that there will be good acreage planted to Irish potatoes next spring for cooperative shipping.

County Agent Stapp urges farmers who expect to plant Irish potatoes for cooperaive shipping to see him at an early date and see about arrangements for certified seed.

Mr. Stapp advises that the following farmers have already seen him relative to certified seed:

Ernest Porter, J. M. Deramus, J. D. Cleckler, E. C. Cox, J. N. Dennis, and Ernie Hansen.

CLANTON WISHES YOU A Merry Christmas AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR

Greetings to the People of Chilton County

The merchants, business and professional men of Clanton, whose names appear on this page, hope, by this means to convey to the people of Chilton County some measure of their appreciation for your friendship and good-will during the year which is now at its close.

The people of Chilton County have come to know the community of Clanton through their contact with one or more of these business or professional men in one capacity or another. We hope your dealings with us have been satisfactory and that you will continue to come to Clanton, where we assure you a cordial reception.

These business firms are interested in Clanton. They are interested in Chilton County. That is why they have tried during the past year to make a lasting friend of every person who comes to Clanton for business or pleasure.

The business people of Clanton want to make Clanton a better town. They want the people of the county to have a warm feeling, a feeling of pride and friendliness for Clanton. They know that they must depend upon the people of the county in the fulfillment of their hopes of making Clanton a progressive town.

At this Christmas season we hope that good cheer and happiness reigns in every home in Chilton County. While conditions may not be as you or we would wish them to be, yet we have many things to be thankful for, and we hope that everybody will be able to see through the clouds and behold the charm and enchantment of the silver lining.

We hope that next year brings better conditions. Whatever is in store for us, we must make the best of it we can.

Clanton will continue to pull for a better Chilton County. To the folks of the county we say, let us be better acquainted. Let us learn to know and to love each other better. Let us be friends. Let us help one another. Let us share each other's joys and sorrows. If we will do this, we will have gone a long way toward making of our county a better place in which to live and make a living, to work and to play.

CORPORATIONS CANNOT PAY TAXES—

In spite of all the political bunk to the contrary, the giant corporations do not, in the exact sense, pay taxes. They cannot.

This is unfortunate but it is true. The people pay the taxes—whether they be millionaires or day laborers, and there are a good many more day laborers than millionaires, even in boom times. They pay taxes when they write a check for the meat, electric or grocery bill, when they purchase a house and lot or a package of playing cards, when they eat a meal or go to a movie, when they smoke a cigarette or take a spin in the car.

Our gigantic corporations have no magical means of producing money from the air. They can get it only from the people to whom they sell their commodities or services. All costs necessary to the running of a business, whether they be taxes, labor or purchases of supplies, must be passed along to the customer. And the customer, in the aggregate, is all of us.

Consequently, next time you hear political demands for taxing the rich to help the poor, dismiss them for what they are usually worth—nothing. It would be pleasant if it were possible, but the inexorable laws of barter rule otherwise—and they are laws that politics can't repeal.

It is said that there is a crime slump in Chicago and this is one kind of slump we can all be in favor of.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

According to press dispatches from Europe on December 10, Japan and China accepted the League of Nations resolution on the dispute in Manchuria. Even the most ardent friends of the League, however, will hardly claim that the League has come out of the dispute with any great credit to itself. The acceptance of the resolution was made by both countries with important reservations. So far as Japan is concerned, its reservation is important enough to extract any teeth from the resolution which the resolution might originally have possessed. In short, the Japanese reserved the right to take measures against bandits in Manchuria. As this is exactly what Japan has claimed to be doing all the time, it is difficult to see wherein the resolution alters the situation.

The fact is that Japan has won a complete victory in the Manchurian dispute. Taking advantage of world conditions, the fact that the great powers of the world were engaged in their own troubles, and taking further advantage of the impotency of the League, Japan started her Manchurian adventure with every prospect of success, and this success has not been denied. Advancing for the stated purpose of protecting Japanese rights in Manchuria, the Japanese army occupied every strategic point of any consequence in the province. Until this was done, all appeals from the League and the various powers were made in vain. After Japan had achieved her objective, naturally the Japanese were willing to listen to compromise, just as the small boy is always willing to compromise after he has eaten all the jam in the pantry. And so the Japanese agreed to a cessation of hostility and the withdrawal of Japanese troops as quickly as possible, whatever that means. But the Japs attached the reservation which gives the right to go bandit hunting, which is exactly what they have been doing, according to their own claims, and so long as there are bandits to hunt, it will be impossible to withdraw the troops quickly or otherwise. Indeed it wiuld seem to the impartial observer that the Japanese troops are apt to occupy strategic and controlling points in Manchuria for some time to come.

The result of the Japanese adventure in China has seriously interfered with the prestige of the League and its future effectiveness. All threats of the League were powerless to check the Japanese until the Japanest objective was achieved. The adherents of the League cannot excuse its ineffectiveness by claiming that things would have been different had America been in the League. For the United States as an independent power cooperated with the League without avail so far as any evident influence on the Japanese was concerned.

The League fiasco in connection with the Japanese adventure in Manchuria will furnish opponents of the World Court in the United States Senate with an additional reason for opposing American adherence to the Court. They will argue that if the League is ineffective against one Asiatic power when all of the nations are unanimous in seeking to checkmate that power, how much greater would be the ineffectiveness and confusion be if the League were seeking to coerce some European power which had friends inside and outside the League? The answer to this one is, of course, obvious.

For a time there was talk of some sort of a boycott against Japan, financial or otherwise. But this fell by the wayside too, and every American breathed a sigh of relief when this happened, because it is generally conceded that we have enough troubles of our own without trying to take on any new ones in the Orient. The vote of the World Court on the Austro-German customs treaty and the League's failure to do more than apparently save its face in the Manchurian situation are going to make the going even a little rougher for the internationalists in America during the coming year.

HOME OWNING—

Nothing makes for the stability of a family, a city, a state or a nation as does home owning. Except for those theorists who dwell in the rarefied atmosphere of impracticality, the possession of a home is likely to mean stability of character, conservatism and patriotism. The loud-mouthed anarchists who advocate the destruction of property and the communists who demand the division of property, almost invariably are those who have none to destroy or to divide.

President Hoover knows this and a belief in it probably inspired his calling of the home conference in session recently at Washington.

Nobody should be a renter who can avoid it. Sometimes, of course, one's occupation prevents his possessing a house of his own. His business may keep him moving from one place to another. He is to be pitied and his family more so. But for the average man who considers some particular city his home town, a place wherein he labors and has his friends and interests, the ownership of the dwelling in which he lives is a boon. It is a stimulus to mental endeavor and it makes toil sweet. Such a man can say proudly to all those about him, the guests whom he entertains, the neighbors with whom he takes delight in friendly intercourse, "This is my home." It need not be a palace, it need not be an estate, it need not be in the finest location in the city or the countryside, but if it is neat and comfortable and has a spot of ground about it in which to grow flowers and shrubs, it may give him greater peace and contentment than the rich man's palace with its gorgeous gardens, its swimming pools, its dozen bath rooms, its period architecture, its costly rugs.

And home ownership is something for which sacrifice is worth while. Almost anything that really is of great value requires sacrifice. Things that come easily are not appreciated. One who patiently for ten years or twelve has paid out of his weekly wage envelope a portion to the building and loan association, will experience a greater joy when the last payment is made than will one who inherits a fine dwelling that has cost him nothing.

There never can be much danger of hot-headed revolution among a nation of home owners. A social order that could make it possible for every willing household head to own the dwelling in which he houses his brood, never need fear an overturning. Socialism, communism and all the other "isms" designed to fool the fancy by depicting impossible wealth and luxury for all, regardless of talent or willingness to work, would leave such a people cold.

What President Hoover's conference will accomplish in the way of actually providing plans whereby the owning of homes may be increased, nobody can say, but if it attracts the attention of the American people to the value of home owning it will have done much.

It is unfortunate that the depression of the last two years has partly closed the financial channels through which the masses can buy houses and lands. That, of course, was a natural accomplishment of conditions. Those who lend money for this purpose when times are good cannot be blamed; they have been acting for the protection of their stockholders.

But let's hope the fincial skies are clearing and that out of this Washington meeting ways and means may be devised to add to the number of those who now enjoy the blessings of dwelling beneath their own vines and fig trees.

WHO OWNS THE CANDIDATE?—

Too many men in public office serve other interests rather than the interests of the people. When a man offers himself as a candidate for office, therefore, says The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist in a recent issue, it is pertinent to ask, "Who owns the candidate?" We quote:

" 'The government requires a paper to publish the names of the folks who own it, and that's a good law,' said a friend a few days ago. 'But I wish we could go a step further now. I wish every candidate for office had to publish a list of the big corporation investments he has, so the people could know who owns the candidates.'

"Maybe our friend was putting the case rather strongly, and yet an ancient Scripture verse seems to support his view. 'Where a man's treasure is, there will his heart be also.' We cannot expect our officials and lawmakers to represent the public if they are getting most of their incomes from special interests that plunder the public. More and more we are going to need to ask the question:

"Who owns the candidate? Whence comes 'his master's voice'?"

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Universal Good Will—For the last several days and nights, when I have listened in on radio stations here, there, and everywhere, I have been impressed with the seeming good will which seems to pervade the country. Sponsors of programs from all stations have, without exception, had their announcers finish their broadcasts with: "And now we, in conclusion, wish for all our listeners, wherever they may be, a very, very Merry Christmas!" Some of them even went the others one better and wished us all a Happy New Year too, a whole week ahead of time. Now, that's an idea. I imagine the Christmas gift-giving racket is going to experience a marked slump this year, but that isn't going to affect the chances you'll have to wish for somebody a Merry Christmas. Try it. I believe it'll work both ways—make you feel better, as well as the other fellow.

Cheerful Guys—From time to time I take raps at chronic gripers, no matter what they may be griping about. And, as yet, I have no apologies to make for having taken those raps, because a chronic griper is a distinct liability. If you have something to gripe about that you can help, the thing to do is help it instead of griping about it; on the other hand, if you can't help matters any by griping (and you can't) why not make the best of a bad situation and cut out the griping any way? But what I started out to say, in the first place, is that not all are gripers, even in the face of seeming cause for down-in-the mouth comment. In fact, I believe we have a pretty good bunch of cheerful fellows here in our neck o' the woods. I like to meet with one of this sort. He'll make you feel good, just to talk with him—just as it always works the other way to talk to a g r ier.Ipc(q nowk shmb shmb to talk to a griper. I believe I'll just name a few of these fellows for you, so you can talk matters over with some of 'em some time—"Uncle" Bob Sumner, "Mun" Wyatt, Uncle John Gore, Joe Calloway, Maurice Lande, Cohen Stapp, "Dief" Diefenderfer, and others. You try some of 'em some time—you'll find they usually have time to listen to you and laugh with you most any time you happen across 'em. Now, I suppose I'd better say that these are not ALL the eligibles we have for the Cheerful Fellows Club—there are others just as good.

"Uncle" Tom Ogletree — Another rather cheerful guy I happened to miss in the list as given above is my good friend "Uncle" Tom Ogletree. Uncle Tom is a real cheerful, good-natured guy to know. If anybody ever had a right to gripe at the hand fate has dealt out to him in the game of life, Uncle Tom certainly would have that right. But he don't gripe—not Uncle Tom. On the other hand, a more sunshiny, good-natured, hail-fellow-well-met guy would be hard to find. When Uncle Tom was beset with hard luck and difficulties which might cause a less plucky fellow to decide that Lady Luck had decided to make a door mat of him, after all, he didn't give up. No sir! He just propped up long enough to give misfortune a swift kick where it might do the most good, and refused to be trampled under in any such manner. And now Uncle Tom says he has the "ups" on most of the fellows—he's on his feet again, for a fact. I admire Uncle Tom's game spirit—anybody would. More power to you, Uncle Tom!

Our Sheriff—I hear some folks criticize our sheriff from time to time. A number of things are pinned on him—some may be true—others I KNOW to be false—yet, there is one thing on which all agree—that he is thorough and fair in the conduct of his office. Here is the way people say it: "Boy, he don't pick 'em; if you get caught, you're just caught, no matter who you are. He'll treat you white, but he'll lock you up, too, if he catches you." The sheriff may have his enemies, personal and otherwise, but I think such as the above is the very highest tribute that could be paid to a man's record in an office like the sheriff's. And when the new, spic-and-span jail was turned over to him, he took every precaution to go about keeping it clean and orderly from the start. Men brought from the jail at Montgomery (where it is reported every kind of bed-bug, louse, etc., thrive) were "put through the mill," that is, they were all given a good bath, and clean clothes before being placed in our new jail. Those fellows appreciated that, too. I have heard that some of the prisoners say this jail is more like a hotel than a jail, considering what they have been experiencing. Sheriff Gillespie is all right, I believe, and making a mighty good sheriff. Let's be fair, at any rate—let's give credit where credit is due.

Merry Christmas—While everyone else is wishing the readers a Merry Christmas, I want to voice a like wish for you and yours. I hope your difficulties during the past year have not been too hard, that your joys have been great, and that your joys for this Christmas season and the year to come maye be still greater. Again, Merry, Merry Christmas to all!

Glimpses—There go all the road machines—now I know it'll rain. "Dief" struts by—going to gas with somebody I suppose. "Major" Simpson looks 'em over—auto tags. Joe Calloway on his way to supper—bird dog and all. A man without a nose drops in—curious sight, that. The road near the golf course is nearly blocked with cars belonging to the golfers—it's a wonder they wouldn't notice that closer—maybe they are too intent on their game. Another filling station being built on the Jones property bordering on the highway—more gas.—Man in the Moon.

MORAL ECHOES

(By D. W. Haskew)

For the next few days and weeks our merchants will be taking stock. You will see the clerk on a ladder, going into every box and pulling out every bolt of cloth. He is going over the stock of goods that he may take an inventory. The merchant wants to know whether his assets will balance with his liabilities. He wants to know if he has made or lost during the year. While the old year is passing and the new is coming, you should step into the storehouse of your soul and find out if you have made character gains during the year, or have you lost. Count the year a failure if you are not better today than you were when the bells tingled at the birth of the new year. Count the year worse than a failure, if you are not as good a man or as good a woman as you were when the year was started. Will December the 31st find you a better man or a better woman than you were the first of January?

As a boy on the farm I could always pick more cotton than I had physical strength to carry. When the day's picking was over and the baskets had to be carried to the cotton house, my load was too heavy for my shoulders. Often I would have to make two and three trips in order to get the results of the day's work under shelter. Since I have been in the ministry I have never been burdened down with the results of my toil. Often I have come to the close of a day—or a year—and have looked over the labors of my hands, and I have been ashamed to shoulder it up, and walk away to the storehouse in the skies. Even now I am looking about me to see if I can find anything in the year 1931 that I can shoulder and carry with me before the throne. Somehow the picking this year has not been very good; my basket is not full, but whether I have done much or little, I must carry the year's work home to God's house. Remember that 1931 is just a year's work that you must carry with you to the judgment.

In the days of open saloons it was the custom for the men of the community to order a jug of "licker" from the city. They took Christmas week for their spree and revelry. Many today have not departed from that barbaric custom. They do not order it from the saloon but from their personal bootlegger; and then they make merry on the birthday of our Lord. That is nothing less than barbarism run wild. Of all times during the year when a man should not drink, it is Christmas times. Whiskey is an enemy of the Christ, and to mix it up in the celebration of the Lord's birthday is like a man mixing up another woman with the celebration of his marriage anniversary. An "egg-nog" on Christmas morning is an insult to the Christ. If I were going to lower my standards to the whiskey level, I most certainly would not do it on the birthday of the Redeemer of my soul.

Not long since I was sitting in the presence of a choir that knew how to sing. The organist touched the keys and the music rolled out into the auditorium. The choir lifted their voices and a thrill played hide and seek in my soul as they sang "The Day is Dying in the West." I could see the going down of the sun, the gathering darkness, the homeward travel of the tired workman and the coming out of the twinkling stars. I could hear the distant lowing of the cattle, the prattle of ducks and geese, the hushing of the sounds of toil and the lonely call of the thrush as she took her place among the vines. The day was over and the night had come on. It was one day gone—it was just one day less to live. Fastly fades the closing moments of the year 1931. Not long after you read these words the year will be over and you will not have one day less to live but you will have one year less to live. We will soon be sighing as we say—"My earthly journey is over; my race has been run; and now I am waiting for the oarsmen to carry me beyond the setting sun."

There is a right way and a wrong way to look at the record of 1931. Thinking of your record, what estimate do you place on what you have done? You may have made some money during the year, and conclude that the year has been worth while. You may have received special honors at the hands of your friends and conclude that you are making progress. It is not how much money you have made during the year—it is not what positions you have obtained that counts; but the thing that counts in the year that is dying is: Have you helped yourself to a finer ideal of living and have you helped other people to find a way into a purer atmosphere? Do not make the mistake of placing value on what you have made and what you have enjoyed. The man really lives who lives for others.

When I was a boy the little mother in our home allowed five boys to take spools, soap and water and blow bubbles for amusement. We would blow them large and small, and would fling them into the air and gently blow them away from the ground. Sometimes the bubbles would drift for a long distance and then burst. Some bubbles would burst sooner than others. The same fate came to all bubbles. Some of you started out the year 1931 with blowing bubbles. You chased them along through the days, weeks, months, and now the most of your bubbles have bursted. "I'm forever blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air!" Our bubbles burst in our faces. Have you not been sprinkled in 1931 with the mist of a bursted bubble?

Merry Christmas To All

The Man on the Corner extends to all friends everywhere, sincere wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. I hope that the light of the Star of Bethlehem may flood your every heart with its glorious light and fill your soul with the divine spirit of peace on earth and good-will toward all men. Roy L. Smith, member of the Kiwanis Club, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, wrote a piece in December issue of Kiwanis Magazine, which I want to pass on to you as one of the finest Christmas messages I have ever read. He says:

Christmas Is An Armistice

Christmas is an armistice!

For three hundred and sixty-four days we have been worrying, fighting, working, competing, struggling, rushing, grabbing, scolding. Our nerves are on edge, our brain is in a whirl, our soul is in an agony of discouragement because of the depression.

Then comes Christmas!

It may seem strange, but the banks are all closed. Overdrawn accounts can wait. The stock market is quiet. No ticker tape, no bedlam, no suicides. The courts are all adjourned. No one is suing, no one is trying to recover damages, no one is starting trouble. The stores and markets are all closed. No one is trying to make money.

The board of directors is not meeting, the agitators, are not haranguing the crowd, street-car motormen and telephone girls, for the most part, are working on half-time, there are no "extras."

A new spirit has taken possession of the world.

For one brief day we stop in our mad race for power and give ourselves a chance to enjoy the great simplicities of life. The politician spends his day at home, the general manager takes dinner with his family and the corporation president impersonates a prancing horse with a shouting grandson upon his back.

For one brief day children come into their own. The whole household moves away from its usual adult-centered life and puts "a little child in their midst." Most of the problems of society, business and government would be quickly solved if the first question settled was the rights of the children.

For one brief day we wish our competitors well. Under the spell of Christmas warmth and kindliness we forget our animosities, dismiss our grudges, soften our creeds, expand our sympathies and invite our souls. We discover that life's greatest joys come, not through getting but by giving—not through spending but by sharing.

And everywhere there is light.

From millions of little trees the sparkling ornaments transform somber surroundings into samples of fairyland. From millions of eyes, dull through trouble and burdens, a new light of happiness shines. Faces that have worn nothing but the mask of care are now lighted up with smiles of deep joy.

If some man from Mars should visit us on Christmas day he would not recognize us as the same people he saw last week in the working world. We are not the same people. Christmas has transformed us.

It is not the gift that came to us that made the difference. Few of us are any richer on Christmas day than we were the day before, so far as our bank balance can declare.

Few of us are more famous, powerful or wiser because of Christmas—but we are happier. We have not been elected to office, exalted to power nor schooled in scientific formula because of Christmas.

For one brief day we laugh and live. We find the deep satisfactions that generosity, simplicity, faith and love can give. We feel our lives grow in interest and our confidence in the goodness of the universe deepens as the Christmas spirit takes posession of us.

After three hundred and sixty-four days of cynicism, anxiety and bitterness we come to Christmas and for one day we really live.

But Christmas is only one day.

When will we learn to make the armistice a permanent peace?

What Shall We Expect Next?

Christmas time brings around its regular outlay of strange and unusual things. A few years ago Monroe Parrish got a watermelon off the Christmas tree at Providence. Last year Vester Miller brought us a watermelon on New Year's Day. Now comes Bob Connell with a green cucumber; Tom Wyatt says he is going to bring us a bunch of cotton blooms this week; and Uncle Charley Foshee said the other day that he expects to have a mess of green butterbeans out of his garden for Christmas dinner. So far we have not had any winter yet, and some predict that we shall soon see the time when really cold weather in this part of the country will be no more. I am prepared for any kind of surprise. Let it come.

Hard Times Are Over??????

Jim Jones, of Coopers predicts that the present hard times will soon vanish. He explains this optimistic prediction in this way: "Seventeen years ago," he said, "we had a panic. The stork brought a fine baby boy to my house, and it was not long till everything was busy and prosperous again." Mostly busy, I suppose he meant. "Now" said Jim, "I got worried over the hard times of the past two years. I began to try to figure out how prosperity could be induced to return. Suffice it to say that on last Tuesday, December 15, exactly seventeen years from his former visit, the stork again came to my home, leaving us another fine boy. I am hoping the scheme works as well as it did seventeen years ago." Somebody asked Jim why he didn't do something before times got so bad. He said he was afraid it would be a girl and make things worse.

Some movie actors in Hollywood have had their salary cut thirty per cent. In the cast of some of them an additional cut of 70 per cent would put 'em about right.

Postal savings in the United States have risen from $160,000,000 in September, 1929, to $461,000,000 at the end of September, 1931. Donnie Mae Smith, age 3 years, child of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, died Friday, December 18th. Burial was at Bethel Sunday, with Martin and Sons in charge.

CLYDE CHANDLER, JR.

Clyde Chandler, Jr., age 4 years, died last Sunday, December 20th. Burial was at Bethsalem Tuesday with Martin in charge. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. E. Moore.

The deceased is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chandler, and one sister.

SECOND CROP OF COTTON

J. J. Mims, mail carrier on Route 5, reports that cotton on his farm is producing a second crop. He brings proof of his statement by showing a bunch of cotton stalks fairly well loaded with grown bolls. He says these bolls were grown after the regular crop of cotton had been picked.

MR. GEORGE GENTRY DIED

Mr. George Gentry died at his home in York, Alabama, Tuesday, December 15. Funeral services at Calvert Alabama, Thursday, December 17. Mr. Gentry was born and reared in Chilton county. At the time of his death he was an engineer on the A. T. & N. Railroad.

He leaves a wife and two sons, four daughters, two grandchildren. He has five brothers, L. H. Gentry, of Mt. Creek, Robert Gentry, Houston Gentry, Press Gentry, and Ethan Gentry.

Mr. R. V. Watson, of Akron, Ohio, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Watson and relatives. expects to be here through the Christmas holidays. He has many friends in and around Clanton, which he hopes to see while here.

FIRE AT BROADHEAD'S STORE

Fire was discovered in the store of J. R. Broadhead & Son about midnight last Saturday night.

The city fire fighters answered the call promptly and the blaze was soon extinguished. Damage was confined to the stock of dry goods in the store. It did not get headway to bother the building to any considerable extent.

MT. PLEASANT WINS OVER CHILTON CO. HIGH AND CONCORD JR. HIGH FRIDAY

In a rather hard-fought game last Friday afternoon, the Mt. Pleasant Jr., High school lads swept the Chilton county High school players down to a 22 to 15 defeat, and then to add another feather to thier cap, they played the third quarter of the game between Mt. Pleasant and Concord, piling up a score, which helped the second team trim the Concord players 19 to 8.

In the game between Clanton, both played hard in trying to get the lead over their opponents, but the home team stacked up a 5 point margin which they never relinquished throughout the game, however Clanton threw a scare into them in the third quarter, when James Tiffin made a nice looping shot from the field to tighten the score 16 to 13. This only lasted momentarily, for Curtis Traywick came right back and blasted their hopes with two spot-shots for four points. He led his team in offensive play, in accounting for 16 points for the game. His team-mate, Burnett, looped three goals from the field for the other 6 markers.

Theodore Littlejohn, a former player on the Mt. Pleasant team, was the high scorer for Clanton, 5 points being his allotment, however, he played a nice game in dribbling and pass work. His mates J. Tiffin and Powell came next with four points each.

The Clanton players were fresh from the football field, but they showed skill in handling the basketball and in playing, as only two personal fouls were chalked against them, while the Mt. Pleasnt boys were charged with eight.

The Concord game was more interesting than the score indicates, for the visiting team held he second-team players of Mt. Pleasant, to a low score, but they were unable to cope with the regular team, who played part of the third quarter, running up a one sided score which soon grows uninteresting, but the secon team went back into the game and played the remaining ten minutes, allowing the Concord team to net their 8 points.

MENS CLASS ENJOYED AN OYSTER SUPPER

The oyster supper of the Mens Bible Class of Clanton Baptist Sunday school last Thursday night brought together about a hundred men of Clanton in one of the most delightful occasions of the year.

The gathering was in the basement of the church. After several members and visitors had made short talks the oyster supper was served under direction of the following committee of ladies:

Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Mrs. Dewey Eubanks, Mrs. W. A. Willis, Mrs. H. T. Pipes, Mrs. J. B. Deramus, Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Mrs. J. E. Gore.

In addition to members of the class, the following gentlemen were guests for the occasion: Prof. I. J. Quinn, G. C. Powell, Horsley White, G. C. Armstrong, Claudie Pipes, L. A. Calloway, George Arnold, Jesse Jones, Earl C. Parrish.

After supper had been finished, everybody went home full of oysters (except Crutcher Ross) and left Catfish to spend the rest of the night washing up the dishes.

CENTER HILL

There will be singing at this place Sunday afternoon, December 27. It is the cooperative society. Regular singing evening here. We are expecting the United Singing society, Prof. O. L. Devaughn and his class to be with us. All other singers are invited to come and be with us, as this is to be the last singing of the year, let's try to make it the best.—B. L. Cobb.

CHILTON IS FACING POSSIBLE PROTESTS

Washington, Dec., 21.—Opportunity for protests against the nominations of Arthur B. Chilton as United States attorney for the Middle Alabama District and John B. Isbell as atorney for he Northern District was afforded Monday when the Senate judiciary committee referred nominations to subcommittees. Neither Senator Black nor Senator Bankhead has stated his position regarding either nomination, both saying they desired to see the pepars in the cases first.

It is not expected there will be any fight against Isbell but there have been rumers of vigirous opposition to Chilton. Both are serving as United States attorneys by virtue of recess appointents from President Hoover.

Senator Norris, of Nebaska, chairman of the judiciary committee, Monday appointed Senator Austin (R), Vermont, and Senator Ashurst (D), of Arizona, a subcommittee on the nomination of Chilton and appointed Senator Blaine (R), of Wisconsin, and Senator Dill (D), of Washington, a subcommittee on the Isbell nomination.

DECLARATION OF THE CHILTON COUNTY NEGRO FARMERS CONFERENCE

In sending forth its annual message the negro farmers find in a review of the past year and in its outlook for the year just ahead much that is encouraging and full of promise.

It was shown from the exhibits on last Wednesday that the farmers had responded to the appeal to raise more food than was necessary for the family and feed for live stock. However, the conditions of farm life are very far from satisfactory, and there should be no let-up until we have secured a more permanent prosperity and a wider distribution to the farmer and his family of the good things of life.

With this in mind the conference indorsed the following as a means of meeting the demands of the depression in 1932:

1. Soil improvement: (a) Plant more Austrian peas and vetch. (b) Terrace land properly. (c) Plant summer legumes. (d) Better handling and saving of barn-yard manure.

2. Orchard and gardening: (a) Start orchards. (b) Keep year-round garden. (c) Prune and spray properly.

3. Live stock: (a) Two dairy cows per family. (b) Twenty-five hens per family. (c) Two brood sows per family.

We wish to congratulate all who won prizes on exhibits this year, and to thank those merchants and individuals for their liberal contributions: A & P Tea Company, Clanton Motors, Clanton Cash Store, The Leader, Robinson Department Store, Peoples Savings Bank, The Fair, Mullins & Moore, Culver and Jones, Farmers Hardware Co., Upchurch Drug Co., Alred Drug Co., Calloway Drug Co., Elmore's Store, Chicago Sales Co., Holcombe and Massey Hardware Co., First National Bank, Messrs. J. D. Broadhead, W. Bean, J. Q. Wade, W. H. Hayes, C. E. Stapp, W. R. Mullins, J. Z. Mims, J. H. Broadhead, R. A. Teel, J. M. Martin, and Drs. Smith, B. Williams.

Mrs. W. A. Reynolds visited Birmingham Monday.

Mrs. John Deramus was shopping in Montgomery Friday.

The truth comes more often from the lips of a poor man than a rich one. That is the reason we have so many poor people. Truth seems to be quite flexible with most of us.

CHRISTMAS IN COLONIAL DAYS

Christmas in Colonial Virginia was a gay and festive period. Fun began a week before Christmas and continued for a week afterward with a round of house parties, balls, dances, dinners, and hunting, which would have taxed the energy of any modern debutante. The young people went into the woods for holly and greens which, fashioned in wreaths and garlands, adorned the stately drawing rooms of the manor houses of the Potomac. Fowls were fattened for the table. Forest, field and stream contributed their succulent share to tempt the appetite of host and guests.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission informs us that for days the frosty winter air rang with the glad shouts of welcome as ecah newly arrived coach emptied its load of happy visitors. The clatter of hoofs on the hard highway announced the coming of nearby neighbors who would dismount, come in for a hot toddy and a chat with the members of the household before mounting and clattering awby again, to repeat the jolly encounter at the next estate.

We have no records of how Christmas was spent at Mount Vernon, but we know that it was not always festive. There were long years when the master was absent for this holiday, gone to the wars to endure the rigors and dangers of winter campaigns. Perhaps one of Washington's happiest Christmases was in the year 1783. On December 23 Congress assembled in the State House at Annapolis where Washington arrived four days before and was met by Mrs. Washington. Congress was to receive the General's resignation as Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army.

He left Annapolis the day following the short ceremony which marked the close of the last act of the great drama of the Revolution, departing as a private citizen for Mount Vernon, where he arrived on Christmas Eve. He approached the home he loved over roads lined with cheering friends and retainers. The hospitable doors of his stately house were flung open wide. Bright fires burned on the hearths. The air was filled with the songs of joy because the master had come home. He had left Mount Vernon a year before merely a man, a strong man in whom the people had faith and confidence, a strong man but untried. He returned the victorious general, savior of the country.

The peace and comfort of Mount Vernon which he dearly loved, surrounded by his family, his friends and his faithful servants, must have seemed a paradise to him. Did he think of that other Christmas when with his little band he crossed the ice-filled Delaware in the dead of night, or that terrible Christmas at Valley Forge?

From his writings we will never know, for his dairies were neglected at that time; and, besides, he never gave details of any day's happenings, and made no descriptive or superfluous comments on anything that went on. In the letters of a young girl present at Mount Vernon on that Christmas in 1783, we find the following comments: "The servants were in great glee. They came from all quarters to get a glimpse of their idol. The General, much affected, received them from the front veranda. Some, the old ones, were in tears, others were in rapturous mirth."

WASHINGTON SHEATHED HIS SWORD JUST 148 YEARS AGO

On this date of December 23, 148 years ago, George Washington handed back to the Continental Congress his commission as Commander in Chief of the Revolutionary Army and returned to Mount Vernon, a simple American citizen. But the mere statement of that fact conveys little of the drama that lay behind his act. Only a few months before he became George Washington, private citizen, he might have become military dictator of America, and at the lifting of a finger. He put aside the proposal in indignation, but had George Washington been other than the man he was, the history of the United States might read very differently from what it does.

While the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown in 1781 had virtually ended the Revolution in victory for America, desultory fighting still went on, and Washington wished to keep the army up to strength. It was nevertheless a period of inactivity, and the officers and soldiers had a plenty of time to brood over their grievances at the hands of Congress. Their pay was long in arrears. Numbers of the officers had sacrificed their personal fortunes to the cause of their country. And now they faced the prospect of being turned back into private life, penniless and ignored by a country that appeared to them ungrateful.

This bitter sentiment reached a climax while the army was stationed at Newburgh. It finally took shape in an open hint to Washington that he place himself at the head of this movement in the army to take over the government, and thus make himself dictator of America. So impoverished was the country and so feeble had become the state and national governments, that nothing could have stood in the way of this move, had Washington yielded. Instead he indignantly rebuked his officers for this threatened stain on their patriotism, promised once more to stir Congress to take up the matter of payment, and in this he finally was successful.

Late in January, 1783, came news that the preliminary peace treaty had been signed in Paris. On April 17 Washington was informed that an agreement for the suspension of hostilities had been signed. In due time thereafter came the disbanding of the army, the triumphal entry of Washington and Governor Clinton into New York City, on the heels of the departing British, and the famous farewell that the Commander in Chief bade his faithful officers at Fraunce's Tavern. Immediately afterward Washington went to Philadelphia to present on account of his personal expenses during the eight years of the war.

On the next morning Washington set forth from Annapolis and reached Mount Vernon that same evening—Christmas Eve—to spend there perhaps the happiest Christmas of his life. Thus eagerly did the victor of the war for our inndependence forget military glory and return to the ranks of fellow citizens.

1932 COTTON MAY SELL FOR 2 CENTS PER POUND

If Farmers Add a Large Crop to the Present 14,000,000 Bale Surplus

It is reasonable for farmers of the South to expect 2 to 3 1-2 cents per pound for their 1932 crop of coton if they produce a large crop to add to the present 14,000,000 bale carry-over, says J. E. McDonald, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture.

On the other hand Mr. McDonald declares that it is reasonable to expect 8 to 10 cents for the 1932 crop if the South plants only 30 per cent of its tillable acreage to cotton.

Mr. McDonald justified his price predictions with the following statement and figures:

"On August 1, 1929, there was a carry-over of American cotton aounting to around 4.250,000 bales and the price range for the fall of 1929 was 14 to 17 cents. On August 1 1930 the carry-over of American cotton was 8,710,000 bales and the price rarge during the fall of 1931 was 5 to 6 1-2 cents.

"If Governent estimate of 1931 crop is correct and the consumption continued at present rate the carry-over on August 1, 1932 will be around 14,000,000 bales. Last year only 11,045,000 bales of American cotton was consumed. Therefore, next Auust when the cotton farmer dons his pick sack and kneels on the hot ground between the cotton rows he will find 14,000,000 bales competing with his new crop, and too he can remember that the year before with only little more than one-half the carry-over then confronting him he only received 5 to 6 1-2 cents.

"Reviewing carry-over and price levels quoted above, it is reasonable to expect 8 to 10 cents for 1932 crop if the South plants only 30 per cent of its acreage to cotton, and under the old system of demoralized planting of 60 per cent or more, it is just as reasonable to expect 2 to 3 1-2 cents for the 1932 crop."

Newspapers in general today are records of crime, destroying faith in humanity and making us wary of our fellow men. We are led to believe that the world is full of criminals and suckers.

COSTIVENESS

CONFINING indoor work—skillful work with the hands that does not include plenty of physical exercise for the body, often results in the bad feeling and unpleasant signs of faulty bowel movement. W. S. Conant, a saddler and harness maker living in Somerset, Ky., says: "I had to take something for costiveness, as I would just get so tired, or have a dull feeling. After I heard of Black-Draught and began taking it, I avoided this trouble. I take it in small doses and it is most satisfactory." FBA-9

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by C. E. Stapp, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County.

COOPERATIVES OFFER REAL COTTON RELIEF

Many ambitious plans for cotton relief are being proposed. Meanwhile there is one clear, simple, definite, practicable plan which is available right now and which any cotton farmer anywhere, any time, can take advantage of. We refer to the offer of cotton cooperatives to advance within one cent a pound of the current market price.

Of one thing we may be sure, and that is that no human necessity will long sell below actual present cost of production as cotton is doing today. Hence it is clear that farmers should not sacrifice the crop at present prices. And a second fact is equally clear; namely, that the surest and best immediately available plan to avoid sacrificing the crop is by taking advantage of the remarkably liberal offer of the cotton cooperatives. No farmer who will not help himself in this way has any right to complain about somebody else not helping him.

We also feel that about the surest permanent plan to control acreage is found in membership in a cotton cooperative marketing association. If a cooperative in any line is carrying 25 per cent of this year's crop, then it is carrying 25 per cent for individual members. Hence each individual member knows that reducing acreage next year will not only help next year's prices but also help prices on about 25 per cent of his own crop produced this year. Hence cooperative marketing itself, if it were generally followed, would go a long way to provide "surplus control." — The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist.

SAVING MANURE ON FARMS PAYS WELL IN GOOD CROPS

A considerable quantity of valuable fertilizer material can be made available on farms for producing next year's crop by the proper care of manure during the winter and spring months.

By keeping the stables, halls and live stock sheds well bedded with oat straw, pine straw, or leaves. much valuable liquid manure can be recovered which otherwise would be lost.

Manure removed from the stables should be hauled to the fields and immediately plowed under. If it is not practical to haul it to the field it should be kept covered or, better, kept in a covered concrete manure pit. Loss is prevented if left in sheds where the live stock in walking over it will keep it packed tightly. If manure must be left in the open it should be placed in large piles with straight sides and well compacted, the top sloping to center to absorb rain.

If manure is hauled to fields some time before it can be plowed in, either broadcast it or leave it in a large pile. Leaving it for some time in small piles in the field may result in considerable loss by fermentation.

Manure is not a balanced fertilizer. A ton of manure including ample bedding is usually considered to carry about .5 per cent nitrogen, .25 per cent phosphoric acid, and .5 per cent potash. That is, one ton of manure contains approximately 10 pounds of nitrogen, 5 pounds phosphoric acid, and 10 pounds of potash.

In addition to the valuable plant food, manure adds much valuable organic, matter and important bacteria, and improves the condition of the soil.—Southern Cultivator.

COWS FIX DAIRYMAN'S WAGES

The boss man says how many dollars we shall draw on pay day. Mr. Dairyman, do you realize that the cows on your farm are your boss to the extent that they determine the size of your pay check? Do you realize that dairymen fix their own wages by the kind of cows they choose? Is your herd a liberal boss, od does it act the old skinflint and hold your nose to the financial grindstone by giving you little if any pay for the hard work you do?

It's pretty bad to have a close-fisted boss, especially if you can't get rid of him. Dairymen, however, have the unusual prerogative of being able to fire the boss. They can choose the kind of boss they will work for. If your cows are not giving you a square deal, "sic" the cow-tester on them. He will soon find the Judas that is delivering you into the hands of your creditors.

If you are going to work for a bunch of cows wouldn't you just as lief work for a bunch of good cows and bank the difference?—The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist.

NEWS WORTH KNOWING

The Spanish government has promulgated the new agrarian program which seeks to bring about the cultivation of big tracts owned by municipalities or the central govrnment and those large uncultivated estates whose owners wish to lease their land. The cooperative working societies would lease the land from the government and cultivate it as a community project.

Cooperative marketing grows.—Robin Hood report that large scale cooperative associations have increased their volume of business 28.8 per cent since the Federal Farm Board was established, with 33.4 per cent gain in membership.

The basis of all business is desire and necessity. Create something to fill a desire or supply something that is required and you have a business.

When you find a thing hard to do and struggle with it you are learning something. When anything is easy to do you are just marking time and not getting ahead.

SERVE POTATOES IN MANY WAYS, SAYS EXPERT

Irish potatoes, which grow well in every county in Alabama, can be cooked and served in numerous ways. Perhaps they are served more frequently than any other vegetable; and home economic extension workers at Auburn College and county home agents say that by preparing in different ways the appetite is maintained and the food enjoyed more.

Baked, boiled, and fried are the usual ways of preparing potatoes. In addition to these the Auburn College workers suggest that potatoes be combined with meat or fish for one-dish meals; as one vegetable in combinations that include tomatoes, cheese, onions, peppers; in salads and soups. Left-over mashed potatoes are especially good in corn meal muffins, chocolate cake and doughnuts.

A few suggestions about the selection of potatoes will be helpful.

One which shows a green skin will taste bitter when cooked, for it has grown too close to the surface and has been sunburned. The wisest course for the home-maker is to choose medium-sized potatoes that feel firm when pressed in the hand. Dry, mealy potatoes are best for mashing and baking, and the more waxy varieties are most suitable for salad and creaming, since they will hold their shape.

From the standpoint of food value potatoes have much to offer—vitamins, mineral salts and energy-giving materials. Their mineral salts supply the necessary alkaline substances in the diet to balance the acid-forming substances of meat, cereals and eggs. And not the least of all is the energy-giving value potatoes possess.

VITAMINS FOUND IN COTTONSEED FLOUR

Cottonseed flour has proved to be a valuable source of vitamins B and G, both needed in diets restricted because of last year's drouth or reduced incomes. The bureau of home economics, United States Department of Agriculture, has carried on a number of special vitamin studies during the last year to supplement its recommendations for low cost diets and pellagra-preventive foods that are cheap and readily available in the areas where they are most needed.

Cottonseed flour, which is valuable in many ways as a human food, has been on the market for more than 10 years. It is more finely ground and more highly refined than the meal from which it is made. Laboratory tests show that it is a fair source of vitamin B and that it contains from one-half to one-third as much vitamin G as yeast. At its present price of less than 10 cents a pound cottonseed flour is a relatively cheap source of these vitamins and also contains other nutrients.

Very palatable baked products can be made by using part cottonseed flour, the bureau finds. Bread, muffins and doughnuts are especially good. As cottonseed flour does not contain the gluten-forming constituents that give bread-making value to wheat flour, it is generally used in combinations with bolted wheat flour. Cottonseed flour was substituted for about one-fifth of the wheat flour in the baked goods made by the bureau. Bread made from this combination has a dark color and a nutty flavor. When used in the proportion suggested, cottonseed flour affords ample amounts of the pellagra-preventive factor for most diets.

HEALTH EXPERTS SAY DRINK LOTS OF MILK

Drink lots of milk is the advice of health experts of the nation. It contains fat, protein, carbohydrates, minerals and is a rich source of the indispensable vitamins.

Milk offers a supply of mineral salts, such as iron, calcium, and phosphorus, without which the best planned diet would be a failure. The framework of the body, the bones, and also the teeth are composed largely of calcium and phosphorus. At all times, but especially during growth and development, these minerals must be supplied in order to insure proper formation and strength of these important organs.

American dietaries are probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other one chemical element. Milk not only contains liberal amounts of calcium and phosphorus, but it carries the minerals in a very useful and easily assimilated form.

Milk is low in iron content and this is one of the few reasons why milk must properly be called "the most nearly perfect food" instead of "the perfect food." The most important sources of food iron are fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals. Lack of iron causes anemia.

Such important vitamins as A, B, C, and D, are all found in milk, but vitamin C is present in only a moderate amount. However, it may be supplied by using a little orange or tomato juice.

FARMERS ARE BASIS OF STATE PROSPERITY

Alabama farmers are the basis of prosperity in the state and the way to boost trade is by helping growers. This is the belief of the Alabama Industrial Development Board, Birmingham, which says:

"The industrial prosperity if Alabama is largely dependent upon an increase in the purchasing power of the Alabama farmer."

Some people you meet act as though they imagine you were responsible for the weather.

The more money you have the easier it is to practice economy.

PIE FILLING

For a change, add beaten egg whites to caramel pie filling, instead of using them for meringue.

The first six months of married life they kissed for affection each night when he came home from work. After that she kissed for investigation.

A man who can give an unpleasant order courteously and with a smile will usually have it carried out cheerfully.

THIS PAPER WILL PRINT FARM DATA

With facts about local, national, and world business and agricultural conditions and outlook before them Alabama farmers will make plans and proceed with their work in 1932. These facts have been compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Federal Farm Board, and the department of agricultural economics of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for practical farmers.

And Professor L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, announces that the machinery has been set in motion and other preparations made for presenting these facts to the farmers, bankers, and other business men.

An important part of this work will be a series of articles about different crops and farm animals which will appear in The Union-Banner. At the same time a profitable farming program for Chilton county will be prepared by farmers, bankers, and business men with the help of County Agent, C. E. Stapp.

The facts to be presented have been gathered from each continent and from each important nation. In the United States each state is considered. Through the county agent's assistance the facts will be localized, bankers, business men, and editors, cooperating.

In addition to correspondence by mail the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington operates 10,829 miles of leased wires connected with 52 branch offices and requiring 72 operators for transmitting crop, market, and other information, all of which is boiled down to a form understandable and usable by practical farmers.

Professor Duncan said that over a period of 10 years the outlook facts pesented through this service have been 70 to 80 per cent accurate in forecasting production, prices and demand.

INCREASED FARM PRICES

Index to farm prices showed an upward trend during November, reports the Department of Agriculture. After an almost uninterrupted decline for more than a year, the index in the last month rose to 71 as compared with 68 in October 15th.

The rise was occasioned by substantial improvement in grain and poultry products prices and smaller improvement in cotton and cotton seed.

Tending to offset the gains in other commodities, fruits and vegetables and meat animal prices declined through the month.

NOTICE

Please take notice that the annual stockholders' meeting of The Bank of Thorsby will be held in the offices of said bank at Thorsby, Alabama, on Wednesday, January 20th, 1932, at 9:00 a. m., for the purpose of electing a Board of Directors for the ensuing year, and to attend to such other business as might properly come before the stockholders.—Respectfully yours, J. GOOD HABITS MAKE HEALTHY 4-H GIRL

Auburn, Dec. 21.—Nell Moore, the 4-H club health champion who scored 98.9 per cent for third place in the national 4-H health contest at Chicago, is a demonstration that work, play, and proper diet produce healthy girls. She is a Bullock County girl with seven years of successful club work to her credit. Her health achievement began by her winning the Bullock County 4-H health championship. Next she was state health champion; and then she was third in the national health contest. Her national score was only 1.1 per cent below perfect.

Nell's record reveals that her work, her play, and her food have been big factors in making her a very healthy girl. She is very fond of all kinds of fruits, vegetables, dairy products, and eggs. She drinks lots of milk and eats lots of fruits, vegetables, butter, and eggs.

Like other bright and energetic 4-H club girls she works in and around her home. When her work is done she plays, engaging in horseback riding and swimming and playing basketball, baseball, and other outdoor games.

Her 4-H record shows that she does well whatever she does. She has had as her projects foods, clothing and gardening. This year she is studying clothing for health and comfort. She has done all the work required in each project and has won several prizes. She has attended all rallies and 4-H camps; and she attended the 1931 state short course for club girls at Auburn.

In the fall the ten healthiest of the state short course girls were called to Montgomery for final scoring where she made the highest score and became Alabama's 4-H health champion for 1931.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES FROM ALA. EXPERIMENT STATION

The national coffee council of Brazil announced plans December 7 for the stabilization of coffee prices, including the destruction of 12,000,000 bags in the next twelve months and the placing of an additional tax of five shillings a bag on coffee exports.

During the last thirty years the acreage planted to cotton in the United States has increased 17 years over previous years and declined 13 years Declines were made to consecutive years on two occasions while increases were made five consecutive years—1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926. The total acreage increased from 27,114,000 in 1902 to 40,889,000 in 1931.

J. B. Wilson, general manager of the National Wool Marketing Association at McKinley, Wyoming, said that the American Wool industry is enjoying prosperity. The demand for wool the first 10 months of 1931 exceeded by 63,000,000 pounds that of the same period last year, he added.

An official report of the bank failures reveals that there were more than 8,000 failures in the United States from January 1, 1931 to September 30, or 9 months. Sixty per cent of these had capital stock of $25,000 or less, per bank; while only 37 were banks in the larger cities having a capital stock of $1,00,000 or more.

The Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, Canada, announced on December 5th that the Canadian public has been buying recently more luxuries than for several months, indicating "the possible loosening up of ready money and an increase in confidence of the general business situation."

ALABAMA IS FOURTH STATE IN THE GROWING OF COTTON

Alabama this year occupies fourth place in cotton production, being exceeded by Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistican. "The final estimate of the U. S. Department of Agriculture for 1931 gives Alabama 1,430,000 bales of cotton of 500 pounds of gross weight each. This compares with 1,473,000 last year, 1,342,000 in 1929, 1,109,000 in 1928 and 1,498,000 in 1926," Mr. Gist said.

"The yield per acre was estimated this year at 200 pounds of lint comparing with 187 pounds last year, 174 in 1929, 196 in 1926, 209 in 1914 and 204 in 1911. The yield of this year is therefore the highest since 1914.

The acreage picked this year was 3,420,000 compared with 3,770,000 picked in 1930. Seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the acreage planted and growing on the first of July this year was abandoned.

Excellent yields were obtained this year from all sections of the state with the exception of the western part of the Black Belt and the southeastern section. The southeastern and north-central sections of the state gave considerable less than the state average while the eastern portion of the Black Belt and the Piedmont area gave only slightly less northern part of the state, above the than the state average. The entire Black Belt, gave considerably more than the state average of yield per acre. 1,365,000 running bales, or a little more than 96 per cent of the crop were ginned prior to the first of December."

CLANTON, ALABAMA

KINDERGARTEN PUPILS PRESENT LITTLE PLAY

The kindergarten pupils of Miss Madelyn Orr presented a little play at their school room in Mullins building near Exchange Hotel last Tuesday morning. The play presented was "Golden Locks and the Three Bears." There were some other little recitations, songs, atc., put on by the little tots. The program lasted about one hour. The little ones taking part were: Lois Rockett, Joe Varden, Jimmie Walker, Inez Wyatt, Elois Marcus, Martha Higgins, Joe Higgins, Jean Mullins, and Clay Marcus, Jr.

THE GIFTS OF TIME

A Christmas pageant entitled "The Gifts of Time," was presented by the Clanton Baptist Sunday school last Sunday night. The audience was large, filling the big auditorium and balcony of the church to capacity.

At a designated place in the program representatives of each class and department of the Sunday school presented their Christmas gift for the Baptist orphanage at Troy. A group of little girls passed Christmas stockings through the audience for free-will donations.

The total amount contributed to the Christmas orphanage was $102. The money has already been forwarded to Dr. Colley at Troy.

MT. PISGAH NEWS

It was announced that Miss Lett would be Baptized the fourth Sunday at 9:00 at Bro. John Baker's pond. May I announce that by request the baptism has been postponed until next summer.

We have Sunday school at 10:00 o'clock; preaching at 11:00; Christian Endeavor at 6.00; and preaching at 7:00. A welcome to all.—N. W. Culp, pastor.

ARRESTS MADE BY SHERIFF'S OFFICE DURING THE PAST WEEK

A report given out at the office of Sheriff Gillespie Tuesday includes the following arrests made during the past week.

One for burglary and grand larceny; 2 for violating the prohibition law; 2 for distilling; 1 for disturbing religious worship; 1 for abusive language.

The two men arrested for distilling were caught last Saturday while operating a still near Freeman School house about eight miles northwest of Jemison. They had run about two gallons of liquor and had on hand three barrels of beer.

POPLAR SPRINGS

The Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. at this place are progressing nicely, though the weather has been bad for the past two Sundays, we never give up. Let's everybody, especially the members, strive to be present each Sunday and Sunday night.

Last Sunday night brought the contest to a close between the two groups. A splendid program was rendered by each group.

We are expecting a good program next Sunday night and possibly some good visiting speakers, so don't fail to come.

A surpise party was given Miss Lena Traywick Saturday night. Everybody seemed to have enjoyed themselves and especially did they enjoy the music renderd by Herman Lowery, Houston Melton, Floy and Archie Devaughn.

Don't forget that Saturday and Sunday are preaching days and don't get too overjoyed Christmas to attend.

Next Sunday night Dr. J. B. Williams will lecture on the subject: "If a man die, shall he live again?"

SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS

The Central Singing Society meets at Poplar Springs next Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. All singers have a cordial invitation to attend and take part in the program.

Dr. S. A. Barson

OPTOMETRIST

Will be in Clanton at Exchange Hotel

MONDAY, DEC. 28TH

And the last Monday in each month.

A. A. JACKSON WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you be so kind as to give me space in your valuable paper to say a few words to its readers? My text is: "When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice, but when the wicked beareth rule the people mourn."—Proverbs, 29:2.

I believe every reader of this paper knows that the people of the world, the people of the United States, the people of Alabama, and the people of every county in Alabama are not rejoicing on account of a righteous rule; but to the contrary, are mourning.

We hear great statesmen say they can't place the responsibility for this depression and unrest of our country. I read both of our good county papers; two Birmingham daily papers, and Montgomery papers, and hear some of the greatest men of our country speak through the radio, but have never heard any one tell what is causing the present depression and unrest of our country.

Was Solomon the wisest of all men and did God speak through him and say "when the righteous are in authority the people rejoice; but when the wicked beareth rule the people mourn?"

What is the condition throughout the world; rejoicing or mourning? I do not have to tell you, because you know. Did you ever have a lawyer to offer to furnish evidence if they thought your evidence was not sufficient to make the case a success? Did you ever know judges to bring cases in their courts with blank evidence just to get fees, regardless of justice?

If God tells us through chosen messengers what is causing the present depression why not believe it?

Dear reader, do you think it right for our rulers to take millions of dollars that have been collected from the farmers and laborers of this country in taxes and revenue, and lend it to foreign countries, and when it comes due and should be paid back our rulers extend the credit until our foreign countries can get able to pay?

But on the other hand, our treasurer of our nation says there is a deficit in the nation's treasure of about two billion dollars, and our legislature at Washington is working out some plan by which they can collect this two billion dollars deficit out of the already tax-ridden people of our country.

The federal banks of our country have closed out thousands of homes this year, and left thousands of people homeless. The tax collectors of our nation have sold thousands of homes because the owners could not pay the taxes. Other nations can have the use of our money after it is due to be paid; but we people must pay when it is due, or lose our property.

At one end of our system we have the Federal Farm Board who is trying to teach us that we are producing too much wheat and cotton; that we should destroy one-third of our cotton in order to boost the price. This same board has millions of bushels of wheat; millions of bales of cotton hoarded away; while millions of poor little children are going hungry and scant of clothing. Again we have another farm organization at the other end, who is supposed to teach us how to produce abundantly. Remember, we farmers and laborers have to pay these two organizations millions of dollars for their valuable service. Remember, "when the wicked beareth rule the people mourn." Lord, send us a Moses, that we may have a righteous rule.—Respectfully, A. A. Jackson.

MR. T. A. GAY

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Davis, of Demopolis, Alabama, on December 19, at seven o'clock p. m., and bore away the sweet spirit of the father of Mrs. Davis and three brothers, J. W. and C. C. Gay, Sr., of Stanton, and O. T. Gay of Wilton, Alabama.

Funeral services were conducted the following Sunday at Plantersville Baptist Church, of which he was a member, Rev. Bentley, his pastor, officiating.

Mr. Gay spent has entire life at Plantersville and in that vicinity, where he was born and reared.

Besides the four children mentioned above, he is survived by fourteen grand children and one great-grand child; two sisters and one brother.

This good man joined the church early in life and attended Sunday school and church regularly, setting a good example for his children and grand children. Not often do we see a person attending Sunday school at the age of 81 years, but grandpa, as the writer called him, attended regularly until the last of June of this year, until his health failed him and he was not able to go.

Weep not, dear children, for God has said in His blessed word, "Let not your hearts be troubled, ye believe in God, believe in me also. In my father's house are many mansion, if it were not so, I would have told you.

We feel that everything was done for him that loving hands could do. But God, in His infinite wisdom saw fit to take him from our midst to a better home beyond.—Mrs. C. C. Gay.

R. J. Sumner, Robert and Janette spent Sunday in Tuscaloosa with Miss Nellie Sumner, who is convalescing from an operation for appendicitis.

REVIEW: THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY IN EUROPE

GOLDEN TEXT—And the seventh angel sounded; and there were great voices in heaven, saying, the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving the Gospel to Europe.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Giving the Gospel to Europe.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christianity in the Roman World.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Outreach of Christianity.

In connection with the quarter's lessons, the Golden Text may be misleading for it refers to a time in the future when Christ's kingdom shall be established by his personal coming and in mighty power, displacing all earthly kingdoms with the Kingdom of Heaven. It does not refer to a world converted through the gradual dissemination of the gospel.

The lessons for the quarter center chiefly in Paul. A good method of review will be to study Paul the man.

A method also effectively used in senior and adult classes is to summarize the facts and state the leading teaching of the lesson. Assignment in this case should be made a week in advance. For this method the following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for October 4.

Being hemmed in on all sides, a vision was given Paul of a man of Macedonia pleading for help. Paul moved forward in response to this vision. Our visions should be translated into action.

Lesson for October 11.

The casting out of a spirit of divination from a young woman resulted in bringing Paul and Silas before the magistrates on a false charge. Without opportunity for self-defense, they were mercilessly beaten and remanded to jail, from which they were miraculously delivered. The jailer was converted. God will make fruitful the ministry of those who are faithful.

Lesson for October 18.

In Thessalonica and Berea Paul preached a suffering and risen Christ to the Jew first. The success of his ministry so aroused certain Jews that a riot ensued. Without fear Paul continued to preach Christ, and a vigorous church was established.

Lesson for October 25.

Alone, Paul came to the rich, cultured, and licentious city of Corinth. Here God gave him an encouraging vision, assuring him of divine protection.

Lesson for November 1.

In pressing the obligation of temperance, Paul shows that the believer is linked to Jesus Christ by faith. Being born from above, the man is free from the power of the flesh. God's way of destroying the works of the Devil is through the sonship of believers.

Lesson for November 8.

Preaching Christ and working miracles in Ephesus brought Paul face to face with an opposing mob. Despite opposition a glorious awakening resulted and a strong church was established.

Lesson for November 15.

At Jerusalem, Paul, in deference to the wishes of the elders, consented to take a vow in order to conciliate certain prejudiced brethren. This enraged the unbelieving Jews, who attempted to kill him. Being rescued by the Roman guard, Paul defended himself and was encouraged by the appearance of the Lord.

Lesson for November 22.

Not being able to get justice, Paul appealed to Caesar. On the way to Rome a great storm was encountered. Storms as well as soft breezes await God's faithful ministers.

Lesson for November 29.

Philemon is a private letter to a fellow Christian on the occasion of the return of a runaway slave who had become a Christian under Paul's ministry. It is one of the most tactful and tender letters ever written and the first anti-slavery petition ever penned.

Lesson for December 6.

Nearing the close of his ministry, Paul calmly faced death. He looked back over a successful career and forward with joyful anticipation to an eternity with God.

Lesson for December 13.

The Book of Revelation is God's last message to man. It is the unveiling of Jesus Christ in his personal appearing in glory to judge the world and establish his kingdom.

Lesson for December 20.

Love is God's supreme gift. It was personified in the incarnation of Christ. Those whose lives have touched the Lord Jesus Christ will love.

An Oasis in the Desert

As we journey through the desert of this life there looms continually before us as a mirage an oasis where we may rest free from care and temptation; but as we proceed that blissful prospect recedes.

Our Heritage

Christ has left us with three things: a truth that brings freedom, a peace that brings contentment and defies the world, and a love that redeems the world.—Elbert Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fox spent Friday in the Magic City.

WEST CHILTON

Rain. But we can't complain after so much dry weather.

West Chilton can sure boast on the etremely large fat hogs to be butchered this season. We never saw finer ones.

We noted with interest Judge Reynolds's article on taxation in a recent Banner. It was worthy of attention. We congratulate the Commissioners Court in having such a thoughtful and far seeing presiding officer.

Mrs. Mary Glass Smith of Aliceville has been on an extended visit here to her father, Mr. Sam Glass, near Randolph, and her brothers, Charles and Tom, at Jemison; also Mrs. Hubbard and their relatives here.

Paul Bean of Providence has located on Mrs. Belle Hubbard's farm.

Hon. A. A. Jackson's article clipped from the Birmingham Post has aroused more than passing interest. We have heard it attended to in both pulpit and Sunday school.

Hugh Waldrop, Mr. Hatcher, and Paul Dawson have returned from a visit to the oil fields in East Texas. They found hard times there, too.

Floyd and Grady Nix will move back on their old home place.

Mr. J. H. Jackson's article on prophecy seemes to be very well founded—In close harmony with other prophetic writers of our day.

Fonza Hilyer will move to the John Merchant old home.

We would be glad to know that everybody would have a pleasant Christmas and happy New Year; enjoying health, peace, and happiness. "Peace on earth, good will to men." The herald angels brought good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, rich and poor, learned and unlearned, civilized and heathen, the living and the dead.

ARTHUR-MADDOX WEDDNG IS AN INTERESTING EVENT

Thorsby, Ala., Dec. 19.—Only a few intimate friends witnessed the prety home wedding of Miss Odie Lee Arthur, of Midland City, and Herman Rascoe Maddox, of Thorsby.

The wedding took place at the home of Mrs. H. M. Gerald, of Thorsby, at 6 a. m., Friday, the Rev. E. W. Butler officiating.

The house was decorated with smilax and holly and white tapers burned in silver candelabra.

The bride and groom entered alone, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, with Mrs. V. H. Sutlive at the piano.

The double ring ceremony was used.

The bride wore a blue romaine suit with accessories to match. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mrs. Ada F. Arthur, of Midland City. She is a graduate of Thorsby Institute High School and has done graduate work at Troy Normal School and Bowling Green Business College.

She has taught in the public schools of Alabama and is at present office secretary and business teacher at Thorsby Institute, which position she has held nearly five years.

The groom is a graduate of Thorsby Institute, Piedmont College, Demorest, Georgia, and is working on his M. A. Degree at the University of North Carolina. He is a very successful English teacher at Thorsby Institute, which position he has occupied for over seven years.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Maddox left for a short trip in Southern Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana and will be at home after January 1 at Thorsby, Alabama.

Thorsby will have an illuminated Christmas tree this year, it stands in the parkway just across from the I. G. A. Thanks from the community are due to Mrs. J. E. Each for working up the idea and to C. C. Peterson for seeing that it was carried out.

Merry Christmas to all.

Complete Turkey Dinner on Christmas Day, 50c.—The Bir-Mont Cafe, Thorsby, Ala.

Suprem Court Rules in Chiropractic and Osteopath Case

Any person undertaking to treat diseases of human beings in Alabama whether that person professes to be a doctor, surgon, osteopath, chiropractor, or what not, must first, under the law, obtain a certificate of qualification from the State Board of Medical Examiners, it was held by the Supreme Court of Alabama last Thursday, in reviewing and remanding the case of the State vs. E. B. Higbee, appealed from Baldwin County. It represents a proceeding instituted by Solicitor Leonard S. Biggs on direction of the circuit judge, to exclude Higbee from treating or offering to treat diseases of human beings by some system of treatment, without first obtaining a certificate of qualification from the State Board of Medical Examiners. On trial of the action, judgment was rendered in favor of the defendant, and the solicitor appealed.

It is set out in the opinion of the supreme court in the case, which was written by Justice James E. Knight, the State requested, at the conclusion of the evidence, that the jury be charged that if its members believed the evidence, it was to find the defendant guilty. The trial court refused to give this charge, and the refusal constituted reversible error, it was ruled.

Without dispute, the opinion states, if Higbee fell within the class of persons who must secure certificates of qualification from the State Board before doing the acts charged, the general charge as requested by the State should have been given, "for occasionally the appellee had no such certificate."

The opinion then briefly reviews testimony by several of Higbee's patients whom he treated for various physical ills, using massage, hot towells, a certain well known preparation for colds in one instance, and an electrical apparatus of some sort. Higbee, it appears, applied a course of treatment of which he, himself, was the originator.

In disposing of the question presented, Justice Knight points out that the statute requiring the examination of persons undertaking to treat diseases of human beings, is broad and comprehensive and covers every form of treatment. "It may be, and is, conceded that appellee, is no doctor, that he is no chiropractor and that he condemns the practice; that he is no surgeon, that he is no osteopath," the opinion states. "The statute does not include only such classes, but reaches out and includes persons who would treat the ills of human beings by any system whatsoever," and is all-inclusive where any system of care is offered to relieve human diseases.

The conclusion of the high court, in reversing and remanding the case was that the verdict of the jury is contrary to the great weight of the evidence, and that the trial court should have, on motion of the State, set the verdict aside.—Montgomery Advertiser.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PARDON OR PAROLE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will make application for pardon or parole.

The applicant was convicted of a charge of violating the prohibition law at the February 17, 1931 term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County; fined $100, for which a sentence of 30 days hard labor was imposed; also 71 days hard labor for the court cost; and three months hard labor for additional punishment—Charlie Mims. 12-24-2p.

OVERALLS AND PRINT DRESSES ARE WORN TO GEORGIA CHURCH

Trion, Ga., Dec. 20.—Overalls and cotton print dresses have been made the official church-going garb of a congregation here. The Rev. Fred H. Hay, of the Trion Methodist Church, wears the blue denim vestments in the pulpit. In his sermon last Sunday he urged their adoption by all who attended the church. Most of them already had done so.

Church officers started the movement in an effort to avoid embarrassing any members whose circumstances, have been so reduced by economic conditions that they cannot afford the usual silks and woolens.

Mr. Edwin Mullins is spending Christmas a home.

THOSE WHO DEMAND A RIDE MUST PAY THE FARE

The honest debt-paying citizens of Alabama are urged to vote for a continuance of the three and a half mill tax authorized by the Constitution of 1901, to provide for the payment of this old debt so that a fund may be created to pay the interest and principal of the new debts of $2,690,000, which have been created since the date of the Constitution of 1901.

As the continuance of the three and a half mill tax must be by an Amendment to the same Constitution that authorized its levy, this could not be done by a vote of the people of Mobile alone, but had to be by a vote of the entire state.

While the funds necessary to pay the interest and principal of the old debt have nearly been accumulated, the people of Mobile (not a carpet-bag government) by their votes have created a new debt for school buildings, additional docks, fire alarm, hospital improvements, Central Fire Station, library and incinerators, amounting in the aggregate to $2,670,000, upon which the annual interest charge is $133,500. The interest and principal of this new debt cannot be paid out of the seven and a half mills authorized by the Constitution of 1901 to pay the expenses of the City government, and there must be some other provision for these funds or a default in their payment is inevitable.

Default means costs, penalties, loss of credit and embarrassment to Mobile, which would injure the credit of other Alabama cities.

INTERESTS NOW OPPOSING THE MOBILE AMENDMENT WERE AMONG THE STRONGEST IN ADVOCATING THE EXPENDITURES FOR PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS WHICH MADE THE AMENDMENT NECESSARY.

Vote for the Mobile Amendment January 5, and permit Mobile to continue to be an honest debt-paying city

JUDGE G. F. SMOOT DIED ON MONDAY

Circuit Judge Of This District Buried At Wetumpka Tuesday

Judge George Fiztgerald Smoot, of Wetumpka, one of the best known and most outstanding circuit judges in Alabama, died at a Montgomery hospital about five o'clock Monday morning, December 28th, following a brief illness. Judge Smoot, who was 47 years old, had served continuously as judge of the nineteenth judicial circuit since 1922. His circuit was composed of Autauga, Chilton and Elmore Counties.

Born in Wetumpka April 28, 1884, a son of Richard Smoot and Cora Lacy Smoot, he graduated from the Wetumpka High School in 1903. Later he received his law degree from the University of Alabama. On July 9, 1910, while deputy clerk of the circuit court, he was admitted to the practice of law. Thereafter he served for some time as city attorney for Wetumpka.

In 1922 he was elected circuit judge, and at the expiration of his term was re-elected without opposition. He was an active member of the Baptist Church, and a leader in other public as well as civic affairs. He was a Mason, a member of the Knights of Pythias and of the Woodmen of the World.

Taken ill at his home in Wetumpka on Christmas eve, Judge Smoot was carried to a hospital in Montgomery for treatment. He failed to rally, however, and his strength slowly ebbed until his passing during the early hours of Monday morning.

Surviving him are his widow, one son, George F. Smoot, Jr., two daughters, Miss Ethel and Miss Cora Reid Smoot, all of Wetumpka; one brother, Richard Smoot, of Birmingham; two sisters, Mrs. Lettie Law, of Wetumpka; and Mrs. Tom Edwards, of Montgomery.

Funeral was held at the First Baptist Church in Wetumpka Tuesday morning. Burial was in Wetumpka cemetery.

TIPPETT-GREER WEDDING

Mr. Bill Tippett and Miss Alma Greer were married last Thursday night. Their many friends extend to them best wishes for a happy life together.

CLARENCE R. LECROY, JR.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Lecroy of Savannah, Georgia, announce the birth of a son, Clarence Rudolph, Jr., on December 21st. Mrs. Lecroy will be remembered as Miss Cleo Roebuck, formerly of Chilton County.

REYNOLDS REUNION

The Reynolds brothers and sisters and their wives and husbands held a reunion at Mrs. Mollie Moore's Tuesday, December 29th, and the following were present: L. H. Reynolds and wife, Dora Reynolds; W. A. Reynolds and wife, Sudie Reynolds; C. W. Reynolds and wife, Carry Reynolds; Frank Reynolds and wife, Addie Reynolds; S. J. Reynolds and wife, Eula Reynolds; W. S. Moore and wife, Mrs. Mollie Moore; Richard Letcher and wife, Laura Letcher, and Acie Langston and wife, Lela Langston.

Miss Ruby Eiland returned to her home in Montgomery Wednesday, after spending the holidays with relatives here.

A NICE CALENDAR FOR YOUR SCHOOL AT BANNER OFFICE

The Union-Banner has a few nice 1932 calendars, which it wishes to place in every school in the county. The calendar has a large picture of George Washington and is in commenoration of the birthday of the Father of our Country. 1932 is the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington and 1932 is the 40th birthday of The Union-Banner. The Union-Banner is one-fifth as old as George Washington would have been had he lived until now.

We would like for someone—either a teacher or pupil—from every school in the county to call by our office within the next few days and get one of these calendars, and take it and hang it up in your school. When you come for one of these calendars, please give your name and the name of your school, so that no schools will be duplicated.

REVIVAL BEGINS JANUARY THIRD

Dr. E. C. Miller, Of Indiana, Will Preach At The Courthouse

Plans are rapidly going forward for the Bob Jones revival that is to begin on Sunday night, January 3rd. Many cottage prayer meetings are being held in different sections of Clanton and Chilton County and committees are being appointed to take charge of the work of the revival campaign. A choir will be organized from he local talent, and oood music will be furnished from the first service. Dr. E. C. Miller, of South Bend, Ind., will arrive in the city on January 2, and will be in readiness for the campaign which is to begin the following day. All the local churches will have their morning services, but will unite in a big union service at night.

The place of the meeting will be at the courthouse. Should the auditorium of the courthouse be taxed chairs will be furnished and seating provided. It is expected that the meeting will be county-wide and that during the period there will be many visitors from every section of the county. The money question is not to be emphasized, but a strong appeal will be made for men and women to give themselves to God. The is a meeting for the people, and it is hoped that it will result in much good.

NOW IS GOOD TIME TO WORK TELEPHONE LINES

The Board of Directors of the Peoples Telephone Company calls the attention of all phoneholders to the necessity of rebuilding their lines. At this season of the year people are not busy at anything else much, and it is an ideal time to get their telephone lines in shape.

Phoneholders on all lines are urged to get together some day soon and all pitch in and have an old-time working on their line. The directors on each line get busy and call all your phoneholders together and make preparation for this working. If you haven't the money to pay your fee with, fix up your line anyway, so that you can talk to your neighbors and so that other people can call you when they want you. We know money is scarce, but anyone can spare a few hours, or even a few days work on your lines. You can't afford to be without your phone.—Jesse Baker, president; Jas. M. Robinson, J. P. Jackson, E. H. Mims, T. E. Wyatt, directors.

OPINIONS OF CHARLES COOPER ON COMMISSIONERS AND SCHOOL BOARD

Says County Officials Doing All They Can To Better Conditions. Doesn't Fancy Hoover Nor Miller

Editor Union-Banner:

In as much as it has been several moons since we have seen anything in the way of a write-up from down in this end of the county I feel somewhat prompted to say a few words in the way of answers and compliments to the letters in the Chilton County News of last week written by Mr. A. A. Jackson, Mr. Howard Roper and Judge Reynolds.

Mr. Jackson tells us that the whole nation is now mourning by reason of wicked rule, not only the nation as a whole, but even every county in the State of Alabama. When you take in every county of course that includes the dear old county of Chilton.

I am not so strong on the Hoover administration, neither do I fancy the Meek Miller regime, but when it gets down to our own county officials I really believe that they are conscientious in their labors and further that they are in full sympathy with these trying times and that they are doing all they possible can do to make things better for every citizen of Chilton County.

I do not consider our county officials as being infallable, and it is possible for them to make a mistake once in a while, but I do believe that they purpose to do the right thing.

The Judge who is chairman of the County Board of Commissioners seems to be doing all he can in an official way to help the people, also as a private citizen he is offering to do his part.

I really think that we should feel proud of our board of commissioners and not look upon them as being among those whom you would consider "wicked."

Brother Roper seems to give the school board quite a rap, especially Mr. Lawrence.

It seems that Mr. Roper is under the impression that the school bus jobs are being used as a political machine, in answer to this allegation will say that I have been in the board meetings when these jobs were let. The bids were publicly read and the contracts were let to the lowest bidders regardless as to how the bidder voted. I saw the jobs go to men who voted opposite.

I failed to see anything of a political nature connected with it.

Now, about the consolidated schools. It seems to me that the school board is trying its best to satisfy the school patrons. I am not so hot on consolidated schools for the small children. I believe that we get better results for the small children in the one- and two-teacher schools. I might add right here that we have a one-teacher school and we believe that we have the best school in the state.

It was suggested that we consolidate with the big school at Verbena. But we told the school board that we preferred our own school and of course the board let us have it.

If a majority of the school patrons in Mr. Roper's community want their school back home instead of consolidating with some large school I fully believe our school board will let them have it. I feel confident that our school board will do all they can to serve the people in a satisfactory way.

My personal dealings with our school board, including Mr. Lawrence, have been entirely satisfactory, and it seems that each of them displayed a personal interest in our school. So, I do not think that we should blame our County Commissioners and School Board with this world-wide depression.

Next week we will have the Mobile election. Folks, it seems that the City Commissioners down there wish to levy taxes upon the property owners without giving them the right to vote on it. To me it seems that it is nothing short of "taxation without representation." Down this way we are going to vote against it, and I am hoping that the people of Chilton County will show by their ballot that they are in sympathy with the tax payers of the City of Mobile. I thank you.—Charles Cooper.

SCHOOL CHILDREN MADE HAPPY

Prof. Quinn reported that the children of the Clanton Grammar School left for their Christmas holidays last Wednesday with happy hearts, due to the kindness of Mr. Mell Martin and James Carl. Mr. Martin is chairman of the board of trustees and James Carl is a student at the school. Together they presented and distributd apples and oranges to every boy and girl in school.

The sxith grade class, in charge of Miss Bess Thomas, made some happy hearts among the students when they gave away thireten play toys to as many boys and girls of the school. These toys had been gathered and repaired by the school students. They included scooters, tricycles, dolls, toy guns, etc.

Miss Inez Parrish, of Birmingham, spent last Sunday with relatives and friends in Clanton.

FRESH CABBAGE ARE ON THE MARKET

Fresh grown Chilton County cabbage were on the market in Clanton for Christmas. Mr. C. J. Patterson, near Verbena, was in town with a load of them. He stated that he has a half acre of these fine cabbage which he is now placing on the market.

The absence of frost or freezes so far this winter has made it possible for fruits and vegtables to grow steadily without interruption. So far this has been a very unusual winter for this climate. There has been only light frost in scattered areas, and no freezes at all. Cotton stalks are now in bloom with the second crop. Ripe tomatoes have been brought in during the last week. Fresh beans from home gardens were on the tables at Christmas dinner.

Barrett Ingram, well-known citizen of Coosa County, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

MOBILE MUST PAY COSTS OF ELECTION

Gov. Miller has advised all probate judges in Alabama, in a telegram dispatched to each one yesterday, that the election on January 5, when the proposed constitutional amendment will be submitted which would authorize the City of Mobile to apply the returns from a three and a half mills tax already in effect, to the retirement of outstanding bonded indebtedness, is to be held at the expense of Mobile.

In his telegram the Governor stated the election must be held in each precinct on the date indicated, and that the law provides that Mobile pay the election cost. Instructions are given in the message to hold the election and pay the expenses in the usual way, then send a statement of the expenses to the State Auditor, adding that when Mobile pays the State, the State will pay the counties.

FIDDLERS MEET HERE TONIGHT

American Legion Will Sponsor Convention At Courthouse Tonight

Plans are complete for the biggest fiddlers convention of all time to be pulled off at the courthouse in Clanton tonight, Thursday, December 31st, beginning at 7 o'clock. The occasion has been arranged under auspices of Chilton County Post of the American Legion.

The arrangements committee, headed by J. E. Gore, announces that everything is in readiness. Every fiddler in Central Alabama is invited to come and take part in the musical contests. A long list of prizes awaits the musicians who take part. Prizes have been donated by the business houses of Clanton.

The American Legion cordially invites the public to attend. Every effort has been made to assure a good program. The fiddlers who have already signified their intention of coming makes it certain that there will be plenty of fine music to entertain the listeners. Admission charges will be only 10 cents for children and 20 cents for grown folks. Come and tell your friends to come.

ARRESTS DURING THE WEEK

The population of the Chilton County jail reached a new high peak during Christmas time, the highest number behind the bars at one time being 28. It had fallen to 16 on Wednesday morning.

The Sheriff's office reports arrests during the week as follows: 1 for vagrancy; 1 for manufacturing liquor and possession of still; 3 for violating prohibition law; 1 for grand larceny; 2 for assault; 1 for public drunkenness and resisting officer.

City policeman, Billy Foshee, assisted by county deputies, made a raid on a poker game one night during Christmas, in which they took in six negroes and one white man. One of the negroes in the game was found to have an ice pick concealed under his coat. He was fined $50 and cost in Mayor's court. The other negroes were fined $7.50 and cost. The white man will have his trial on January 11th.

IT GOT HERE WEDNESDAY

Our Christmas watermelon got here in time for New Year's Day. Clay Moates, of Verbena, Route 2, brought it in Wednesday morning. He said he found it in the field one day this week while gathering corn.

FARM INCOME IS OFF ONE MILLION

Farmers Have Sufficient Feed To Make A Crop Next Year

Alabama farmers lost, in falling prices mainly, $100,000,000 in the last two crop years, the loss being about equally divided between the two crop seasons, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician.

The final estimate of 1931 crop production gives the aggregate value of 24 crops in the state at $85,398,000. "Last year these same crops were valued at $135,871,000 and in 1929 at $185,651,000," Gist said.

These figures do not include the value of livestock produced, income from forest products off the farm, nor the value of gardens for home consumption. "If these items should be taken in proportion to former years, the probable cash received in 1931, including all farm commodities, was about $73,000,000, compared with $172,000,000 in 1929 and $118,000,000 in 1930," Gist continued.

"It is obvious, therefore, that the returns in cash from the last two crop seasons have left the Alabama farmer without money to pay his debts, his taxes, to buy clothing and to send his children to school.

"In so far as feed and food supplies are concerned the year just closed has been peculiarly favorable. Barring slight deficiencies in distribution, farmers will have sufficient food and feed on which to make a crop next year if they do not sacrifice it to obtain cash. They will, however, have to be carried for much of their indebtedness and will have difficulty in paying taxes. They will also have to go in debt again for clothing supplies, fertilizers and other necessities which they may be compelled to buy."

FRESH TOMATOES CHRISTMAS EVE

Mr. E. E. Porter of Route 4 was in Clanton Christmas Eve. He brought to town a basket of ripe tomatoes which he gathered from his garden, and sold them to the market here. This is a good way to raise Christmas money. Many of our farmers could live better if they would raise more stuff to sell all along.

FIRE IN CLANTON ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Not a few people in Clanton were forced to defer the turkey feast for a few minutes on Christmas Day. Just as the hour for dinner arrived, off went the fire siren. A blaze had broken out in the Carter Electric Shop.

The city fire fighters came to the rescue in their customary prompt and efficient manner, and everything was soon ready to return to the turkey and dressing.

Considerable damage was done by the combination of a little fire, a lot of smoke, and plenty of water. It is thought the fire was started by the battery charging machine.

Big Picture Next Week

"Her Unborn Child," Famous Talking Picture, Will Be At Wadesonian Theatre Here January 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th

Widespread interest has been aroused by the announcement of the Wadesonian Theatre that the management has secured one of the prize talking pictures of the year in the booking of "Her Unborn Child," which will begin a special engagement on January 5th, and continue through the 8th.

As a stage play "Her Unborn Child" has thrilled millions of playgoers for the past ten years, including its run of one year at the Eltinge and Forty-Eighth Street Theatres in New York City. The pungent dialog, uncoventional situations, delightful comedy interludes and smashing dramatic power which startled legitimate theatre audiences has been carefully preserved in the talking picture version, produced by Windsor Picture Plays, Inc., and recorded by De Forest Talkie System.

The touchingly human story of a boy and girl in love, forgetting everything else, presents one of the most unusual subjects yet selected for the talking screen, and "Her Unborn Child" will afford patrons of the Wadesonian Theatre many breathless moments during the unfolding of its moving drama. Originally written by Howard McKent Barnes, the dialog version for picture audiences has been prepared by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, and directed by Al Ray, responsible for several successful Fox films.

The talkie of the famous stage play presents a cast of unusual merit, rceruited in the main from the ranks of Broadway stars, among them being Adele Ronson, Harry Davenport, Frances Underwood, Pauline Drake and Elisha Cook, Jr.

Two Things Necessary

Some Sound Advice Given To Those Who Live On The Farms Of Our Country, By Covington County Editor

Clarence Poe, writing in the Progressive Farmer, says there are two things absolutely necessary to the future welfare of the American farmer. He outlines as first the importance of organization which will enable farm families in every community to come together, say, twice a month, work together, learn to know and trust one another, and develop a higher degree of acquaintance, neighborliness, fellowship and comradeship. The other essential thing, says this writer, is the cultivation of the highest quality of character in our boys and girls, young men and women. The writer continues:

"To this end I know nothing more important than the maintenance and strengthening of the country church and Sunday school. Once a man acquired the habit of regular contact with these agencies of the higher life, he comes to think of them as furnishing the salt of human existence. When he must miss the weekly meeting of men and women at the church it is as he were missing salt in his food. Even if one learned nothing from the preacher, church service would nevertheless be worth while simply because it brings together boys and girls, men and women, under wholesome and ennobling influences, and constantly reminds us of those standards of conduct and character which the church still holds up as a beacon light to humanity. Though the creed of no denomination may exactly suit us, some church should have our influence and support."—Covington News.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

In dwelling on the world-wide depression and the national emergency it has brought to the people of the United States, President Hoover said in his recent message to Congress:

"Many vital changes and movements of vast proportions are taking place in the economic world. The effect of these changes upon the future cannot be seen clearly as yet. Of this, however, we are sure: our system, based upon the ideals of individual initiative and of equality of opportunity, is not an artificial thing. Rather it is the outgrowth of the experience of America, and expresses the faith and spirit of our people. It has carried us in a century and a half to leadership of the economic world.

"If our economic system does not match our highest expectations at all times, it does not require revolutionary action to bring it into accord with any necessity that experience may prove. It has successfully adjusted itself to changing conditions in the past. It will do so again. The mobility of our institutions, the richness of our resources and the abilities of our people enable us to meet them unafraid."

This observation on the American system, based on our constitutional government is a very timely one. In these days of great trouble and stress we are hearing a great deal about the "break-down" of the modern economic system and of the American constitutional government. As usual in times of great doubt there are agitators abroad in the land and so-called leaders suggesting an entire change in the fundamental structure of our government. That these suggestions are not only fallacious, but in many cases dangerous, goes without question. We have done pretty well during the century and a half of our existence as a nation, under our constitutional system. It is of course not perfect, nothing designed by human hands ever is. But under it we have grown from a scattered chain of thirteen feeble colonies strung along the Atlantic coast, to a nation which is potentially at least the richest and the most powerful in the world.

All of this did not happen by accident. It was due entirely to our wealth of natural resources. The inspiration did not come altogether from the invigorating breezes of the new world, but in a major part from the constitutional government under which we have been functioning, a system which, as the President well says, is based on "the ideals of individual initiative and of equality of opportunity." There may be better systems of government for free people than that designed by the founders of the Republic, but it is only fair to say that up to this time they have not been discovered and put into operation. During our generations of constitutional government we have developed in two great political parties leaders skilled in the functioning of representative government, and developed through the inspiration of individual initiative.

Is it reasonable to believe then, that in a time of great trouble like the present, when there is pessimism and depression in every land in the world, that we could gain anything by casting aside the constitutional government under which we have developed so rapidly, and turning to some new scheme with untried leaders, who are actuated not, as they tell us, by a desire to do something for the people, but by purely selfish motives, and the lust for power? For it is an undoubted fact that deeply buried within every one of these revolutionary leaders is the inborn desire to become a dictator. After all the root of most evil in the world is not the love of money but the love of power, and the man who spends the greater part of his life hoarding money and piling up riches does it not so much for the love of gold as for the desire of the power which the gold gives him.

With the new year approaching, therefore, it might be well to pause for a moment, sum up the blessings which have come to us as individuals and as a people, through the heritage of American constitutional government, and resolve to see that the foundations of this government are not further weakened by the borers from within, no matter how innocent the program of these borers may appear on the surface.

WHEN THE DAY OF RETRIBUTION COMES—

"Friday of last week a New York banker was sentenced to serve eight years in a federal prison. The institution of which he was the responsible head was founded by his grandfather 80 years ago. For three-quarters of a century the bank flourished. Its success would have been impossible if its policies had not been sound and its affairs administered by honest men. Intelligence and honesty are essential to the success of any enterprise. The bank might have continued in operation indefinitely if those in charge had striven to fashion their lives after the moral code observed by the bank's founders. But it seems they did not. The senior partner pleaded guilty to charges growing out of the $5,000,000 failure. More than a score of small depositors were in the courtroom when the accused man was sentenced. They hissed him and shook their fists at him. They had been told that only about 20 per cent of their savings would be salvaged from the wreckage. Little wonder that the man who had once enjoyed their respect and confidence had become in their eyes a thing despised. For him the day of retribution had come.

While the New York banker was listening to the sentence being pronounced upon him, another man who had flouted the moral and statutory law and been trapped, was on the witness stand in a city far distant fighting to save his neck. He had an illicit love affair with a woman, and ended their trysts by killing her paramour. The man had enjoyed advantages. He was a husband and a father, but seems to have forgotten all about wife and child in his own selfish pursuits. Silly love letters written by him were read in open court, letters which show what a fool a man can make of himself with a little assistance from a woman. The woman killer on trial was a member of a college faculty. Since his sin found him out he has been discharged. While his wife, with the loyalty of a good woman, is standing by him in court, it is inconceivable that she can ever again hold him in high esteem or great confidence. He left that courtroom a creature scorned by decent men and women. His day of retribution has dawned.

There lived in the seventeenth century a German poet named Friedrich von Logau. His poems are not as widely read as they deserve to be, but one brief effusion has won universal recognition, because it is both an admonition and a judgment. If "Retribution's" warning had been heeded by the bank wrecker and the woman killer in the first hour of temptation, they would have been saved. But now they must accept it as a judgment upon their lives, and they know.

"Though the mills of God grind slowly,
Yet they grind exceedingly small;
Though with patience He stands waiting,
With exactness grinds He all."

The MAN in the MOON

Looks Over All—
Overlooks None.

Are We Prepared?—Much is being said and written these days on the subject of preparedness. It has been said that, although the United States has never lost a war, yet their wars have been the costliest of any country in history for the reason that they were not prepared when war time came, and that preparing in a hurry was costlier than it would have been if extended over a longer period of time. Recent disclosures show that all nations have been carrying on under-cover preparedness measures, while the face of things showed that more peaceful thoughts were being indulged in. Some claim that we should cut down our preparedness program, while others think we should strengthen it. Let's apply a little sound reasoning to the question. Uncle Sam is by far the richest in the world, and that naturally makes the nation a target for any nation bent on plunder. If a man is known to carry quite a sum of money on his person, and that man happens to be of small build, and a little weak, he might naturally expect to be attacked. But if that man is a big, burly fellow and able to take care of himself, and this fact is well known, his would-be assailants would be very much more particular and much slower about starting the scrap. In other words, an unprepared nation may expect to be called upon to defend itself almost any time, while a well-prepared nation may rest assured that its known strength will save it many such troubles. Unpreparedness is the biggest cause of wars. Viewed in this manner, unpreparedness costs money and lives, while preparedness costs only money. Then which is the better national policy? Isn't it better to be prepared, no matter what it cost in money, and so keep war from our national door, than to be unprepared and be forced to spend that preparedness money for guns and ammunition and sacrifice the lives of the young men of the nation in war in addition? Preparedness costs money; unpreparedness ultimately costs money and lives.

Let's Start The Ball—In a recent editorial line, the Detroit News is quoted thus: "Ten more years hence, when you say 'A dollar went farther in those days,' you'll mean these days. Buy now." I think that a very sensible suggestion. I heard a fellow say a few days ago that business was hanging on a balanced point, like a dead pendulum waiting for someone to start it swinging. And you have often gone out in the snow, balled up a little snowball, and started it rolling down a hill, and noticed it pick up more snow, unti you coudn't push it around. Let's start the old business ball to rolling! What do you say?

Calling The Pot Black—You who read your Eible will recall reading of an occasion when Christ was listening to a bunch of hypocrites as they set forth to him the sins of a certain woman who was about to be stoned for those sins. He was asked as to His opinion of what punishment should be meted out to her. Remember his advice?—"Let him who is first among you, without sin, cast the first stone." This little incident was brought to mind by all the condemnation being hurled at President Hoover and his policies at this time. Looks like some of the wise guys with bright ideas would advance a few of them and let others see if any of them would work. Has the kettle any reason to call the pot black? I think the editor of the Austrian paper, published in Vienna, Austria, was about right when he published the following: "Some statesmen think they can divert the world's attention from their own failures by pointing out those of Herbert Hoover." Who said "Hoover Prosperity?"

Start At The Heart—One night last week I listened to a talk by some big gun from up around Washington as he spattered oratory all over the country by way of the radio. He was talking on some of the big problems of the day, and, for the biggest part, I think his ideas were just about as impractical as I ever listened to. But there was one thing he said that was true and good, if none of the rest of his speech was. He said: "To rebuild American business on a sound basis, we must begin at the heart and work out. If an automobile builder sets out to build a good rar, he must first build a good engine for it, and then build the rest of his car around that engine of a quality to match it. No matter how fine a body he puts on; no matter how good a frame he builds to support his car; no matter how fine a running gear, etc., he puts into his car, if his engine is not one which will take and keep on taking punishment and still deliver the power faultlessly, then his product is a flop. If a person has good eyes, good ears, a perfectly working brain, strong and leathery muscles; and all these be supported by a weak heart, that man cannot be depended upon, because that weak heart may fail in the pinch and render all these other good parts useless." I don't think I have ever heard such a question explained in a better manner. To rebuild soundly and solidly for the years to come, we must find some basis upon which to build other than that we have used in the past. It has failed to keep step with modern times, and has proved itself wholly obsolete and inadequate.

Had Your Blood Tested Lately?—Just to keep in line with the general run of people who are a little inclined to gripe, and yet get a kick out of it, I'm asking all my friends a question. Have you had your blood tested lately? Now, I know you will be wondering why I'm asking that question. Well, here goes—and it's a good one, too, and the best I've heard lately. One day last week a man started to dinner, and as he left he shot this one at us: "Well, I'm going after my peas. I've eaten so many peas this year that lately I had my blood tested, and what do you suppose the doctor said?—he reported my blood as being 98 per cent pea soup." How's that?

Glimpses—Lot's of people carrying apples, oranges and candy—Merry Christmas. "Red" Atkinson, a paper salesman, drops in—now for the latest gag—and "Red" knows lots of them, too. I see several fellows gathered around a thermometer—65 in the shade, warm. There goes the fire siren—some even on the day after Christmas—plenty old fireman has said the way to get people in the street is to let somebody start a fire—truer words were never spoken. Everybody seems happy and contented—who said hard times? There is a young pup lying in a 'tater patch and gnawing at the cork in a pint bottle—maybe he hasn't heard of the 18th amendment yet—careless pup; he WILL hear about it. Happy New Year to you all—and lots uv 'em!—Man in the Moon.

YOU AND YOUR DEBTS—

Recently Clarence Roberts of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman gave this advice to debtors: "No farmer should permit his creditors to push him for payment, one at a time, trying to work out of his situation by putting off each in turn. Beat them to it. A policy of frankness is always best. For his won peace of mind, if for no other reason, every man with more debts than he can at once pay should make out a list of all his obligations, work out a plan that will enable him to stay on his farm, and submit that plan to each creditor in turn. The average creditor will appreciate such a businesslike way of handling the problem. Only a few will refuse to cooperate."

The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist reprints this advice and makes the following comment:

"These suggestions simply square with accepted principles of honest business dealing. They present the only practical, indeed the only honest, way to handle the problem of indebtedness when payments are due that cannot be met promptly. If a creditor is convinced of the absolute sincerity of the man who owes him money and that payment cannot be made without forcing undue hardship, the attitude in many cases will be one of helpfulness. On the other hand let a debtor start dodging and he is in for hard handling. Pay up if you can. If you can't, don't dodge. Absolute frankness is indeed the best policy.

"A little common honesty and courage in handling debts will produce a very fine crop of self respect. In times like these it is doubtless well enough to remind ourselves of these age old virtues that form the fundamentals of good character."

THE NEW TEXAS COTTON ACREAGE LAW—

An explanation of the new Texas acreage reduction law is given in The Progressive Farmer-Ruralist as follows:

"The cotton acreage reduction law recently enacted by the Texas Legislature and signed by Governor Sterling makes it unlawful for any farmer to plant during the year of 1932 more than 30 per cent of his 1931 cultivated land in cotton. During 1933 only 30 per cent of the 1932 cultivated land may be planted to cotton. After 1933, cotton must not be planted on the same land any two years in succession.

"The law defines cultivated land as land on which crops are planted or cultivated annually. It excludes, for instance, broadcast sweet clover, one of our best soil building crops, since it is sowed only once every two years an dit not cultivated annually.

"A fine of not less than $25 and not more than $100 for each acre of cotton planted in violation of the law is provided. Complaints may be filed by any citizen, and it is the duty of the county or district attorney to file injunction proceedings in the county in which hte violation occurs. Upon an appeal to a higher court injunctions are not to be suspended except upon the execution of a bond for double the minimum amount of the penalty. The fines are to be paid into the road and bridge fund of the county, after allowing 10 per cent as fees for attorneys representing the state.

"In reporting lands for taxation, the farmer is to swear to the number of acres in cultivation the year immediately preceding and also the number of these acres on which cotton was grown."

LET'S NOT BLAME COTTON—

Some of our friends wish us to reprint the following parody which is now going the rounds of the press:

"Cotton, thou art my shepard, and I am in want.
pasture; thou hast destroyed my credit; thou pasture; thou hast destriyed my credit; thou hast led me into the paths of poverty, liens, lawsuits, and near nakedness.

"Thou hast destroyed my soul and my happiness.

"Thou hast caused me to go to a banker with my hat under my arm and mortgage the muscle and produce of my farm.

"Thou hast caused me to live in a rented house in full view of the moon while stars come twinkling through the cracks.

"Thou preparest a naked back and an empty stomach for me in the presence of my friends.

"Thou anointest my head with ignorance, superstition, poverty, and unpaid accounts. How can I trust thee?

"Thou hast kept my children out of school, church, and society, thereby robbing them of that which is good and noble, elevating and refining.

"Thou hast caused me to go to the barn and bring out the old fertilizer sacks and ask by wife to make me a shirt.

"Now, behold, I stand amidst my friends in my new shirt with these inscriptions in full view: '18 per cent acid phosphate' on the breast and '12-4-4' on the tail!"

We are glad to gartify these readers who wish to see this denunciation of cotton passed on to other readers. And yet we do not propose doing so without adding that cotton rightly handled, is one of the best money crops on earth.

It is the South's abuse of cotton and not our proper use of cotton that has brought us where we are. We ought to use cotton by making it play its proper part in a general farming system designed to support us—the sort of farming system set forth in our "Progresive Farmer-Ruralist Platform" as follows:

"Full gardens, corncribs, smokehouses, and feed barns to insure a good living at home.—"Plus at least two money crops and—"An important cash income from cows, hogs, or hens."

You can make a useful horse into a useless horse by piling on his back such a tremendous load that he can't stand up under it and so has to lie down and do nothing.

That's what we have done in the case of the South's great money crop. But let's blame ourselves and not cotton. We can make cotton extremely useful if we change from "One-Armed Farming" with its dependence on crops alone to "Two-Armed Farming" which properly combines animal production and plant production. For cotton can then furnish us both an invaluable money crop from its lint and an invaluable feed crop for livestock from its seed.

The abuse of cotton has tremendously hurt us. The right use of cotton will tremendously help us.—The Progressive Farmer.

The next time Freddie Libby and his professional pacifists get an especially good bit of propaganda ready we suggest that they try it on Japan.

One way to help the cotton industry this year would be to compel all department store and street corner Santa Clauses to wear whiskers flowing down to their knees.

The Man on the Corner

Some Sights He Saw—
and Some He Saw Not.

Extra Week In This Year

This issue of The Union-Banner is the fifty-third of the year 1931. Ordinarily there are only fifty-two issues of the paper in a year. This year, therefore, you get one extra paper thrown in for good measure. A paper was printed on Thursday, the first day of 1931, and a paper is printed on Thursday, the last day of 1931. If you want a nice little problem to employ your mind for a while, figure out how often it will happen that there are 53 Thursdays in a year.

Death Of Judge Smoot

The untimely death of Judge George F. Smoot has brought genuine sorrow to a vast number of people of Chilton, Autauga, and Elmore counties, as well as other parts of the State where he was known. His passing from among us has left a vacancy in the judicial structure of our government which will hardly be filled again with the ability which he has shown. At the age of 47 years, Judge Smoot was cut down at a time when he ordinarily would be entering upon the period of his greatest usefulness and ability. Had he been a man of robust health and been permitted to run his race in life to a mature age, we might reasonably have expected to see him climb high in the ranks of our judiciary. We regret that fate has not given to him a longer opportunity to serve his state and his people in the noble manner he has shown himself capable of doing.

Ford Pictures Available

Pictures of the reception given the twenty-millionth Ford in Clanton have already come out. The first samples of the photographs arrived at Clanton Motors this week. All who desire one of these pictures for keeping can have it by leaving your name and address with the office of the Ford dealers.

Time For A New One

The A. & P. advertisement this week starts off with this significant statement: "The year is gone. Let him go. He wasn't a very good year, anyway. It's time we had a new one." This will doubtless express the sentiments of many of us. The year 1931 will live long in our memory as a time of the direst uncertainty in business. We haven't been able to make any money this year. But we have been given an opportunity to learn some lessons that will be of much benefit to us in the future. If prosperous times ever do come back, we will know how to behave ourselves better for having lived through 1931. Depression has taught us how to stand prosperity. All we lack now is the prosperity.

A Political Bomb Shell

William Hale Thompson, erstwhile Mayor of the great city of Chicago, has the following terse words to say about the impending nomination of Herbert Hoover as the Republican candidate for President next year:

Napolean said, "an army travels on its belly." My observations convince me that the American voter thinks more clearly on an empty stomach, and in the next election the empty stomachs are going to influence the American people to do some real thinking, and, as a result, they are going to cast their ballots, irrespective of party, for someone who will improve conditions and manage the affairs of this nation in the interest of the American people. To that end, I shall be a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention in the coming primaries, and shall oppose the nomination of President Hoover in this convention as I did in the last Republican convention in Kansas City where Hoover was nominated. May I suggest that other Americans do likewise in their Congressional Districts to prevent four years more of adversity.

More Fun Is Needed

In a recent speech before the Bessemer Kiwanis Club, Rev. L. F. Stansell, a Methodist minister, made some remarks which impressed me very much. I know Mr. Stansell personally. When I was a boy in high school, he was pastor of the Methodist Church in the town where the school was located. He had some boys in the same school with me. He was a real pal of his boys; in fact a real pal of all the boys in the town. He frequently visited the school. I visited the Stansell boys in their home occasionally.

Here Is What He Said:

"We are too serious now; folks are not having enough fun," he said. "We need to limber up and laugh and have fun. We need to be our normal selves. What difference does it make whether we have a lot of money in the bank or none at all. Life does not consist of the things we own. Easy times do not develop great men. It is in times of stress that great men are grown. Optimism is not an outward but an inward influence.

"The trouble with us, we don't half live. We want to keep ourselves good company for ourselves and we want to have faith in our friends, our town and our community. The man who says that the world is full of crooks has gone a long way down the line. There are lots of good people in the world and there would be more if they had some recognition."

Over in Basle, Switzerland, German financial experts are now arguing with British, American and French financial experts as to which kind of debts Germany will fail to pay first.

EDISON'S ADVICE TO FARM BOYS—

1. Science, skill, and knowledge are as usable on the farm as in the laboratory.
2. Experimenting is important on the farm as well as in the laboratory.
3. Nobody can succeed anywhere without hard work.

The late Thomas A. Edison stressed these three thoughts in a letter to farm boys written several years ago for The Progressive Farmer and reprinted in the current issue. In part Mr. Edison wrote:

"There is just as much chemistry and science to be explored in super-farming as in a chemical laboratory. Some day the superfarmer will be the banner citizen of the United States. I would say to the boys, however, that nothing in this world is ever accomplished except by experimenting and very hard work."

Use scientific knowledge, keep experimenting, work hard—Edison himself certainly practiced fully this philosophy. And he had faith, it will also be noted, that we shall develop a type of farmer who will become "the banner citizen of the United States."

THORSBY SECTION

(S. E. Norton, Manager)

Thorsby had a comunnity Christmas tree this year, a live one. The projectors used an evergreen growing in the park. Mrs. Each was the principal promoter, assisted by Astro Wright, who solicited the funds for equipment from merchants and other public spirited citizens. Messrs. W. F. Blood and W. H. Wilson did the wiring, and altogether the display was a credit to the town, which furnished the current. When lighted the tree makes an attractive display, and worthy of the effort to get it in operation, for which all good citizens of Thorsby say, thank you to all who helped in the work.

Christmas carols on Christmas Eve were put over in good shape, under the auspices of Mr. Butler's Sunday School class of young men, augmented by a lot of young folks from other Sunday Schools in town. We were informed there were eight automobiles, commandered to carry the singers, who made a pretty thorough canvass of the neighborhood, after most of the older folk and children were in bed. In fact at too late an hour for greetings from those who were serenaded.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg had as Christmas guests, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan and Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Amundson had their daughter and her husband, Mortimer Davidson, of Evanston, Ill., who arrived Thursday night and left Saturday.

Mr. Anna Phalin and Mr. Thomas Phalin of Tuscaloosa are spending the holidays with their relatives, the Howards.

Miss Jenkins, her mother, and the Misses Lois Leech and Onita Klingelhoefer, who were touring in Florida Christmas week, returned Saturday night, and went to Birmingham Sunday to attend services at the Community Congregational Church of which Rev. Dr. Mordicia is pastor.

Hollis Pate and wife of Corinth, Miss., and Roma Lee Pate were holiday guests at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pate. Miss Pate came from Henderson, Tenn., where she is attending college.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive, with Mr. Sutlive's mother, returned from a visit to friends in Blakely, Georgia, and had as Sunday dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith and Miss Fairbank.

Miss Fairbank entertained the A. T. Clark (Adult) Bible Class Monday night. Miss Fairbank has been the class teacher for some time.

Mrs. Frank Thompson spent Christmas week with her parents at Dadeville. Mr. Thompson went out there Friday and they returned Sunday night.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurel entertained the brothers and Mr. and Mrs. Love with Christine. We can assume that it was a season of joy for both old and young folks.

Miss Mary Nell Jones of Clanton is spending a few days with Miss Lois Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Howard entertained on Christmas Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Howard, also the Reynolds family of Jemison.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Laurell had as visitors during the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Crowell Whaley and children and Miss Saunders of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Laurel and Mr. and Mrs. George Laurel and little daughter from Alcon, Tennessee; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Moore and children of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurel of Thorsby. Fifteen in all, for Christmas dniner, the first time the family have all been together since 1914.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Norton had a house party for three days, their son, Sereno G. Norton, with his wife, Grace, and three children, Jean, 10; Robert, 8; and Mary, 6, coming from Brunswick, Georgia, by auto, 455 miles. Also Mr. Leonard Payne, son of a sister of Mrs. Norton, his wife, Hazel, and Billy, 8, from Fairhope, Alabama, coming by auto 250 miles, and meeting for the first time, all have ever been together, or even seen each other, making in all a party of ten to enjoy the Christmas season, which they did in full measure. The weather being mild, the youngsters stayed in the house only to eat and sleep.

The house being too small to accomodate all and a Christmas tree at one time, the tree was set up in the primary department room at the church, next door, and greatly enjoyed. It was like one big family. Turkey dinner, radio, and talkfast. Christmas day the whole bunch called on the Foss family, and Saturday all enjoyed a ride to Aldrich to spend an hour with Mr. and Mrs. Reno Villadsen and their family of six interesting children.

The visitors all left for their homes at an early hour Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Petersen had as Christmas guests their son, Harry, his wife and two children for a few days.

Mrs. Rash Washburn and little daughter, Willie Bee, are spending a fe wdays with her sister, Mrs. B. F. Franklin.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Sutlive, with Mr. Sutlive's mother and Mrs. H. M. Gerald and daughter, Mary Ella, spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. Louis Self spent Christmas with home folks, the Martin Petersen family.

On Saturday, Dec. 26, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen, Mrs. Self and the boys, Willis, Leroy, and Richard, made a trip to Montgomery, visiting the capitol, and extended their outing to Kilby Prison. They all enjoyed the day and sights.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Paxson were Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Thompson and the Thornburgs, in Thorsby.

Mrs. Martin Petersen was a visitor at the Each home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Bice spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker.

Mrs. H. V. Thompson spent Christmas holidays with her family, returning to Birmingham the following Monday.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham spent Christmas holidays with her sister, Mrs. Emmett Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodgame had as their guests Christmas day Miss Bertha Littleton, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Petersen and children, Herbert, Jr., and Imogene, of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Parrish and daughter, Billie Ann, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley entertained at dinner Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley, Miss Bertha Littleton, Mr. Herbert Peterson and son, Herbert, Jr., motored to Birmingham Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Littleton had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. George Davis Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Billingsley, Mrs. Marvin Davenport and E. F. Billingsley spent Sunday with Mr. Tom Billingsley.

Dr. and Mrs. Leslie of Ensley spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Piper.

Dr. and Mrs. Leslie and family spent the week end in Thorsby.

Miss Cathrine Hatchet spent the week end in Thorsby.

Miss Dera Rowe spent the holidays with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adams of Collinsville spent Christmas with their mother, Mrs. Martin.

Miss Jennye Robinson is spending a few days in Tuscaloosa with her sister, Mrs. A. P. Villadsen.

Little Joe Villadsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Villadsen, fell out of a car and fractured his skull. He is getting along fine.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Robinson and Charles are in Mississippi on a fishing trip.

Mrs. A. K. Horn of Montgomery is spending a week in Thorsby as the guest of old friends.

Mrs. Annie Thacker of Clanton and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Biolus of Birmingham spent Sunday afternoon as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard.

Mr. Dan Prim of Ensley came by to see his grandmother Sunday afternoon for a few minutes.

J. L. Brown and family of Ensley were visitors of Mrs. Prim and the Raybon family Sunday.

NICE CHRISTMAS PROGRAM AT PROVIDENCE THURSDAY NIGHT

The Sunday school and young people of Providence community put on a very nice Christmas program at the church last Thursday night. The program consisted of recitations, songs, dialogues, and a Christmas play. All these were thoroughly in keeping with the Christmas spirit and portrayed the birth of the Saviour in a very striking manner.

After the program was over attention was called to the large Christmas tree over in the corner of the house which was laden with gifts of various kinds. A committee for the purpose took the gifts from the tree and gave them out to those whose names the packages bore. About every child present received from one to half dozen presents, and lots of the older ones were not overlooked either.

The leaders of the Sunday school at Providence and the pupils who took part in the program are to be congratulated on the splendid work done in the exercises. Children who are brought up under such environments as those consigent to Sunday school exercises lay that will undoubtedly hold on that at least a part of the things they learn, and the same will serve as a boon to their spiritual growth as long as they live. The time spent in getting up such programs is not wasted by any means.

PREACHING AT POOR HOUSE THIRD SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be preaching services at the county poor house on the third Sunday in January at 2:00 o'clock p. m. The services will be conducted by Rev. H. D. Durbin.

The public is invited to attend. Those who can sing are especially invited to come and help out in the services.

Federal Jobless Relief Issue Up

La Follette Leads Fight For Government Funds To Rush Public Works

Washington, Dec. 27.—Forewarned of uncompromising White House opposition, a Senate committee tomorrow will begin consideration of direct federal appropriations for unemployment relief.

About this question is expected to be waged one of the most spectacular battles of the congressional session, with opponents branding direct aid as nothing less than a dole.

Determined young Robert M. LaFollette, independent Republican senator from Wisconsin, will lead the manufacturers committee's hearing on the proposed legislation. His bill to provide $250,000,000 for unemployment relief through the state governments, and that of Senator Costigan (D), Colorado, are before the committee.

Aside from these, Senator LaFollette is sponsoring a $5,500,000,000 public works program which would be financed through an issue of "prosperity bonds."

As these hearings begin, President Hoover finds his own program for relieving unemployment and restoring better times well on its legislative way.

His $500,000,000 emergency reconstruction finance corporation designed to break loose frozen capital is slated for congressional action immediately after the holidays, and the White House supported bill to increase capitalization of land banks by $100,000,000 has been approved by the House. In the Senate there is a prospect of more funds being attached to it to permit postponement by the loan banks of installments on farm loans.

Hearings on the proposed direct Federal aid for unemployed are not to be completed until after Congress returns January 4, but its proponents hope to have it before the Senate soon after the recess. Their position is that if the Government is to aid, it must act quickly, for the greatest need will come near the end of the Winter when local funds may be exhausted.

To combat the cry of "dole," LaFollette will call trained welfare workers in an effort to prove that the relief situation is not being adequately met.

President Hoover, in his annual message to Congress, said he was "opposed to any direct or indirect government dole."

"The breakdown and increased unemployment in Europe is due in part to such practices," he said. "Our people are providing against distress from unemployment in true American fashion by a magnificant response to public appeal and by action of the local governments."

WORLD WAR VETERANS VOTERS UNION ORGANIZED

A New National Organization Among Ex-Service Men Formed For Political Purposes

At the request of Mr. J. C. Wilson, ex-service man, of Clanton, Route 2, we publish below a summary of the plans and purposes of the World War Veterans Voters Union, a new organization of ex-service men, which has been formed with the avowed purpose of effecting political reform.

It is stated in a circular letter from headquarters of the union at the Hillman Hotel in Birmingham that the World War Veterans Voters Union is an organization in which each and every member can express his opinion on any and all subjects, whether it be the paying of the bonus, prohibition, the inability of the state to pay the teachers, or any other subject of public interest.

The opinion and vote of every member will count in this outfit, it is said, and the majority rules. Before this organization goes on record as being for or against any measure or candidate, every member will have a chance to vote on it, or him.

Continuing the letter bears down a little harder, declaring: "We must use our right to vote. If our boys had not used their guns and brains any better in 1917 and 1918 than they have used their right to vote during the past few years, Uncle Sam would have been in one helluva fix. The V. V. U. is eligible to support in politics any measure or candidate that they see fit to support. We are all registered voters and we will not hesitate to tell political candidates just what kind of men we went in office. By using our votes collectively we might be able to get something besides promises from men in public offices, not only for world war veterans, but for the entire populace."

The letter says that if ex-service men in Chilton County are interested and will make application, the World War Veterans Voters Union will consider organizing a local here.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father. Especially the beautiful floral offering.—Mrs. R. J. Lawley and Children.

NEW SALEM NEWS

Please allow me space to say a few words with regards to our B. Y. P. U. As we are still improving greatly and hope to continue so. Our contest has closed and that the blueside has most on roll, but more absences, both sides have agreed to put on the social together and no one will have so much to do. If weather permits we are planning to give our social Friday night week, January 8, 1932. All who are interested in B. Y. P. U. work have in invitation to come and bring cookies or list of games, something that the crowd can take part in. We are expecting all to enjoy it and be carried on in an orderly, mannerly way.

Also there will be preaching services here Sunday and Sunday night, and are expecting a large crowd out with us. Having lots of visitors last Sunday night, we hope to have a much larger crowd next Sunday night, and we extend to each and every one a cordial invitation to come and be with us. We need your cooperation.

PINE TAR OIL SPRAY KILLS INSECTS

A poison spray that cuts both ways, killing insects and checking the fungi that causes plant disease, has been made possible by the improvement of pine tar oil distilled from "fat" stumps and old logs in the southern states. It has been made the subject of study by Dr. E. R. De Ong, consulting entomoligist of San Francisco.

The light oil that comes off after wood turpentine has been distilled out of these forest waste products has long been known to possess insectidal value. But it has hither to been unsuited for general use on plants because it contained acids that poisoned the foilage and penetrated into the deeper tissues, often causing death. New processes now eliminate the acids, making the til harmless to plants. The process is said to be commercially practicable.

Pine tar can be used for carrying various insect poisons, and in itself has insecticidal properties. Furthermore, it dissolves the wax on leaf surfaces, penetrating to the leaf tissue itself and carrying the dissolved insect poisons into more intimate contact than can be achieved with the usual petroleum spray bases. And since it is more volatile than the petroleum derivatives, it evaporates before it does the foilage any harm. When used where slower evaporation is desired, it may then be combined with any petroleum fraction.

A decided advantage claimed for pine tar oil as spray base is its ability to carry copper resinate in solution. Copper resinate is a compound of copper and resin, highly toxic to disease producing fungi. Here again the ability of pine tar oil to dissolve the waxy covering on leaves comes into play, making it possible for the fugicide to reach the tiny accidental cracks and the minute breathing pores through which fungi usually gain entrance to the leaf.—Science News Letter.

DEATH OF R. J. LAWLEY

On the 24th morning of December, 1931, the death angel visited our home and carried with it to the home of the Great Almighty, our dear husband and father, A. J. Lawley.

It was so hard to give him up, but the Lord's will be done. He was such a kind and loving father to his home. It was his aim to love his neighbor as himself, it is such a great comfort to know he was prepared to meet his God in the skies, and that home that hath not seen, ear has not heard, neither has it entered into the heart of man all the glories he has for those that love him on that day.

Just a few days before he left us he made the remark that he was willing and ready to go, that the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh, Blessed be the name of the Lord. We want the prayers of all, that we meet him again, where there will be no more tears or sorrow, where we will meet to part no more.

Our earthly circle has been broken, but our prayer is to complete it one day. He leaves to mourn his death, his wife, Mrs. R. J. Lawley, and five children, Miss Stella Lawley, Mrs. W. G. McGee, Mrs. J. M. Collins, Harvey Lawley, all of Lawley, and Heath Lawley, of Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Again we wish to remember our many friends for their kindness shown us. Especially do we thank Bro. C. E. Myrle for his services and prayers for our home.—The Family.

LYNCHINGS OF 1931

I send you the following information concerning lynchings for the year 1931. I find according to the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute, that there were 13 persons lynched in 1931. This is 8 less than the number, 21, for 1930, 3 more than the number, 10, for 1929, 2 more than the number, 11, for 1928, and 3 less than the number, 16, for 1927. 10 of the persons lynched were in the hands of the law. 7 were taken from jails, 1 from a hospital and 2 had been released on bail. 1 of the victims was hanged and his body burned.

There were 57 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. 7 of these were in Northern and Western States and 50 in Southern states. In 45 of the instances the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the 12 other instances, armed force was used to repel the would be lynchers. A total of 88 persons: 18 whites, 16 men and 2 women, and 70 negro men were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the 13 persons lynched, 1 was white and 12 were negroes. The offenses charged were: murder, 5; attempted rape, 5; wounding man, 3.

The states in which lynchings occurred and the number in each state are as follows: Alabama, 1; Florida, 2; Louisiana, 1; Maryland, 1; Mississippi, 3; Missouri, 1; North Dakota, 1; Tennessee, 1; West Virginia, 2.—R. R. Moton, principal Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute.

AMERICAN LEGION BEHIND PRESIDENT HOOVER AND HIS WAR ON DEPRESSION

Birmingham, Dec. 21. — National Commander Henry L. Stevens, Jr., of The American Legion, on his official visit to Alabama attending the annual conference of Commanders and Adjutants, held here Sunday, said that the full strength of the Legion had been offered to President Hoover in the war on depression. His announcement was greeted by long applause from the hundreds of Legionnaries and citizens gathered at the Alabama Theater to hear his address.

Commander Stevens also outlined the program of The Legion for the coming year. Stressing widows and orphans relief and further benefits for the disabled. He also made a plea for adequate national defense.

The conference was held at Hotel Tutwiler and was attended by approximately 250 officials of The Alabama Department form its 111 posts.

Department Commander James C. Conner, of Huntsville, presided and the program was arranged by Department Adjutant Trotter Jones.

Features of the conference were talks on the different phases of the 1932 program for Alabama by chairmen or their representatives, as well as an address by John Hall, of New York, who made a stirring plea for an adequate program of public safety.

Frank E. Samuel, of Indianapolis, assisstant national adjutant in charge of membership and organization delivered an exceptional address on Membership, and its value in rendering genuine service to community, state, and nation. He also outlined the full meaning of the preamble to the National Constitution of The Legion.

A banquet, atteded by both membersof The Legion and The American Legion Auxiliary was held at noon and the program included introductions of distinguished guests, musical numbers and the presentation of awards from National Hearquarters.

The annual conference of Presidents and Secretaries of The American Legion Auxilary was also held at the Tutwiler. This conference was attended by members of the 60 units of the Department.

Mrs. R. W. Waldrop, of Bessemer, Southern National Vice-president was introduced to both conferences as was Mrs. James Rowell, of Selma, Department President.

Legionnaries feel that the conference was one of the best ever held in the Department's History.

BUILD UP TO PREVENT PAINS

How a Missouri woman was benefited by taking Cardui is described below by Mrs. Joe Schumer, of Cape Girardeau: "I suffered with irregularity. For weeks at a time I was so weak I could not work. I had aches in my back and head and legs—I ached all over. I would get dizzy and feel faint. I had read about Cardui, so I got some and took it. I improved a great deal. After I had taken four bottles, I felt like a different person." B3-38

The Year is Going Let Him Go

He wasn't a very good year anyway. It's time we had a new one. Our 1932 resolution is the same as it was in 1859—to make it possible for more families to obtain good food at low prices.

If you chose us as your gro er during 1931, please accept our thanks. If you did not, it's too late now to do anything about it—but Mr. Armstrong, the manager of your A & P Store, has an excellent suggestion for starting the new year right. Just mention our name.

Wherever you buy your groceries, we hope you have a very happy 1932.

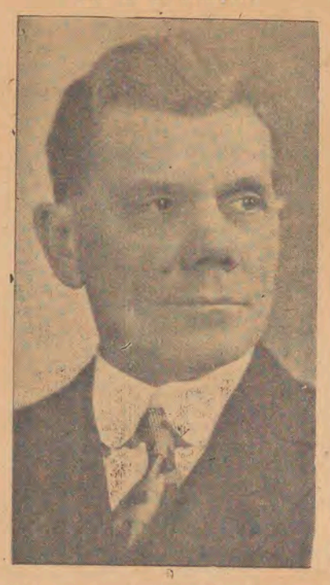
BEAN PREACHED THREE FINE SERMONS AT FRIENDSHIP

Although the holidays had passed by only a day or so, services were held at Friendship as usual last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Rev. J. Robert Bean, pastor, filled the pulpit at all three services, and as many real gospel sermons were preached.

Quite a few attended all services, although everybody was not well over taking Christmas, but those who attended feasted upon the manifestations of the spirit and rejoiced in hearing the plain naked gospel expounded by Bro. Bean. Those who are not attending services here every fourth Sunday are really and truly missing something worth while. Rev. Bean is a country preacher and he adheres to the old, tried and true usages of telling his flock the truth, making no reservations for tender spots on anybody; nevertheless, his flow of thought and speech are equal to that of some of the really big guns of the cities.

Rev. Bean was a good and interesting preacher when he first came to Friendship, but we can truthfully say that he has improved noticeably in his preaching for the past few months. Somebody said that it was because he had gotten married, and that may be true, because the help and encouragement of a noble Christian woman always strengthens a man.



Watch for the announcement of the next services at Friendship, and try to come. You will hear something worth your time. Prayer meeting was announced for next Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock. Everybody invited to attend.

CONCORD B. Y. P. U.

Our missionary program was really interesting Sunday night. After the program new officers were elected, as follows: Mrs. Jimmie Taylor, president; Judson Easterling, vice president; Grady Taylor, Bible quiz leader; Mrs. Willie Mims, secretary-treasurer; Willie Mims and Jimmie Taylor, group captains; Mrs. Melvin Mims, reporter; Melvin Mims, chorister; Annie Pearl Mims, pianist. Our senior enrollment was forty.

We are beginning the new year with a greater determination to make an A-1 union. We can do this through cooperation and prayer. Our B. Y. P. U. program begins every Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock. Preaching every first Sunday night at 7:00 o'clock. Come on B. Y. P. U. members, read your Bible and be prepared. We have a new Bible quiz leader who seems to be very interested. I know he will do his part if we will do ours. Everyone has a cordial invitation to come and worship with us at any time.—Mrs. Melvin Mims.

DR. E. C. MILLER

Dr. E. C. Miller of Indiana will preach at the Courthouse next week, beginning Sunday night, January 3rd. This is one of the Bob Jones meetings, one of which is being held in every county in the State next week. The people of Chilton County should hear Dr. Miller.

F. L. TATE MAY GET BENCH SMOOT LEFT

Those who were heard to discuss yesterday afternoon and last night, who will probably be appointed to succeed the late Judge George F. Smoot, of Wetumpka, were of practically the unanimous opinion that the place will probably go to Judge F. Lloyd Tate, also of Wetumpka, former Attorney General of Alabama, former circuit judgeg and solicitor, and now a prominent practicing attorney of the 19th judicial circuit bar.

MAGGIE JOHNS

Maggie Johns, age 70, died December 23 at the County Alms House. She was buried December 24 at New Salem.

POLLY FLOYD

Polly Floyd, age 71 years, died Sunday, December 27, at the County Poor House. Burial was at Chestnut Creek Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Eiland of Montgomery came up Christmas and took dinner with Mr. Eiland's mother, and father, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Huett of Enterprise community.

$6,000 IN HARD CASH FOR EACH WAR VET IS SOUGHT

Other New Things For U. S. To Approve Suggested At Mass Meeting Of Unemployed

Nearly 4,000 persons, many of them World War veterans or owners of property lost during depression days, shouted their assurance to W. A. Denson, Birmingham attorney, Friday night that they would back his plan for healing America's financial situation by supporting the constitutional amentment which he proposed.

The meeting at municipal auditorium had been called by Denson for unemployed persons, war veterans, persons who had suffered from property foreclosure, and even those who had received wage cuts.

While tobacco smoke rose from the audience, Denson stood alone on the auditorium stage, and talking through loud speakers, he advocated a 20th amendment to the federal constitution which would allow five years to American citizens to redeem property lost through foreclosure since 1925.

The entire floor of the auditorium and the gallaries were filled. Vacant seats were scattered, a few persons even standing at the rear.

The proposed amendment also would contain an act providing $2,000 in gold and $4,000 in silver for all ex-service men.

"Congress is controlled by money," Denson declared. "The real cause for the depression is the fact that money is out of circulation and its value has risen accordingly. With the amendment I have proposed money would be returned to circulation, the value of the dollar would be brought down to its 1925 level, and America would be taken from the condition it is in now.

"Congress has the power to regulate the value of money; why should we allow these representatives of ourselves to keep it at high value? Who elects congress, anyhow?"

"The people," someone in the audience replied.

"You are right, brother, the people," the man on the platform called back. Then he informed his audience that efforts would be made immediately to secure the desired legislation, and asked them to send their addresses to 904 Title Guarantee Building, where they would be alphabetically listed, and where notification would be given of the next step to be taken.

Following a talk of an hour's length, the attorney answered a stream of questions, carried in notes to him on the platform. "Do you favor a $50 monthly pension for totally disabled Spanish war veterans?" someone asked.

Childbirth Left Her Thin, Worn, Nervous

"After the birth of my baby, I was thin, nervous and run-down. From the first bottle of Vinol, I improved. It gave me new strength and I gained weight."—Mrs. M. Gunstone.

Vinol supplies just the elements of iron, lime and cod liver peptone needed by thin, weak, nervous women and men. Even the FIRST bottle builds up strength, makes new red blood, peps up appetite and brings sound sleep. Get a bottle of vinol today.—Upchurch Drug Co.

Mr. Sam Parrish of Verbena Route 1 was in Clanton Wednesday. While in town he called by the Banner office and told us about his Irish potatoes and green pepper he had for dinner Tuesday. He says it was too dry for his fall crop of potatoes to grow, so when it did rain, not being any cold weather, they have come up and made potatoes.

Misses Polly and Tunnie Moates of Coopers were in Clanton Wednesday.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO OPEN NEXT MONDAY

The Christmas holiday season for the schools of Chilton County will terminate this week, and all schools will open again next Monday morning.

Mr. W. H. Conway, of Jemison, was a visitor to Clanton Tuesday.

WINS FAIR PONY

Mrs. Jessie E. Teel won the tricycle pony given away at The Fair Store last Wednesday. The lucky number was 02912.

Raymond (Blondie) Taylor of West End is in Birmingham this week visiting relatives.

Walter Clark, the famous show man from Shelby, Alabama, was in Clanton attending to business last Wednesday. He brought The Union-Banner some dwarf pears which have just gotten ripe. They were fine eating. Walter says that his show is hibernating at Sarasota, Florida, but will soon come out and start to exhibiting again.

COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD MEETS NEXT FRIDAY

A NEW YEAR

A new leaf on a new calendar — and thoughts are turned to the new year. While 1931 brought hardship and trials, it also taught valuable lessons. Let us face 1931 with renewed humility and faith. To all our friends we wish a happy and prosperous new year.

To Our Friends and Patrons:

Since Christmas is over and the New Year draws nigh, it is natural that our thoughts would turn to those who have contributed to our success and to our enjoyment of the past year. Let us say to our customers whom we like to regard as friends, that it is your friendship and cooperation which has made it possible for everyone in our organization to enjoy more thoroughly the wonderful business we had last year. We only wish it were possible to grip you warmly by the hand and say "Thank You." But since we cannot, we send you this greeting and with our sincere wish that you enjoy a very happy New Year brim full of good things and happiness.

Do Not Forget To Pay Your Poll Tax

This is all your attention to the importance of keeping your poll taxes paid up. There will be a number of elections coming that you will be interested in and it will pay every citizen to sacrifice in order to maintain his rights as a voting citizen.

Remember that it is your vote that talks and by paying your poll tax you are in a position to back up your convictions.
